So little is known, even in England, of the opinions, sentiments, mental and moral traits of King George that every sign or move he move he makes is eagerly and closely interpreted. What is the impression he has so far produced?

His public utterances have been marked by excellent taste, deep filial sentiment and a sense of great responsibility. His order to limit the period of general mourning and reopen the theaters and amusement places showed breadth of mind, dislike of empty form and a desire to prevent business depression and artificial gloom. His frankness in objecting to the anti-Catholic references in the "declaration" he has to make to parliament shows independence and sympathy with the tolerant spirit of the age. Legislation revising the declaration to avoid offence to any of the king's loyal subjects has been advocated before, and with prospects os success, but now it is certain to be rushed through without much opposition.

What of politics? Is King George a tory, as some radicals fear, and will he stand with the reactionary peers? There is nothing definite before the world whereon to found an answer to this vital question, but it must be admitted that the tory organs have gained considerable confidence, while the liberal ones seem apprehensive and admit that a truce, with postponement of the whole issue of the lords vs. the commons, will be imposed by the logic of the situation. Still, atruce and delay would not necessarily argue toryism in the king. It might point to a natural desire to obtain time for study of the problem and the exerting of personal influence in favor of mutual concessions by the combatants.

King Edward has been criticised by some liberals for not asserting himself sufficiently in connection with the budget-veto crisis. King George, according to indications, means to assert himself. Time will tell on which side and in favor of what policies.

Surveys Made in Smith.

H C. Duff of the Department of Agriculture, Norwood, spent several days of last week in Smith township, where he made a drainage survey of some low land on Mr. Rosborough's farm. Mr. Duff has a number of similar surveys to make during the next few weeks for farmers in West Peterborough.

Change Food

And Lose That Uneasy Feeling.

A man who has always been a "skinny chap," although hardly ever ill, tells of the way he put on flesh and reduced his irritability and nervous condition.

By chance he had a taste of Grape-Nuts food at the table of a friend and enjoyed the flavor so much that he began to have it every meal. He says:

"In a short time I found myself another person, the old feeling of discontent and uneasiness left me entirely, it became a pleasure to go about my work, whereas, before, for years, I had always had the feeling of being a little weary, now I seem to have a surplus energy for everything. My weight has increased 11 pounds in 4 weeks, and I am still gaining.

"I have never been very sick, and am satisfied that if my present improvement in health continues, I shall not be.

"The change that this food has made in my life has been remarkable and so satisfactory that I am glad of the opportunity to tell you."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville, in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

day'd grubbing in the ditch for tomorrow's bacon and flour. Yet that would not stand in the way. I am no venal rogue, angling for the loaves and fishes. Whatever else she cursed me with, nature gave me a brain, and culture and experience have educated it. With hand or brain I can hew my own niche to stand in."

So he had argued, but his argument ended always with the same stern and unanswerable conclusion: "To drag her down in order to lift myself: Because she pities me—pity is akin to love—shall I take advantage of her interest and innocence?"

In the cabin through the long hours till the dawn begun to infiltrate the dark hollows of the wood he had lain wide eyed, thinking. When day came he had cooked his breakfast and thereafter sat watching the havoc of the storm through the window. Hours passed thus before the fury of the wind had spent itself. At length he rose, threw open the door and stood looking out upon the wind whipped foliage and the drab desolation of the fog. Then he threw on his mackinaw coat, picked up his gold pan and climbed down the slope. Beneath all other problems must lie the sordid problem of his daily food. He had uncovered a crevice in the bed rock at the end of his trench the day before, and now he scraped a pailful of the soggy gravel it contained and carried it back to the cabin.

With a sigh he took off his damp coat and threw a log on the fire. He abstractedly watched it kindle, then filled and lit his pipe and turned to the bookshelf. He ran his hand absently along the row. Where had been that wide, dim expanse of library walls that hovered like a mirage beyond his visual sight? He chose a volume he had been reading and turned the pages.

All at once his hand clinched. He gave a choked cry. He was staring at a canceled bank draft bearing his own name—a draft across whose face was written in the cramped hand resembling the signature a word that seemed etched in livid characters of shame—"Forgery!"

"Pay to Hugh Stires—the sum of $5,000." He read the phrase in a hoarse, husky monotone, every vein beating fiercely, his body hot with the heat of a forge. There it was, a hideous chapter of it, the damnable truth from which he had shrunk!

Did the town know? He snatched at the draft and read the date. More than a year ago, and it had been presented for payment in a distant city, the city near which he had been picked up beside the railroad track. The forged name was the same as his own. Who was David Stires? His father? Had that city been his home once and that infamous act the forerunner of his flight or exile? He looked at the paper again with painful intentness. It was canceled, therefore had been paid without question. Yet the man it had robbed had stamped it with that ceuonous hallmark. Clearly the law had not stepped in, for here he was at liberty, owning his name. He had been let go, then, disowned, to carry his badge of cribs here into the wilderness! And how had he lived since then?

"Forgery!"

He stumbled to a chair and sat down, his frame rigid. He thought of the robbed sluice in the gulch below, of his own unhappy adventure on the night. How could he tell what he had done—what he might do? Minutes went by as he sat motionless, his mind catching strange kaleidoscopic pictures that fled past him into the void. At length he rose and went to the window. Far down the hillside a faint line through the mist spanned the gulch bottom. A groan burst from his lips.

"That is the hydraulic flume," he said aloud. "Gold has been stolen there in the past again and again. Some was stolen two nights ago. How do I know but that I am the thief? Was that what Prendergast had meant by the "safe way to beat the game?" A shiver ran over him. "How do I know?" he thought. "I can see myself—the evil side of me—when the dark had fallen waking and active. I see myself creeping down there, stealing from shadow to shadow, to scoop the gold from the riffles when the moon is under a cloud. I see men slitting from dark to daylight with loaded rifles across their knees watching. I see a flash of fire. I hear a report. I see myself there by the sluice boxes, dead, shot down in the act of a thief, making good the name men know me by!"

The figure of Jessica came before him, standing in her soft white gown, her hand against her cheek and the jasmine odors about her. The dream he had dreamed could not be—never, never, never! All that was left was surrender, ignominious flight to scenes barren of suggestion.

At that instant a shining point caught his eye. It came from the pan of gravel on the doorstep, on which the rain had been beating. He thrust the draft into his pocket and seized a double handful of the gravel. He plunged it into a pail of water and held it to the light. It sparkled with coarse, yellow flakes of gold. He dropped the handful with a sharp exclamation, threw on his coat and rushed from the cabin.

All day, alone on the fog soaked hillside, Harry toiled in the trench without food or rest.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!

Now you would not willingly pay for that that was worthless—would you?

Then why pay for medicine until that medicine first proves to you its actual worth?

Positively knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative will do for the sick, I say to all such: may unless health first returned". And then if Restorative with a signed and sealed guarantee to help. No pay" contract.

I personally pledge to the sick, especially those "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the same or else pass their prescriptions by.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative a few days and note the immediate improvement.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are wrong, then test Dr. Shoop's Restorative. If it does then the stomach may stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. Years ago I cast away the mistaken idea in medicine. The tablets below will tell you how I am succeeding.

These books also tell of a tiny hidden nerve, no larger than a silken thread, which tells how that nerve, until it fails, controls from the Heart its power, its tone, its wonderful energy.

These books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are sick or ailing. They tell of the Stomach, and Kidneys reach how their health or power nerves. They tell how the Restorative was especially made to reach and revitalize these weak or failing inside nerves. All of these things will why I am able to say: "It is free if it fails".

This is why I say "take no chance on a medicine whose maker dare not bank it just as I do by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the order.

I have appointed bonest and responsible druggists in nearly every community to hand out medicine to the sick.

But write me first for the order.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line please—and then avoid disappointment and delays. Tell me also which book you need.

A postal will do.

Besides, you are free to consult me as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without thank.

Perhaps a word or two from me will show up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescriptions or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 81, Racine, Wis.

ACROSS CHINA.

Railway to Be Built Across Interior of Mongolian Empire.

Relatives of Canadian missionaries located in Central China will appreciate the news that a railway is to be built across the interior of the Mongolian Empire. With $30,000,000 of British, German, French, and United States money, a line is to be constructed from Hankow to Canton. It will cut through the heart of the regions at present disaffected and branches are projected to other provinces. Once the road is completed, mission stations that are now two or three weeks' journey from the coast, will be reached within a day or two. Missionaries will not be readily isolated as today. The very presence of the railway will tend to introduce western ideas, and the danger of popular uprisings may be lessened materially.

THE AFTERMATH.

World Notorious Crooks Got to Their Work.

London, May 21.—The aftermath of yesterday's splendor came today in the police courts and the hospitals. Two hundred and sixty-nine pickpockets in the crowds that watched the funeral pageant of King Edward were arraigned today. Some of them were world-notorious crooks, known to the police of every capital. Others were from the lower stages of the underworld.

The prisoners were but a fraction of the crooks on the street yesterday, judging by the reports of losses. The first figure, $500,000, was passed today. Never before was such a haul of loot taken from a crowd. The warning of the police to the public, advising that all valuables be left at home, placed the spectators between the devil and the deep sea, as the complaints of burglary that flooded the police today indicate.

HOSPITALS STILL FULL.

In the hospitals this morning there were still, more than 700 of the thousands stricken in the crowds. Fully a score of them are fatally hurt, several having sustained fractured skulls and internal injuries by falling from trees, windows and stands.

In spite of the terrible ordeal to which she was subjected yesterday, when the feelings of the woman were harried by the duties of the queen at the obsequies, Alexandria was today officially represented to be in fairly good health and bearing up well. Yesterday's events greatly fatigued her, however.

The city is still crowded with royalties of all lands, ages and degrees of importance, despite the departure of many.

The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its marvellous curative properties. Tickle, tickling, or distressing coughs, quickly yield to the healing, soothing action of this splendid prescription — Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so safe and good for children as well. Containing no opium, chloroform or other harmful drug, mothers should in safety always demand Dr. Shoop's. If other remedies are offered, tell them no! Be your own judge! Sold by all dealers.

CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTION.

Melbourne May 21.—The age says the question is raised whether the Imperial Act dealing with the succession of the sovereign is applicable to Australia—whether the necessity may not arise, inasmuch as the new Federal Parliament has neither met nor been constituted, of reconvening the last Federal Parliament and holding, also, fresh elections. The governor-general, says the journal, has referred the question to the attorney-general.

A pain prescription is prized upon each 25c. box of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. Ask your Doctor or Druggist if this formula is not complete. Pains means congestion, blood pressure. Head pains, womanly pains pains anywhere get instant relief from a Pink Pain Tablet. Sold by all dealers.

The Douro Farmers' Institute meeting was held on May 19th, in St. Patrick's hall, when an interesting debate on "Resolved, Canada Should Become an Independent Nation," took place. The affirmative side led by Mr. Frank Moher won out against the negatives captained by Mr. M. Welsh. Mr. D. Sullivan very acceptably filled the chair. A musical program will enhance the interest of next month's meeting, the date of which is not yet decided.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for addition to the Eastern Departmental Building, Ottawa," will be received at this office until 5.00 P. M., on Tuesday, June 14, 1910, for the construction of an addition to the Eastern Departmental Building.

Plans, specification, and forms of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residences. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the order of the Honorable, the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

NAPOLEON TESSIER, Secretary.

Department of Public Works. Ottawa, May 18, 1910.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

TENDERS FOR DREDGING.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dredging, Ontario," will be received until Monday, May 23rd, 1910, at 5.00 P. M., for dredging required at the following places in the Province of Ontario:—

Five Miles Narrows, Spanish River, Welland River.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenders.

Combined specification and form of tender can be obtained on application to the Secretary, Department of Public Works, Ottawa. Tenders must include the towing of the plant to and from the works. Only dredges can be employed which are registered in Canada at the time of the filing of tenders. Contractors must be ready to begin work within thirty days after the date they have been notified of the acceptance of their tender.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for six thousand dollars ($6,000.00) must accompany the tender. The cheque will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,

NAPOLEON TESSIER, Secretary.

Department of Public Works, Ottawa, May 9th, 1910.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it univeral preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

NO PAPER TOMORROW.

On account of the holiday today, there will be no issue of The Times tomorrow.

RUPTURE

Do Not Forget to go and see
MR. A CLAVERIE
At once. He is at the Oriental Hotel
TODAY & TO-MORROW
from 8 a.m to 3 p.m. and 6 to 9 p.m.

DO NOT FORGET that Mr. A. Claverie's name is known in the two continents.

That the results secured by Mr. Claverie in the treatment of Rupture are positively MARVELLOUS.

That he is a serious and true Scientist.

That many people in Peterborough have been relieved and cured by his celebrated Method and Apparatus.

It would be a very great imprudence if you neglect this only chance of treating and curing you.

That this prominent Specialist is now at the ORIENTAL HOTEL, only UNTIL TO-MORROW.

Go and see Mr. A. Claverie to-day; he will give you with pleasure all informations upon your case, also concerning his Method and Apparatus.

His latest invention specially SOLVES THE QUESTION of palliative cure and it is impossible to count now the many DESPERATE CASES that have been relieved and even cured through this marvellous system.

Go to the Oriental Hotel. ALL ADVICE IS GIVEN FREE.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that pimples, blotches and ulcers heal up; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the mental, physical and sexual systems are invigorated; all drains cease—be more vital waste from the system. You feel yourself a man and know marriage cannot be a failure. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS

BEFORE TREATMENT

AFTER TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and exercises in youth. I became very despondent; and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, were an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.

VOL. XXXI NO. 119 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO THURSDAY MAY 26 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

Midland Firemen May Excurt to Peterboro'

The Reception Committee of the City Council met last night, Alderman Duffus was in the chair. A communication was received from Mr. Chester Rudley, Orillia, one of the Northern Volunteer Firemen's Association's executive enquiring what attractions Peterborough would offer were the fire fighters of Midland to run an excurtision to this city on August 10th. It was not quite clear what this body are looking for in the way of attractions unless it be a program of sports with accompanying prizes. Ald. Duffus will write Mr. Chester Rudley, explaining Peterborough's natural advantages as an excursion point, and assuring him that such an excursion would receive the best of treatment at this city's hands. The city, however, would hardly be justified in offering a list of prizes for sports as an inducement for any body to make a holiday in Peterborough, and it is to be hoped that such is not what the Midland firemen are looking for.

MONUMENT UNVEILED.

Woodmen of the World From Campbellford Assisted by Local Brethren.

Under a bright sun on the morning of the 24th, the 57th Regimental Band gathered on Hunter street, next door, but one to the post office. These noted local musicians were engaged by the Canadian Order of Woodmen of the World. The occasion was the unveiling of a monument to their late Bro. Shannon at the Little Lake cemetery. About fifty members of the society came from Campbellford, in addition to a large number of other people. A large number of the members of Peterborough and Campbellford lodges, headed by the 57th Regiment Band, marched to the cemetery.

The ceremony commenced with the reading of a prayer by Bro. A. Graham, assisted by Bro. Wm. Johnston. The draping was removed from off the monument by Bros. R. Jones and F. Dummitt. Dr. W. S. Harrison of Toronto, Head Council Commander, then gave an address to those present. Dr. Harrison referred to the solemnity of the occasion.

THE BAILLEY INQUEST.

Christian Scientists Claim That The Have Not Been Fairly Treated.

To the Editor of Times:

Sir,—With reference to the verdict of the coroner's jury in the Bailley case, does it not seem a trifle inconsistent that the parents of the child should be exonerated for depending on Christian Science treatment while the practitioner, who was merely an exponent of the same doctrine as that entertained by the parents, should be censured? Is it not also inconsistent that Christian Scientists should be held up to public ridicule each time they fail to heal a case, while nothing is said of the scores and hundreds of cases that are constantly being lost by the so-called "regular" physicians? To be fair, we must judge any system, not on an occasional failure, but on its general results. Christian Scientists ask only to be judged by the same standard as are others, but they must protest against unjust discrimination.

To call for a law to punish Christian Scientists for healing the sick is to attempt to interfere with man's sacred right to choose his own religion, and such a law would be class legislation of the worst and most dangerous kind. Is a man to be forced to depend for his health upon materia medica simply because it happens to be the prevailing method, even though such dependence may have failed him in the past? The fact is that faith in drugs is rapidly passing away, and not only among Christian Scientists, but outside of their ranks, the use of drugs for healing is abandoned. It is estimated by Eli G. Jones, M. D., in a recent important article, that at present there are in the United States alone 30,000 practitioners of some form of drugless healing, who are patronized by 17,000,000 persons. Dr. Jones, writing recently on the subject of medical legislation, says, in the Burlington (N. J.) Times:

"Any law on the statute books of a state making it a crime to heal the sick is a disgrace to any state. It is taking away the individual right of the people to choose their own physician when they are sick, whether it be an osteopath, mental science, Christian Science or any form of healing.....Medical laws have been the best things to boom drugless healing that possibly could have been devised by the old school..... When will the doctors learn wisdom and let these drugless healers alone?"

Thanking you for your courtesy in allowing me space for this correction, I remain,

Yours very truly,
C. R. MUNRO.

Daughters of England Entertain.

A large number of visitors were present at the convention held on the 24th in Lansdowne Lodge, No. 22, Daughters of England. During the evening a banquet was given, at which there was an attendance of sixty. Messrs. Coleman Bros. were the caterers, and the spread was a choice and appetizing one. A toast list and program was acceptably carried out.

Fatal Fire at Coe Hill.

A little girl was burned to death, and her baby sister fatally injured yesterday morning near Coe Hill. Tom Moore and his wife, who occupy the Allen farm house, were out milking when fire broke out in the house from some unknown cause. Moore bravely attempted to save his children. The third child, a boy escaped.

AN ASSAULT CASE.

Trouble in Doure To Be Settled Today By County Magistrate Edmison.

An assault case will be dealt with by County Magistrate Edmison at the county police court this afternoon at three o'clock. The complainant is Bridget Moloney of Douro, and John Leahy, also of Douro, is charged with the assault. Leahy owns a number of cows, and the complainant charges that while she was engaged in sending them away from off her property Leahy struck and knocked her down, inflicting injuries which necessitated medical attention.

C.P.R. LINEMAN DEAD.

Mr. John Crowley Passes Away at St. Joseph's Hospital.

After an illness extending over some five months, Mr. John Crowley, son of the late Mr. Patrick Crowley, passed away yesterday morning in St. Joseph's hospital. The deceased was 39 years of age, and for a number of years he had been employed by the C.P.R. as lineman, between Toronto and Smith Falls. He was born in Otonabee, and is survived by two brothers, Messrs. Michael and Morris Crowley of Otonabee.

The funeral will take place Friday morning from the homestead in Otonabee, lot 12, in the 20 concession, at 8:30 o'clock, to the Sacred Heart church, and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

Battle Anniversary Celebrated.

Tokio, May 27.—The anniversary of the great naval battle of the Sea of Japan, in which the Russian fleet under Admiral Rojestvensky, while trying to effect a passage through the Eastern channel of Korea strait, was almost totally destroyed by the Japanese fleet under Admiral Togo, will be observed here and throughout Japan with appropriate festivities. That battle, which practically wiped out Russia's sea power and made Japan master of the situation in the Far East, was the last and most decisive engagement of the war and led to the peace negotiations and the final treaty of Portsmouth.

Inquest on Mrs. Anne Concluded Last Night

Jurry Say That She Came to Her Death by a Bullet Fired from a Revolver Held in the Hands of Her Son James

Last night the adjourned inquest on the late Mrs. Gotham, who was shot by accident by her son James on the evening of May 20th, was continued last night, with Coroner Dr. Gray presiding.

After the usual preliminaries had been duly attended to, the first witness, P. C. Meharry, said he was called to the Gorham house on Maria street, Ashburnham, at 6.15, on the evening of May 20th. There he found Mrs. and Miss Gotham and the young brother of James Gorham, now under arrest. Graham Neill was in front of the house. The younger Gorham came with him there. James was in Peck's field behind a tree. James had a revolver in his hand. Witness tried to reason with James. James first fired a shot into the grass. James told him if he the witness, came half way. James would meet him. Witness got over the fence and walked towards him. James then said, "If you come any further I'll shoot you. He fired a shot in the air. Witness told James he was acting foolishly. James then said, "I'll drop you. James counted one, two, three and fired at witness, who heard the shot go over his head. Just then witness heard a scream and a yell, "I'm shot," and "Mother is shot." James' mother was just in line with the revolver and witness. James was 15 yards from witness, and Mrs. Gorham 30 yards behind him. Witness called to James, "You have shot your mother." Meharry did not then know Mrs. Gotham was behind him. James came round and pulling his gun said, "Get over the track." Witness walked over to where Capt. White and a man named Cooley stood. He told them "to go to the station and get a gun." Witness waited till the other officers, Adams, Newhall and McGinty came around. They followed James to the bridge on which he climbed.

Miss Annie Gorham gave evidence of her brother acting like a crazy man, saying he had been breaking everything in the house before the police were telephoned for. She corroborated P. C. Meharry in saying the officer tried to reason with her brother James. Her mother, when shot was standing in the kitchen about 10 feet from the door. She heard her mother scream but did not see her fall. Blood came from the wound in her breast. James came in after shooting his mother and exclaimed, "Annie, did I shoot my mother, my God, I didn't mean to shoot anyone." They sent for a doctor, and Dr. McNulty came. James did not own a revolver. The fatal gun belonged to another brother. James acted crazy before shooting.

Percy Neill told a very similar story as did Martin Gotham, James' younger brother.

Dr. Young read the report of the autopsy. The whole of his evidence, as far as this report goes, was, that the woman died from internal hemorrhage from the bullet wound. The bullet passed through the liver. The bullet was not found after three hours' cutting.

The jury considered the evidence and brought in a verdict that "Anne Gorham came to her death from a bullet fired by a revolver held in the hands of her son James. The jury was then dismissed.

"FEELS LIKE A NEW WOMAN."

Years of Ill Health Cured.

"Like many another woman," writes Mrs. L. H. Hilliard of Ashland, N.Y., "continued weakness caused by poor stomach and constipation led me to believe I would always be sick. It was Mrs. Ryan, my neighbor, who advised me to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and it was the means of teaching me 'It is never too late to mend.' I am rather a small woman, always pale, except when my skin becomes a muddy yellow. I never had much of an appetite because my digestion was never very good and still worse my system was seldom regular. Mrs. Ryan had become healthy and well with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and kept telling me that they would fix my system so it would work well too. Certainly Dr. Hamilton's Pills must have made right all that was wrong, because I weigh ten pounds more than ever before and feel fine. If you could see my rosy color and watch how quickly I do my housework, I am sure you would think just as much of Dr. Hamilton's Pills as I do. They are a real fine medicine for women and like as not would do a man just as much good too."

There is no remedy for general use in the home to make you well when sick, to keep you from getting sick—no medicine with half the merit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills—see you refuse all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Vote for the By-Laws On Monday Next

The ratepayers should turn out in strength on Monday next and vote for the two bylaws that will then be submitted to them for their approval. Both are measures worthy of hearty support, and both are in line with the policy of progress that has advanced Peterborough into the front ranks of Ontario's important industrial and residential cities.

THE SEWAGE SYSTEM BADLY NEEDED.

One bylaw is asking for authority to borrow $30,000 for the construction of a proper sewage and drainage for south-western Peterborough. That this work is much needed cannot be gainsayed. The King Edward school, with an attendance of between 400 and 500 pupils, is at present without any adequate sewerage service, and a large section of this district suffers from want of so indispensable a sanitary system. Then the south-western end of Peterborough has grown, and is growing rapidly, mainly consequent upon the location here of the C.G.E. This big electrical firm is now expanding its capital extent of a million dollars, and the adjoining district will reap considerable advantage from this in the way of gratifying residential expansion. In the district in question lies the property desirable for manufacturing purposes, and now that we have an energetic industrial commissioner together with a bright outlook for securing additional industries, everything points to the city's early extension southward. All this goes to show that the City Council have not taken up the question of a proper system of sewage and drainage at this end of Peterborough any too soon, and justifies them in undertaking a work that will provide the sanitary convenience that all residents and manufacturers are looking for these days.

THE WM. HAMILTON BYLAW.

It should be the policy of ratepayers to foster all worthy industries that are located here, and which have a progressive future ahead of them and guarantee employment for a fair number of skilled workmen. This can be done in the way of reasonable fixed assessment commensurate with the magnitude of their present and prospective business. The Wm. Hamilton manufacturing Co., Limited, are well known to most of our readers. They have been located here for years, and are the only manufacturers of boilers, engines and mill machinery in Peterborough. They have never received any privileges from the city, and as the goods they manufacture are in much demand in Canada's rapidly expanding North-west, a great future is apparently ahead of this concern. They ask for a fixed assessment of $10,000 for ten years, and guarantee the employment of at least 75 hands during ten months each year. In catering to the great North-west trade the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, Limited, are somewhat handicapped by being brought into competition with firms enjoying a fixed assessment, and it is our ratepayer's duty to aid them, and incidentally Peterborough, in securing a big share of the splendid market for which Ontario, all Canadian Provinces, and even the States is bidding, by marking a big X for their fixed assessment bylaw on Monday next.

EARLY COMPLETION OF TRENT VALLEY CANAL LOOKED FOR Power Committee Takes Time By the Forelock, and Urge Upon the Goverament the Earliest Possible Completition of This Waterway.

The Power Committee of the City Council met last night, when there were present: Mayor Morrow, Chairman Ald. Turner, and Aldermen Gillespie and Bradburn.

Ald. Turner explained that he had called the meeting to seriously discuss the transportation question. Peterborough, as an industrial city, and one looking for new industries, is deeply interested in the speedy completion of the Trent Valley canal and should see to it that this waterway does not suffer from the government's schemes for further water transportation facilities.

Next election the Georgian Bay ship canal and deepening the Welland canal, will probably be planks in the government's campaign platform, and Ald. Turner urged it would do no harm to keep the powers-that-be at Ottawa alive to the fact that Peterborough and connecting localities look for the completion of the T.V.C. at the earliest possible moment. As an instance of the saving in transportation the T. V.C. would affect, Ald. Turner said he had been advised that this waterway would reduce freight rates by 50c. per ton at least, representing to, say the Quaker Oats Co., a yearly saving of half a million dollars.

The mayor pointed out that as the government's appropriation for this work had already been made, the time to approach the minister on this subject would be next fall, in good season for next year's estimates.

The committee, however, decided not to let the grass grow beneath their feet, and to advise the government that their past and present recognition of the need of the T.V.C. justifies Peterborough in assuming that this good work will continue on till its completion as rapidly as the country's finances will permit.

OCTOGENARIAN GONE.

Mr. Wm. Graham of Smith, Passes Away After Long Illness.

One of the best known residents of the township of Smith, in the person of Mr. William Graham, passed away on May 24th, aged 80 years. The late Mr. Graham has been ill for about a year. He died at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. David Eastwood, first line of Smith. He was born in Berwick, on the Tweed, and came to Canada with his parents, when a year old. Mr. Graham's wife, who predeceased him about six years ago last October, was Miss Sarah Snowden, sister of Mr. William Snowden, Peterborough.

Mr. Graham leaves to mourn his loss one brother, Robert, at Sturgeon Point, and one sister, Mrs. John Pearson, of Fenelon Falls, besides a family of three sons and three daughters. The sons are John, James and Mr. T. H. Graham, the present reeve of Smith. The daughters are Mrs. David Eastwood, Mrs. Robert Scott and Miss Margaret Graham. Mr. Graham, who was a member of the Peterborough Baptist church for many years, latterly identified himself with Gilmour Memorial church in Smith, it being more conveniently situated when he resided on the farm, in the fourth line of Smith.

The funeral will take place from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. David Eastwood, first line of Smith, on Thursday, May 26th, to Little Lake cemetery.

C.G.E. Won.

At Bethany, before a record crowd, the C.G.E. Midland League Football team, defeated the eleven of that place by a 3—1 score on the 24th. The game was warmly contested.

Strike Rumor Was Without Truth.

Yesterday rumors were current throughout the city that a strike had been declared in the moulding shop at the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co. plant. As this is a serious matter, affecting not only those directly concerned, but the whole city in general, The Times made careful enquiries. Mr. Andrew MacFarlane, manager of this large local plant, emphatically denied that there was any strike at the works mentioned. Later in the evening a Times representative saw two of the moulders alleged to be "out." These gentlemen plainly stated that no such strike was known of to them.

THE WEATHER.

Northwest winds; fair and cool; danger of light frost Friday morning.

SMITH FARMER CELEBRATES.

A Friend in Need Succeeds After Much Trouble in Getting Him Home.

The residents on Water street, in the vicinity of Victoria Park were amused on the holiday, and possibly as much saddened by a sight seen on the evening of the 24th. A hay wagon, with rack attached drove past the park with three men on board. The owner of the rig, who lives some miles out in the township of Smith, was in a hilarious state. He was "gloriously" full. A companion of his, who lives in the city was about three degrees nearer sobriety. A neighbor of the farmer was sober and drove the horses. As the outfit reached St. Paul's church, the owner of the team and his friend climbed out of the rack to refix firms. They had a quart bottle three-quarter's full of Seagram's whiskey. The two who were celebrating, applied some of the extract de Seagram to their respective departments of the interior, and deserted the wagon. The mutual friend, in charge of the rig followed them, as they "rolled along" Water street for some blocks. He succeeded in getting the team, with their bottle aboard and started again for Smith. Once more at St. Paul's, the owner and his comrade in good fellowship got out and started back for the allurments of city bars. The faithful friend followed with the team. After a time the owner of the rig was got on the rack a third time. His friend, with a superhuman appearance of sobriety, remarked to the bystanders, "Well, ——— had better go home now. I've got that Seagram right here," as he pointed to a hip pocket and a bow window in the rear of his coat.

Mrs. Bowman expects to remain in Peterborough, although she has not altogether decided.

THE BIRTHDAY OF BRITISH QUEEN

QUEEN MARY IS FORTY-THREE YEARS OLD TODAY.

No Celebration on Account of Court Mourning—A Woman Who is Sure to Win the Hearts of the People.

London, May 26. Queen Mary, who within a few weeks has emerged from comparative obscurity into the fierce white light that beats upon the throne, reached her forty-third birthday anniversary today, having been born May 26th, 1867. Owing to the court mourning there will be no celebration of the anniversary. The only official recognition of the day will be the firing of a royal salute at noon in St. James Park.

Within the past three weeks the newspapers have printed columns concerning the new Queen, who previously had been very little known even to the British public. In the mass of matter that has found its way into print many interesting side lights are thrown upon her Majesty's traits of character. Some of her likes and dislikes and other interesting characteristics may be summed up as follows:

Her gowns are always simple and her coiffure severe.

She cares little for beautiful jewels and generally wears none at all, except at state affairs.

She feels very strongly that women in high places should be an example to the rest of womankind and that extravagance in dress is bad taste and a bad precedent to follow.

She is said to take a great interest in the woman suffrage movement and before coming to the throne she was a frequent visitor to the Houses of Parliament.

She is a great lover of the drama and has a keen knowledge of theatrical affairs. The late King often alluded to her as "our musical and dramatic critic."

She has always held that her first duty was to her husband and children, and to them she has always devoted by far the greater part of her time.

She takes a keen personal interest in the conduct of affairs in her household and always insists upon a prompt settlement of all accounts.

She does not effect any fads whatever, declaring herself too busy to collect fans or little dogs or to study photography.

She is as great a stickler for the observance of public etiquette, as was Queen Victoria, and as determined to hold scandal makers and scandal mongers at arm's length.

She has an intimate knowledge of three languages in addition to her own, plays the piano admirably, sings with taste, and dances exceedingly well, though she seldom indulges in the pleasures of the ball room.

She has a strong dislike for card playing among women and has never taken any pains to conceal her abomination for bridge whist.

The Queen is a tremendous believer in outdoor life and with her children has made it a point to spend certain hours each day out of doors unless the weather was exceptionally bad.

GROWING CHILDREN.

The Period When the Nervous Activity Is at Its Greatest.

"Against the practice of giving tea and coffee to children we cannot speak too strongly. Childhood is the period when the nervous activity is at its greatest. The brain is ever busy receiving new impressions. Reflex action, co-ordination of muscles, and the special senses are all under a special course of training.

"The nervous system is pushed to its utmost capacity, and long is the list of victims that follow its overstimulation. In these little people nothing but harm can come from the use of such cerebral stimulants as tea or coffee. Bad, then, as this practice is, let us as physicians be aggressive in its prohibition.

"Do not be satisfied by answering 'No' when asked as to their use, but let us teach the families with whom we come in contact that such practice is evil. We speak emphatically, because not only among the poor and uneducated, but among the rich, who should know better, this practice is marvellously prevalent."—The Home Doctor.

Children like a warm beverage for breakfast and it is well for them to have it if the drink is a food and not a drug.

Postum is made to supply a rich nourishing liquid food with a crisp coffee taste for those who cannot and should not use coffee. Analysis shows it to contain about fourteen per cent. of muscle-forming elements, which go to nourish and sustain the delicate nerve centres throughout the body and form which the vital energy proceeds.

The success of child or adult depends largely upon proper sustenance for the body. Children who depend upon the intelligence of their elders to furnish them with good food deserve our most careful attention and thought.

WELL KNOWN LOCAL CONTRACTORS WERE ATTACKED ON GEORGE ST.

A peculiar fracas took place yesterday afternoon on George street, between Hunter and Simcoe streets, whereby Contractor MacPherson received a serious wound. It seems that Mr. Hipperson, another contractor, and Mr. MacPherson were walking along George street, discussing a contract they had just been figuring on. A young man named Lebar suddenly attacked Mr. Hipperson, and tried to strike him. To avoid trouble on the street, Hipperson dodged around the glass cases in front of T. Barrie's fur store, followed by Lebar. Hipperson then ran into the store of the Peterborough Hardware Co., still followed by Lebar. Mr. Morgan, of the P.H.W. Co. put Lebar out. As soon as Hipperson emerged, Lebar and a young man named Newhall again tried to pick a fight with him. Mr. MacPherson remonstrated with the men, when Newhall struck him a savage blow behind the ear, cutting his head open so that several stitches were inserted. F. C. McGinty and Acting Chief Adams placed Newhall and Lebar under arrest.

Later on Magistrate Dunble allowed them out on their own recognizances to appear this morning. Mr. Hipperson says he knows of no reason for the attack upon him. He did not even know Lebar by sight.

Important to Shippers.

The Times is requested to state that the freight department of the C.P.R. and of the G.T.R., will close sharp at 5.30 each evening, commencing May 30th. Shippers should govern themselves accordingly.

The day will come when royal kissing bees will be out of fashion. Even when monarchs meet on such historic occasions as the burial of a king, there is no reason why the manly and sanitary handshake should not be sufficient greeting.

COLD ON THE CHEST.

Had Suffered for Weeks—Used Fourteen Different Remedies Without Effect.

No stronger proof of the wonderful merit of Nerviline could be produced than the letter of Miss Lucy Mosher, who for years has been a well-known resident of Windsor, N.S.

"I want to add my unsolicited testimonial to the efficacy of your wonderful liniment "Nerviline." I consider it the best remedy for a cold sore throat, wheezing tightness in the chest, etc., and one that for years our home has never been without Nerviline. I had a dreadful attack of cold that settled on my chest, that fourteen different remedies couldn't break up. I rubbed on Nerviline three times a day, used Nerviline as a gargle, and was completely restored. I have induced dozens of my friends to use Nerviline, and they are all delighted with its wonderful power over pain and sickness.

"You are at liberty to publish this signed letter, which I hope will show the way to health to many that need to use Nerviline.

PROTECT THE TREES.

A contemporary calls attention to the destruction of trees that occurs in many cities and towns, sometimes through wilful injury to them committed by thoughtless or mischievious persons, but more frequently simply through the neglect of those whose duty it should be to protect them. As our contemporary referred to says, public opinion should be aroused against these acts of vandalism which, in a few minutes, destroy the beauty of a tree the result of the growth of years, or, perhaps inflict such injuries upon it that it dies. Our forefathers were more alive to the pleasant effect that rows of trees will produce along a road or street and in the old towns of this continent—particularly in some of the New England States—not a little of the charm of the quaint old villages and places is due to the avenues bordered with trees planted some three or four generations ago, and which still flourish to remind the beholder of those who planted them, with the hope that those coming after them might enjoy the beauty of their foilage and seek the grateful shade they offer on a hot summer day.

CABINET MINISTER SALARIES.

The presentation of a gift of money to Mr. Fielding, the Dominion minister of Finance, has caused a discussion in some of the newspapers as to the inadequacy of the salaries now paid to members of the Dominion Cabinet. It is suggested that these salaries now paid to members these salaries should be increased to an amount approximating more nearly to the remuneration of men who are at the head of great commercial and industrial undertakings. It is urged in support of that view that the interests committed to the care of a member of the Dominion government are even more important than those entrusted to the manager or director of a commercial corporation. We do not deny that such is frequently the case and we are entirely in favor of giving public servants a fair remuneration for their services, either in the shape of larger salaries or of retiring pensions after a certain term in office. But there is a difference in the case of ministers and managers of commercial companies. There is generally only one of the latter in charge of some great undertaking who draws a large salary. But there are some twelve or fifteen members in a cabinet and while one or perhaps two of them might be entitled on account of superior ability or experience to a much larger salary than is now paid, this would not be the case as regards the rest of his colleagues. No one conversant with political matters will venture to assert that anything like the same discrimination is paid to the qualifications of a man for a seat in the Federal Cabinet as is used in the selection of a person to take charge of a great railway, bank or manufactory. When this is changed there will be some grounds for a substantial increase in ministerial salaries.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

LAWS, WRITTEN AND UNWRITTEN

In the United States of recent years, it has become the practice to plead "the unwritten law" in justification of those who took the written laws into their own hands and punished by death or otherwise, the assailants of women. These pleas, of course, have not been the ostensible defence put forward in the courts of law, but they have been the real defence, and juries have taken cognizance of them. The "Unwritten law" was the unwritten plea in the first Thaw trial and it has been the unwritten plea in many that have followed it.

It would be an unfortunate thing for the country if the impression were to get abroad that there is a certain class of cases in which any relative of the victim is at liberty to take upon himself the punishment of the guilty party. The law was created and exists for the protection of society. When that protection is left to individuals, order gives place to chaos, family feuds and vendettas arise, and scores of innocent parties are drawn into the maelstrom of passions which results from the exercise by individuals of the power which belongs to the people as a whole, and which find concrete form in the deliberate machinery of the law.

Since the "unwritten law," as at present understood, embodies principles which are the menace rather than the safeguard of society, it is somewhat of a surprise to find a Canadian editor urging an amplification of it, so as to include, among those who are to be shot downwith impunity, the man who assails the character of women by selling them grossly immoral books and pictures. "I would shoot him down in his boots," Dr. J. A. Macdonald told the Press Association the other day speaking from the viewpoint of any father whose daughter might be given such a book. "Hell is too good for him," he added. One cannot but think that Dr. Macdonald said rather more than he meant. If the punishment of malefactors, whether great or small, were to be left to relatives of the wronged parties, national morals would soon reach a low ebb. The law is fallible. The guilty sometimes escape. But, with all its mistakes, the written law is much to be preferred to the unwritten, and the truest freedom is that which is coincident with the strictest recognition of the principle that to punish is the function of the State and not of the individual.

EARLY DAYS OF THE COALINGA OIL FIELDS OF CALIFORNIA.

Pastoral Land Worth $2.50 Per Acre a Dozen Years Ago, Now Brings $20,700 an Acre—576 Producing Wells Not Over Half a Million Dollars Per Month.

About a dozen years ago, a sheep herder noticed in a canyon, about eight miles north of the present town of Coalinga, a black oily substance oozing from the ground, in a deep ravine. He told his friends "the boys" in the little hamlet of Selma of his find, among whom were M. B. McWhorter and Capt. Barrett. McWhorter, soon afterwards put down the first well, under an oil location claim, thus becoming the pioneer of what was destined to become the greatest oil district in the country, the celebrated Coalinga.

The news of the find flew fast and far. Oil operators from everywhere rushed to the new field. From "McWhorter's dinky oil works", of a decade ago, in an obscure canyon, has grown the most astonishing and largest oil field in the United States. And now what of that "speck" on the railroad map of the old days, consisting of about 300 feet of railroad siding, a box car and two saloon shacks? It has become a modern city of some 5,000 souls, having the customery adpointments in hotels, big stone and brick business blocks, and where land in these good old sleepy days of a dozen years ago was worth from $2 to $3 per acre, it is now selling from $1,500 to $20,000 an acre.

PERMANENCY OF CALIFORNIA OIL FIELDS.

"The foundation of the fortune of the Union Oil Company was laid in Torrey, Ventura field, California, this company has to-day forty-four wells pumping oil in this field, some of which were drilled forty-five years ago, and to-day they are still producing thousands of barrels of high gravity oil every month."

(Extract from San Francisco Examiner"

The above is not an isolated case; in the California oil fields wells drilled many years ago, are still producing as much if not more oil than when first brought in, and during these many years have been steady and regular payers of substantial dividends to their stockholders.

What the underground riches of the oil fields of California amount to is a problem that has occasioned the careful study of the United States Geological Survey who compute the deposit to be ten billion barrels of liquid wealth awaiting the fortunate producer.

At the present rate of production it would require two hundred years to exhaust the supply in nature's reservoir.

It was a fair, sweet evening, and the room where Jessica sat beside David Stires' bed, reading aloud to him, was flooded with the failing sunlight. Since the old man's seizure in the night he had been much worse, and she had scarcely left his room. Today, however, he had sat propped by pillows, able to read and chat, and the deep personal anxiety that had numbed her had yielded.

A knock came at the door. It was a nurse with letters for him from the mail, and while he opened them Jessica laid aside the book and went slowly down the hall to the sun parlor, where the doctor stood with the group gathered after the early supper, chatting of the newest "strike" on the mountain.

"We'll be famous if we keep on," he was saying as she looked out of the wide windows across the haze where the sunlight drifted down in dust of gold. "I've a mind to stake out a claim myself."

"We pay you better," said one of the occupants grimly. "Anyway, the whole of Smoky mountain was staked in the excitement a year ago. There's no doubt about this find, I suppose?"

"It's on exhibition at the bank," the doctor replied; "more than $5,000 cached in a crevice in the glacial age as neat as a Christmas stocking!"

The talk went on about her.

"Where is the lucky claim?" some one asked.

"Just below this ridge," the doctor replied. "It is called the 'Little Paymaster.'"

The name caught her ear. The Little Paymaster? That was the name on the tree on Hugh's claim! At that instant she thought she heard David Stires calling. She turned and ran quickly up the long hall to his open door.

The sight of his face at first startled her, for it was held captive of emotion, but it was an emotion of joy, not of pain. A letter fluttered in his grasp. He thrust it into her hands.

"Jessica," he exclaimed, "Hugh has paid it! He has sent the $5,000, interest and principal, to the bank to my account."

"Hugh has paid it!"

For a moment she stood transfixed. The talk she had mechanically heard leaped into significance, and her mind ran back to the hour when she had left the draft at the cabin. She caught the old man's hand and knelt by his chair, laughing and crying at once. During these last few days the impulse to tell all that she had concealed had been almost irresistible. Now the barrier had fallen. The secret she had repressed so long came forth in a rush of sentences that left him mute and amazed.

"I should have told you before," she ended, "but I didn't know—I wasn't sure"— She broke down for very joy.

He looked at her with eyes unnaturally bright. "Tell me everything, Jessica," he said. "Everything, from the beginning!"

"He was young and irresponsible, Jessica," said the old man. "Money always came so easily. He didn't realize what he was doing when he signed that draft. He has learned a lesson out in the world. It won't hurt his career in the end, for no one but you and I and one other knows it. Thank God! if his memory comes back"—

"Oh, it will!" she breathed. "It must! That day on the Knob he only needed the clew! When I tell him who I am he will know me. He will remember it all. I am sure—sure! Will you let me bring him to you?" she added softly.

"Yes," he said, pressing her hand, "tomorrow. I shall be stronger then."

She rose and lighted the lamp, shading it from his eyes.

"Do you remember the will, Jessica," he asked her presently—"the will I drew the day he came back? You never knew, but I signed it—the night of your wedding. Harry Sanderson was right, my dear, wasn't he?

"I wish now I hadn't signed it, Jessica," he added. "I must set it right! I must set it right!" He watched her with a smile on his face. "I will rest now," he said. And she adjusted the pillows and turned the lamp low.

Crossing the room, she stepped through the long window on to the porch and stood leaning on the railing. The words of the Biblical narrative flashed through her mind: "And he arose and came to his father. But when he was yet a great way off his father saw him and had compassion and ran and fell on his neck and kissed him." So Hugh's father would meet him now!

Harry had labored, spurred by a fierce haste to make requital. Till the last ounce of the rich "pocket" had been washed and the whole taken to the bank in the town no one had known of the find. It had repaid the forgery and left him a handful of dollars over—enough to take him far away from the only thing that made life worth the effort.

A gradual feeling of apprehension had come to Jessica—an impression of blankness and chill that affected her strangely. She stood still, frightened at the sudden sense of utter spentness.

She caught up the lamp and, turning the wick, approached the bed. She put out her hand and touched the wasted one on the coverlet. Then a sobbing cry came from her lips.

David Stires was gone. A crowning joy had goldened his bitterness at the last moment, and he had gone away with his son's face in his heart and the smile of welcome on his lips.

Don't risk even a penny—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that. I am the only physician who says to the sick: "Get well, out of my own pocket, before you pay me." I am willing to bet my own health that for 20 years Dr. Shoop's remedies have been curing sick people in every community—and everywhere. That's why I say the risk is all mine. Not yours. Not even your promised cash. Not even your health. Here is the test. Prove it at my own risk. Then, when you are convinced and only then, pay me. When the first bottle of Dr. Shoop's Restorative, or the Restorative pills, or Dr. Shoop's Blood Salve, or Dr. Shoop's Kidney Remedy will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively tighten money-risk whatsoever. They leave that when you decide health helps to return, Dr. Shoop will gladly pay the bill. And for that and a full 30 day treatment is freely sent if but write me first for an order.

Then Pay

This will save delay and disappointment. All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but all are not able to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line first—for I have consented to honest and reasonable drug every druggist in town my full address and the book which book you below will surely open up new and helpful things to those who are not well. Besides you are perfectly free to consult me further you would rather have physician. My advice and the book below are free—and without cost.

For

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or counsel. Advice by letter is freely given. So write me, while you have it, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 11, Racine, Wis.

FOUND BY POLICE.

Canadian Girl Deserted By Her Husband in Detroit.

Windsor, Ont., May 24.—Despondent because deserted by her husband and because of the murder of her sister, Mrs. Floyd Dresser, at Leamington, and the suicide of her brother-in-law on the night of May 13, Mrs. Lottie Oliver, 22 years of age, disappeared from her room, 208 Congress street, East Detroit last night. Detectives, on making a search for the young woman, found her in Antico street, and detained her at police headquarters.

U.S. Immigration Inspector Coe, has learned that Mrs. Oliver came to Detroit after the murder of her sister to see her brother, an electrician, who failed to meet her. Mr. Coe decided bot to deport Mrs. Oliver and he has placed her in a charitable home until she can secure a position.

John A. Watson Sentenced at Hamilton to Three Years in Penitentiary for Bigamy.

Hamilton, May 23.—John A. Watson, the bigamist who deserted his first wife, Julia Kennedy, of Port Huron, last October, while she was lying in an hospital in her home town, to marry pretty Clara Fraser, an 18-year-old girl from London, was sentenced to three months in Kingston penitentiary this morning by Magistrate Jelfs.

Watson married the Kennedy woman in 1903 at Sarnia, and moved to Port Huron, where he resided with her until she went to a hospital to have a limb amputated. He met the Fraser girl in London, and falling in love with her, came to this city and married her in January. "You deserted this woman," said the magistrate, pointing to the bigamist's first wife, a helpless cripple, "when she needed your protection most. You've not only injured her, but another young girl who is not now your legal wife."

KINGS STROLLED ABOUT PARK.

Kaiser and Other Royalties Took Great Chances in London.

London, May 23.—Defying anarchists and disregarding their advisors' protests, the Kaiser and half a dozen other royalties, including King Frederick of Denmark and King George of Greece, today strolled like private citizens in the park at Buckingham. The group of rulers walking leisurely through the crowded paths, doing their share of gazing at places of interest, attracted the passers-by, who however, were compelled by etiquette to pretend to take no special notice.

At all times from the moment they left Buckingham Palace they were exposed not only to the public gaze but to attack.

A guard of detectives made a pretence of following despite royal orders, but they would have been of no avail in an emergency. The Kaiser, when he learned later in the day that a guard had followed him, gave vent to characteristic anger.

TOOK NO CHANCES.

King Manuel of Portugal, however remained in seclusion, as he has since his arrival.

On account of the assassination of his father, King Carlos, and of his brother, the boy has a wholesome fear of a similar fate. King George and Queen Mary today went to Buckingham to lunch with Alexandra the queen mother.

The palace was a scene of bustle today in preparation for the departure of the Kaiser and others who have been the guests there since their arrival for the funeral of King Edward.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. It success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

THE WEALTH OF CALIFORNIA OIL FIELDS GREATER THAN THE YUKON

Coalinga, California, The Centre of Operations

Enormous Yields--Fabulous Profits

Men With Small Holdings Become Independent

So great is the wealth of the oil fields of Coalinga that in the year 1909 this limited area of country produced 15,324,374 barrels of oil from 554 wells. This at the present price of oil, 65 cents per barrel at the well, aggregates the grand total of $9,857,19. 1910 promises to be double as much.

When such eminent experts as Messrs. Ralph Arnold and Robert Anderson, for many years in the employ of the Geological Survey Department of the United States Government in Bulletin No. 398 describe the Coalinga District as an exceptionally rich oil field, and limited in area to 50 miles in length by 15 miles in width. Of this stretch of country but 20 miles in length and 4 miles in width comprises the proven oil zone. These authorities estimate in the underground reservoirs of these proven fields that there are 2,737,000,000 barrels of oil yet to be extracted.

This means that all the present working wells, together with a similar amount of new wells to be brought in, could not pump out this great reservoir of oil inside of a couple of hundred years.

The property controlled by this Company, The Coalinga-Eureka Oil Company, is situated in Section 24, Township 21, Range 14 E., and consists of 80 acres, in the very heart of the proven oil zone, and is adjacent to such great oil producing properties as the Lucile, Silver Tip, Amy, Aladdin, The Consolidated The Boychester, Marian, etc. In fact our property is surrounded by producing wells which have paid enormous dividends to their shareholders, and whose stock is quoted upon the open market at many times par value. Just think of the daily production of the properties that completely surround that controlled by this Company, averages from 400 to 1,000 barrels.

It is safe, therefore to predict that our property will do at least as much per day as the former figure.

The ground controlled by this corporation is sufficient in extent to accommodate 56 wells. This would be seven wells to each 10 acres.

Figuring, therefore, that we get 400 barrels per day as a maximum, 200 barrels per day as a minimum, from 56 wells, we would be able to pump 11,200 barrels per day, or 332,000 barrels per month, which at the present price would give the shareholders a gross income of $2,469,600 per year, deducting from this the operating expenses of, say, 10 per cent, $246,960 and the Company will still have a net income of $2,222,640 to be distributed in dividends. This represents a yearly dividend of $4.44 for each and every share of stock on the whole capitalization (500,000 shares, or a monthy dividend of 37 cents per share.

Such a financial condition would mean that every shareholder even though he were possessed of but 500 shares would in the course of a year or so be provided with a competency for life.

Development work on the Company's property is being rushed forward on Well No. 1. It is expected that a rich flow of oil will be struck at from 1,000 to 1,500 feet. This means quick returns on the immediate investment.

The first well should be brought in inside of 90 days. This will raise stock to par, or above par, consequently the Company will not place on sale, after the 28th of May, but a small block of stock which will be 35 cents per share. The present lot of stock at 25 cents per share is almost all taken up.

We, therefore, urge upon the readers of this publication, not to delay in writing and mailing their order for stock, until after they have wired their reservations, even then we cannot guarantee a delivery since the 50,000 shares to be sold at 25 cents will, in all probability, be oversubscribed by Saturday, May 28.

However, since you are at liberty to send your wire charges collect at this end, don't hesitate to wire your reservation (not less, however, than 100 shares) immediately, after reading this announcement, then send your remittance by first mail. Have your wire read as follows:—

"The Coalinga-Eureka Oil Company, "Selkirk Block, 135 Hastings Street, "West, Vancouver, B. C.—Reserve for me ".....shares in your Company, "mailing payment to-day."

We will allot shares in rotation of receipt of applications.

Every Director in our Company has acquired large holdings.

Those who have visited the property have not hesitated to stake their last dollar. All who are acquainted with such men as S. E. Tucker, E. W. Preston and A. C. Elliott, oil experts, have bought heavily of shares of this Company after reading the reports of these gentlemen on our property. In each instance these oil experts have irretrievably and unconditionally endorsed The Coalinga-Eureka Oil Company's property as being one of the greatest, one of the most promising oil properties in the Coalinga fields. S. E. Tucker, himself says:—

"You may strike a gusher in your "first well of several thousand barrels per "day. Regarding this I will not speak "definitely, but I will stake my reputation as an oil expert, and after many "years of acquaintance and knowledge of "the Coalinga Oil fields, that your property will produce wells which will give "up enormous quantities of high grade "oil. Your stock should be worth, and "sell for par when you bring in your first "well which should be in about 90 days' "time."

Sit down at once and write your telegram and remit by first mail, making your cheque, draft, express order or money order payable to the Trustee of the Company, George L. Taschereau. Where all cash is remitted, a certificate will be issued at once. Remember, the shares of this Company are non-assessable, so that when you pay your 25 cents, you receive a certificate for fully paid-up stock.

We advise our most intimate friends not to buy less than 200 shares, since they may sell 100 shares when the price is 50 cents, retaing the other 100 shares absolutely free of cost to themselves, since they purchased the whole at 25 cents per share.

Never again will this opportunity present itself to you. You have the assurance of men who know, men who are on the ground, that the stock will be worth par in 90 days, and the par value of each share is $1.00. We have every reason to believe that before this year 1910 comes to a close, Coalinga-Eureka stock will be worth $3 to $4.00 from the fact we should have three to four wells in operation.

Bear in mind that the price of the share in this Company will be advanced at six o'clock p. m., May 28th, to 35 cents per share.

Prospectus and fuller particulars will be furnished at the office of

The Coalinga-Eureka Oil Company,
Selkirk Block, 135 Hastings Street, West Vancouver B. C.

ALBERTA AND GREAT WATERWAYS RAILWAY SCANDAL CAUSES OVERTHROW.

Edmonton, May 26.—Premier Rutherford resigned at 11 o'clock today.

Chief Justice Sifton was immediately sworn in as first minister.

It is understood that several of the present ministers will be retained. It is more of a question as to whether C. W. Cross will stay in the cabinet. All the regulars and two insurgents, it is said, have asked that he be retained, but other insurgents feel very strongly against him, and for the sake of peace and unity Mr. Sifton may not retain him. The whole arrangement is a compromise intended to establish unity in the party, and it is said that it has been made at the request of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The delay in putting it through is over the difficulty of giving Cross a place.

It is said that Mr. Sifton consented to resign his seat on the bench and accepted the premiership at Sir Wilfrid Laurier's request.

The cabinet will not likely be announced until next week. It is not likely that any of the insurgent leaders will have a place in it.

Lebar and Newall Pay Dearly for Attack on Local Contractor.

At yesterday's session of the police court Victor Lebar and Jack Newall were fined $20 each for their unprovoked attack upon Messrs. W. Hipperson and F. J. R. MacPherson, on George street, Wednesday afternoon, a full report of which appeared in yesterday's Times. Lebar pleaded not guilty, while Newall said he was drunk and did not know whether he was guilty or not.

Mr. Hipperson, first called, said: "I was walking down George St., Wednesday afternoon, and on arriving at the corner of Simcoe and George streets, I met Fred Finnie and Mr. J. Hayes' son. We discussed a contract for the isolation hospital. Lebar and Newall came between me and Finnie. Lebar struck me. I said, "What are you hitting me for?" I ran to Barrie's store. He couldn't get me, and I ran to the Peterborough Hardware store. Here Mr. Morgan threw Lebar out. The other man (Newall) said, 'Leave him alone.' In a minute MacPherson came into the Hardware store, and we walked out again. This time LeBar made a "dive" at me. I did not see him hit Mr. MacPherson. I saw some one fighting with MacPherson, and I got off for the police station. LeBar never swore.

To Mr. McWilliams, who appeared for Lebar:

We were standing at the corner of Simcoe and George streets when it happened. I did not strike Lebar.

Chief Howard and Mr. McWilliams both testified to the character of Victor Lebar, saying that he is a very well behaved man.

Mr. Dumble said that something would have to be done in order to protect the citizens from assaults on the public streets, imposed a fine of $20 or 30 days in jail.

FINE RESIDENCE SOLD TO ENGLISH LADY.

Mr. Adam Hall Disposes of His Fine Property on London Street.

One of the finest and most beautifully situated residences in the city has changed ownership. This is the home of Mr. Adam Hall on London street. The sale was effected yesterday through Mr. Blewett, the real estate agent. The buyer is Mrs. McKenna, of Peterborough, England, who is moving from her old home in England to the city of the same name in Canada. The family will occupy the residence as soon as it can be made ready. It is understood that the property changed hands at a price of $7,500.

THE BYLAWS.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—Of the two bylaws to be voted upon by the electors on Monday next, one is to give a fixed assessment of $10,000 to the works of the Wm. Hamilton Co., for ten years. The history of the works is known to the electors. It is one of the very oldest and most valuable of our industries. When it was closed a few years ago, all felt that it was a serious loss to the city. A Toronto firm proposed to revive it and approached the council with that in view, and it was arranged that they should receive a fixed assessment, a loan of $30,000 and other minor concessions. The Ontario Legislature authorized the council with the approval of the electors, to give this aid to the company. It will be remembered that the firm did not proceed with the undertaking, and that gentlemen, most of whom had been connected with the works, organized a company and re-established them. They are now being carried on and are doing good work, and employing a large number of mechanics, over one hundred hands being employed. The works are a good asset to the city, and it has given pleasure to every citizen to know that the works are being successfully operated. The new company has not asked for the loan, but requested the fixed assessment for ten years. The council has obtained legislation to authorize the electors to give them this concession, and we feel sure it will meet with the approval of the electors. The men who took hold of the works and re-established them deserve encouragement and assistance. The industry is one that is of great benefit to the city, and less aid than the fixed assessment that is proposed could hardly be given.

To legalize the bylaw the assent of three-fifths of those voting on the bylaw will be required. This is a condition made by the legislature. It is therefore urged that the freeholders who are entitled to vote will not neglect to poll their votes on Monday, and that they will also on Monday, and that they will show by a good, strong, favorable vote that they are willing to give the encouragement asked for to this old and valuable industry.

W. G. MORROW,
Mayor.

THE BAILLEY INQUEST.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir:—In your issue of the 26th inst, one C. R. Munro writes in favour of the fad called "Christian Science." With the first paragraph of that gentleman's letter we fully agree. The parents should not be exonerated from the criminal neglect of their sick child. If the horse was sick, these same parents would send for a professional Vet. to attend him. But when their innocent, helpless child is sick they risk the child's life to the hypocritical antics of an ignorant class of men who call themselves Christian Scientists—men with the education of a scullion, and the cunning of a fortune teller. These are the men who make a ghoulish and disreputable living, by trading on the ignorance and credulity of their fellow creatures. There is a law for the protection of children. Why was it not applied in this case? And there is a law for the punishment of men who obtain money by false pretenses, and in this case why was the Christian Science faker allowed to go free?

HUMANITY.

QUESTION OF LAND TAX WAS ABLY DISCUSSED LAST NIGHT

Mr. F. E. Coulter Presents Convincing Arguments for the Need of Assessment Reform---Mr. Newton is a Humorist o High Degree

Mr. F. E. Coulter, secretary of the Single Tax Association and Direct Legislation League of the Province, addressed the Board of Trade in the Council Chamber last night; on the whole question of taxation, going especially in detail of the conditions in Ontario, and the history and necessity of the so-called Fripp Bill before the last legislature, which grew out of a petition from 260 municipalities, including all the large cities of the Province, save one, asking that power be given them to put a higher rate upon land values than upon improvements; and an equally important provision to compel each municipality to go carefully into its assessment every year, and and thus discover and end the irresponsible and arbitrary assessments that are now said to rule us as the result of the whims of assessors because there is no adequate way to have them reviewed.

Unfortunately the meeting was but slimly attended, and the members of the Board of Trade were conspicuous by their absence.

Mr. Coulter's address was very agreeably supplemented with irresistably humorous sketches by Mr. Cyrus B. Newton, the original and quaint humorist, who was altogether delightfully amusing. His personifications are exceedingly quaint and replete with philosophy and funny sayings. Mr. Newton is fresh, breezy, original and a humorist of great merit.

Mr. Coulter prefaced his address by explaining that the Single Tax Association and Direct Legislation League of the Province, are mainly enabled to carry on their present campaign through the generosity of Mr. Joseph Fels, a millionaire soap manufacturer of Philadelphia, who is contributing dollar for dollar raised, up to $2,000, to defray the expenses connected with this movement. Mr. Fels, who is by the way a Hebrew Christain in the truest sense of the word—his life is Christ like—contributed $40,000 toward the late British election campaign fund, thus encouraging the Liberal party to take the bold stand they did with their budget and land tax bill. In alluding to the expense connected with his work, the speaker said there were only a few little towns along here that have thrown open their town halls and council chambers to Mr. Newton and himself free. He and his associate worker will always gratefully remember the kindness and courtesy extended them in this little streak of Ontario along the Trent Valley canal route, where more interest has been manifested in the subject of Single Tax than in all the remainder of the Province.

The enthusiastic speaker gave figures from several localities, Peterborough included, demonstrating the ridiculous amount of improvements compared to the actual value of land, arising from the fact that improvements immediately entail upon the owner additional taxation, while the land remains under assessed. Land owes its value to the activity and expenditure of the community; it cannot be carried away or concealed; and possessing these characteristics, land is a peculair subject for special taxation at the actual value it represents through the energy and enterprise of the community in which it lies.

Mr. Coulter went on to show conclusively that in New Zealand and the Australian States, and wherever municipal revenues are raised principally upon land values alone, poverty to a large extent has been eliminated and an era of general prosperity substituted. He was glad to report that Manitoba had fully recognized the need of amending the assessment act to provide for taxing the land at its proper value, and was optimistic of Mr. A. E. Fripp's bill being adopted at the next meeting of Ontario's Legislature.

A LOCAL SOCIETY.

The meeting terminated with twenty-seven of those present signing a card in sympathy with the land tax movement, thus forming the nucleus for a local society of citizens, interested in the proposed amendment of the assessment act. The following officers were appointed:

Chairman—W. H. Moore.
Vice Chairman—H. B. Common.
Secretary—R. Fair.

COMING CONVENTION.

On Tuesday next, in Toronto, a convention of all the local societies already formed, with be held with a view to organizing a provincial association to actively work for assessment reform.

Contracts for Isolation Hospital are Awarded

Contracts for the building, plumbing, heating and wiring of the new Isolation Hospital were awarded last evening at the meeting of the Property Committee. Tenders were received up till four o'clock yesterday afternoon. Those present at the meeting were: Ald. Duncan, chairman, Mayor Morrow, Aldermen Graham, Batten and Morgan. The lowest tender in each case was accepted, the successful ones being, W. J. Johnston, for the building; F. R. J. MacPherson Co., for the plumbing; H. C. Sturgeon for the heating, and Alexander & Miller, for the wiring. Those who put in tenders for the various things and the amount of each is as follows:

Wm. Hipperson (with plumbing, heating and wiring)	$1630
Without the above	8625

FOR WIRING.

F. R. J. MacPherson Co.	$78 00
Alexander & Miller	62 75

Two acres of land on the Hilliard property will be required for the Isolation Hospital. It was moved by Mayor Morrow and seconded by Ald. Graham that the Water Commissioners be authorized to lay the necessary main to this property without charge as promised last year.

On motion of Ald. Graham and Batten, the chairman and Ald. Morgan were authorized to purchase the necessary coal for the city, dividing among the various dealers. The matter of having ice placed in the fountains for the summer months was also left in the hands of the chairman to look after.

A KING'S COMMON SENSE.

Under this heading The New York World publishes the following editorial:

"King George's virtual abrogation of the period of trade mourning which tradition has made obligatory

"England's affection for its late monarch was probably as profound as that of any people for a ruler. There will be no detraction from its sincerity in the abolition of a form of mourning etiquette which was artificial and perfunctory and which the new king has wisely repudiated."

Hamilton, May 23.—John A. Watson, the bigamist who deserted his first wife, Julia Kennedy, of Port Huron, last October, while she was lying in an hospital in her home town, to marry pretty Clara Fraser, an 18-year-old girl from London, was sentenced to three months in Kingston penitentiary this morning by Magistrate Jelfs.

Watson married the Kennedy woman in 1903 at Sarnia, and moved to Port Huron, where he resided with her until she went to a hospital to have a limb amputated. He met the Fraser girl in London, and falling in love with her, came to this city and married her in January. "You deserted this woman," said the magistrate, pointing to the bigamist's first wife, a helpless cripple, "when she needed your protection most. You've not only injured her, but another young girl who is not now your legal wife."

Chinese Rebels are Now in Control

Hankow, China, May 25. — The Chinese rebels are in complete control of territory embracing several hundred square miles in the northern part of Hunan Province, and a war of extermination is being waged on all native Christians, according to reports reaching here today by indirect routes. The mobs have destroyed all telegraph wires, according to authentic information, as part of the preparations for the anti-foreign uprising called for May 29.

SACKING THE VILLAGES.

The disorders are spreading north ward rapidly, and in the path of the rebels a score of villages lie sacked or smoking. The situation at Yi Yang, where the officials were driven out by the mob, is more serious, and the torch is being applied right and left, according to today's information, and a third of the towns have been destroyed.

These reports say that, in the attack on foreigners at Chang Sha, the places to be destroyed are selected carefully by the mob leaders, who designate what shall be left unmolested. The ringleaders appear to have as perfect command over their forces as if they were military officers. One report is even current that renegade Japan officials are leading the revolt.

Advices from Chaun-Chia show that the first reports minimized the damage at the portion of the city burned Saturday, being larger than was at first believed here.

There was a Wild Time at the Atherley Inquest

Held in Hotel with Frequent Adjournments for Refreshments—Degenerated Into a Farce Comedy

Orillia, May 26.—It is now reasonably assured that there are no grounds for the suspicion of foul play in the death of Wm. Fowler at Atherley, the circumstances surrounding his death was sufficiently shocking to arouse public opinion.

Fowler's death was the culmination of one of the general sprees now common at Atherley as an outcome of the large gangs of laborers employed on construction work in Orillia and on the C.N.O. Railway near Atherley itself.

On the same evening, a companion of Fowler's, named Speers, had his face kicked in a most brutal manner and is now lying here in a scarcely recognizable condition. It is understood that steps have been taken to bring the facts to the attention of the government.

EARLY DAYS OF THE COALINGA OIL FIELDS OF CALIFORNIA.

Pastoral Land Worth $2.50 Per Acre a Dozen Years Ago, Now Brings $30,700 an Acre—576 Producing Wells Net Over Half a Million Dollars Per Month.

About a dozen years ago, a sheep herder noticed in a canyon, about eight miles north of the present town of Coalinga, a black oily substance oozing from the ground, in a deep ravine. He told his friends "the boys" in the little hamlet of Selma of his find, among whom were M. B. McWhorter and Capt. Barrett. McWhorter, soon afterwards put down the first well, under an oil location claim, thus becoming the pioneer of what was destined to become the greatest oil district in the country, the celebrated Coalinga.

The news of the find flew fast and far. Oil operators from everywhere rushed to the new field. From "McWhorter's dinky oil works", of a decade ago, in an obscure canyon, has grown the most astonishing and largest oil field in the United States. And now what of that "speck" on the railroad map of the old days, consisting of about 300 feet of railroad siding, a box car and two saloon shacks? It has become a modern city of some 5,000 souls, having the customery adjointments in hotels, big stone and brick business blocks, and where land in these good old sleepy days of a dozen years ago was worth from $2 to $3 per acre, it is now selling from $1,500 to $20,000 an acre.

PERMANENCY OF CALIFORNIA OIL FIELDS.

"The foundation of the fortune of the Union Oil Company was laid in Torrey, Ventura field, California, this company has to-day forty-four wells pumping oil in this field, some of which were drilled forty-five years ago, and to-day they are still producing thousands of barrels of high gravity oil every month."

(Extract from San Francisco Examiner"

The above is not an isolated case, in the California oil fields wells drilled many years ago, are still producing as much if not more oil than when first brought in, and during these many years have been steady and regular payers of substantial dividends to their stockholders.

What the underground riches of the oil fields of California amount to is a problem that has occasioned the careful study of the United States Geological Survey who compute the deposit to be ten billion barrels of liquid wealth awaiting the fortunate producer.

At the present rate of production it would require two hundred years to exhaust the supply in nature's reservoir.

"WAS FADING AWAY."

A Young Woman—Scarcely Thirty—Seemed to Be Dying on Her Feet. Dr. Hamilton's Pills Cured.

"I think it should be the duty of the schools to teach the children how to keep well," writes Miss Nannie E. Naydon, a well known and highly esteemed resident of Bristol. "Ignorance of the laws of health and the use of improper remedies destroyed my vigor and led me to the verge of invalidism. I was as a girl ruddy and strong. Nothing seemed to affect me until I was about thirty. Then gas began to form in the stomach. I suffered with bloating and a general failure in strength set in. If I went upstairs my breath hurt. My system was very irregular and until I grew pretty bad I didn't pay much heed to my condition. Then I got blue, worried all the time, wakened in the night and couldn't get to sleep again. None of the medicine I took helped me. One day I was read ingof a very interesting case like mine cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I took the same treatment. It was just right—didn't physic me to death, but took hold of the weak, sick parts of my system and set things right. It seems as if Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made me young again, and all my color, spirits, vigor and health of former days have returned to stay."

Every girl and woman should use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They help a woman in many ways. Beware of the dealer who asks you to take an inferior pill on which his profit is larger than on Dr. Hamilton's. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Body of Young Valois Found.

The body of Vernon Valois, the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs Mitchell Valois, who was drowned two weeks ago was recovered yesterday morning by Mr. John Thompson of the Peterborough Lumber Co. near Burnham's Point. Our readers will remember that young Valois accidentally fell off the P.L. & P. Co. dam.

The funeral will take place this afternoon to Little Lake cemetery.

"Send for a Policeman."

That is the name of the typical English music hall song which Geo. Lashwood, the famous English comedian, is now singing in vaudville over here. The song is humerous and catchy, and every one will be singing it soon. The complete words and music of "Send for a Policeman" will be published in Next Sunday's New York World.

CANADA AND NORTH POLE.

There is a chance for Capt. Bernier after all to secure the final fame he has had it in his mind for ever so long to win. Messrs. Peary and Cook have been discredited to such an extent that the problem of the North Pole still seems as if it needed solving as badly notwithstanding all that is being done to boom Peary in England. The seconds in the race undertaken by these two gentlemen have been equally unable to verify the last lap of a hundred miles or so; and the world is still anxious to have some one finish the whole course in good faith, and without any chance of contradiction. The personal integrity of Commander Peary has been placed under a cloud by such a tale as Rudolf Francke, Cook's second in command, tells of those two hundred skins which Peary took from him on his way back to safety. There are other matters in connection with the Peary expedition all but as discreditable as others in connection with Cook's expedition. And now that we have heard from Captain Bernier, that his courage has declined in no way from his hardship experiences in the Far North, we are glad to see that the Canadian Government has rallied to his support by providing the means for fitting out another expedition under his superintendency to solve the Problem beyond per-adventure.

DIME NOVEL HERO BEAT LITTLE CHILDREN INTO INSENSIBILITY

St. John, N.B., May 26.—The police this morning made a sensational arrest of the boy fiend who has been torturing children in this vicinity for the past few weeks. He is Charles McLaughlin, 16 years of age, and he was arrested in his home after he had jumped from a high window in his attempt to escape. The boy was positively identified by the children he ill-treated. No case for a long time has created such a sensation as this one.

McLaughlin, who is a dime novel fiend, approached little children on the street, and by the promise of candy, would induce them to accompany him to secluded places and then would strip the children and beat them almost into insensibility.

"Isle of Jewels" a Success.

The "Isle of Jewels," at the Conservatory of Music last night reflected great credit upon the cast, and Mr. R. Gliddon. The pretty operetta rendered by 150 children, and the principals was tuneful and prettily staged. Mr. Gliddon has done as much as any man Peterborough has had in many years to inculcate a general taste for high grade music. Under his efficient management the local Conservatory of Music has risen to a most desirable place among other similar institutions of the Dominion. The attendance was good.

Make Foreigners Earn Franchise

Brantford, May 26.—It is the general expectation that Dr. Sproule will again be elected Grand Master of the Sovereign Grand Lodge. Yesterday he declared his desire to retire, but the feeling is that he will be persuaded to remain in office another year.

A resolution will be presented for the appointment of a committee to prepare a report on the question of enfranchising foreigners before they are qualified by education and a knowledge of our system of government.

It is expected also that a committee will be appointed to formulate a political platform to be submitted next year.

The grand master's references to the bi-lingual schools of Eastern Ontario, have excited the attention of the delegates and a strong resolution on the question is expected.

The King's accession oath will be dealt with by the Correspondence Committee, which will doubtless take a strong stand in favor of the present wording of the oath.

CHILDREN'S CHEST TROUBLES.

Nurse Carrington Says Her Long Experience Proves the Safest Remedy Is to RUB ON NERVILINE!

Every mother knows how difficult it is to get a young child to take a cough mixture. Seldom will one help unless given in large doses, and the result is to completely upset the stomach and make the child sick.

Speaking of the promptest cure for chest troubles and children's colds, Nurse Carrington says: "In all my experience in nursing I haven't met any preparation so dependable as Nerviline. It is the ideal liniment. Every drop you rub on is absorbed quickly, sinks through the pores to the congested muscles, eases, relieves and cures quickly. Especially for chest colds, pain in the side, stiff neck, earache, toothache, I have found Nerviline invaluable. In treating the minor ills of children Nerviline has no equal. I think Nerviline should be in every home."

A million bottles of Nerviline used every year—this is itself a burden of proof that it is the ideal liniment for the home. Refuse anything your dealer may offer instead of Nerviline. Large bottles 25c., five for $1.00. Sold everywhere, and by the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

WAR AND PEACE.

"The Valor of Ignorance," is perhaps, the most frankly militarist work ever written on this continent. The author, long an officer in the United States Army, has undertaken the difficult task of convincing his fellow-countrymen that their sense of security is based on their blindness to threatening dangers. He seeks to show that in the last 3,400 years the world has known only 234 years of peace; that each nation's periods of greatness have coincided with its seasons of military prowess, that the boundaries of great powers are never stationary, and that unless the United States prepares to defend itself, it must sooner or later be overcome by the new aggressive power of the Pacific—Japan.

According to Mr. Lea, the nation wholly given to industrialism values the means rather than the end of existence, thus resembling the glutton who lives merely to eat. In the United States the sturdy patriotism of the former days is declared to have given place to pessimism and mawkish sentimentalism. Americans, he says, boast of military feats that never occurred. Their own self-deception as to the country's military strength increases as rapidly as its actual military efficiency declines. In the Civil War "one man out of ever twelve who enlisted was a deserter. The Union Army lost nearly four times as many men by desertion as were killed on the field. It will be well for the people to think of this when the braggart spirit steals upon them."

These are hard words, and the author proceeds to speak of his own country as drunk with vanity and ignorance. According to him, excessive wealth, luxury and feminism are playing the devil with the national character. Across the Pacific a few years since a little people of warlike tendencies rose up suddenly and conquered two of the vastest and vainest of the earth's empires. He regards all progressive nations as necessarily antagonistic to one another. In a small world their lives converge till they come into conflict. In view of these considerations, Mr. Lea thinks it wrong that standing armies should be regarded as a menace to the world's quietude. He holds that it is only due to the formation of permanent military forces that the intervals of peace have been lengthened. Modern civilization began with the invention of gunpowder, the discovery of explosives facilitated the creation of armaments under the shelter of which the arts and sciences have flourished. When all men are liable to the calls of war no continuity marked the pursuit of peaceful industry. Now a specially-trained soldiery does the fighting in each well-defended community and the great majority of citizens are free to prosecute their peaceful labors in security. Thus the complete segregation of the militant from the industrial forces is held to have facilitated greatly the onward march of civilization. The consolidation of small, weak States into powerful well-defended empires has materially lessened the frequency of wars. According to this theory, the maintenance of efficient defence forces will be the price of peace until the time comes for world-wide disarmament by the common consent of all nations. And even then, a powerful international force will have to be kept up for police purposes.

MR. CARNEGIE'S OVERFED HERO COMMISSION.

When Mr. Andrew Carnegie established his hero fund commission he assumed that the supply of heroes would measure up with the supply of dollars. If we may credit recent advices, his optimistic anticipations are in danger of blight. There is more money than there is heroism.

Perhaps a fairer statement would prevent the income from piling up. be that the commission is so heavily endowed that it cannot spend its income in hero prizes and is obliged to resort to all sorts of measures to Thus the commission made a large donation to San Francisco at the time of the earthquake. It has created pensions that appear to have basis in heroism. It has diverted a large sum to the Pittsburg Technical School, which had no right to look for such a gift. And it has just moved in hand-some new quarters at a considerable and unnecessary expense. The fund, in fact, is moneysodden; it needs its Carlsbad. Overfeeding is as bad as underfeeding. To be glutted is as undesirable as to be famished.

The specter of wise expenditure still rises to comfort and confuse the millionaire. Perhaps it is too much to hope that wholesale wealth shall be able to distribute itself on the retail plan. Yet it may be that if the broad, impersonal methods of delegated agents were supplanted by the would-be benefactor's sympathetic attention to individuals, conspicuous results, in one field or another, might ensue. Mr. Carnegie might even find—or make—heroes to match his money.

The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its marvellous curative properties. Tight, tickling, or distressing coughs, quickly yield to the healing, soothing action of this splendid prescription.—Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so safe and good for children as well. Containing no opium, chloroform or other harmful drugs, mothers should in safety always demand Dr. Shoop's. If other remedies are offered, tell them no! Be your own judge! Sold by all dealers.

PLOT TO KILL KING MANUEL.

The Spanish Monarch Also Marked for Death by Anarchists.

Madrid, May 25.—Secret warnings have been sent to the government officials at Lisbon that an attempt on the life of King Manuel is likely to be made upon his return from London. The Spanish police in tracing the details of the widespread anarchist plot for a campaign of terror, find not only King Manuel and King Alfonso marked for death, but members of their governments as well. It is believed that the conspiracy intends no farther than the Iberian Peninsula, but secret officials of other governments are co-operating in the work of ferreting out the conspiracy. It is reported that several have been secretly arrested here, and there are even hints that the conspiracy extends to army circles.

The scheme embraces a general uprising on the Iberian Peninsula, with out regard of national boundaries, according to the facts already learned.

Only England's position as a political refuge prevented attempts on Alfonso and Manuel in London during the obsequies over King Edward.

It was on advices sent from here, however, that the Paris police, upon the arrival of Manual there yesterday, took extraordinary precautions to guard the Portuguese monarch.

A SYSTEMATIC PLAN.

While no specific statement has yet been made as to the connection of Taiscolli, the victim of Monday's bomb outrage here, with the plot, it is considered certain that he was one of the important figures in what is regarded as the most systematic plan arranged by the anarchists in years.

Knowledge of the imminence of an outbreak is said to have been responsible for the fear displayed by King Manuel while in London.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Chapter 28

DARK was falling keen and cool, for frost was in the air, touching the fall foliage on the hills to crimson and amber and etching delicate boar tracery on the spidery framework of the long black railroad bridge that hung above "the hole." The warning light from a signal post threw a crimson splash on the ground. Its green pane cast a pallor on a bearded face turned out over the gloomy water.

"It was here," he said aloud. He stood a moment, his hands clinched. "The new life began here. Here, then, is where the old life ended." From where he stood he could see blossoming the yellow lights of the little city, five miles away. He set his shoulders, whistled to the small dog that nosed near by and set off at a quick pace down the road.

Once in the streets he turned up his coat collar and settled the brim of his felt hat more closely over his eyes. He crossed an open square and presently came to the gate of a Gothic chapel set well back from the street. Its great rose window was alight, for on this evening was to be held a memorial service for the old man whose money had built the pile, who had died a fortnight before in a distant sanitarium.

He turned at the sound of wheels, and the blur shocked itself apart to reveal a kindly face that looked at him for an instant framed in the window of a passing carriage. Inside the carriage Bishop Ludlow settled back, with a sigh. "Only a face on the pavement," he said to his wife, "but it reminded me somehow of Harry Sanderson."

"How strange it is," she said—the bishop had no secrets from his wife—"never a word or a sign, and everything in his study just as he left it. What can you do, John? It is four months ago now, and the parish needs a rector."

He did not reply for a moment. The question touched the trouble that was ever present in his mind.

"I know," he said at length. "I may have failed in my whole duty, but I haven't known how to tell David Stires, especially since we heard of his illness. I had written to him—the whole story. The ink was not dry on the paper when the letter came from Jessica telling us of his death."

Behind them as they talked the man on the pavement was walking on feverishly, the dog following with a reluctant whine.

At last he came to a wide, dark lawn set thick with copse clustering about a white house. He hesitated a moment, then walked slowly up the broad, weed-grown garden path toward the porch. In the half light the massive silver door plate stood out clearly. He had known instinctively that that house had been a part of his life, and yet a tremor caught him as he read the name—Stires. The intuition that had beat his steps from the street, the old stirring of dead memory had brought him to his past at last. This house had been his home!

He started. A man in his shirt sleeves was standing by a half open side door regarding him narrowly.

"Thinking of buying?" The query was good humoredly satiric. "Or maybe just looking the old ranch over with a view to a shakedown?"

The trespasser smiled grimly. It was not the first time he had seen that weather beaten face. "You have given up surgery as a profession, I see," he said.

The other came nearer, looked at him in a puzzled way, then laughed.

"If it isn't the cove we picked up on the railroad track," he said, "dog and all! I thought you were far down the coast, where it's warmer. Nothing much doing with you, eh?"

"Nothing much," answered the man he addressed. Others might recognize him as the black sheep, but this nondescript watchman whom chance had set here could not. He knew him only as the dingy vagabond whose broken head he had bandaged in the box car.

"I'm in better luck," went on the man in shirt sleeves. "I struck this about two months ago as gardener first, and now I'm a kind of a sort of a watchman. They gave me a bunk in the summer house there"—he jerked his thumb backward over his shoulder—"and I'm to be continued.

"It was here," he said aloud.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity?
Will you tell some sick friend of this remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "If it absolutely and unconditionally fails it is safe."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of those vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought those nerves back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the source of these ailments—the failing, faltering inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When those nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the suffering sick, "If my prescription for Pain in Back fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, when maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same identical "no help, no pay" preventive plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me just as your own home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some matters at issue. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the message to some sick friend.

A postal will bring the opportunity.

I will have an honest and trustworthy drug clerk to whom you can conveniently go for the test.

Then first, ask me for the order, for all true ones are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So write me now and save all delay. Remember that tomorrow never comes. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Sore Feet and Chafed Places.

"Zam-Buk" is best for chafed places, sore feet, or inflammed patches, caused by friction. For babies' sensitive skins it is especially adapted, because it is of purely herbal composition. Don't apply to the delicate skin of your children, either for cuts, sores or skin diseases, the crude salves made up from rancid animal oils and fats, with mineral coloring and scented matter to hide their unpleasant appearance and odor! Remember that whatever gets into the pores, gets into the blood. Stick to nature, and pure natural products. Zam-Buk is nature's own healer, and is, therefore, not only superior in purity, but also in strength. Cures where other things fail. Use it, also, for piles, festering sores, varicose ulcers, cuts, burns, and every-day injuries. Every home needs it!

LA TUQUE.

The railroad towns of rapid growth are not in the West alone. La Tuque, on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, 127 miles from Quebec, is a wonderful example of this. Two years ago there was not a house there. To-day, there is a handsome well laid out, well built town with two churches, a school, a bank, a sulphite pulp mill, two saw mills, some very fine stores and a resident population of about 2000. The Quebec Bank opened a branch there a few weeks ago, and in a very few days had $7,000 on deposit. La Tuque is a divisional point on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and will have the shops for that division It is also the terminus of the Tuque branch of the Lake St. John division of the Canadian Northern Railway, and the head of navigation of the river St. Maurice, which is navigable for steamers for seventy miles from La Tuque southward to Grand Piles.

But the principal advantage of La Tuque is its water power. The river St. Maurice, at this point, a magnificent stream half a mile wide, falls ninety feet, making available for industries no less than ninety thousand horse power. This is only partially developed, but already the Messrs. Brown of Berlin, N. H., the owners of the power, have built one of the largest sulphite mills in America, and in a few days will be producing sixty tons of sulphite pulp daily and a paper mill will follow in the near future. These two industries will use only a very small portion of the power, so that there will, no doubt, be many other industries established, which will make of La Tuque a flourishing industrial town. A large flour mill is spoken of to grind up the wheat to be brought from Manitoba and Alberta by the Grand Trunk Pacific, and as the level grades (four tenths of that road will carry grain at rates with which the canal navigation cannot compete, this should be an ideal spot for such an industry on a large scale, as it is also in close proximity to the ocean steamers at Quebec La Tuque is evidently destined to be one of the most important manufacturing towns in Northern Quebec.

The First Gold Rush.

The voyage of the argonauts, the date of which is uncertain, was professedly a rush for gold, to be collected in fleeces placed in the torrents flowing down the flanks of Mount Caucasus. But older much was the westward movement, which Chaldean records of 2800 B. C. chronicle, to the gold bearing land of Mashikha, afterward known as Midian.

Later on, but still at a very early period, there was a rush from Egypt to a spot inland from the present Sofala. Long afterward this was described by Diodorus Siculus, who left a map, still extant, showing the wells provided for the gold seekers between the Red sea and the mines.

About 1000 B. C. there seems to have been another rush of miners in search of gold into South Africa. Its numbers can only be guessed at from the extensive remains that still exist, but it has been calculated that at least $250,000,000 was secured by these early adventurers.

In modern times the first rush was that to California in 1849-0.

Sea Birds.

Taking the sea birds all round, they are far more careless in their nesting than their cousins inland. The terns, the skua, the puffins, the black throated diver, the guillemot, make no nests, properly so-called. The puffin, however, usually borrows a rabbit burrow and is not particular whether its original owners have done with their house or not. If they interfere or even try to pass a peck from the puffin's great parrot shaped bill is enough to warn them against making the experiment a second time. The auks are birds of the northern seas and are perhaps the finest divers of any feathered things. Their short wings look, in fact, far more like fins than wings, and, unlike gulls, the auks catch their prey beneath the surface. The auk's selection of a spot to lay her eggs is eccentric to a degree. She chooses a bare, broken ledge of hard rock overhanging the waves. It looks as though it were a feat to balance eggs in such a place, and the marvel is that the first gale does not send them rolling over the crags.—Boston Herald.

Homing Pigeons.

The average speed of a homing pigeon in calm weather is 1,210 yards a minute. With a strong wind in the direction of flight some pigeons have made 1,980 yards, or considerably more than a mile a minute.

Must Get Permission.

One of the bylaws of a cottage hospital in Wales reads thus: "No patient shall curse or swear or use any indecent or abusive language, nor shall play at cards or dice, nor smoke within the infirmary without the authority of the medical officer and at certain hours."

THE WEALTH OF CALIFORNIA OIL FIELDS GREATER THAN THE YUKON

Coalinga, California, The Centre of Operations

Enormous Yields--Fabulous Profits

Men With Small Holdings Become Independent

So great is the wealth of the oil fields of Coalinga that in the year 1909 this limited area of country produced 15,324,374 barrels of oil from 554 wells. This at the present price of oil, 65 cents per barrel at the well, aggregates the grand total of $9,857,19. 1910 promises to be double as much.

When such eminent experts as Messrs. Ralph Arnold and Robert Anderson, for many years in the employ of the Geological Survey Department of the United States Government in Bulletin No. 398 describe the Coalinga District as an exceptionally rich oil field, and limited in area to 50 miles in length by 15 miles in width. Of this stretch of country but 20 miles in length and 4 miles in width comprises the proven oil zone. These authorities estimate in the underground reservoirs of these proven fields that there are 2,737,000,000 barrels of oil yet to be extracted.

This means that all the present working wells, together with a similar amount of new wells to be brought in, could not pump out this great reservoir of oil inside of a couple of hundred years.

The property controlled by this Company, The Coalinga-Eureka Oil Company, is situated in Section 24, Township 21, Range 14 E., and consists of 80 acres, in the very heart of the proven oil zone, and is adjacent to such great oil producing properties as the Lucile, Silver Tip, Amy, Aladdin, The Consolidated The Boychester, Marian, etc. In fact our property is surrounded by producing wells which have paid enormous dividends to their shareholders, and whose stock is quoted upon the open market at many times par value. Just think of the daily production of the properties that completely surround that controlled by this Company, averages from 400 to 1,000 barrels.

It is safe, therefore to predict that our property will do at least as much per day as the former figure.

The ground controlled by this corporation is sufficient in extent to accommodate 56 wells. This would be seven wells to each 10 acres.

Figuring, therefore, that we get 400 barrels per day as a maximum, 200 barrels per day as a minimum, from 56 wells, we would be able to pump 11,200 barrels per day, or 332,000 barrels per month, which at the present price would give the shareholders a gross income of $2,469,600 per year, deducting from this the operating expenses of, say, 10 per cent, $246,960 and the Company will still have a net income of $2,222,640 to be distributed in dividends. This represents a yearly dividend of $4.44 for each and every share of stock on the whole capitalization (500,000 shares, or a monthy dividend of 37 cents per share.

Such a financial condition would mean that every shareholder even though he were possessed of but 500 shares would in the course of a year or so be provided with a competency for life.

Development work on the Company's property is being rushed forward on Well No. 1. It is expected that a rich flow of oil will be struck at from 1,000 to 1,500 feet. This means quick returns on the immediate investment.

The first well should be brought in inside of 90 days. This will raise stock to par, or above par, consequently the Company will not place on sale, after the 28th of May, but a small block of stock which will be 35 cents per share. The present lot of stock at 25 cents per share is almost all taken up.

We, therefore, urge upon the readers of this publication, not to delay in writing and mailing their order for stock, until after they have wired their reservation; even then we cannot guarantee a delivery since the 50,000 shares to be sold at 25 cents will, in all probability, be oversubscribed by Saturday, May 28.

However, since you are at liberty to send your wire charges collect at this end, don't hesitate to wire your reservation (not less, however, than 100 shares) immediately, after reading this announcement, then send your remittance by first mail. Have your wire read as follows:—

"The Coalinga-Eureka Oil Company,
"Selkirk Block, 135 Hastings Street,
"West, Vancouver, B. C.—Reserve for me
".....shares in your Company,
"mailing payment to-day."

We will allot shares in rotation of receipt of applications.

Every Director in our Company has acquired large holdings.

Those who have visited the property have not hesitated to stake their last dollar. All who are acquainted with such men as S. E. Tucker, E. W. Preston and A. C. Elliott, oil experts, have bought heavily of shares of this Company after reading the reports of these gentlemen on our property. In each instance these oil experts have irretrievably and unconditionally endorsed The Coalinga-Eureka Oil Company's property as being one of the greatest, one of the most promising oil properties in the Coalinga fields. S. E. Tucker, himself says:—

"You may strike a gusher in your "first well of several thousand barrels per "day. Regarding this I will not speak "definitely, but I will stake my reputa- "tion as an oil expert, and after many "years of acquaintance and knowledge of "the Coalinga Oil fields, that your prop- "erty will produce wells which will give "up enormous quantities of high grade "oil. Your stock should be worth, and "sell for par when you bring in your first "well which should be in about 90 days' "time."

Sit down at once and write your telegram and remit by first mail, making your cheque, draft, express order or money order payable to the Trustee of the Company, George L. Taschereau. Where all cash is remitted, a certificate will be issued at once. Remember, the shares of this Company are non-assessable, so that when you pay your 25 cents, you receive a certificate for fully paid-up stock.

We advise our most intimate friends not to buy less than 200 shares, since they may sell 100 shares when the price is 50 cents, retaing the other 100 shares absolutely free of cost to themselves, since they purchased the whole at 25 cents per share.

Never again will this opportunity present itself to you. You have the assurance of men who know, men who are on the ground, that the stock will be worth par in 90 days, and the par value of each share is $1.00. We have every reason to believe that before this year 1910 comes to a close, Coalinga-Eureka stock will be worth $3 to $4.00 from the fact we should have three to four wells in operation.

Bear in mind that the price of the share in this Company will be advanced at six o'clock p. m., May 28th, to 35 cents per share.

Prospectus and fuller particulars will be furnished at the office of

The Coalinga-Eueka Oil Company,

The following T.A.S. players are requested to be at Riverside Park at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon for their game with the P.A.C.:—Quinlan, Flaherty, McFadden, Cahill, Callaghan, J. Corkery, Giroux, O'Brien, Doherty, V. Corbery, Derocher, Clancy, Kennally.

John D. Rockefeller would go broke if he should spend his entire income trying to prepare a better medicine than Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is simply impossible, and so says every one that has used it. Sold by all dealers.

Pure Ice Cream.

We have much pleasure in announcing that the Peterborough Lunch, 230 George street, are buying their entire ice cream supplies from the Toronto City Dairy Co., and will have daily shipments during the ice cream season.

All flavors of ice cream will be kept constantly on hand, including cream bricks and cones. The City Dairy Co., is well known as makers of a high grade ice cream, and the public is cordially invited to call at the Peterborough Lunch for a good high grade pure ice cream.

Things Lively at Chemong Park.

Everything seems to point to a busy season this summer at Chemong Park. Among those who have opened their cottages are: Messrs. C. McClelland, H. Hopwood, L. M. Hopkins, K.C.; E. Rutherford, George Hutchinson, W. H. Hill, J. D. Tully, Mr. Wells, G. M. Fonham and W. R. Hartshorn. Mr. Houghton of New York, is building a summer cottage on the Hollingshead lot, next to Mr. T. P. Matthews' cottage. Arrangements for the regatta will be completed when a meeting of the yacht club is called.

The water is low for this time of year at Chemong Lake.

THE WEATHER.

A little warmer.

Lavinia Hallihan's Benefit Concert was a Great Success

Grand Opera House Crowded by a Audience That Thoroughly Enjoyed the Splendid Program

The complimentary concert given last night by the citizens of Peterborough to Miss Lavina Hallihan, was an unqualified success in every way. The opera house was filled to the doors, thus testifying to the high regard in which Miss Hallihan is held by the citizens generally.

The program was one of the best ever presented to a Peterborough audience, and will long be remembered by all lovers of music who were fortunate enough to be present and enjoy it.

Miss Hallihan received an ovation on her appearance and was recalled several times. Her singing was well nigh perfect, her notes being full and clear and her words distinct. Miss Hallihan sings in a sweet soprano with a pitch easily taking in the note "high C."

Miss Helen Davies and Miss C. Reesor were also accorded a splendid reception, and received recalls.

Mr. P. Redfern Hollinshead of Toronto, sang in his usual good form, and was encored.

Mr. Racey Kilmer fairly took the house by storm. His splendid voice with its rich mellow tones, resounding through every part of the house, inducing a spontaneous applause.

Miss McGill of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music, rendered piano solos that indicate that this young lady has within her grasp great opportunities for a successful musical future.

Mr. Hughes on the cornet, gave a solo that was in keeping with his well established local reputation.

Miss Pringle and Miss Reesor each delighted the audience with vocal solos.

In the absence of his Honor Judge Huycke, the chairman of the evening introduced Miss Hallihan to the audience in a few well chosen words. Miss Hallihan with becoming modesty received the complimentary introduction. It is understood that Miss Hallihan will, within the next few weeks, leave Peterborough for either New York or to one of the noted German musical centers to receive a more extended vocal training.

The committee in charge of last night's concert was as follows:

Chairman — His Honor Judge Huycke.

Honorary Committee—Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., Mayor Morrow, Rev. W. J. McColl, D. O'Connell, H. R. H. Kenner, R. R. Hall, John Crane, F. R. Yokome, P. H. Dobbin, W. H. Robertson, E. G. Patterson, W. H. Benham, Alex. Elliott and L. M. Hayes.

Executive Committee—Messrs. Macfarlane Wilson, R. Gliddon, R. J. Deyes, W. Rudkins, J. J. Duffus.

Secretary—F. D. Kerr.

Treasurer—Wm. McIlroy.

Woman Caught Thief Took Him to Station

Hamilton, May 27.—While several hundred passengers on the Macassa cheered her, Mrs. Charles Carver, holding a thief by the collar, marched him off the boat and up James street to police headquarters. The prisoner was William Bell, who stole a valuable coat from a boarder at Mrs. Carver's house.

Mrs. Carver has more cobfidence in her own ability as a detective than she has in professional sleuths. When she discovered the theft she made a flying visit to the railway station, and then reached the boat just as it was about to leave for Toronto. The The captain held it a few minutes while she made her search. She located Bell in a crowd of people, and promptly collared him.

Bell got a four months' sentence today.

Mrs. Ferguson Seeks Divorce---Was Married in Peterborough

Reno, Nev., May 27.—Mrs. Harriet Ferguson, wife of John Howard Ferguson, head of a Toronto, Canada, banking concern, has filed suit for divorce on the grounds of cruelty. The couple were married in Peterborough, Ontario, in 1901. They separated a year ago.

Mrs. Ferguson and her nine-year-old daughter, Hester, occupied a cottage since coming to Reno. No mention of alimony is made, and it is said that the husband will not contest the suit.

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

Harvey Windover of Cavendish Now Has Two Sentences Hanging Over Him.

It will be remembered by readers of The Times that Harvey Windover of the township of Harvey, after having been arrested at the home of Nelson Windover, in Cavendish, on Friday evening, May 13th, on complaint of Nelson Windover, and after putting up a fight with Constable Dickson, was held over on reserved judgment by Magistrate Edmison. This charge was for pointing a revolver at the person of N. Windover's wife. Yesterday morning he was again on trial, this time for assaulting the constable who arrested him.

Mr. Gordon appeared for the prisoner, who pleaded "not guilty." Constable Dickson told how he and his confrere, Montgomery, when arresting Windover, had met with resistance from the prisoner. Judgment was again reserved.

IT HAS BEEN DECIDED THAT OUR NAVY SHALL BE MADE IN THE DOMINION.

Ottawa, May 27.—Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, was sworn in this morning on his return to his office after five months' absence.

Seen by a newspaper representative he said he felt much improved in health. He said that announcements may be made very soon as to the organization of the Navy Department. He said he could not discuss the rumor that Mr. George Desbarats, at present deputy minister of Marine and Fisheries, is to be deputy of Naval Defence.

Our ships, he said, are to be built in Canada, but whether they will all be built on one coast, or two ship yards constructed, he could not say. In time, he said, the government might, perhaps, undertake the manufacture of the guns for the navy. Meanwhile, they will probably be purchased abroad.

Many mixtures are offered as substitutes for Royal.
None of them is the same in composition or effectiveness, so wholesome and economical, nor will make such fine food.

British Warships Hasten to Assist Wrecked Submarine

French Vessel Lies at Bottom of English Channel---Cannot be Raised for Three Days—No Hope for Crew

Paris, May 27.—Official announcement was made this afternoon that the submarine Pluviose could not be raised for three days. All hope for the twenty-seven men on her have been abandoned.

IN PATH OF CURRENT.

Calais, May 27.—A hawser was attached by divers to the submarine Pluviose late this afternoon. The wrecked craft then lay in seventy-two feet of water, in the path of a terrific current.

BEYOND VIEW OF DIVERS.

Calais, May 27.—Later this afternoon the Pluviose was lifted from her mud bed by the swift undercurrent and swept from the view of the divers, who were not able to again locate her.

Dover, Eng., May 27.—British warships were today ordered to the assistance of the French crews working to raise the submarine Pluviose. Excitement here over the accident is intense.

The packet Pas de Calais, which struck the submarine, is the object of much criticism in marine circles, it being reported that the boat she put off did little to help aid the stricken submarine.

Calais, France, May 27. — The French submarine, Pluviose, lies in thirty fathoms of water in the English Channel, with her crew trapped inside. The cross-channel steamer, Pas de Calais, bound from Dover with a crowd of passengers struck her, and before a life boat which was launched from the larger craft could be of any assistance, she turned over and sank.

Accounts of the cause of the accident differ. Admiral Fournier thinks that the submarine tried to pass beneath the vessel, while other officers are of the opinion that the Pluviose came up directly under the ship's paddle wheel.

Signals from the Calais brought two tugs and a torpedo boat destroyer to the scene and later a wrecking vessel came, and soon divers were going down. A current balked the divers and it is feared that the delay has proved fatal. They were able to go down only part of the way to the submarine, so deep is the water in which she lies.

Fatal Political Riot, Redmondites Clash with O'Brien's Friends

Dublin, May 27.—One man was killed by the police in a terrific political riot at Newmarket, County of Cork, late yesterday.

Opposing factions clashed and for more than an hour a pitched battle raged on the streets and in houses, twoscore participants being seriously injured.

The divisions of the mob attacked houses occupied by their opponents' leaders, wrecking several.

The police were unable to check the disorder until they resorted to fire arms. They fired into the mob and at the first volley a man named Regan fell shot in the head, and several others were wounded.

June 3rd will Not be Public or Bank Holiday

Toronto, May 27.—June 3rd, the birthday of King George V., will not be a bank holiday this year.

As the law governing chartered banks require that the birthday of the reigning monarch shall be considered a bank holiday, and as the local managers did not know of King George's proclamation, they did not know whether to close or not on June 3rd. The first birthday of the late King Edward VII., after his accession to the throne, was a bank holiday, but after that he expressed his desire that May 24th, or the birthday of his mother, Queen Victoria, should be observed instead of his own.

Y. M. C. A. DAY.

Addresses To Be Made in Many of the City Churches Tomorrow.

The churches of Peterborough will observe Sunday the 29th, as Y.M.C.A. Sunday and in all but two cases the pulpits will be occupied by association men. These two exceptions have made other arrangements which could not be set aside.

The plan is to have one speaker in each of the churches at one service to present the work of the association with the object of winning the church-going people to a more hearty support of the local Y.M.C.A.

There will be four well known association men from out of town and these will be assisted by some of the local men.

The assignment of speakers will be as follows:

Mr. C. M. Copeland, General Secretary of Provincial Committee, in Murray Street Baptist in the morning, and at St. Andrew's in the evening. Mr. R. B. Neiles, General Secretary, Ottawa, in George Street Methodist church in the morning, and in St. Paul's in the evening. Mr. J. J. MacLeod, Physical Director, Toronto, in St. Andrew's in the morning, and Knox in the evening. G. J. Bell, Toronto, in St. John's church in the morning, and in All Saints' in the evening. Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr., in St. Luke's in the evening. Mr. J. J. Thompson, Physical Director, in Mark Street Methodist in the morning, and in Park Street Baptist in the evening.

THE IMPERIAL BANK.

Probably one of the most satisfactory bank statements ever presented by the management to the shareholders was the one just laid before the owners of the Imperial Bank, at the 36th annual meeting, held on Wednesday last. President Wilkie was sparing in his comments on the results of the bank's operations during the last financial period. He preferred to have the figures speak for themselves, and they tell a story of a more than usually satisfactory year's business. The net profits, which amounted to $702,588, might have been dwelt upon by the President with pardonable pride.

That the bank's business is growing with the country is shown in a marked way by the increase in capital, the outlay upon premises and the addition to the number of branches, as well as by the expansion under the heads of the deposits and circulation. In his reference to the recent increase in the issued capital of the bank by $1,000,000, Mr. Wilkie shows a commendable desire to have the bank give up to its full responsibilities as an agency for the service of the public and for the development of the country. There can be no question, he says, that additional bank capital to keep pace with this development of the resources of the country is needed. He considers it an obligation on the older institutions like his own bank to provide for the growing necessities of this expanding country.

In the scattering of misstatements to the needs of commercial business the Imperial Bank is not open to criticism. While its own affairs are most carefully conducted in accordance with the soundest principles of banking full recognition has been given to the claims of public interest. Additions have been made to its capital from time to time and the institution is always kept in a state of readiness to respond to the legitimate requirements of all with whom it does business. This policy adopted in its management is a happy combination of conservatism and progressiveness and a successful harmonizing of the public and private interests concerned.

FROM THE SMITHVILLE TRUMPET.

Uncle Tom's Cabin was played in the Town Hall last Monday night. There were eight in the company, including the Siberian bloodhounds. We admire the versatility of the young lady who played both Little Eva and Simon Legree. We ourselves are versatile. Upon occasions we have been an eminent editor and a wood sawyer at one and the same time.

The LIME JUICE CLUB

A Long Way After the Lime Kiln Club

As usual the Hall of Wisdom was filled to overflowing last night. The president's gavel rang out just as the town clock was tolling the hour of eight, and in less than ten minutes the regular meeting of the Lime Juice Club was open for business.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A letter was received from Bro. Threeply Wilson of Warsaw, giving information that Daylight Smith, an honorary member of this club, was telling fortunes and advertising to cure all kinds of diseases by the laying on of hands, and in order to do business was making many people believe that they were sick.

"When members are sick a straight out dose by a straight out doctor will either cure or kill," said the president. We can't countenance a member imposing on human nature by pawing around at fifty cents a paw. As for the business of telling fortunes, we can all guess close enough to the future to keep an extra vest buckle where we can find it any time the old one gives out."

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS.

"Before we begin our regular business," continued the president, as he stuck Bro. Fair's plug hat in the broken window pane to keep out the night air, "I will say a few words to you on a general subject. What I was going to remark was that the person who expects to enjoy this life must make up his mind to strike the world on the average. He who neglects to do so will meet with daily sorrows and disappointments. Don't expect that the man who happens to agree with you on the weather is certain to agree with you on politics, will feel bound to accept your kind of religion. The fact that you lend your neighbor a shovel don't bind him to lend you his wheelbarrow. He who looks for honesty where he finds grey hairs will be as sadly disappointed as he who argues that an old coat is the sign of a thief or a beggar. Put faith in human nature, and yet be ever ready to doubt. I expect to meet many mean men in the course of a year. I expect that the summer will be warm and the winter will be cold. I expect to have chilblains in December and shakes and ague in April. I expect that a certain per cent. of this world's population will lie to me, steal my cabbages, throw stones at my dog, and hit me with a brickbat as I go home from lodge. I also expect, when I go to Bro. Jimmy Lewis's for a shave, to be compelled to listen to a vast amount of subdued eloquence, on the other hand, when I come to strike the average, I can put my hand on men who will lend me money, go on my bond, speak well of me, and sit up all night to protect me. No man is perfect. He may strike you as very good or very bad, but don't decide till you average him up. He may beat Paddy Carroll out of a drink and yet be honest with a butcher. He may crawl under a canvass to see a circus and yet pay his pew rent in advance. He may lie to you as to how he voted, and yet tell the truth about a spavined horse. He may cuss on the street and yet be a tender father. He may encourage a dog fight and yet walk a mile to restore a lost child to its parents. Accept no man for his fine talk; reject no man for his old clothes; stand him out in the sunlight and average him. You will be certain to find something bad about him, but you will also be certain to find something good. Let the regular business now proceed." (Wild applause all over the hall.)

IN CASE OF FIRE.

Chief Howard of the Fire Brigade, desired to call attention of the president to the fact that the only means of egress from the Hall of Wisdom was by a single door which opened int o the building in case of opened into the building. In case of fire a calamity might occur which would fill hundreds of homes with wails and lamentations.

The president has had that fact in mind for the past six months," replied Sir Richard, "and now that the question has been called up. I deem it my duty to arrange a program to prevent accidents. In case the janitor puts a stick in the stove that has been loaded with powder, or some of those lamps explode, our first duty will be to extinguish the flames. In case of failure I will walk out of the hall first, followed by Prof. Giveadam Slabs, Cripes Mulcahey and Tiedup Garley, at regular intervals. The rest of you can follow on in single file, and I figure that not a coat tail will be singed. My reason for going first is that I may see the fire engine when it arrives, and tell the men where to throw the water to keep the safe from heating its contents."

THE JANITOR.

Pile Driver Riley, the janitor, submitted a bill for extras, amounting to 43 cents, and attempted to make a speech defending the dog bylaw, but his bill was cut down to 17 cents, his speech sat down on and he fell over three dogs on his way out.

POSTPONED.

Brother Anvil Davis, who was to deliver an address on "What I know about the oyster," stated that he would be unable to do much talking owing to the condition of his throat. Three or four days ago he was advised to hold a brass button in his mouth to cure the earache. In whistling for his dog he swallowed the button and it will be some time before he gets over the strain. The lecture would therefore have to be postponed.

A VISITOR.

Cripes Mulcahey having made known that the Hon. Dolittle Evans of Lakefield, had arrived at the hall, from the depot, was despatched to greet him and bring him in. Mr. Evans is a gentleman of fine education and liberal views, and is now seeking to stir up the people on the subject of discovering the East and West poles, leaving the North and South to be found by other people. In his brief speech to the club he stated his belief that an open sea existed around the West pole, a sea whose waters were as transparent as a meadow, and tasting like gin and sugar with nutmeg thrown in. The bank which entered the sea would pass over beds of purest coral be surrounded by mermaids, move in air of choicest flowers, and be certain to return laden with diamonds rubies and pearls. Mr. Evans was so inviting said to enable him to charter a vessel and buy provisions, and if had been his idea from the first to invite at least two members of the Lime Juice Club to accompany the ship. He left a subscription paper on the secretary's desk, and in less than an hour and a half the following amounts were subscribed:

Anvil McCann	2c.
Cautious Martin	1c.
Tiedup Garley	1c.

THE CLOSE.

The keeper of the Sacred relics reported that the busts of Pontius Pilate and Julius Caesar were in good order, the janitor was instructed to give the stone pipes two coats of paint during the week, and the meeting softly adjourned.

COLD ON THE CHEST.

Had Suffered for Weeks—Used Fourteen Different Remedies Without Effect.

No stronger proof of the wonderful merit of Nerviline could be produced than the letter of Miss Lucy Mosher, who for years has been a well-known resident of Windsor, N.S.

"I want to add my unsolicited testimonial to the efficacy of your wonderful liniment. "Nerviline," I consider it the best remedy for a cold sore throat, wheezing tightness in the chest, etc., and can state that for years our home has never been without Nerviline. I had a dreadful attack of cold that settled on my chest, that fourteen different remedies couldn't break up. I rubbed on Nerviline three times a day, used Nerviline as a gargle, and was completely restored. I have induced dozens of my friends to use Nerviline, and they are all delighted with its wonderful power over pain and sickness.

"You are at liberty to publish this signed letter, which I hope will show the way to health to many that need to use Nerviline.

THE BYLAWS.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—Of the two bylaws to be voted upon by the electors on Monday next, one is to give a fixed assessment of $10,000 to the works of the Wm. Hamilton Co., for ten years. The history of the works is known to the electors. It is one of the very oldest and most valuable of our industries. When it was closed a few years ago, all felt that it was a serious loss to the city. A Toronto firm proposed to revive it and approached the council with that in view, and it was arranged that they should receive a fixed assessment, a loan of $30,000 and other minor concessions. The Ontario Legislature authorized the council with the approval of the electors, to give this aid to the company. It will be remembered that the firm did not proceed with the undertaking, and that gentlemen, most of whom had been connected with the works, organized a company and re-established them. They are now being carried on and are doing good work, and employing a large number of mechanics, over one hundred hands being employed. The works are a good asset to the city, and it has given pleasure to every citizen to know that the works are being successfully operated. The new company has not asked for the loan, but requested the fixed assessment for ten years. The council has obtained legislation to authorize the electors to give them this concession, and we feel sure it will meet with the approval of the electors. The men who took hold of the works and re-established them deserve encouragement and assistance. The industry is one that is of great benefit to the city, and less aid than the fixed assessment that is proposed could hardly be given.

To legalize the bylaw the assent of three-fifths of those voting on the bylaw will be required. This is a condition made by the legislature. It is therefore urged that the freeholders who are entitled to vote will not neglect to poll their votes on Monday, and that they will also vote on Monday, and that they will show by a good, strong, favorable vote that they are willing to give the encouragement asked for to this old and valuable industry.

—"but I KNOW a bottle worth two of that for these cold nights. I'll show you. I can put you up for the night," he added, "if you like."

The wayfarer shook his head. "I must get away tonight, but I'm much obliged."

"Haven't done anything, have you?" asked his one time companion curiously. "You didn't seem that sort."

The bearded face turned away. "I'm not 'wanted' by the police, no, but I'm on the move, and the sooner I take the trail the better. I don't mind night travel."

"You'd be better for a rest," said the watchman, "but you're the doctor Come in, and we'll have a nip of something warm anyhow."

His guest followed him into a spacious hall, scarce conscious of what he did. A double door to the left was shut, but he nevertheless knew perfectly that the room it hid had a tall French window letting on to a garden where camellias had once dropped like blood. The open door to the right led to the library.

There the yellow light touched the dark wainscoting, the marble mantelpiece, dim paintings on the wall and a great brass bound Korean desk in a corner. What black thing had once happened in that room? What face had once looked at him from that wheel chair? It was an old face gray and lined and passionate, his father doubtless. He told himself this calmly, with an odd sense of apartness.

The other's glance followed his pridefully. "It's a fine property," he said. "The owner's an invalid, I hear, with one leg in the grave. He's in some sanitarium and can't get much good of it. Nice pictures, them," he added, sweeping a candle round. "That's a good looker over there. Must be the old man's daughter, I reckon. Well, I'll go and get you a finger or two to keep the frost out of your lungs. It'll be cold tonight. Make yourself at home." The door closed behind him.

The man he left was trembling violently. He had scarcely repressed a cry. The portrait that hung above the mantelpiece was Jessica's, in a house dress of soft Romney blue and a single white rose caught in her hair. "The old man's daughter!" The words seemed to echo and re-echo about the walls, voicing a new agony without a name. Then Jessica was his sister!

As he stared dry eyed at the picture in the candle light the misery slowly passed. He must know. Who she was, what she was to him, he must learn beyond peradventure. He cast a swift glance around him. Orderly rows of books stared from the shelves; the mahogany table held only a pile of old magazines. He strode to the desk, drew down its lid and tried the drawers. They opened readily, and he rapidly turned over their litter of papers, written in the same crabbed hand that had etched the one damning word on the draft he had found in the cabin on Smoky mountain. Most of the papers the searcher saw at a glance were of no import, and they gave him no clew to what he sought. Then, mysteriously guided by the subtle memory that seemed of late to haunt him, though he was but half conscious of its guidance, his nervous fingers suddenly found and pressed a spring, a panel fell down, and he drew out a folded parchment.

Another instant and he was bending over it with the candle, his fingers tracing familiar legal phrases of a will laid there long ago. He read with the blood shrinking from his heart:

"To my son, Hugh, in return for the care and sorrow he has caused me all the days of his life, for his dissolute career and his graceless desertion, I do give and bequeath the sum of $1,000 and the memory of his misspent youth. The residue of my estate, real and personal, I do give and bequeath to my ward, Jessica Holme"—

"It's a fine property," he said.

The blood swept back to his heart in a flood. Ward, not daughter! He could still keep the one sweet thing left him. His love was justified. Tears sprang to his eyes, and he laid the parchment back and closed the desk. He hastily brushed the drops away as the watchman entered and set down two glasses and a bottle.

"There you are. That'll be worth five miles to you!" He poured noisily.

His guest drank, set down the glass and held out his hand. "Good luck!" he said.

The dog thrust a cold muzzle into his hand as he walked down the gravel path slowly, feeling the glow of the liquor gratefully, with the grudging ease it brought from mental tension. He had not consciously asked himself whither now. In some subconscious corner of his brain this had been asked and answered. He was going to his father. Not to seek to change the stern decree, not to annul those bitter phrases—"his dissolute career, the memory of his misspent youth." Only to ask his forgiveness and to make what reparation was possible; then to go out once more to the world to fight out his battle.

Backache, Headache Internal Pains

"If every suffering woman would take Peruna, they would soon know its value and never be without it."

MRS. JOSEPH LACELLE, 124 Bronson St., Ottawa East, Ontario, Canada, writes:

"I suffered with backache, headache and dragging pains for over nine months, and nothing relieved me until I took Peruna. This medicine is by far better than any other medicine for these troubles. A few bottles relieved me of my miserable half-dead, half-alive condition.

"I am now in good health, have neither ache nor pain, nor have I had any for the past year.

"If every suffering woman would take Peruna, they would soon know its value and never be without it."

Dyspepsia and Indigestion

Mde. Joseph Beaudoin, 59 Rue St. Olivier, Quebec, P. Q. Can., writes:

"Peruna is wonderful for indigestion. I eat whatever I want and no longer feel any oppression. Having had dyspepsia for a long time and having tried various other remedies, I decided to try Peruna and with the fourth bottle of it I was perfectly cured.

"For this reason I recommend it to all those who are suffering with the terrible malady, dyspepsia. I hope that all who are afflicted in this way will take Peruna and Manalin as I did.

Chronic Nasal Catarrh.

Mr. Chas. H. Stevens, 122 Sixteenth St., Detroit, Mich., writes:

"It affords me great pleasure to testify to the merits of Peruna as a remedy for catarrh.

"I suffered for some time with chronic nasal catarrh, but after five months treatment during which time I used seven bottles of Peruna I am pleased to say that I am entirely well, there not being the slightest trace of catarrh left.

"Peruna is without a doubt, in my mind, the greatest remedy known for catarrh."

Weak, Tired Feeling.

Miss Marie A. Lesser, 928 W. 35th St., Chicago, Ill., Worthy Secretary I. O. G. T., writes:

"I am glad to give a good word for Peruna, and I hope that all who see this who are troubled with systemic catarrh as I was for years, will profit by it.

"I had tried many remedies, but none did more than give me temporary relief, and some did not even do that.

"I took Peruna at the suggestion of a friend, and was more than pleased and surprised at the results.

"I am now perfectly well and strong. That weak, tired feeling has left me, and I feel like a different person entirely."

The Slavery of Disease.

It is wonderful how many women in Canada and the United States have been practically made new again by the use of Peruna.

Not the victims of any organic disease, but just a half-dead and half-alive, condition.

Miserable, dragging pains that keep a woman always from doing her best work, from being her best self. Cross and petulent, perhaps. Maybe even a slattern in her household, just because her health is continually below par. She never feels quite right. She gets the reputation of being sullen, or morbid, or ill tempered.

Her trouble is not a moral one at all, it is simply a physical one. Make such a woman well and she immediately becomes transformed into a new being mentally.

This is exactly what Peruna has done in a multitude of cases.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product of any kind enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

ALBERTA AND GREAT WATERWAYS RAILWAY SCANDAL CAUSES OVERTHROW.

Edmonton, May 20.—Premier Rutherford resigned at 11 o'clock today.

Chief Justice Sifton was immediately sworn in as first minister.

It is understood that several of the present ministers will be retained. It is more of a question as to whether C. W. Cross will stay in the cabinet. All the regulars and two insurgents, it is said, have asked that he be retained, but other insurgents feel very strongly against him, and for the sake of peace and unity Mr. Sifton may not retain him. The whole arrangement is a compromise intended to establish unity in the party, and it is said that it has been made at the request of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The delay in putting it through is over the difficulty of giving Cross a place.

It is said that Mr. Sifton consented to resign his seat on the bench and accepted the premiership at Sir Wilfrid Laurier's request.

The cabinet will not likely be announced until next week. It is not likely that any of the insurgent leaders will have a place in it.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for addition to the Eastern Departmental Building, Ottawa," will be received at this office until 5.00 P. M., on Tuesday, June 14, 1910, for the construction of an addition to the Eastern Departmental Building.

Plans, specification, and forms of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residences. In the case of firms, the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the order of the Honorable, the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

LA TUQUE.

The railroad towns of rapid growth are not in the West alone. La Tuque, on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, 127 miles from Quebec, is a wonderful example of this. Two years ago there was not a house there. To-day, there is a handsome well laid out, well built town with two churches, a school, a bank, a sulphite pulp mill, two saw mills, some very fine stores and a resident population of about 2000. The Quebec Bank opened a branch there a few weeks ago, and in a very few days had $7,000 on deposit. La Tuque is a divisional point on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and will have the shops for that division. It is also the terminus of the Tuque branch of the Lake St. John division of the Canadian Northern Railway, and the head of navigation of the river St. Maurice, which is navigable for steamers for seventy miles from La Tuque southward to Grand Piles.

But the principal advantage of La Tuque is its water power. The river St. Maurice, at this point, a magnificent stream half-a mile wide, falls ninety feet, making available for industries no less than ninety thousand horse power. This is only partially developed, but already the Messrs. Brown of Berlin, N. H., the owners of the power, have built one of the largest sulphite mills in America, and in a few days will be producing sixty tons of sulphite pulp daily and a paper mill will follow in the near future. These two industries will use only a very small portion of the power, so that these will, no doubt, be many other industries established, which will make of La Tuque a flourishing industrial town. A large flour mill is spoken of to grind up the wheat to be brought from Manitoba and Alberta by the Grand Trunk Pacific, and as the level grades (four tenths) of that road will carry grain at rates with which the canal navigation cannot compete, this should be an ideal spot for such an industry on a large scale, as it is also in close proximity to the ocean steamers at Quebec. La Tuque is evidently destined to be one of the most important manufacturing towns in Northern Quebec.

Imperial Bank of Canada

Proceedings of the Thirty-fifth Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders

Held at the Banking House of the Institution in Toronto, on Wednesday, the 25th May, 1910.

The Thirty-fifth Annual General Meeting of the Imperial Bank of Canada was held in pursuance of the terms of the charter at the Banking House of the Institution, 25th May, 1910.

THE REPORT.

The Directors have much pleasure in submitting to the shareholders their Thirty-fifth Annual Report and Balance Sheet of the affairs of the Bank as on 30th April, 1910, together with the result of the operations of the Bank for the year which ended on that day.

The net profits of the Bank, after making full provision for all bad and doubtful debts, for interest on unmatured bills under discount, and for the payment of all provincial and other taxes, amounted to $702,5 66 61, which has been applied as follows:—

(a) Dividends have been paid at the rate of 11 per cent. per annum, amounting to	$550,000 00
(b) Bank Premises and Furniture Account has been credited with	40,851 67
(c) Employes' Pension and Guarantee Funds have been credited with	7,500 00
(d) Profit and Loss Account has been increased by	96,356 94

In addition to the Branches referred to in the last Annual Report as being about to be opened, the following additional Branches have been established during the year: In Ontario, at Adelaide and Victoria Streets (Toronto); at Nashville and at Jordan and Vineland (Niagara District); in the Province of Saskatchewan, at Fort Qu'Appelle and Saskatoon; in British Columbia at Moyie and Chase.

Endeavoring to keep pace with the development of the Dominion the Directors under the authority of By-law No. 27, authorizing an increase in the Capital Stock of the Bank, have made an issue of $1,000,000 additional stock, which has been allotted to the shareholders of record on the 30th April, 1910, at a premium of 100 per cent.

The Bank has suffered a grevious loss through the death of our much respected colleague, Mr. Charles Cockshutt, who was elected a Director on 13th June, 1904, and died on 9th February, 1910.

The vacancy on the Board occasioned by Mr. Cockshutt's death has been filled by the appointment of Mr. W. G. Gage, now President of the Board of Trade of the City of Toronto.

The Head Office and Branches of the Bank have been carefully inspected during the year, and your directors have much pleasure in again bearing testimony to the faithful and efficient manner in which the Staff have performed their duties.

R. R. WILKIE,
President.

D. R. WILKIE, General Manager. E. HAY, Assistant General Manager. W. MOFFAT, Chief Inspr.

President's Remarks.

Gentlemen,—I have much pleasure in rising to move the adoption of the Report.

Since our last meeting we have had the great misfortune to lose our esteemed colleague, the late Mr. Charles Cockshutt, who passed away after months of painful illness on the 9th of February last. Mr. Cockshutt's death was not only a severe blow to all those who have been associated with him in the administration of the Bank for the past six years, but it has deprived the Bank of the services of a devoted, unselfish, hard-working Director.

The vacancy occasioned by Mr. Cockshutt's death has been filled by the appointment of Mr. W. J. Gage, who, besides bringing to our councils many excellent qualifications and great experience in business affairs, has been for years a substantial shareholder.

The recent increase in the issued capital of the Bank by $1,000,000 is the result of mature deliberation. The last issue was made in 1906, when the capital of the Bank stood at $4,000,000, and the Deposits and Circulation at $11,500,000. To-day our Capital stands at $5,000,000, with Deposits and Circulation at $45,000,000, with evidences of still further increases in deposits and circulation to come. We think, therefore, in the interest of the Shareholders and of the public, for whose profit and convenience we were brought into existence, that the time has come to avail ourselves in part of the policy approved of by you on 22nd May, 1907.

There can be no question that additional bank capital to keep pace with the development of the resources of the country is needed; there can be no doubt that such additional capital can be supplied more economically by the financial institutions at present in existence than by new organizations. The wonderful development of the resources of the North-West and of British Columbia, coupled with large immigration from the Mother Country and from the United States, and the demands of the additional population upon the manufacturing institutions of the country require a corresponding addition to the banking capital of the Dominion. It is moreover an obligation on the part of the older institutions to do their full share in supplying the needful. We have been in the van in the development of the North-West and of British Columbia, without failing to do our duty to the older provinces; it now becomes necessary for us to look to the future and to be qualified by way of capital and enterprise to remain in the front rank. To that end we have thought it advisable to ask you for your approval of a by-law authorizing additions to the Capital Stock from time to time.

The Increase in Deposits and Circulation during the past year has been from $39,000,000 to $45,000,000.

The opening of eighteen new branches within the year has entailed considerable extra expense, which has been provided for out of the profits of the year. Profits have also suffered from the low rates of interest upon call money which has prevailed in the great reserve centres. There is every indication of better rates in the near future, the result of greater activity in trade and of increasing confidence in the financial situation. Canada however, has no reason to complain; the neglect of railway and industrial securities in the United States, coupled with the political unrest in Great Britain, has brought enormous sums to Canada for investment, which are assisting in the development and utilization of our great natural resources.

Taking the figures which appear in the returns of the Chartered Banks to the Dominion Government as an index of commercial development, we find that the total assets of these institutions have grown from $951,053,557 in 1907 to $1,182,850,000 in 1910 (30th April). The circulation of bank notes has grown from $72,840,909 to $78,776,000, and public deposits in Canada from $754,588,439 to $768,000,000. Current loans, representing for the greater part loans to merchants, manufacturers and agriculturists (irrespective of loans on stocks, bonds and debentures), have grown from $586,149,738 in 1907 to $638,000,000 in 1910 (30th April).

It is estimated by Government and railway officials that there is now under crop on the three North-west Provinces no less than 14,850,000 acres, as compared with 12,465,237 acres in 1909. The total yield of agricultural products in these three provinces in 1909 is valued at $192,-836,000. May we not reasonably look for a yield for 1910 of the value of $225,000,000, and yet only six per cent. of the arable lands in these provinces are under cultivation. Farm lands under cultivation in the three provinces mentioned are valued by the statisticians at $23 per acre. The cash value of these lands is, therefore, no less than 341,550,000.

The value of the wheat harvest in the North-west Provinces in 1909 was $121,560,000, as against in the rest of the Dominion only $19,-760,000. On the other hand the value of all field crops in Ontario for the same year was $200,393,000, as compared with $193,000,000 in the three Provinces of the North-west. The field crops of Quebec and the Maritime Provinces yielded $140,000,000.

The Eastern Provinces are, therefore, so far as the value of field crops is concerned, still considerably in advance of our great West. The total value of the field crops of all Canada for 1909 was estimated at $533,000,000, the product of 30,065,000 acres cultivated land, as compared with $432,5000,000 in 1908, the product of 27,505,000 acres.

In 1909, over and above the value of agricultural products, fisheries yielded $25,450,000, and minerals $90,378,000, of which $12,382,000 was the product of the silver mines of Cobalt. It is regrettable to note that the gold of British Columbia and the Yukon, and the bulk of the silver of Cobalt and British Columbia still find their way to the smelters, assay offices and mints of the United States, instead of being refined in Canada. The last year we exported of cattle and their products over $51,000,000. Our total exports from all Canada were $242,603,000, of which $28,957,000 were manufactured goods and our total imports $290,206,000, of which $156,-172,545 were manufactured goods.

BANK PREMISES.

The responsibility of providing suitable premises for the Bank over the vast territory in which we are represented is a serious problem, and will continue to be so, in view of the fact that in the majority of localities it is more economical for the Bank to provide its own premises than to rent from outsiders, who naturally look for a more substantial return upon their investments in a new country than would satisfy the Bank upon a similar investment of its own Capital. We have, however, nothing to apologize for. Our Bank premises are a sound investment, and yield a handsome return upon their book value. We expended during the year upon new premises $281,964.67. The amount beyond the $200,000 has been provided for out of the profits for the year. At the moment premises are under construction at Cranbrook, Kenora, Prince Albert, Wetaskiwin, South Woodslee and Humberstone.

The Shareholders of the Bank now number 1,327, as compared with 1,302 in 1909.

It will, perhaps, interest you to know that we have at the moment 162 Branches, and sub-branches extending from Quebec to Victoria.

Our staff numbers 965, as compared with 909 in 1909.

RENEWAL OF BANK CHARTERS.

It was fully expected that the decennial revision of bank charters would have taken place during the recent session of the Dominion Parliament, but the demands of public business did not permit of this being done. The existing charters run until 1st July, 1911, so that it will be necessary to dispose of the matter during the course of next session of Parliament. It is not expected that any radical changes will be made in the terms of the charters, unless in the direction of providing additional safeguards in the incorporation and establishment of new institutions.

The population of Canada, which was estimated at 7,145,840 in 1909, is now estimated as on 31st March, 1910, at 7,409,791, and it is to be noted that the increase by way of immigration consists in the main of the most desirable class of settlers.

I have much pleasure, seconded by Senator Jaffray, in moving the adoption of the Report.

The customary motions were made and carried unanimously.

The Scrutineers appointed at the meeting reported the following Shareholders duly elected Directors for the ensuing year: Messrs. D. R. Wilkie, Hon. Robert Jaffray, Wm. Ramsay, of Bowland, Stow, Scotland, Elias Rogers, J. Kerr Osborne, Peleg Howland, Wm White (Winnipeg), Cawthra Mulock, Hon. Richard Turner (Quebec), Wm. Hamilton Merritt, M.D. (St. Catharines), W. J. Gage.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. D. R. Wilkie was re-elected President, and the Hon. Robert Jaffray, Vice-President, for the ensuing year.

Predicts War Between Japs and Americans

Immigration and the Chinese Question are the Main Issues at Stake

Victoria, B.C., May 28.—T. Nakahashi, formerly a Tokio official and now president of the Osaka Hosen Kaisha, who recently visited America as a member of the commercial commission, contributes an article to the Taiyo, a prominent Tokio magazine received by the steamer Inaba Maru today, stating that the next war waged by Japan may be with America. The immediate issues at stake are the immigration and China questions.

Mr. Nakahashi, after dealing with Japanese immigration in Hawaii and the United States, goes on to consider United States policies and and says: "The electoral labor ticket cannot be ignored. While the relations of Japan and America have been friendly for forty years, they may change in character, the increase of the Japanese armament having affected American feeling toward Japan, and there was suspicion of Japan regarding the Philippines."

By 1914-15 Mr. Nakahashi says the Manchuria, China and Philippine questions and others will require serious study. The article concludes: "Altogether the relations between Japan and America will become delicate in 1914-15, when the Panama Canal is completed, and the Japanese must constantly endeavor to solve the question beforehand and avert a crisis."

Must Attend Church to Get Ticket for the Sunday Ball Game

Pittsburg, Pa., May 28.—The ministers of Pittsburg and the managers of the baseball clubs which have been holding Sunday exhibition games have reached an agreement whereby the Sunday baseball games will continue and the attendance at the churches, it is thought, will increase proportionately. Hereafter, according to the manager of the A. K. Martins, one of the best known amateur nines in the country, no person will be allowed to attend the Sunday exhibition games conducted by that club unless the patron is able to present a ticket which is obtained only at certain Pittsburg churches after the Sunday morning service. These tickets will be given only to persons attending the Sunday morning service. No person who does not sit out the service, no matter what the length of the sermon may be, will be given a ticket.

This amicable arrangement was reached through a suggestion made by Constable Jacob Stice of Port Vue, who is not only an ardent baseball fan, but a regular church attendant as well.

Popular Citizens Get Substantial Token of Friendship.

Three pleasing functions were in evidence at the C.G.E. shops at noon on Saturday. Although the word pleasing is used, these functions were saddened by the thought that their origin was based on the loss of three local citizens.

A presentation was made to Mr. Matthew Breckenridge, who soon leaves for the West, by Mr. W. A. Brundrette, and the address signed by J. F. Reed, E. R. Shirley, T. M. Somerville, and H. Huffman. He received a handsome locket and chain.

W. S. Common, retiring foreman of the punch press department, was given a handsome gold watch and chain, brought from and engraved by Frank Clark & Son. W. Tougas read the address and W. J. Nelson made the presentation.

That G. J. Tovey, foreman of the brass finishing department, who has been 20 years with the company, was well liked by his fellow men, was also seen by the address presented him and the token given. It was signed by Arnold E. Prest, H. W. Watts, F. J. Pope, F. V. Haskill, A. E. Saunders.

Had a "Spill."

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Max Dobbin, assistant sporting editor of the Mail & Empire, Stanley Maddill and Pat Dobbin went canoeing. As the canoe glided over the water a heated argument rose over Ald. Turner's recent dog bylaw. Messrs. Maddill and Max Dobbin took the affirmative, while Pat, the dog, who was seated in the stern of the canoe, took the negative and was showing the weak points of the affirmative's argument and proceeded to point out the strong points, usefulness of the canines and especially their skill in administering first aid and to demonstrate his argument upset the canoe planning the occupants into the water, of course Pat reached shore first ready to apply first aid.

SOMETHING NEW.

HERBERT BOOTH SPOKE.

Son of Great Salvation Leader in Peterborough Churches.

Yesterday large audiences listened, with great interest to Mr. Herbert Booth, youngest son of General Booth, originator and head of the world conquering Salvation Army. In the morning this forceful and eloquent speaker, occupied the pulpit at St. Paul's church. In the afternoon he addressed a large audience in the same church and took as his subject, "Christ and Social Problems." Owing to his wide experience with Army matters and his extended travels over the globe the speaker was eminently qualified to handle his subject.

In the evening he preached another eloquent sermon in George street church before a large and delighted audience.

Mr. Booth will deliver a lecture in St. Paul's church tonight at eight o'clock, taking as his subject, "The Early Christians." It will be remembered that when he gave this lecture some months ago to a crowded audience, hundreds of citizens were disappointed in not hearing him.

Some idea of the lecture may be gained from the following notices: Sir Robert Anderson says of it, "It is educational in the profoundest degree, inspirational in the truest sense, and truly remarkable in the daring of its conception." The pastor of the Metropolitan Temple, New York, says: "It was the greatest we ever had." The Chicago Sun says: "Mr. Herbert Booth is the greatest preacher of the United States." That this lecture may be within the reach of all, the admission is practically on a free-will offering basis. The fee will be ten cents and upwards.

A Third Inquest Held Within a Fortnight

Enquiry Into the Death of Little Seven-Year-Old Mamie Feeley Who was Killed by G.T.R. Train Saturday

At seven o'clock Saturday evening the following jury was sworn in by Coroner Dr. Grey, at the undertaking establishment of Messrs. Lane & Kano, Hunter street, viz., Robt. Carney, Jas. O'Brien, John Feller, Rich Milburn, Frank Reynolds, John Killenbeck, Robt. Watt, Wilbur O'Neil, Mark Pengelly, C. H. Campbell, Jos. Collins, Wm. White, foreman.

After the usual ceremonies had been duly attended to, the jury viewed the body of poor little Mamie Feeley. This little seven-year-old atom of humanity, whose life had been so suddenly snuffed out, lay on a stretcher in that undertaking establishment. The dead child showed in her face the awful death she had met. Her forehead, cheeks and other parts of her face were skinned and bruised. Under the long tresses of childish hair one could feel where the skull had been crushed by the relentless engine wheels. The poor little pathetic looking right foot had been entirely severed at the ankle.

Agreeing with a suggestion made by Coroner Dr. Gray, who seemed anxious to save the city all expense within his power, the jury decided that no autopsy was necessary. The inquest was adjourned until 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 31st, in the City Council Chamber.

THE CATASTROPHY.

It seems that the dead girl, Mamie Feeley, daughter of Mr. F. Feeley, 271 Romaine street, was sent on Saturday morning, to Henny's grocery store at the corner of Park and Wescott streets, for some sugar. As the little one was returning home with her purchase, the G.T.R. express for Port Hope, engine No. 2608, in charge of Conductor Buller and with John Mimms, driver, struck the child, who was knocked down and carried under the engine for a distance of about fifty feet before the train could be brought to a stop. The engineer laid the body alongside the wire fence on the west side of Park street.

The body was removed to the residence of Mr. Cavanagh, at the corner of Park and Westcott streets, opposite the scene of the fatality. Three boys, including Louis Feeley, a young brother of the little girl, hurried to the Feeley home and notified the bereaved mother who, on hearing of the accident, became frantic.

She rushed up to the house where the body lay and every means was used to persuade her not to view the remains until the first shock of her grief had subsided. Her nervous system is seriously affected by the accident.

Mr. Feeley, who is dazed by the fatality, arrived at the Cavanagh home, where the body was, shortly before one o'clock.

Tommy Gordon, a 9-year-old boy, and Miss Mattie Hales were eye-witnesses, and will give evidence at the adjourned inquest on Tuesday evening.

OPEN INQUEST INTO DEATH OF WILLIAM FOWLER.

Village Was in Terror—Drunken Man Ran About Holding Stick of Dynamite and Threatening to Explode It.

Orillia, May 28.—The conditions at Atherley, which have prompted the government to order a new inquest into the death of a man recently killed on the railroad, have been the scandal of this neighborhood for some time.

From the stories which have come from across the Narrows there has been too much reason to fear a break in the good record of this district in the matter of murders. Residents near the bridge who were recently asking for police protection for their families alleged that twice at least of late have revolvers been drawn by drunken men in that neighborhood.

One night a drunken maniac was raging about with an open razor threatening to cut out somebody's heart. The people near the hote, were white with well founded fears a few days ago when a man not in possession of his senses was going about with a stick of dynamite threatening to blow up the whole "shebang."

SOMETHING LIKE A RIOT.

A short time ago, so it is reported, there was something approaching a small riot, during the course of which the bar had to be closed. The attack on Speers on the same evening that Fowler lost his life is described by those who witnessed it as a most brutal affair.

The brakemen shunting in the freight yards the other day found a drunken man fast asleep astride the couplings of cars which they were dumping about. If he had fallen off there would have been another accident, which might have come closer home than the death of an unknown man.

Orillia, May 26.—It is now reasonably assured that there are no grounds for the suspicion of foul play in the death of Wm. Fowler at Atherley, the circumstances surrounding his death was sufficiently shocking to arouse public opinion.

Fowler's death was the culmination of one of the general spree's now common at Atherley as an outcome of the large gangs of laborers employed on construction work in Orillia and on the C.N.O. Railway near Atherley itself.

On the same evening, a companion of Fowler's, named Speers, had his face kicked in a most brutal manner and is now lying here in a scarcely recognizable condition. It is understood that steps have been taken to bring the facts to the attention of the government.

Over 113,818 Persons Came to Canada from England Last Year

FROM ENGLAND, AN INCREASE OF 17,890 OVER THE NUMBER THE YEAR BEFORE.

Second Band of Clergy and Laymen Coming to Western Canada—The Canadian Art Exhibit.

London, May 28.—Statistics show that 113,318 persons went to Canada during the year 1909, an increase of 17,890 over the previous year.

WESTERN CANADA PROBLEMS

London, May 28.—At the meeting of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, the secretary stated that the problems of Western Canada seemed to be growing vaster.

Rev. Douglas Elison is about to proceed to the southern parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta to prepare the advent of the second band of clergy and laymen under the archbishop's fund. The creation of the fund, he said, had virtually destroyed the Western Canada fund, which still had claims upon it, especially with regard to some catechists who were sent to the Saskatchewan three years ago. He also made appeals for new medical centers.

PRAISE FOR BARNARDO BOYS.

London, May 28.—Lady St. Helier, appealing on behalf of the Barnardo Boys' Homes, said the boys and girls sent to Canada took root, and did splendid work. The live is one of privation in some sense, but above all it is a healthy life. She shuddered to think what England would have been without such homes and kindred institutions.

CANADIAN ART EXHIBIT.

London, May 28—The collection of Canadian art selected by the Royal Canadian Academy in connection with the Festival of the Empire will be exhibited at the Walker Art Gallery.

THE FISHING TRADE.

London, May 28.—Twenty thousand tons of British Columbia salmon are now in London. It is anticipated that the present enterprise, engineered by the Fishing Syndicate, Limited, of British Columbia, will create a revolution in the salmon trade in this country.

London, May 28.—The Price Jones, Canada, Limited, has been formed, with a capital of £100,000. It will open for business at Calgary; 70,000 six per cent. preference shares are offered.

TO RAISE £50,000.

London, May 29.—Overwhelming resolutions were passed at a meeting of the prior lieu and income bondholders of the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway. The effect will be to allow the raising of $50,000 in priority on the securities. The money is required to manage the railway, to continue the receivership, and to deal with pressing debts.

MAGNIFICENT VESSELS.

London, May 28.—A new steamer ordered for the Allan Line will have a speed of 22 knots. The length is about 700 feet, and the tonnage 22,000. According to specifications, on a 600-mile trial run a speed of 23 knots must be maintained under ordinary conditions. The passenger accommodation will be 310 first, 500 second, and 1,500 third-class.

U.C.C. OLD BOYS MEET.

London, May 28.—Thirty Upper Canada old boys were present at the annual dinner at the Royal Cafe last night. General Robinson, the oldest old boy, was in the chair. Among the other speakers was Admiral Denison.

SCULLING CHAMPIONSHIP.

London, May 28.—A Sydney despatch says Pearce easily beat Hagney in a match for the sculling championship of Australia.

SEYLER ACQUITTED OF CHARGE OF MURDERING JANE ADAMS--ACCUSED OF THROWING HER OFF PIER

May's Landing, N.J., May 28.—Wm. Seyler, charged with the murder of Jane Adams on the million dollar pier at Atlantic City last February, was acquitted tonight. The jury was out a little more than five hours. When the verdict was announced there was a cheer, which was quickly silenced by Judge Trenchard.

Seyler fairly leaped at his counsel when he realized that he was again a free man. After greeting his lawyer he walked over to the jurymen and shook hands with each of them, at the same time warmly expressing his thanks. The crowd in the court room pressed forward and the acquitted man held an impromptu reception.

Wm. Seyler's wife returned to Atlantic City before the jury came in.

Seyler said he was never in doubt that the jury would free him. It was reported about the courthouse that the jury considered only two verdicts, first degree murder and acquittal.

Seyler took the stand in his own defence and made a good witness. He maintained that he did not know how the girl met her death, and that the last he saw of her she was standing on the pier. He told of being sweated by the police, who sought a confession, and said that he had been given a religious book to read in order that he might be influenced and had been given cigarets, which he intimated had been drugged.

New Restaurant.

The fine new Boston Cafe at 413 George street, will open this afternoon. Mr. Nicholas Douros, the proprietor, will fill a long felt want in Peterborough, in a quick and well cooked restaurant service. A long lunch counter will furnish those in haste. The restaurant is beautifully fitted up with a long marble counter, and the walls covered with mirrors. To the rear is a private dining room with tables for lunch and dinner parties. A skilled cook will always be on hand. Everything up to date, and the best goods in town.

A BURGLARY.

Last night Mr. Millard's bicycle establishment was burglarized. Mr. Rose, Nightwatchman Finnie's trusty assistant, discovered the burglary shortly after coming on duty, and reported it to the police and Mr. Millard.

Some Heavy Hitting in Saturday's Games

Another good crowd was on hand at Riverside Park Saturday afternoon to witness the City League bill of fare. The West Ends evened up with the Strathconas for their defeat of last winter by taking the first game by a 9—7 score and after the Commissioners had got away to a 6—2 lead. In the seventh, the West Enders got after McDonald and counted four times, and in the eighth added three more. The Strathconas looked dangerous in the ninth, but could only send one man home.

Batteries — McDonald and Patterson; Kirn, Creswell and Laing.

In the second fixture, the T.A.S. ran away from the P.A.C. nine and corralled eighteen runs and as many hits.

The Southerners crossed seven times, and at intervals hit Quinlan hard. Jimmy Pilling had a perfect batting average.

Batteries—Thompson, Mahoney and Gordon. Quinlan and McFadden.

PASSED THROUGH TAIL OF THE COMET--CREW ON VESSEL OVERCOME BY NOXIOUS FUMES

Montreal, May 28.—Captain Robert, of the Minnie Maud of Gaspe, reports that on the night of May 19th his ship passed through the tail of the comet. The watch became almost oversome by a sort of sulphurous gas and called the captain who aroused the rest of those on board. They had to use handkerchiefs over their faces as breathing filters to keep out the noxious gas. All were more or less overcome and had a feeling of biliousness.

PATRIOTIC CHINAMAN SENDS LETTER OF PROTEST AFTER LOPPING OFF FINGER

Pekin, May 28.—The opposition of the gentry and other popular leaders in Hunan and Honan Provinces to the acceptance by the Chinese Government of the Hankow Sze Chuen Railway loan has not diminished. On the contrary the anti-foreign sentiment regarding this particular subject is becoming more pronounced.

This extremely hostile feeling was expressed in a startling manner recently. President Sin-Chi-Tchang, of the Board of Communications, received a letter from the leader of the opposition in Hunan Provinces protesting against the conclusion of the loan. The communication was written in the blood of the writer's severed finger.

The financial groups of Great Britain Germany, France and the United States, there were occasional manifestations against the government in the two provinces and the trouble became acute a few weeks before the loan agreement was signed in Paris by the members of the International Banking syndicate.

It is generally believed that the violence organized by the gentry and done by the natives at Chang Sha, the capital of Hunan, was influenced to a considerable degree by opposition to the acceptance by China of foreign capital and foreign direction in the construction of the Hankow railroad, line, which influential personages in the Province wish to have built, if at all, with Chinese capital.

TROOPS IN CONTROL.

Much uneasiness was felt here during the outbreaks at Chang-Sha and other nearby points, and in order to get a definite knowledge of the situation, United States Minister Calhoun despatched the military attache of the legation, on a tour of investigation. The attache visited Hunan Province, and has just returned here He reports that the situation generally in the Provinces is encouraging. The government troops, he says, are in control of the inland points, at which the riots of the natives occur.

SITUATION GRAVE.

Chang Sha, China, May 28.—Tomorrow is the time fixed in the unsigned anti-foreign posters, recently circulated, as the date for the general anti-Manchu uprising. While conditions are seemingly quiet, the government and the officers commanding the foreign gunboats are fully prepared to act and stamp out disorder the moment it occurs. The city is strongly patrolled, and natives suspected of anti-foreign affiliations are closely watched.

Members of the foreign colony have been warned to remain within the quarter set aside for them, and troops are held in readiness should there be a renewal of the rioting. No secret is made by the officials and the situation is grave. The feeling against foreigners has been growing and the unrest has spread widely. The officials here believe that this city is headquarters for the plotters, but trouble is also threatened at Yi-King and Chan-Chuen.

THE IMPERIAL BANK.

Probably one of the most satisfactory bank statements ever presented by the management to the shareholders was the one just laid before the owners of the Imperial Bank, at the 25th annual meeting, held on Wednesday last. President Wilkie was sparing in his comments on the results of the bank's operations during the last financial period. He preferred to have the figures speak for themselves, and they tell a story of a more than usually satisfactory year's business. The net profits, which amounted to $762,300, might have been dealt upon by the President with perfectable pride.

That the bank's business is growing with the country is shown in a marked way by the increase in capital, the outlay upon premises and the addition to the number of branches, as well as by the expansion under the heads of the deposits and circulation. In his reference to the recent increase in the issued capital of the bank by $1,000,000, Mr. Wilkie shows a commendable desire to have the bank give up to its full responsibilities as an agency for the service of the public and for the development of the country. There can be no question, he says, that additional bank capital to keep pace with the development of the resources of the country is needed. He considers it an obligation on the older institutions like his own bank to provide for the growing currency needs of this expanding country.

In the mattering of ministering to the needs of commercial business the Imperial Bank is not open to criticism. While its own affairs are most carefully conducted in accordance with the soundest principles of banking full recognition has been given to the claims of public interest. Additions have been made to its capital from time to time and the institution is always kept in a state of readiness to respond to the legitimate requirements of all with whom it does business. The policy adhered to in its management is a happy combination of conservatism and progressiveness and a successful harmonizing of the public and private interests concerned.

ILL HEALTH, ITS CAUSE.

Sluggishness of Liver and Bowels.

It took me a long time to learn, and big doctors' bills in the bargain, writes Mr. Ogilby, of Winnipeg that the disturbance of my system inactivity. A sleepiness and languor extinguished my old time ambition. I fear irritability of temper added little to the comfort of my family, yet the headaches, general misery and melancholy forebodings that weighed me down ought to be considered. Tonics, electric treatment and mineral waters in turn failing to cure me, the advertising of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and the testimonials supporting the claim of great medicinal virtue induced me to try them. The result of even the first box made clear that my own body was making its own poison, that by driving it from the system and removing the cause which undoubtedly resided in the liver and bowels, by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, my health would be as good as ever.

It seems certain to me that more than half the sickness we see about us is caused by carelessness in keeping the bowels open and the liver active. Dr. Hamilton's Pills I found do both, and find it better than other remedies. 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston.

EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY.

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored By Nerviline.

We have all read and heard of the agonies of Sciatica, but only those who have been tortured by this dread malady can fully appreciate what it must mean to be cured after years of suffering.

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to get well was completely wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended Nerviline. I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day and got relief. In order to build up my general CURED health and improve my blood I used Ferrozone, SIX one tablet with each meal YEARS. I continued this treatment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

There isn't a more highly esteemed citizen in Westchester than Mr. Hires. What he says can be relied upon. For six years since being cured he hasn't had a single relapse. Don't accept anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." 25 cents per bottle or five for $1. Sold everywhere or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston.

DRASTIC TREATMENT OF DRUNKARDS.

A novel and unusual plan of taking care of drunkards and promoting temperance is embodied in a "permissive" act passed by the New York legislature. It enables the city of New York to establish a farm colony for habitual and excessive consumers of intoxicants, to create a board of physicians and lay charity workers to examine and judge persons arrested for inebriety, and to appoint field inspectors and others to appoint, watch and report on such persons.

The theory of this act is that habitdrunkards are public nuisances, to be classed with vagrants and other anti-social characters, and that the ordinary treatment — arrested for disorderly conduct, a night in a filthy cell, a fine or discharge in the morning—is not conducive to reform. The act overlooks first offenses, punishes second offenses lightly and is severe with those guilty of third ones. However, it provides for careful inquiry into the family and other connections, as well as the circumstances, of offenders, and for the use of discretion in sending even habitual drunkards to the farm colony.

Mayor Gaynor may veto the act on behalf of the municipalities concerned, and that will give the proposed experiments its quietus. But the bill originated with trained social workers and has been approved by many able students of the individual and general evils of inebriety. The idea will be dropped in any event for some improvement on existing methods is considered to be highly desirable.

A book on Rheumatism, and a trial treatment of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy—liquid or tablets—is being sent free to sufferers by Dr. Shoop, of Racine, Wis. You that are well get this book for some discouraged, disheartened sufferer! Do a simple act of humanity! Point out this way to quick and certain relief! Surprise some sufferer, by first getting from me the booklet and the test. He will appreciate your aid.

Monuments in brass and bronze and marble are all right in a way, yet there are more practical methods of keeping alive the memory of any person, including that of King Edward the Seventh. In several places it has been noted that the erection of an hospital of some kind to the memory of our late sovereign has been proposed. Among these places is Guelph where the Daughters of the Empire will endeavor to raise $10,000 for an anti-tuberculosis hospital. No more fitting memorial could be erected.

Chapter 23

THE bell was tapping in the steeple of the little Catholic church on the edge of the town, and the mellow tone came clearly up the slope of the mountain where once more the one time partner of Prendergast stood on the threshold of the lonely cabin, scattered over the mounds of yellow grass that marked his toil.

The returned wanderer had met with a distinct surprise in the town. As he passed through the streets more than one had nodded or had spoken his name, and the recognition had sent a glow to his cheek and a lightness to his step.

Since the daring feat in the automobile the tone of the gossip had changed. His name was no longer connected with the sluice robberies. The lucky find, too, constituted a material boost for Smoky Mountain and bettered the stock in its hydraulic enterprises, and this had been written on the credit side of the ledger. Opinion, so all powerful in a new community, had altered. All this he who had been the outcast could not guess, but he felt the change with satisfaction.

Till the sun was low he sat in the cabin thinking. At length he called the dog and fastened it in its accustomed place and began slowly to climb the steep ascent toward the Knob. When he came to a certain vine grown trail that met the main path he turned aside. Here lay the spot where he had first spoken with her, face to face. Here she had told him there was nothing in his past which could not be buried and forgotten.

As he parted the bushes and stepped into the narrow space beside the jutting ledge he stopped short with an exclamation. The place was no longer a tangle of vines. A grave had been lately made there, and behind it, freshly chiseled in the rock, was a statue—a figure seated, chin on hand, as if regarding the nearby mound. As in a dream he realized that its features were his own. Awestruck, the living man drew near.

It was Jessica's conception of the prodigal son as she had modeled it in unison in her blindness, after Hugh's early return to the house in the aspens. David Stires had pointed out the distant Knob as a spot in which he would choose to be buried, and the wish had been observed. Her sorrow for his death had been deepened by the thought that the end had come too suddenly for David Stires to have reinstated his son. This sorrow had possessed one comfort—that he had known at the last and had forgiven Hugh. Of this she could assure him when he returned, for she could not really believe—so deep is the heart of a woman—that he would not return in the days of vigil she had found relief in the rough, hard work of the mallet. None had intruded in that out of the way spot, save that one day Mrs. Halloran, led by curiosity to see the grave of the rich man whose whim it had been to be buried on the mountain side, had found her at her work, and per Jessica had pledged to silence. She was no fool, was Mrs. Halloran, and to learn the name of the dead man was to put two and two together. Her motherly heart overflowed to the girl who worked each day at that self appointed task. Only the afternoon before Jessica had finished carving the words on the base of the statue on which the look of the startled man was now resting: "I will arise and go unto my father."

The living man drew near

The guest turned from the words, with quick question, to the mound. He came close and in the fading light looked at the name on the low head stone. So he had come too late! If he could only have learned the truth earlier! If he might only put back the hands of the clock!

Hours went by. At length he rose to his feet, his limbs cramped and stiffened, and made his way back to the lonely cabin on the hillside. There he found fuel, kindled a blaze in the fireplace and cooked his frugal supper. The thought of the losing battle he had fought there once before, when despair shrieked without—the battle which had ended in defeat. He thought of the will he had seen, now sealed with the great seal of death. He was the shorn beggar, she the heiress. What duty she had owed his father was ended now. Desolate she might be—in need of a hand to guide and guard—but she was beyond the reach of penury. This gave him a sense of satisfaction. Was she there on the mountain at that moment?

At last he took Old Despair's battered violin from the wall and, seating himself in the open doorway, looking across the mysterious purple of the gulches to the skyline sown with pale stars, drew the bow softly across the strings. Through manifold variations the music wandered till at length there came from the hollowed wood an air that was an unconscious echo of a forgotten wedding day—"O perfect love, all human thought transcending!"

The light breeze that shook the pine needles bore the sound far to an ear that had grown tense with listening—to one on the ridge above to whom it had sounded the supreme call of youth and life. He did not feel her nearer

Backache, Headache Internal Pains.

MRS. JOSEPH LACELLE, 124 Monson St., Ottawa East, Ontario, Canada, writes:

"I suffered with backache, headache and dragging pains for over nine months, and nothing relieved me until I took Peruna. This medicine is by far better than any other medicine for these ailments. A few bottles relieved me of my miserable half-dead, half-alive condition.

"I am now in good health, have neither ache nor pain, nor have I had any for the past year.

"If every suffering woman would take Peruna, they would soon know its value and never be without it."

Dyspepsia and Indigestion.

Mde. Joseph Beaudoin, 5a Rue St. Olivier, Quebec, P. Q. Can., writes:

"Peruna is wonderful for indigestion. I eat whatever I want and no longer feel any oppression. Having had dyspepsia for a long time and having tried various other remedies, I decided to try Peruna and with the fourth bottle of it I was perfectly cured.

Chronic Nasal Catarrh.

Mr. Chas. H. Stevens, 129 Sixteenth St., Detroit, Mich., writes:

"It affords me great pleasure to testify to the merits of Peruna as a remedy for catarrh.

"I suffered for some time with chronic nasal catarrh, but after five months treatment during which time I used seven bottles of Peruna I am pleased to say that I am entirely well, there not being the slightest trace of catarrh left.

"Peruna is without a doubt, in my mind, the greatest remedy known for catarrh."

Weak, Tired Feeling.

Miss Marie A. Lesser, 928 W. 86th St., Chicago, Ill., Worthy Secretary I. O. G. T., writes:

"I am glad to give a good word for Peruna, and I hope that all who see this who are troubled with systemic catarrh as I was for years, will profit by it.

"I had tried many remedies, but none did more than give me temporary relief, and some did not even do that.

"I took Peruna at the suggestion of a friend, and was more than pleased and surprised at the results.

"I am now perfectly well and strong. That weak, tired feeling has left me, and I feel like a different person entirely."

The Slavery of Disease.

It is wonderful how many women in Canada and the United States have been practically made new again by the use of Peruna.

Not the victims of any organic disease, but just a half-dead and half-alive, condition.

Miserable, dragging pains that keep a woman always from doing her best work, from being her best self. Cross and petulent, perhaps. Maybe even a slattern in her household, just because her health is continually below par. She never feels quite right. She gets the reputation of being sullen, or morbid, or ill tempered.

Her trouble is not a moral one at all, it is simply a physical one. Make such a woman well and she immediately becomes transformed into a new being mentally.

This is exactly what Peruna has done in a multitude of cases.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughters, brothers, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

Some of the Results as It Has Been Developed in Germany.

Mr. D. A. Gordon, member of parliament for West Kent, has just returned from an extended tour in Europe. He has a number of friends in Germany, and through their good offices he was enabled to see at close range some of the results of technical education as it has been developed in that great Empire. He was immensely impressed with the industrial development of Northern Germany, and with the export business of Hamburg. In his opinion Canadians would do well to cast off the garments of indifference, and begin to deal with this question of technical training in an ardent and interested manner.

Efficient labor in our factories means more production, a higher average of quality, and, therefore, a better market abroad. The man who does not know is a money loser for his employer, and therefore a drag on commerce. Unquestionably technical education is advantageous to the country at large as well as to the young. But it seems that many Canadians are inclined to belittle its importance. There is no general, widespread interest displayed in its aims, and little knowledge of its accomplishments. Moreover, our constitution confines all questions of education to the jurisdiction of the provinces. Whatever may be planned and carried out must be the result of Provincial activity. For that reason no broad, comprehensive plan for Canada is possible unless the various ministers of education should confer and reach a tentative agreement.

In the meantime Nova Scotia does much, Quebec is doing something, and Ontario has begun. Our course in agriculture for the public schools is an excellent one, and the training of teachers in short courses at the Ontario Agricultural College must make for intelligent and careful instruction. The foundation of the national fabric is the farm. By intensive cultivation on a scientific basis the production of food can be enormously increased. In a farming country that is the prime necessity. Industrial training should not be neglected, but it would be well to centralize it in technical schools for the large towns. Agriculture should be the only special utilitarian subject taught in rural public schools. A Provincial conference might be worthy of consideration.

The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its marvellous curative properties. Tight, tickling, or distressing coughs, quickly yield to the healing, soothing action of this splendid prescription — Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so safe and good for children as well. Containing no opium, chloroform or other harmful drugs, mothers should in safety always demand Dr. Shoop's. If other remedies are offered, tell them no! Be your own judge! Sold by all dealers.

VANISHING WILDNESS.

Lieutenant Shackleton Would Like to Explore in Canada.

Lieutenant Shackleton said that he would like to do exploring work in Canada. Now it is announced that Earl Grey will take a journey overland to Hudson Bay over the route of the proposed railroad from the prairie provinces.

Lieutenant Shackleton and Earl Grey are wise, for the days of pioneering and exploring in Canada are coming to an end. There will be a railway to Hudson Bay, and then the great northern area can be visited by timid and lazy men, void of the least spark of the Elizabethan spirit. Instead of tramping and paddling through the wilderness the tourist will be inquiring whether he can get a lower berth and what sort of stuff is served in the dining car. Instead of the sound of wind and water he will listen to the antiphonal snoring of the occupants of the sleeping car.

The Ontario Government Railway will soon be at James Bay. The Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific are heading for Peace River. Already you can travel from near Edmonton to the Arctic ocean on a comfortable steamboat. There is a good deal of territory still unexplored or little known, but the area is being rapidly diminished by railway enterprise.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it univeral preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Imperial Bank of Canada

Proceedings of the Thirty-fifth Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders

Held at the Banking House of the Institution in Toronto, on Wednesday, the 25th May, 1910.

The Thirty-fifth Annual General Meeting of the Imperial Bank of Canada was held in pursuance of the terms of the charter at the Banking House of the Institution, 25th May, 1910.

THE REPORT.

The Directors have much pleasure in submitting to the shareholders their Thirty-fifth Annual Report and Balance Sheet of the affairs of the Bank as on 30th April, 1910, together with the result of the operations of the Bank for the year which ended on that day.

The net profits of the Bank, after making full provision for all bad and doubtful debts, for interest on unmatured bills under discount, and for the payment of all provincial and other taxes, amounted to $762,503.61, which has been applied as follows:—

(a) Dividends have been paid at the rate of 11 per cent. per annum, amounting to	$550,000 00
(b) Bank Premises and Furniture Account has been credited with	40,851 67
(c) Employes' Pension and Guarantee Funds have been credited with	7,500 00
(d) Profit and Loss Account has been increased by	94,306 94

In addition to the Branches referred to in the last Annual Report as being about to be opened, the following additional Branches have been established during the year: In Ontario, at Adelaide and Victoria Streets (Toronto); at Nashville and at Jordan and Vineland (Niagara District); in the Province of Saskatchewan, at Fort Qu'Appelle and Saskatoon; in British Columbia at Moyese and Chase.

Endeavoring to keep pace with the development of the Dominion the Directors under the authority of By-law No. 27, authorizing an increase in the Capital Stock of the Bank, have made an issue of $1,000,000 additional stock, which has been allotted to the shareholders of record on the 30th April, 1910, at a premium of 100 per cent.

The Bank has suffered a grevious loss through the death of our much respected colleague, Mr. Charles Cockshutt, who was elected a Director on 15th June, 1904, and died on 9th February, 1910.

The vacancy on the Board occasioned by Mr. Cockshutt's death has been filled by the appointment of Mr. W. G. Gage, now President of the Board of Trade of the City of Toronto.

The Head Office and Branches of the Bank have been carefully inspected during the year, and your directors have much pleasure in again bearing testimony to the faithful and efficient manner in which the Staff have performed their duties.

R. R. WILKIE,
President.

D. R. WILKIE, General Manager. E. HAY, Assistant General Manager. W. MOFFAT, Chief Inspr.

President's Remarks.

Gentlemen,—I have much pleasure in rising to move the adoption of the Report.

Since our last meeting we have had the great misfortune to lose our esteemed colleague, the late Mr. Charles Cockshutt, who passed away after months of painful illness on the 9th of February last. Mr. Cockshutt's death was not only a severe blow to all those who have been associated with him in the administration of the Bank for the past six years, but it has deprived the Bank of the services of a devoted, unselfish, hard-working Director.

The vacancy occasioned by Mr. Cockshutt's death has been filled by the appointment of Mr. W. J. Gage, who, besides bringing to our councils many excellent qualifications and great experience in business affairs, has been for years a substantial shareholder.

The recent increase in the issued capital of the Bank by $1,000,000 is the result of mature deliberation. The last issue was made in 1906, when the capital of the Bank stood at $4,000,000, and the Deposits and Circulation at $31,500,000. To-day our Capital stands at $5,000,000, with Deposits and Circulation at $45,000,000, with evidences of still further increases in deposits and circulation to come. We think, therefore, in the interest of the Shareholders and of the public, for whose profit and convenience we were brought into existence, that the time has come to avail ourselves in part of the policy approved of by you on 22nd May, 1907.

There can be no question that additional bank capital to keep pace with the development of the resources of the country is needed; there can be no doubt that such additional capital can be supplied more economically by the financial institutions at present in existence than by new organizations. The wonderful development of the resources of the North-West and of British Columbia, coupled with large immigration from the Mother Country and from the United States, and the demands of the additional population upon the manufacturing institutions of the country require a corresponding addition to the banking capital of the Dominion. It is moreover an obligation on the part of the older institutions to do their full share in supplying the needful. We have been in the van in the development of the North-West and of British Columbia, without failing to do our duty to the older provinces, it now becomes necessary for us to look to the future and to be qualified by way of capital and enterprise to remain in the front rank. To that end we have thought it advisable to ask you for your approval of a by-law authorizing additions to the Capital Stock from time to time.

The Increase in Deposits and Circulation during the past year has been from $39,400,000 to $45,300,000.

The opening of eighteen new branches within the year has entailed considerable extra expense, which has been provided for out of the profits of the year. Profits have also suffered from the low rates of interest upon call money which has prevailed in the great reserve centres. There is every indication of better rates in the near future, the result of greater activity in trade and of increasing confidence in the financial situation. Canada however, has no reason to complain; the neglect of railway and industrial securities in the United States, coupled with the political unrest in Great Britain, has brought enormous sums to Canada for investment, which are assisting in the development and utilization of our great natural resources.

Taking the figures which appear in the returns of the Chartered Banks to the Dominion Government as an index of commercial development, we find that the total assets of these institutions have grown from $951,053,557, in 1907 to $1,182,850,000 in 1910 (30th April). The circulation of bank notes has grown from $72,840,909 to $78,776,000, and public deposits in Canada from $584,588,439 to $768,000,000. Current loans, representing for the greater part loans to merchants, manufacturers and agriculturists (irrespective of loans on stocks, bonds and debentures), have grown from $566,149,738 in 1907 to $638,000,000 in 1910 (30th April).

It is estimated by Government and railway officials that there is now under crop in the three North-west Provinces no less than 14,850,000 acres, as compared with 12,465,237 acres in 1909. The total yield of agricultural products in these three provinces in 1909 is valued at $192,838,000. May we not reasonably look for a yield for 1910 of the value of $225,000,000, and yet only six per cent. of the arable lands in these provinces are under cultivation. Farm lands under cultivation in the three provinces mentioned are valued by the statisticians at $23 per acre. The cash value of these lands is, therefore, no less than 341,550,000.

The value of the wheat harvest in the North-west Provinces in 1909 was $121,560,000, as against in the rest of the Dominion only $19,760,000. On the other hand the value of all field crops in Ontario for the same year was $200,303,000, as compared with $193,000,000 in the three Provinces of the North-west. The field crops of Quebec and the Maritime Provinces yielded $140,000,000.

The Eastern Provinces are, therefore, so far as the value of field crops is concerned, still considerably in advance of our great West. The total value of the field crops of all Canada for 1909 was estimated at $533,000,000, the product of 30,065,000 acres cultivated land, as compared with $432,5000,000 in 1908, the product of 27,595,000 acres.

In 1909, over and above the value of agricultural products, fisheries yielded $25,450,000, and minerals $90,376,000, of which $12,382,000 was the product of the silver mines of Cobalt. It is regrettable to note that the gold of British Columbia and the Yukon, and the bulk of the silver of Cobalt and British Columbia still find their way to the smelters, assay offices and mints of the United States, instead of being refined in Canada. The last year we exported of cattle and their products over $51,000,000. Our total exports from all Canada were $362,053,000, of which $20,957,000 were manufactured goods and our total imports $290,206,000, of which $106,172,545 were manufactured goods.

BANK PREMISES.

The responsibility of providing suitable premises for the Bank over the vast territory in which we are represented is a serious problem, and will continue to be so, in view of the fact that in the majority of localities it is more economical for the Bank to provide its own premises than to rent from outsiders, who naturally look for a more substantial return upon their investments in a new country than would satisfy the Bank upon a similar investment of its own Capital. We have, however, nothing to apologize for. Our Bank premises are a sound investment, and yield a handsome return upon their book value. We expended during the year upon new premises $246,851.67. The amount beyond the $200,000 has been provided for out of the profits for the year. At the moment premises are under construction at Cranbrook, Kenora, Prince Albert, Wetaskiwin, South Woodslee and Humberstone.

The Shareholders of the Bank now number 1,327, as compared with 1,322 in 1909.

It will, perhaps, interest you to know that we have at the moment 102 Branches, and sub-branches extending from Quebec to Victoria.

Our staff numbers 663, as compared with 589 in 1909.

RENEWAL OF BANK CHARTERS.

It was fully expected that the decennial revision of bank charters would have taken place during the recent session of the Dominion Parliament, but the demands of public business did not permit of this being done. The existing charters run until 1st July, 1911, so that it will be necessary to dispose of the matter during the course of next session of Parliament. It is not expected that any radical changes will be made in the terms of the charters, unless in the direction of providing additional safeguards in the incorporation and establishment of new institutions.

The population of Canada, which was estimated at 7,145,640 in 1909, is now estimated as on 31st March, 1910, at 7,499,781, and it is to be noted that the increase by way of immigration consists in the main of the most desirable class of settlers.

I have much pleasure, seconded by Senator Jaffray, in moving the adoption of the Report.

The customary motions were made and carried unanimously.

The Scrutineers appointed at the meeting reported the following Shareholders duly elected Directors for the ensuing year: Messrs. D. R. Wilkie, Hon. Robert Jaffray, Wm Ramsay, of Bowland, Ayr, Scotland; Miles Rogers, J. Kerr Osborne, Peleg Howland, Wm Whyte (Winnipeg), Carsten Mulock, Hon. Richard Turner (Quebec), Wm. Hamilton Merritt, M. D. (St. Catherines), W. J. Gage.

Total	407	262	567	116

Or a grand total for the South end sewerage of a majority of 145, and for the fixed taxation at $10,000 of W. Hamilton Co., plant, a majority of 451.

AMERICAN MILLIONS COMING TO CANADA

SETTLERS ALONE EXPECTED TO TAKE MILLIONS TO DOMINION THIS YEAR.

Investment in Industrial Enterprises is Increasing at Greater Rate Than Ever Before.

Ottawa, May 31st.—While every large investment of British capital in Canadian enterprises is attended by publicity, few persons realise the far greater significance, of the constant transfer of American capital to the Dominion. At the present moment American settlers are bringing into the country an amount of money which, it is estimated, will amount to $160,000,000 at the end of this year.

The investment of American manufacturing capital is increasing as never before. At the same time the imports of American merchandise into Canada are larger than ever. Although American exports to the United Kingdom, France, Germany, Belgium and the Netherlands decreased during April 1st, the exports to Canada increased by one-third. Canadian purchases in the American markets in April amounted to $6,670,920.

This clearly shows that a large amount of the American capital brought in by settlers is returned to the United States for the purchase of American goods with which the settler is familiar. At the same time the proportion of this capital which remains in Canada is larger than the proportion of that sent over from England or from the United States for investment in Canadian railways, mines or manufacturing enterprises.

Need Foreign Machinery.

In the latter Canadian industry still is more or less dependent upon foreign machinery. The agriculturist, however, finds it necessary upon settling in the Canadian West to make a large direct expenditure for his land, followed by a considerable outlay for buildings. The American settler particularly is not content, like his forefather, to establish himself in a slab sided shack, but must house himself comfortably and permanently.

Many persons competent to judge consider this exodus of American capital to Canada to be as important to the United States as the gold exportation to Europe, which is so much talked about and to which the stock market frequently seems re-

Glorious Twelfth to Be Celebrated by Many Towns on the Scugog's Banks.

Lindsay Post:—The citizens of Lindsay will see a monster celebration on the 12th of July next, the largest, in fact, ever celebrated in this district. The energetic committee having the affair in hand has been exceedingly busy for some time completing arrangements, and altho the arrangements have not been made for the celebration, still enough has been accomplished to give the citizens an idea of the crowd that will congregate in Lindsay on the glorious Twelfth.

The Sons of King William are coming in big numbers from Bowmanville, Oshawa, Whitby and other points in Ontario County.

Durham and Northumberland will be represented by hundreds of Orange men, the towns of Cobourg and Port Hope sending up their lodges in full strength.

Peterboro city and county lodges will celebrate this year in Lindsay, and then there are the brethren from Victoria and Haliburton counties who are sure to turn out to a man.

Lindsay will see the biggest crowd in its history on July 12th, and the parade promises to be the largest ever held in the Midland district.

A PRETTY WEDDING.

Miss Lona Knapp Becomes the Bride of Mr. P. Smedmor.

On Saturday afternoon a pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Knapp, 178 Rubidge street, which for lack of space was unfortunately omitted in yesterday's issue.

The joyous event was the marriage of Miss Lona Knapp to Mr. P. Smedmor, of London, England. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. J. R. Webb, assisted by Rev. W. Peer. The bride was becomingly attired in a very pretty dress of white embroidery and carried white carnations. Mrs. Westbrook played the wedding march. A wedding breakfast was served in the dining room.

The happy couple left on the 4.38 train for Toronto and other points. They will return to Peterborough and reside on Lake street, where Mrs. Smedmor will be at home after June 12th. The guests from out of town were as follows: Rev. Wm. and Mrs. Peer of Norwood, Mrs. Smith of Port Hope. Mr. and Mrs. Waters of Campbellford, Mr. and Mrs. T. Coon of Havelock, Mrs. Job. Coon of Havelock, Mr. Arthur Coon of Havelock.

Division Court Officers' Pay.

The Annual Report of the Inspector of Division Courts for the Province of Ontario, for 1909 has just come to hand. From this we learn that during the year Mr. Frank Bell, clerk of the Peterboro Court made $1188.65 in investments and Mr. L. Laplante, the Bailiff received $466.93. Mr. Squires, the clerk at Norwood, made $218.25 with his bailiff, Mr. Stewart a close second at $200.00. The clerk at Lakefield got $142.85 when the Apsley clerk received only $31.64.

COURTS MUST SETTLE ATTEMPT TO NULLIFY MIDLAND MARRIAGE

Toronto, May 30.—The marriage of Miss Hannah M. Robertson, a young woman, to Mr. Michael Fraser, a wealthy old man of 84, living at Midland, came up before Mr. Justice Riddell, in the form of an application of Mrs. Fraser for an order dismissing the action instituted by a next of kin to have her marriage declared annullity. The application was refused, and a trial will be held on the issue of Mr. Fraser's sanity. Miss Catherine McCormick, the daughter of a first cousin of Mr. Fraser and her brother, had instituted proceedings to declare the marriage void on account of mental incapacity of the bridegroom. Among the letters produced in court by Mrs. Fraser was an affidavit of the husband, declaring he had never been so happy in his life, also communications from doctors and friends.

Husband Shoots Wife and a Catholic Priest

St. Paul, Minn., May 30.— P. J. Gibbons, the commission man, who last night shot and killed his wife in their home in St. Paul, and later shot Father E. J. Walsh, the young pastor of St. Augustine's Catholic church, talked freely of his deed today at the Ramsey County jail in Paul, where he is confined.

"It's a peculiar world, looking at it from any angle," he said. "I've viewed it several ways, and don't know much about it yet. I had a wife who didn't care for me, but liked the companionship of others. She had children who were my children—the mother of eight children. She couldn't have cared for them or for me either.

WAS HELL ON EARTH.

"I knew her treachery for more than a year but said nothing. She suspected I knew. We lived that way until today; for me hell on earth, for her, I don't know, and she can't tell. It is all over now. I am at peace with myself, let follow what may.

"When Father Walsh came to South St. Paul I was jubilant. He appeared such a nice fellow that I went to him and volunteered to give what support was in my power. He thanked me and we became friends. Then followed a game of treachery and deceit—a game that I was not in on, yet deeply interested in.

VISITS BECAME FREQUENT.

"I had invited Father Walsh to my house and introduced him to my wife and family. I first grew suspicious about a year ago. My wife received a new silk dress by express. The package came to my office. I don't remember from where. When I asked her who gave it to her, she told me the women of the church society because of her active work. But her explanation did not satisfy me.

"The visits of Father Walsh were becoming too frequent to please me. He appeared at my home afternoons when I was at my office and spent hours in the company of Mrs. Gibbons. Sometimes my children were present, but more often not. I said nothing to my wife—never mentioned that I thought anything of the frequent visits, had planned my little game, which worked so successfully."

Of the scores of South St. Paul residents who discussed the tragedy last night, not one could be found who breathed a word against Mrs. Gibbon's character.

"She was a model wife and mother, a good and devout woman," was the substance of what everyone who knew her had to say.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham trying to Solve the Trent Canal Problem

Ottawa, May 30.—In his endeavors to develop the water powers incident to the construction of the Trent Canal, the Minister of Railways and Canals is confronted with many intricacies. The rights of the property owners along the river vary according to the date at which the patents were granted. Thus some own the bed of the river opposite their property while others do not. At points dams have been owned by private individuals for years.

Navigation is the first consideration but power at reasonable rates also claims the attention of the government. The policy of private ownership and public control is being tried, the power being leased at a low rental and stringent conditions of development attached. The control of rates will be placed in the hands of the Railway Commissioners. It is hoped that this part of the Province which has suffered from a lack of power will soon have an ample supply at a fair price.

G. T. R. DIVISIONAL SUPERINTENDENT TIFFIN IS CALLED BY DEATH

Barrie, May 30.—W. R. Tiffin, superintendent of the northern division of the G.T.R., died here last night after a two weeks' illness from paralysis of the throat.

On the 24th of April Mr. Tiffin completed his 50th year with the Grand Trunk, having entered the service when a boy of fifteen. Since the commencement of Mr. Tiffin's illness, Assistant Supt. P. J. Lynch has been acting superintendent.

Mr. Tiffin was an active worker in Trinity church, having been warden for several years, and also took an enthusiastic interest in all town affairs.

Mr. Tiffin, general traffic manager of the I.C.R., is a brother.

The interment will take place at London.

RENTS IN S. AFRICA

SITUATION OF MUCH CONCERN TO WORKERS.

Two Thousand New Citizens Expected in the Country—Through the Union of the Provinces.

Johannesburg, May 31st.—The position of Pretoria at the present moment affords a strong argument in favor of land clauses of Mr. Lloyd George's Budget. Two thousand officials, mostly married, will be shortly added to the population on account of the Union of South Africa. In view of this fact rents are bounding up 25 per cent. monthly. The first newcomers will be paying a quarter of their incomes in rent, and their successors expect to pay about half their incomes to secure adequate accommodation.

The consequent reduction of the purchasing power of salaries has caused a violent reaction among coastal officials, who wish to escape from the so-called promotion to a seat on the Union Executive.

The housing accommodation in Pretoria besides cramped, lacks many of the conveniences of the older towns.

The present population is also groaning under the higher expense of living, and thousands of artisans will be imported to carry out the enormous government and municipal programmes, involving a total expenditure of £20,000,000, during the next four years. At the present time, houses are unprocurable.

Artisans in Pretoria are already paying $5 a month more in rent, and expect to have to pay another $5. Wages are likely to make a sharp rise.

The present situation in Pretoria can only be compared to that immediately after peace, when, owing to the dearness of land, artisans and professionals moved wholesale some miles distant to boggy and malarious suburbs, the efficient municipalizing of which would involve an expenditure of $15,000,000.

There is plenty of vacant land within Pretoria, but it is very tightly held, every councillor being a holder. Meanwhile, there are a number of Randites who as a speculation are laying out suburbs about four miles from the centre of Pretoria.

The contract for the building of the third portion of the Capitol for the South African Union at Pretoria has been signed, the amount being $1,280,000.

A LOCAL ORANGEMAN

Mr. W. H. G. Armstrong has Made Good in Saskatchewan.

Mr. W. H. G. Armstrong, of Saskatoon, organizer for the Orange Lodges for the Province of Saskatchewan, and formerly of this city, is in Peterborough for a few days, the guest of Mr. Percy Fuller, Mark St. Ashburnham. Mr. Armstrong attended the annual convention of the Orange Grand Lodge at Brantford. It is a year since Mr. Armstrong left for the West, and is that time he has organized twenty-one new lodges in the far-off Prairie Province. Mr. Armstrong expects to remain a week in Peterborough.

GLENN H. CURTISS' GREAT FEAT COMPELS ATTENTION OF ENTIRE WORLD.

It Is Now Held By Authorities That His Journey Proves Availibility of Aeroplane in Cross-Country Flights of Indefinite Length and Direction.

Curtiss Adds Another Notable Flight to Those of Blerlot and Paulhan —Wins York World's Big Prize.

New York, May 30.—Admirers of Glenn H. Curtiss today thronged the corridors of the Hotel Astor to congratulate the aviator on his Albany-New York flight, which puts him the forefront of the aviator world.

Fatigued by the strain of his 150 mile journey, covered in two hours and forty-six minutes, and by the reception accorded him by enthusiastic New Yorkers, Curtiss rested late today. When he appeared he was lionized by enthusiastic throngs.

While the enthusiasm over his remarkable performance—in many respects called the most wonderful flight ever made—still rages, a challenge for a more daring flight was made today by Charles K. Hamilton, the aviator, who came here from Florida last week to strive for the New York World's $10,000 prize in case Curtiss should fail.

FROM NEW YORK TO CHICAGO.

Curtiss' success and receipt of the prize today led to a proposal by Hamilton, of a New York Chicago race.

"I have no desire to disparage Mr. Curtiss," said Hamilton, "but the Albany-New York flight is exceptionally easy, particularly with the stops allowed.

"It will not be more than two months before feats will be done in the air that will make this seem insignificant.

"It would be magnificent if a good prize were offered for a flight from New York to Chicago."

BURIED YESTERDAY.

Last Mortal Remains of Mrs. Thos. White Interred in Little Lake Cemetery.

Yesterday afternoon the last mortal remains of the late Mrs. Thomas White were laid to rest in Little Lake cemetery. Rev. C. H. Coon officiating. The late Mrs. White who died suddenly at her residence, 117 James street, had been ill for some weeks. She was fifty-three years of age, and had been a resident of Ashburnham practically all her life. Her maiden name was Elizabeth Jane Emery. She was a member of Mark street Methodist church. Her husband and four sons are left to mourn her loss.

DIED AT INDIA RIVER.

Mr. Martin Guerin, a Well Known Resident Buried Yesterday.

Indian River has lost one of its oldest and best known citizens in the person of Mr. Martin Guerin, who died at that village on Saturday. Mr. Guerin had been ill for some three weeks. The deceased was interred yesterday morning in St. Joseph's cemetery, Douro. He is survived by his wife, whose maiden name was Miss Johanna Meade, and eight sons and one daughter, namely Michael, of Peterborough; Dennis, and Frank of Ashburnham; Morris, James and William, John and Martin, of British Columbia and Mrs. Harry Stratton of Rochester.

FRESH AT NIGHT.

If One Uses the Right Kind of Food.

If by proper selection of food one can feel strong and fresh at the end of a day's work, it is worth while to know the kind of food that will produce this result.

A school teacher out in Kans. says in this connection:

"I commenced the use of Grape-Nuts food five months ago. At that time my health was so poor that I thought I would have to give up my work altogether. I was rapidly losing in weight, had little appetite, was nervous and sleepless, and experienced, almost constantly, a feeling of exhaustion.

"I tried various remedies without good results; then I determined to give particular attention to my food, and have learned something of the properties of Grape-Nuts for rebuilding the brain and nerves.

"I commenced using Grape-Nuts and have since made a constant and rapid improvement in health, in spite of the fact that all this time I have been engaged in the most strenuous and exacting work.

"I have gained twelve pounds in weight, and have a good appetite, my nerves are steady and I sleep sound. I have such strength and reserve force that I feel almost as strong and fresh at the close of a day's work as at the beginning.

"Before using Grape-Nuts I was troubled much with weak eyes but as my vitality increased the eyes became stronger.

"I never heard of food as nutritious and economical as Grape-Nuts."

Plan to Keep British Immigrants in Empire

Conference of 44 Societies in London Hopes to Divert Stream from the U. S.— Dundonald's Municipal Colonies

London, May 30.—A conference convened by the Royal Colonial Institute opened today with the object of considering the question of diverting the stream of British emigration now going outside of the Empire, and the question of emigration generally from the United Kingdom to the British Dominions oversea. Among the subjects submitted by the institution for discussion was the possibility of some measure of co-operation among the emigration societies and the possibility of utilizing labor exchanges for emigration, and the suggestion that the government call a subsidiary conference for the formulation of proposals for submission to the Imperial Conference in 1911.

Sir J. B. Edwards, president of the forty-four societies who sent delegates to show how great a stream of persons were going outside of the Empire, mentioned that last year 110,000 emigrants went to the United States and only 26,000 to Canada, 27,000 to Australia and New Zealand, and 22,000 to the Cape.

Lord Dundonald opened the discussion. He expressed the view that this country neglected the resources which the valor of our ancestors had placed at the disposal of the nation. Our emigration problems would be best solved by the great centers of population acquiring fertile estates throughout the empire where they could send those who could not get work in this country. He believed the investment in such an estate would be amply remunerative, the prospects being that they would get their money back with 100 per cent. increase.

USE OF ELECTRICITY.

London, May 30.—Sir J. Grant, in an interview, stated that the action of electricity on the human system was only in its infancy. The day was not far distant when thousands who are suffering from debility as the result of the imperfect assimilation of food and the defective power of the blood will have such deficiencies corrected to a remarkable degree by the scientific application of electric massage to the great ganglionic blood centers.

"I feel confident," he said, "that we are at the commencement of a discovery of the uses of electricity, which for years has been employed more as a toy than anything else."

OPEN-AIR CONCERTS.

Regimental Band Will Open Season at Victoria Park on Friday Evening.

The series of summer concerts by the 57th Regimental Band will commence in Victoria Park on Friday of this week, weather permitting. Mr. Gliddon has arranged a choice program for the opening concert, an entirely new repertoire of selections being given. Following is the list:

March, Argandab—Thomas.
Overture, Semeramide—Rossin.
Cornet Solo, Flocktonian Polka,—Casey.
Sergeant Hughes.
Barn Dance—Henry Mills.
Selection, Songs of 1863—Colvin.
Reminiscenses of Planation —Chambers.
Potpourri, Popular Songs of the Day—Henry Mills.
Frozen Hill, grotesque—Pryor.
March, Forest King—Peters.
God Save the King.

SUMMER AMUSEMENT.

W. A. Edwards Opens the Grand Opera House With Good Bill.

Last night a new era arose in amusement circles in Peterborough. For years the city has been somewhat deficient in theatrical attractions in the hot weather. On Monday night Mr. W. A. Edwards opened up the Grand Opera House with a superb cast of vaudeville artists. This included Conger and Odin in a very funny comedy sketch. Also the great Weber. The word "great" has been used advisedly. Weber is one of the cleverest change artists and musical impersonators ever seen on the boards in Peterborough. The little Long Sisters, ever favorites with a local audience, presented a new song which drew a round of applause. Other attractions were offered, including talking pictures. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson in this feature made one of the leading attractions of the evening. To summarize in the fewest words, it looks as though Peterborough is going to get clean, cheap, interesting vaudeville acts, at little cost, through the coming summer.

AN ACTOR'S SUIT.

High Court Will Open Sessions Here On Monday Next.

A week from yesterday, the Non-Jury Sittings of the High Court will open at the court house, when it is expected Mr. Justice Middleton will preside. Mr. Justice Magee was to have presided, but his presence at the Court of Appeal will, no no doubt, prevent his coming here. It is understood that there are not many cases to be heard. Parties have until Thursday to file them.

The Times is given to understand that among the cases to be heard is that of a vaudeville actor, for $100 damages for breach of contract. This case arose from the vaudeville actor coming here to do a three days' turn. For reasons of his own, the moving picture house proprietor put this actor, who has since "made good," on for one day and then told him his services were no longer required.

THE WEATHER.

Cloudy and cool.

IT'S CORBY'S.

Peterborough Adorned by Lithographs of Belleville's Extract de Cora.

During the past few days the various bill boards of the city have been adorned by a handsome gotten out lithograph or poster describing the merits of Corby's whiskey. The huge poster shows an English squire, evidently returned from the strenuous efforts of the hunt, fallen asleep. A tramp passing by sees on the squire's table a bottle of Corby's whisky. The knight of the road picks up a long straw from the wayside and, inserting it through the open window taps the bottle of "Corby's" The Weary Willie's smiling face demonstrates that he like his aristocratic neighbors, knows a good brand of stimulant when he sees it. Whilst newspaper men are never supposed to know anything about the various brands of whisky, it is common report that Corby's whisky is the kind that gives a gentle stimulant and life restoring vim without containing a headache in a barrelfull.

MEN CHOSEN FOR ALBERTA CABINET

PREMIER SIFTON WILL TAKE THE MINISTER OF EDUCATION HIMSELF.

Duncan Marshall In It—He Will Get Portfolio of Agriculture— Other Probable Choices.

Edmonton, May 30.—It is stated on good authority that the following will be in the cabinet which Premier A. L. Sifton will announce on Wednesday:

Premier and Minister of Education —A. L. Sifton.

Minister of Public Works— A. J. McLean.

Minister of Agriculture— Duncan Marshall.

Attorney-General — Judge C. H. Mitchell, Medicine Hat.

Mitchell's election is believed to be assured, and Duncan Marshall, while he was a member of the Rutherford Administration, was but a recruit, entering the Government after the Waterways deal was consummated.

Another probable choice of the premier is Dr. Warnock, of Pincher Creek.

PRESBYTERIANISM IN CANADA.

Loodon, May 30.—At the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, Dr. Norman Macleod claimed that no finer work was being done than by the Presbyterian Church in Canada in the far West. He appealed for further help from Scotland.

Lord Balfour of Burleigh agreed, and said that the work of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was worthy of the Scottish race. What is now being spent in Canada would be repaid a thousandfold by the loyalty of a great people who would become one of the greatest nations of the world.

IMPERIAL FELLOWSHIP.

In the new King's message to the people of the "over seas dominions" reference is made to "the affectionate loyalty which holds together many lands and diverse peoples in one glorious fellowship." A contemporary says that it is through attachment to the Crown that the Empire is kept intact. "Were the Crown to disappear there would be nothing to hold the Empire together." The sovereign as an impartial head, removed from party strife, and possessing the confidence of all, undoubtedly plays an important part in the British constitution. But personal loyalty ought not to be regarded as the only basis of "fellowship." That word describes very happily the relations of the various British communities. It implies equality so far as that word can be rationally used. It implies a sympathy which, being extended to men of various races, living under widely differing conditions, must be cosmopolitan in breadth.

As to equality there is now something like general agreement. Men who had advocated independence for Canada have been accused of working for separation. What they probably had in view was equality. The word is, of course, used in its reasonable sense. No two countries are precisely equal, just as no two persons are precisely equal. There is, however, a real and practical equality, and it is best described by the word "fellowship." Obviously, as Canada grew in wealth and population, and as its vast estate was developed, the old relation of dependence upon the United Kingdom, the relation of child to mother, could not be maintained. That is seen today. When Canada has eight millions of people, and it will be seen more clearly still when Canada has a population equal to that of England. So with Australia and South Africa. The self-governing colonies will not adjust themselves to Imperialism. Imperialism must adjust themselves to Imperialism! Imperialism must adjust itself to the colonies, or rather to the conditions of the whole group of British commonwealths. Institutions must be the servants, not the masters, of humanity.

Fellowship involves the study of people and social problems, problems of humanity, not only in Canada, not only in the United Kingdom, but in India, Australia, and South Africa. It involves the cultivation of breadth of mind, of a willingness to look at matters from various points of view. India alone is a wonderful study. He would be a rash man who would claim to understand India, but even an honest effort to understand it in part would be a liberal education.

Even where there are no racial differences, differences are created by environment. There is a distinct Canadian type, a distinct Australian type, just as there is a distinct English or Scotch type. Climate, scenery, (the customs rendered necessary by the struggle for existence all help to mould character. When you have a man who can travel all through the whole British Empire, enjoying instead of quarrelling with novelties and varieties of speech and custom, you have a man of practically cosmopolitan breadth and sympathy, a man who understands the meaning of "fellowship" and of "citizenship" in a world-wide Empire.

HEADING FOR PEACE RIVER.

In 1673 the Canadian Pacific Railway project wrecked a government, but the project itself was good, and was carried out in the eighties. The Great Waterways project caused a political crisis in Alberta, but the project itself is good. Two great railway companies are now racing for the Peace River. The Edmonton Bulletin tells how the C.N.R. Company went to the Railway Department at Ottawa to get plans approved for a railway into the Peace River District, only to find that the G.T.P. had got there ahead of them with plans and profiles and had these approved in December last. Decision on the C.N.R. application was, therefore, until the companies have a chance to get together and arrange a division of the territory between them. "So far as prospectt go, therefore, the people in Peace River, the there, have now two pr those who want to see others get there, have now two prospects where they formerly had one."

That phrase "division of the territory between them" sounds rather ominous, but there is little doubt that the next few years will witness a marvellous development of the country north of Edmonton, and that the great system of rivers and lakes will be sought not only by settlers, but by tourists seeking fresh sensations. Having got as far west as possible we are now discovering that our country has breadth as well as length. Northward the star of empire takes its way. Northern Ontario, Northern Saskatchewan and Alberta are being developed, and we may soon look for an era of railway building in Northern British Columbia.

IN GRAVE DANGER.

A. J. Balfour, in an address before the Primrose League, declares he believes the British constitution is in grave danger because the Government of Britain desires that a majority of the House of Commons shall be master. He foresees a revolution ahead, a revolution masquerading under the cloak of a device for preventing friction between the two legislative chambers.

Just what grounds there are for the former Prime Minister's views is not apparent. It is true the battle between Lords and Commons has resulted disastrously for the former, but because the elected representatives of the people wish to curb the powers of a hereditary chamber on financial matters does not give cause for the alarm that a social evolution is impending. But granting that public opinion is fermented, that there is a liklihood of a social and political revolution, should it be stemmed if such is necessary to maintain the principle of representative government in its entirety?

The old conservative, almost bureaucratic, tendencies of England must gradually undergo reform if Britain is to keep her place at the head of nations. The people of today are the forces that rule—not the family traditions of the past.

The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its marvellous curative properties. Tight, tickling, or distressing coughs quickly yield to the healing, soothing action of this splendid prescription—Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so safe and good for children as well. Containing no opium, chloroform or other harmful drugs, mothers should in safety always demand Dr. Shoop's. If other remedies are offered, tell them no! Be your own judge! Sold by all dealers.

A GOOD PROPOSAL.

The cool proposal by the United States manufacturers that their Government should contribute a portion of the cost of a canal through Ontario, by which the products of the West might find a more ready outlet to the seaboard, may have been prompted by the best of good feeling toward Canada, but it ought not to receive a moment's favorable consideration. When this country is in need of canals it can build them, and it can even build some for which it has no use, like the Newmarket ditch.

"If I had never gone, Jessica!" he exclaimed. "Then I might have seen my father. But I didn't know"—

She clasped her hands together. "You know now? You remember it all?"

He shook his head. "I have been there"—he pointed to the hillside—"and

"The prodigal is yourself."

I have guessed who it is that lies there. I know I sinned against him and against myself and left him to die unforgiving. That is what the statue said to me, as he must have said, 'I am no more worthy to be called thy son.'"

"Ah," she cried, "he knew and he forgave you, Hugh! His last thought was of your coming. That is why I carved the figure there."

"You carved it?" he exclaimed. She bent her forehead to his hands as they clasped her own.

"The prodigal is yourself," she said. "I modeled it once before when you came back to him, in the time you have forgotten. But I destroyed it"—the words were very low now—"on my wedding day."

His hands released hers, and, looking up, she saw, even in the moonlight, that with the last word his face had gone ghastly white. At the sight timidity, maidenly reserve, fell, and all the woman in her rushed uppermost. She lifted her arms and clasped his face.

"Hugh," she cried, "can't you remember? Don't you understand? Think: I was blind, dear, blind. A white bandage was across my eyes, and you came to me in a shaded room. Why did you come to me?"

A spark seemed to dart through his brain like the prickling discharge from a Leyden jar. He saw himself standing, facing a figure with bandaged eyes. He saw the bandage torn off, felt that yielding body in his arms, heard a voice—her voice—crying: 'Hugh, Hugh! My husband!' and felt those lips pressed to his own in the sweet air of a darkened room.

A cry broke from his lips: "Yes, yes, I remember! Jessica, my wife!" His arms went round her, and, with a little sob, she nestled close to him on the doorstep.

* * * * * * *

That hour on the mountain side under the stars had left Harry possessed of a melee of perplexing emotions. Dreaming and waking Jessica's face hung before his eyes, her voice sound ed in his ear. The future held no longer any doubt; it held only her. Where was that future to be? Back in the city to which his painful curiosity had so lately driven him? This lay no longer in his own choice. It was for her to decide now—Jessica, his wife.

He looked up transfixed, for she stood there before him ankle deep in a brown whirlwind of leaves from a frost stung oak, her hand to her cheek in an adorable gesture that he knew, her lips parted and eager.

"I wanted so to find you," she said. "I have so many, many things to say."

"It is all wonderfully strange and new," he said. "It is as though I had rubbed Aladdin's lamp and suddenly had my heart's desire. How could I have thrown my pearl away?"

"We are not to think of that," she protested, "never, never any more."

"You are right," he rejoined cheerfully. "It is what is to come that we must think of." He paused an instant; then he said:

"Last night when you told me of the white house in the aspens I did not tell you that I had just come from there—from Aniston."

She made an exclamation of wonder. "Tell me," she said.

Sitting with her hand in his, he told of that night's experiences, the fear that had held him as he gazed at her portrait in the library, the secret of the Korean dirk that had solaced his misery and sent him back to the father he was not to see.

At mention of the will she threw out her hand with a passionate gesture. "The money is not mine!" she cried. "It is yours! He intended to change it! He told me so the day he died! Oh, if you think I"—

"No, no," he said gently. "There is no resentment, no false pride, in my love, Jessica. I am thinking of you and of Aniston. You would have me"

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product of any kind enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

AUTOGRAPH OF CHRIST FOUND.

Manuscript Discovered in Vienna Shop Wins Scholars' Faith.

Vienna, May 31st.—An autograph message of Jesus Christ to His people is said to have been found in a bric-a-brac shop here by a respected Jewish citizen, who picked it up for sale. The manuscript is in the form among a lot of old books offered for sale. Hebrew language and scholars versed in the ancient tongue who have made a minute examination of it are said to have declared it genuine. The manuscript has been photographed and will be sent to scholars throughout Europe. The original is on deposit in a Vienna bank.

CREMATIONS IN ENGLAND.

There Was a Large Increase in the Old Country Last Year.

London, May 31st.—The movement in favor of cremation in England continues to make slow progress, writes the London correspondent of the New York Medical Journal. During 1909 the number of cremations carried out in Great Britain was 855 an advance of sixty as compared with 1908.

The first crematorium in England was opened at Woking in 1885 and the total number of cremations since that time is 9,121. There are now altogether thirteen crematoria in Great Britain and this number will probably soon be increased. The Cremation Society of England has been very active in its propaganda work and public interest is slowly being aroused.

Recently a cremation society was formed in Edinburgh. The object of the society is to promote the practice of cremation and burial reform by means of meetings, lectures and publications or otherwise. There are already about 160 members, including many well known persons.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!

How you would not willingly pay for the good that you would first know!

Then why pay for medicine until that medicine first proves to you its actual worth?

Positively knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for you, isn't it plain why you should not pay unproved?

I gratuitously place it to this risk: you take Dr. Shoop's Restorative to absolutely be free if it fails. Let others do the experimenting with a sick body. Let others do the guessing as to what ails you. Let others do the uncertain trifling with your precious health. Let others do the paying. Let me prove to you by my way.

I positively place it to this risk: you take Dr. Shoop's Restorative to absolutely be free if it fails. Let others do the experimenting with a sick body. Let others do the guessing as to what ails you. Let others do the uncertain trifling with your precious health. Let others do the paying. Let me prove to you by my way.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, you may accurately so say by a mere like basic symptoms by.

If you have Stomach, Heart, or Kidney trouble, then test Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I do not say it will make you well as the Heart or Kidneys are sure, but that is wrong. You prove I surprise the publisher's ideas in medicine. The burden is on me to tell you how I am accomplishing.

These books also tell of a new method for the nerves, no larger than a fifteen thousandth of an inch, and Dr. Shoop's Restorative will tell how that nerve, until it fails, actually controls the Heart in power, in tone, in action, in color or in health.

These books will open up new and larger fields to those who are sick. They will show you how to make real health. They will show you why we failing to restore, and of course why I am able to say, as in fact I DO:

This is why I say "Take no chances on a medicine whose maker dare not back it as I do by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the offer.

I have specialized Heart and nerve troubles in nearly every community to learn conditions to the limit.

But write me first for the offer.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative but all are not authorized to give you 30 days' test. So drop me a line or a postal and I will send you prepaid and postpaid the new book you need.

A postal will do.

Before you are done to-morrow you can at least write for the book. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have had specialists' opinions by my private system of personal advice plan. My best effort is at your service. Write me now while you think of it. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 15, Racine, Wis.

HOW TO GET ON CAR TAUGHT.

New Study Added to Night School Girls' Course in Brooklyn.

New York, May 30. — The latest addition to the equipment of the big Brooklyn high school is a piece of gymnasium apparatus designed to teach girls to get on and off street cars properly.

It is a quaint contrivance that in general design looks like a hand car. But it has a step exactly the same in size, position and distance from the ground as those on an ordinary street car.

Six girls propel the car at a good rate of speed around the track. At certain points there are "stations," where other girls are waiting. There the girls on the car practice descending and the others getting aboard.

They must wait till the car is stationary. When they get off they must be facing the direction in which the car is going. They must take hold of the hand rail, both ascending and descending.

Miss May McGibbon returned yesterday after a pleasant visit with friends in Peterborough.—Port Hope Guide.

32 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ontario

—A prosperous farmer in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska or some other Western State decides to sell his farm and emigrate to Canada. He usually finds a customer in a neighbor. The farmer not only withdraws from his local bank all his cash capital, but his neighbor usually applies to the same bank for a loan with which to make the purchase. Immediately the purchase money is paid the emigrant carries the cash to Canada.

Take Average of $1,000.

It has been estimated reliably that every man, woman and child settling in Canada brings into the country on an average $1,000. Since the emigration from the United States to the prairie provinces is expected to amount to 150,000 persons this year, the flow of capital across the border will be enormous even compared with the direct investment of British capital in Canada.

Mr. William MacKenzie, who, with Mr. Daniel Mann, controls the Canadian Northern Railway, its affiliated steamship lines and many other large industrial enterprise, is the most active agent in stimulating British investment. For the various enterprises Mr. MacKenzie obtained in London recently not less than $40,000,000.

There exists at present the somewhat peculiar condition that Canada is taking gold from New York despite the remarkable increase of imports from the United States. During April the Canadian banks drew no less than $1,150,000 in gold from the United States. Meanwhile American industries show a disposition even more eager than hitherto to establish branches in Canada. Hamilton, Ontario, continues to attract American agricultural implement factories.

Boys Up for Damaging C.P.R. Goods

It seems that the C.P.R. and particularly the local officials of Canada's leading transcontinental railroad are tired of vandalism by irresponsible boys. This morning six youngsters will be arraigned before Magistrate Dumble on the charge of breaking windows and destroying property of the company.

Local Contractor at Orillia.

Work on the building of the new Catholic church began yesterday, the contractor, Mr. R. Sheehy of Peterborough, being personally in charge He will rush the work of tearing down the old church and getting the foundation ready for the laying of the corner stone which is expected to take place on June 19th, when Archbishop McEvey will be here. — Orillia News-Letter.

Confirmation at Sacred Heart Church.

Last Sunday for the first time the congregation of the Sacred Heart church, witnessed the administration of first communion and confirmation in their new church. His Lordship Bishop O'Connor celebrated mass at 8.30, and during the celebration holy communion was received by 77 children. In the afternoon his lordship gave a sermon to the children, who later on received confirmation.

Another Patent for Local Man.

Still more glory comes to Peterborough. In these columns we have noted the names of several local citizens who have secured patents for their respective inventions. The latest patent awarded to a Peterborough man comes to Mr. William H. L. Mellis, who has been granted a patent on an automatic regulating device for breakers and similar apparatus, and is said to be of the greatest use. Mr. Mellis is a foreman in the Canadian General Electric Works, and is to be congratulated upon his success.

ARE YOU IN DANGER?

You May Be Neglecting a Small Ailment and Thereby Inviting Serious Danger.

That little maladies grow into serious diseases we all know. Upon the stomach, liver and kidneys, rest mainly the work of maintaining health. Most of your little sickness come from derangement of these organs. Experience proves they are very frequently out of order, not badly perhaps, but even if only slightly out of order, it acts upon the strength and regularity of the the mind and the spirits and upon system.

It won't pay you to neglect your health; at the first sign of headache or langor take Dr. Hamilton's Pills and note how bright you feel next morning. You'll have a grand appetite, enjoy your breakfast and feel full of energy to go to work upon.

Your food soon tastes so good that you can eat more than ever before and, of course, you grow strong er, ruddy, vivacious, just sparkling with energy and good health.

Soon your friends will notice the improvement, and by continuing to tone up your system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills you lay the sound foundation of permanent good health.

There is no medicine better for men, women or children, nothing for family use half so beneficial as Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. To look well, keep well, and feel well, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Funeral in Douro Today.

A well known resident of Douro passed away Sunday morning in Toronto, in the person of Mr. Sweeney, recently a resident of Indian River, His wife, two daughters, Mrs. Fitzgerald of Douro, and Mrs. E. Corkery of Ennismore, and two sons, James of Ennismore, and Thomas of Toronto, are left to mourn his loss. The funeral will take place today at ten o'clock from Mrs. Fitzgerald's residence in Douro.

Absent Treatment Recommended.

Editor of Morning Times,

Sir,—The gentleman who does the watering stunt on George Street lingers too long on the crossings. Of course citizens of mature age can wade, but many of the youngsters haven't learned to swim yet, and on the whole it would be considered a kind act, if the watering cart would give the crossings absent treatment.

Little Local Lines

Yesterday the north clock on the Post Office tower seemed to have suffered from that tired feeling and refused to go.

In reply to a question put by The Times yesterday evening, Mr. F. Kerr of Dennistoun, Peck & Kerr, stated that no word has as yet been received from Ottawa of a reprieve for the young man Henderson now awaiting execution here on June 23rd.

Returning officers at the various polling places yesterday, noted that an apathetic symptom seemed to be evidenced over the bylaws voted on.

Mr. W. Miles, 547 Weller street, has already raised potatoes ready for the market. He is miles ahead of all competitors yet heard from.

When on his trip to the Old Country, Mr. J. J. Turner, Sr., had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Mallett, a former assistant superintendent of the C.G.E., but now with a large firm manufacturing cranes in London and Manchester.

A gentleman on George street yesterday morning remarked "The man who did not hear the thunder Sunday night either has a clear conscience or had tarried with the anti-local option products.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it univeral preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

VOL. XXXI NO. 124 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO WEDNESDAY JUNE 1 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

Thinks the Mother Country a Fool

COL. LAMB'S VIEW ON BRITAIN'S ATTITUDE TOWARDS HER COLONIES.

No "Tag" Kept on Them—The Kind of Settlers That Canada Requires—Mr. Aikin Speaks of Ambition of the Dominion.

London, May 31.—At the Emigration conference today, Col. Lamb, of the Salvation Army, said that the [illegible]ments of the colonies were [illegible]own. They wanted people [illegible]ally firm, and morally without [illegible]smith, who did not drink, did not tell lies, and did not intend to; also men who did not covet their neighbor's land, had some agricultural knowledge and capital.

He did not blame themwhen he remembered that this country was fool enough to part with everything after they had fought for these territories, at a tremendous cost of blood and treasure, without keeping any "tag" on it—he did not blame the colonies if they took advantage of the fools, as all the world did. (Laughter.)

But he would like to see the unearned increment value set aside for emigration purposes.

WANT THE RIGHT SORT.

J. M. Aikin, K.C., defended the Canadian regulations. Canadians thought that the population which was not good enough for England, was not good enough for them; but the Dominion could not have too many settlers of the right sort. They had an ambition that Canada one day might become the heart of the Empire. That did not imply that they thought Britain decadent. Canada must necessarily become a great power; they were prepared to accept settlers, but only the right sort.

CADETS DID WELL.

Col. Young Compliments Peterborough Boy Soldiers in Their Deportment.

Yesterday afternoon a number of Canada's coming soldiers, bravely marched to Riverside Park. The martial music, well rendered, kept the Cadet Corps of the local Collegiate Institute in step. The boys did as well and, as far as deportment and marching is concerned, looked as well as a corps of veterans. Good alignment and perfect step was the order of the day. On the way to inspection, along Water street, the senior members, armed with rifles, led the way, the boys getting younger as the procession passed by. Peterborough has no reason to apologize for her school cadets. More than a hundred and a quarter of the city's brightest boys took part. Their bugle band, formed during the past year, headed the parade, and played most creditably. At the grounds company and battalion drill were performed with soldierly precision that reflected great credit upon the boys and their instructor, Lieut. J. E. Hodgson. The inspecting officer, Col. Young, addressed the cadets briefly, complimenting them upon the improvement that had been made in their work since he had seen them last and upon the soldierly manner in which they had performed.

The cadets were in command of Major Hall.

Charges are False, says The Golden Rule Chief

Cleveland, Ohio, May 31.—Frederick Kohler, suspended chief of police, and known as the "Golden Rule" Chief, commended by President Roosevelt, today appeared to defend him against charges of misconduct in office, immorality and intoxication.

The trial promises to be one of the most sensational which has occurred in police circles in years.

His first action today was filing a denial of the twenty-three seperate offences charged against him.

A GREAT CROWD.

The hearing today was before a great crowd and hundreds had to be turned away from the commission's room, so great was the crush. Kohler was greeted with applause. His counsel is W. H. Boyd, a prominent criminal lawyer, while the prosecution is in the hands of C. V. McMahon, Democratic and ex-persecuting attorney and J. P. Dawley, a noted criminal lawyer.

RUMORS OF DEPARTURES.

A sensation was caused this afternoon by the circulation of a report that at least three material witnesses, two for the prosecution, and one for the defence, have left town, and cannot be found. The principals in the case refuse to discuss this phase of it.

The charge against Kohler are comprehensive and cover a wide ground, including an allegation of malevolency in office and intimations of graft.

FEELING RUNS HIGH.

The crowd was demonstrative. When Kohler's attorney demanded a segregation of witnesses and a score or so of men arose and left the room, they were jeered by the chief's adherents in the gallery.

FATHER STRANGLED FIVE-YEAR-OLD SON TO DEATH AND THEN CUT HIS OWN THROAT WITH RAZOR

Moose Jaw., Sask., May 31. — Moses Smith, living with his married son, six miles south of Brownlee, strangled his five-year-old son last night, and then attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a razor. He succeeded in inflicting three gashes across his throat, severing the jugular vein, but the injuries, though serious, are not likely to cause death.

That the deed was premeditated appears to be shown by the fact that Smith insisted upon the boy accompanying him to feed the pigs, which were about 400 yards from the house, also that he carried a razor with him. No particular motive can be assigned for the dreadful deed. Smith is thought to be insane, though he attempted suicide in a similar manner a year ago, near Guelph, Ont. He came West from Guelph last fall.

ROOSEVELT STARTLES THE PEOPLE OF OLD ENGLAND

CRITICISES WEAK AND TIMID POLICY TOWARDS NATIONALISTS OF EGYPT.

Praised the Work of Last Twelve Years—Should Be Firm or Get Out—No Formal Thanks.

England Felt the Swish of the "Big Stick"—The Colonel's Speech Will Be Resented — His Good Taste Questioned.

London, May 31.—England today felt the swish of the "big stick" in famous Guild Hall, the picturesque headquarters of London's civic authorities, Col. Roosevelt, in response to the address making him a freeman of the city, assailed England's administration in Egypt and virtually declared that England should rule with a stronger hand or get out of that country and leave its government to a more fearless nation.

"If you feel that you ought not to be in Egypt, and have no desire to keep order there, by all means get out. If you feel that it is your duty to civilization to stay, then show yourselves ready to meet the responsibility of your position."

This was the colonel's closing remark in his comments on the British Government's policy in Egypt. Its very boldness startled the distinguished audience, and, coming as it did in response to an honor that London rarely confers on a foreigner, the propriety of Roosevelt's utterances was freely questioned.

HIS GOOD TASTE QUESTIONED

The speech will undoubtedly stir up the biggest sort of a row, inasmuch as it amounts to a denunciation of the existing government, which is responsible for Sir Eldon Gort's administration of Egyptian affairs. The colonel's view contrast with the government's opposition but it is probable that even the opposition will object to such caustic criticism coming from an outsider.

Although Roosevelt was frequently applauded during his speech, there was no real enthusiasm in his reception, the audience being evidently more or less perplexed by the unexpected situation that the speech developed.

Roosevelt never spoke with more telling emphasis and he furnished London with a striking example of his peculiar style of oratory.

The speech is bound to arouse the Nationalists of Egypt, and this presents one of the more serious phases of the case. In the light of Roosevelt's recent speech in Cairo, where he assailed the Nationalist movement, England had hoped that if Roosevelt touched on Egyptian affairs, it would be in a laudatory way, and she was little prepared for being charged with responsibility for the crisis that now confronts her in her in Egypt.

NO FORMAL THANKS.

After thanking the city chamberlain, Sir Joseph C. Dimsdale, who in the corporation's name offered Roosevelt the "right hand of fellowship" and presented him with the gold box containing the emblazoned vellum certificate of "freedom," Col. Roosevelt spoke as follows:

"I am especially appreciative of today's honor, because it is the sign of the good-will tending to knit all speakers of the English language. I prefer to talk today regarding matters of real concern to you rather than merely to express thanks and eulogy."

ANOTHER U.E. PROOF.

Flags Flew From the Schools of Peterborough Yesterday.

Yesterday there was direct evidence throughout the city of the bond which binds together the widely scattered parts of the great British Empire, Canada and possibly the Province of Ontario in particular, yesterday assisted in celebrating the union, in confederation of United South Africa.

Yesterday, in compliance with a suggestion put forth by the Department of Education every school in Peterborough that possesses a flag flew the National emblem in honor of the natal day of the Confederated States or Provinces of South Africa.

Pope Seventy-Four Years Old.

Rome, June 1st.—The Pope will be seventy-five years old tomorrow, having been born at Riese on June 2nd, 1835. In accordance with the traditions of the Church there will be no public celebration of the day, and the Pope will spend the day quietly, receiving only the congratulations of the members of his household and the members of his family.

Woman Celebrates Hundredth Birthday.

Collinsville, Ill., June 1st.—Mrs. Mary Naputi, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. Peter Bassola at Donkville, in this county, celebrated her hundredth birthday to-day, being still hale and vigorous for her age. Mrs. Naputi was born in Italy on June 1st, 1810 and had seven children. She survived her husband and six of the children, the last of whom died thirteen years ago. Being all alone, the old lady came to the United States thirteen years ago and made her home with her only surviving daughter, Mrs. Bassolai Mrs. Naputi never used spectacles and can still do sewing and knitting without aid to her eyesight. She has several teeth left and her physical condition is remarkable good.

Fear Italians May Make an Attack

TWELVE CONSTABLES BEING RUSHED TO CAMP TO AVERT BLOODSHED.

Cook Shot Man Dead—How Occurred Over Italian Taking Wrong Place at the Table.

Port Arthur, Ont., May 31.—Fearing riot and blood-shed among the men at a railway construction camp in the neighborhood of Superior Junction, Commissioner Quibell, of the Dominion Police, left for that place this morning with four constables, and about eight other men sworn in as special constables.

The trouble is the continuation of a quarrel that brought about the fatal shooting Sunday of Frank Duptiglieri, a young Italian laborer, and for which Leon Dobbs, the camp cook, is now in the Port Arthur jail awaiting hearing. Fellow-countrymen of the Italian have sworn vengeance against the men of other nationalities at the camp, who protected Dobbs when arrested, and the situation is so tense that almost open war may break out at any moment.

That the disturbances following the shooting Sunday were not more serious was due only to the prompt manner in which the Dominion police acted, they receiving word of the affair in quick time, and being on the ground a few hours after to affect the arrest of Dobbs. Even as he was being arrested and taken away on the train, the Italians made a demonstration and threatened to take the administration of punishment for the wounding of a fellow-countryman into their own hands.

The shooting was the outcome of a quarrel when Cook Dobbs told Duptiglieri that he was at the wrong table.

GEO. BAKER, A MIDLAND GROCER, FELL OFF THE END OF THE PIER AND WAS DROWNED

Midland, May 31.—Geo. Baker, a grocer, was drowned in the bay here shortly after eleven o'clock last night. He was evidently walking about on the dock and getting too close to the edge tumbled in. No person was near the unfortunate man at the time so far as is known, but Mr. A. J. Hudson, sleeping on his boat, heard the splash and quickly went to the spot, but Baker never came to the surface. The body was recovered this morning. He is survived by a widow and nine children.

Murphy Now Says He is Not Guilty

MADE AFFIDAVIT HE DID NOT SHOOT HOWES AND DALE.

Visit Scene of Tragedy—Judge Granted Request, But Refused to Allow Bodies to Be Exhumed.

Ottawa, May 31.—A decided sensation developed at the trial of Mrs. Michael Murphy at Bryson today before Judge Weir.

This is the celebrated case in which lately Michael Murphy, who at an inquest acknowledged that he shot and killed Harry Howes and William Dale, but said it was accidental, was tried on a charge of murder and was acquitted.

Today, when Murphy's wife came up for trial as an accessory, R. Desaflebery, of Bryson, applied to the judge for permission to have the bodies of Howes and Dale exhumed, and for permission of himself and some experts to go to the scene of the tragedy at Shawville. He did this on the grounds that no bullets had been produced when the first enquiry took place, that since signs of what looked like revolver shots had been found, and because they wanted to compare these marks with the ones in the bodies, the judge refused the first request but granted the second.

Athole E. Reader, a New York expert, testified that he had discovered five marks of revolver shots in a tree near where the shooting occurred. Murphy has astounded the officials by now taking out an affidavit saying that he did not shoot either Howes or Dale. The trial of Mrs. Murphy is under way this afternoon, and the court room at Bryson is jammed with interested spectators.

Knocked the Umpire Out of the Game

Yesterday afternoon a unique game of baseball was played on Burnham's Point. This was played for glory, not coin, between the moulders of Peter Hamilton Co., and those at present enjoying (?) momentary rest from the W. Hamilton Iron Works.

Mr. M. C. Tooley acted as umpire until the Climax. Climax is to be spelled with a capital "C." in the 5th innings. At this stage of the game the score stood 0 to 0. The W. Hamilton players were at bat. There were three men on bases and two out. James Hatcher was at the bat, against the delivery of Sam Houlihan. To be sure that justice be done, and the game be fair the umpire came just behind the batter to watch the curves of the ball. Hatcher made a vicious lunge at the ball but missed it. Unfortunately for the umpire the ball did not miss him. The sphere, at the rate of possibly 1000 miles a second, caught the umpire in the solar plexus. The umpire, who is no sylph in physical make, wilted. Dr. McGrath was telephoned for. A private conveyance was quickly called into requisition as an ambulance. The umpire was taken home and the game will be finished today.

It might be added, that, as the umpire recovered from his trance, he asked "Say was that a foul, a strike or a ball?"

If You Lived in Montreal

you could some day see the wonderful Cartwright Automatic Press, which is destined to revolutionize the job-printing world, and make money for the shareholders of the Company, as other great inventions, like the Linotype and Telephone, have done.

But, if you cannot call and see the Press itself, you can do as many other investors are doing,—you can read the interesting Prospectus and our little booklet, entitled "Expert Opinions", which gives some adequate idea of this great invention.

You will note when you read the literature we send you, how Publishers, Printers, and all classes of men connected with the printing business—men who thoroughly understand the real merit and value of such an invention—are the most enthusiastic endorsers of the Press, and what is still more important, they are buyers of both the presses and the shares.

United South Africa An Accomplished Fact

Boer and Briton Unite to Form Another Great Dominion of the British Empire---Gen. Louis Botha the First Premier

Cape Town, May 31st.—The union of the four South African colonies—Transvaal, Cape of Good Hope, Natal and Orange River State—became an accomplished fact to-day, when the new government of United South Africa was formerly proclaimed, with Viscount Gladstone as the first Governor-General. The inauguration of the new government is made the occasion for a general holiday. Hundreds of visitors will come to Cape Town to witness the inauguration ceremonies and the city presents a festal appearance. The Governor General will take the oath of office in the presence of an immense crowd in the vicinity of the legislative palace. The Governor-General will be surrounded by the dignitaries of State and the official representatives of the four colonies which have now come under the administration of a single central government.

The inauguration of the union government marks the dawn of a new era in the history of South Africa. It is regarded as a striking example of the essential vigor and soundness of the British political system that within the decade that saw the outbreak of the Boer war the four provinces of South Africa should of their free motion, unite to form one State, with a single parliament under the general supervision of the imperial Government. This is what is achieved by the Constitution which became effective to-day. The Constitution provides for substantial unification. The new government is to be strongly centralized, following the Canadian rather than American or Australian plan in reserving all powers not specially delegated to the provinces.

Inquest on the Late Little Mammie Feeley

Last night the inquest on little seven-year-old Mamie Feeley, killed by a G.T.R. train at the corner of Wescott and Park streets, was resumed in the council chambers, Coroner Dr. Gray occupied the chair. After the formal opening proceedings had been carried out, the first witness, Miss Hattie Hales, said she looked out from her verandah to see if any children might cross the tracks. She told Mamie Feeley to keep back, but the child didn't seem to hear her. The child put one foot across the rail and saw the train coming. She took another step and the train struck her. She, the witness did not know how fast the train was going. She didn't know how many cars passed over Mamie Feeley.

The next witness, a boy nine years old, testified to not having seen the deceased on the cow catcher of the fatal train.

Herman Laplante saw the tragedy. The fireman took the girl from under the baggage car to a nearby house in his arms. There was a curve in the road where the child was struck.

Frances Libby, who lives on Parkell street, was walking along the track near Park street. She didn't see the accident. She has no relatives working for the G.T.R.

Emma Emory was with two other ladies when the accident took place. She did not think the train was going very fast. She didn't see the child at Lake street. She heard the whistle blow and the bell ring.

Michael Leary said the Port Hope south bound train goes by at 15 to 20 miles. Mr. Leary works at the the Cordage Works. He could not board the train at the speed it has passed by recently. He could board a train now owing to the decreased speed since the accident.

Several witnesses were then heard, whose testimony, condensed to a few words, appealing to general public interest, was that this Peterborough Port Hope train has passed through the city at a quicker rate than consistent with law or safety.

Mr. George Mimms, engineer of the train, testified to the speed of the train.

Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, interrogated the witnesses presumably against the G.T.R., whilst Mr. Foster, their attorney, was awake and wide awake, looking after the railroad case.

At 11 p.m., Coroner Dr. Grey adjourned the inquest until 8 p.m., on Friday.

ANOTHER FIRE RANGER DROWNED--- N. L. JONES, A STUDENT AT McGILL, UPSET IN OBABIKA LAKE

Toronto, May 31.—A telegram was received in the Department of Lands Forests and Mines today from Mr. S. C. Macdonald, chief of the Temagami Forest Reserve, stating that one of his fire rangers, Norman J. Jones, was drowned yesterday in Obabika Lake.

The deceased was a student in McGill University, and lived in Kemptville, Ont.

No particulars of the accident were sent. The department immediately communicated with the family of the deceased in order to get instructions where to ship the body in case it is found.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

IT'S CORBY'S.

Peterborough Adorned by Lithographs of Belleville's Extract de Cora.

During the past few days the various bill boards of the city have been adorned by a handsome gotten out lithograph or poster describing the merits of Corby's whiskey. The huge poster shows an English squire, evidently returned from the strenuous efforts of the hunt, fallen asleep. A tramp passing by sees on the squire's table a bottle of Corby's whisky. The knight of the road picks up a long straw from the wayside and, inserting it through the open window taps the bottle of "Corby's" The Weary Willie's smiling face, demonstrates that he like his aristocratic neighbors, knows a good brand of stimulant when he sees it. Whilst newspaper men are never supposed to know anything about the various brands of whisky, it is common report that Corby's whisky is the kind that gives a gentle stimulant and life restoring vim without containing a headache in a barrelfull.

HOBO ARRESTED.

Yesterday on arrival of the afternoon west bound C.P.R. train, Detective Wright of that railroad, placed a gentleman under arrest, presumably for riding without having gone through the formality of purchasing a ticket and thereby trespassing upon C.P.R. property. He will explain the reason to his worship at the police court this morning.

IT HAS BEEN DECIDED THAT OUR NAVY SHALL BE MADE IN THE DOMINION.

Ottawa, May 27.—Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, was sworn in this morning on his return to his office after two months' absence.

Seen by a newspaper representative he said he felt much improved in health. He said that announcements may be made very soon as to the organization of the Navy Department. He said he could not discuss the rumor that Mr. George Desbarats, at present deputy minister of Marine and Fisheries, is to be deputy of Naval Defence.

Our ships, he said, are to be built in Canada, but whether they will all be built on one coast, or two ship yards constructed he could not say. In time, he said, the government might, perhaps, undertake the manufacture of the guns for the navy. Meanwhile, they will probably be purchased abroad.

Mr. Matthew Breckenridge, district deputy grand master of the I.O.O.F. and a member of Otonabee Lodge No. 13, who left yesterday for Calgary, was honored by the members of the order in this city, with whom he has been deservedly popular. He was presented with a deputy grand master's jewel.

SPRAINED WRIST AND ANKLE.

After Being Laid Up With Great Pain for Ten Days, Relief Was Gained Instantly By Applying

NERVILINE.

One of the most soul-distressing accidents that can befall one is a bad ankle or wrist sprain. "If I had only known of 'Nerviline' earlier, I could have saved myself an enormous amount of pain, and many agonizing nights of sleeplessness." Thus writes P. R. Quinn, a young farmer living near Brockville. "I tumbled from a hay loft to the barn floor and sprained my right ankle and left wrist. They swelled rapidly and caused excruciating pains. It was not convenient to go to the city, and the liniment in the house was useless. When I got Nerviline relief came quickly. It took down the swelling, relieved the pain, and gave me wonderful comfort.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 4206.

"I can recommend Nerviline for strains, bruises, swellings muscular pains and sore back. I have proved it a sure cure in such cases."

Think what it might some day mean to you to have right in your home ready for an accident or emergency sickness, a bottle or two of Nerviline. Get it today, 25c., or five for $1.00, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

UNITED STATES REALIZES POSITION.

The United States are waking up to the fact that Canada is fully competent to preserve her natural resources for the use of her own people. Time was when popular opinion in the United States tended to regard Jack Canuck as a hewer of wood and a drawer of water for Uncle Sam. But certain expressions of opinion of a contrary sort are continually cropping up in the American press, show that this attitude to Canada is fast giving way. Here is a sample from the editorial columns of the American Forestry Journal.

"Canada is measuring her timber resources and preparing to protect them by progressive and drastic measures against exploitation for the benefit of wasteful foreign countries, including her next door neighbor. We cannot look to the north for our salvation. We must husband all our remaining resources and plant trees wherever they can be grown more profitably than other crops, in order that our own future may be assured. This is the only way. Canada has not the resources for her own needs and ours too, and she is sufficiently wide awake and intelligent to guard her own. The only way our timber resources and Canada's can be made inexhaustible, is by the application of the highest scientific knowledge and broad common sense."

IMPORTANCE OF SEED GRAIN.

Canada, being a nation of farmers, has to pay a very large seed bill each year. Last year the crops called for 33,000,000 bushels of seed grain—wheat, oats and barley—and we are constantly increasing our agricultural acreage. This being so, the economy of sowing good, clean grain is at once apparent. The advantages to be derived from it are like the proceeds of a sum of money laid out at compound interest—they are cumulative in their effect and grow in ever increasing ratio. Some years ago a competition was carried on in some 450 places in Canada to see just what the actual results of using good, pure seed would be. If we reason from it, we find that our grain yield of last year would have increased 190,000,000 bushels, had clean, vigorous seed been sown on every acre under cultivation. Now 190,000,000 bushels of grain would fill 1,500 miles of railway grain cars. It is such a large amount that it is hard for the mind to comprehend, but at any rate it goes to show, that it would pay our farmers to be particular about the kind of seed they sow.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days' test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

go back, would you not?"

She looked up, smiling, and slowly shook her head. "You are a blind guesser," she said. "Don't you think I know what is in your mind? Not Ashton, Hugh. Some time, but not now—not yet. It is nearer than that."

His eyes flowed into hers. "You understand. Yes, it is here. This is where I must finish my fight first. Yesterday I would have left Smoky mountain forever because you were here. Now"—

"I will help you," she said. "All the world besides counts nothing if only we are together. I could live in a cabin here on the mountain always, in a forest of Arden, till I grow old and want nothing but that—and you."

As he did not answer, she faced him with crimsoning cheeks; then, reading his look, she suddenly threw her arms about his neck.

"Hugh," she cried, "we belong to each other now! There is no one else to consider, is there? I want to be to you what I haven't been—to bear things with you and help you!"

He kissed her eyes and hair. "You have helped, you do help me, Jessica!" he urged. "But I am jealous for your love. It must not be offended. The town of Smoky Mountain must not sneer—and it would sneer now."

"Let it!" she exclaimed resentfully. "As if I would care!"

"But I would care," he said softly. "I want to climb a little higher first."

She was silent a moment, her fingers twisting the fallen leaves. "You don't want them to know that I am your wife?"

"Not yet—till I can see my way."

She nodded and smiled, and the cloud lifted from her face. "You must know best," she said. "This is what I shall do, then. I shall leave the sanitarium tomorrow. The people there are nothing to me, but the town of Smoky Mountain is yours, and I must be a part of it too. I am going to the Mountain Valley House. Mrs. Halloran will take care of me." She sprang to her feet as she added, "I shall go to see her about it now."

He rose and walked with her through the bracken to the road. They came out to the driveway just below the trail that led to the Knob. The bank was high, and, leaping first, he held up his arms to her and lifted her lightly down. In the instant as she lay in his arms he bent and kissed her on the lips.

Neither noted two figures walking together that at that moment rounded the bend of the road a little way above. They were Tom Felder and Dr. Brent. Both men saw the kiss and instinctively drew back. The doctor noted now the telltale flush on his companion's face.

"We have surprised a romance," he said as the two unconscious figures disappeared down the curving stretch. "Who is the man?"

"He is the one we have been talking about."

Felder nodded. "His cabin is just below here on the hillside."

"Good Lord!" ejaculated the doctor. "What an infernal pity! What's his name?"

"Hugh Stires."

"Stires?" the other repeated. "Stires? How odd!" He stood a moment, tapping his suit case with his stick. Suddenly he took the lawyer's arm and led him into the sidepath.

"Come," he said, "I want to show you something."

He led the way quickly to the Knob where he stopped, as much astonished as his companion, for he had known nothing of the statue. They read the words chiseled on its base. "The prodigal son," said Felder.

"Now look at the name on the head stone," said the physician.

Felder's glance lifted from the stone to peer through the screening bushes to the cabin on the shelf below and returned to the other's face with quick comprehension. "You think"—

"Who could doubt it? 'I will arise and go unto my father.' The old man's whim to be buried here had a meaning, after all. The statue is Miss Holme's work—nobody in Smoky Mountain could do it—and I've seen her modeling in clay at the sanitarium. What we saw just now is the key to what might have been a pretty riddle if we had ever looked farther than our noses. It's a case of a clever rascal and damnable propinquity. The lizard has fallen in love with the black sheep."

Chapter 24

HALLELUJAH JONES was in his element. With his whiskey under-doon, his gasoline flare and his wild earnestness, he crowded the main street of the little mining town. He had not lacked for listeners here for he was a new sensation. When by his flare in the courthouse square at dusk on the second evening the office of the Mountain Valley House was emptied and the barrooms and gaming tables well nigh deserted of their patrons.

Jessica had seen the mustering crowd from the hotel entrance. Mrs. Halloran had welcomed her errand that day and given her her best room, a chamber overlooking the street. She had persuaded her visitor to spend the afternoon and insisted that she stay to supper, "just to see how she would like it for a steady diet." Now, as Jessica passed along toward the mountain road the spectacle chained her feet on the outskirts of the gathering. She watched and listened with a pre-

NO CAUSE FOR IRRITATION.

If President Taft is annoyed because Canada is not ready to enter upon negotiations for reciprocity he is lacking in the patience which is said to be the first, second and third requisite of statesmanship. The two countries have got along without a reciprocity treaty for forty-four years. During half that period advances came from Canada, and repeated rejections produced a feeling of soreness, such as is attributed to President Taft today.

Friendship began to grow when we gave up hope of reciprocity and resolved to develop our own resources and leave our neighbors to their own devices. Now efforts at enlarging trade and liberalizing trade relations are coming from the United States. Let these be met fairly, but let us not encourage the notion that friendship depends upon the success of negotiations for reciprocity. Disappointment in that case might make our relations worse instead of better. There is no hurry, and no reason to be peevish even if some foolish barriers do stand a little longer. The trade is sure to grow, and the tariffs are bound to come down either by treaty or legislation.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

DIED AT INDIA RIVER.

Mr. Martin Guerin, a Well Known Resident Buried Yesterday.

Indian River has lost one of its oldest and best known citizens in the person of Mr. Martin Guerin, who died at that village on Saturday. Mr. Guerin had been ill for some three weeks. The deceased was interred yesterday morning in St. Joseph's cemetery, Douro. He is survived by his wife, whose maiden name was Miss Johanna Meade, and eight sons and one daughter, namely Michael, of Peterborough; Dennis, and Frank of Ashburnham; Morris, James and William, John and Martin, of British Columbia and Mrs. Harry Stratton of Rochester.

If you would have a safe yet certain Cough Remedy in the home, try Dr. Shoop's — at least once. It is thoroughly unlike any other Cough preparation. Its taste will be entirely new to you—unless it is already your favorite Cough Remedy. No opium, chloroform, or any other stupefying ingredients are used. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy it wonderful curative properties. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

SITUATION OF MUCH CONCERN TO WORKERS.

Johannesburg, May 31st.—The position of Pretoria at the present moment affords a strong argument in favor of land clauses of Mr. Lloyd George's Budget. Two thousand officials, mostly married, will be shortly added to the population on account of the Union of South Africa. In view of this fact rents are bounding up 25 per cent. monthly. The first newcomers will be paying a quarter of their incomes in rent, and their successors expect to pay about half their incomes to secure adequate accommodation.

The consequent reduction of the purchasing power of salaries has caused a violent reaction among coastal officials, who wish to escape from the so-called promotion to a seat on the Union Executive.

The housing accommodation in Pretoria besides cramped, lacks many of the conveniences of the older towns.

The present population is also groaning under the higher expense of living, and thousands of artisans will be imported to carry out the enormous government and municipal programmes, involving a total expenditure of $20,000,000, during the next four years. At the present time, houses are unprocurable.

Artisans in Pretoria are already paying $5 a month more in rent, and expect to have to pay another $5. Wages are likely to make a sharp rise.

The present situation in Pretoria can only be compared to that immediately after peace, when, owing to the dearness of land, artisans and professionals moved wholesale some miles distant to boggy and malarious suburbs, the efficient municipalizing of which would involve an expenditure of $15,000,000.

There is plenty of vacant land within Pretoria, but it is very tightly held, every councillor being a holder. Meanwhile, there are a number of Randites who as a speculation are laying out suburbs about four miles from the centre of Pretoria.

The contract for the building of the third portion of the Capitol for the South African Union at Pretoria has been signed, the amount being $1,280,000.

If Sick

Don't risk even one single penny!
And I will tell you why I say this.
It is to ask you to write to Dr. Shoop's and get a free trial of Dr. Shoop's Restorative—or to obtain Dr. Shoop's Restorative Tablets—or both—entirely Free of All Cost.
No one need risk even one single penny.
Just think what this means to the suffering sick!
Why purchase any medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?
And besides, I can refer you to people right in your own locality who have used Dr. Shoop's Restorative and found in it the very health they were seeking.
Then why take any chance whatever?
Just write me first for an order.
I have an agent in almost every community—but all druggists are not dishonest to accept the 50 cent trade.
So never buy a line, please—and then come all the way to me for it.
Just write me first for an order.
Send no money. Simply write me by letter or postal card, or even call at my office, and I will send you the two medicines by parcel post prepaid.
Sunshine, the books will open up new and helpful ideas to you. They tell of my 21 years' experience in curing sick people. They tell of my methods. All about them is told in my free books. They are sent free. Address me personally, Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Office 1132 Lake Building.

NEWS OF THE CITY

Millbrook Citizens Auto Here.

Reeve Kells, Dr. H. A. Turner, Messrs. A. Leach, Geo. Haffington, and W. S. Given, editor of the Reporter, autoed in from Millbrook yesterday morning, stopping at the Oriental.

Mr. A. Davenport Bidden Good-bye.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Young People's Society of Knox Church, a farewell was taken of Mr. Arthur Davenport, one of the active workers of the church, who leaves shortly for his home in the Old Country. The president, Mr. Donaldson, was in the chair. Rev. H. J. Keith spoke of the regret felt at the departure of Mr. Davenport.

Youthful Prisoners Were Discharged.

The five boys, as told in yesterday's Times, who were charged with damaging C.P.R. property, appeared for trial at yesterday's police court. They pleaded not guilty. After the evidence had been taken tending to show the guilt of the defendants, and after Mr. McWilliams had pleaded for one of the prisoners, and after the mother of one of the boys swore she had heard the prisoner say that he (the boy) had broken car windows, his worship allowed the boy to go, saying there was not sufficient evidence to convict. The boy, however, got the usual warning, with a mental picture of the gehenna that awaits those who commence such an offence.

More Runaways in Peterborough.

Peterborough seems to be a mecca for runaway boys, girls and young people. Some months ago two young girls from Lindsay, wishing to take up theatrical work, arrived in the city; only a few weeks ago two boys paid a visit to the city from Campbellford, and now two Ottawa boys about fifteen years old, have been taken off a C.P.R. train by Mr. Wright, detective for that railway. The boys tell their story, saying that some days ago they boarded an Ottawa train for Smith Falls. From there they rode the "blind" baggage to Lakeside Junction. On the way back they were "copped out" at this city. The boys will be sent home.

SOCIETY EVENTS

The Times will be pleased to receive notices of Weddings, Social Events, Personal Announcements, which will be published in this column free of charge.

The Misses Dobie, held a bridge party last night when a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Mr. Murray Miller left yesterday for Saskatoon, where he will in future reside.

Mr. W. J. Clements, Ashburnham, has been called to Chatham through the illness of his father.

Mr. A. Dawson, formerly of Ashburnham, left yesterday for Port Arthur, where he will reside in future.

Mr. J. P. Deneany of the Royal Bank, Montreal, is accountant in the local branch during the absence of Mr. W. H. Harper, who is on sick leave.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Huffman announce the engagement of their daughter, Olive Jessamine to Mr. Terrot H. Glover, the wedding to take place quietly in June.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bryans, of Havelock, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Miss Eva, to Mr. H. Roche, Havelock, the wedding to take place on Wednesday, June 8th.

Mr. Tim Dineen, who has for some years been employed at the Quaker Oats Company, left yesterday for Saskatoon, where he has secured a good position.

Word has been received in the city of the safe arrival in Germany of Mr. Harold Jarvis, who was called there by the serious illness of his son.

MISS SEWARD'S SUCCESS.

A Peterborough Girl Gets High Praise From German Press.

A recent despatch from Berlin, Germany, to the New York World, says that at Fraulein Gilemann's concert in Dresden, all the local critics unite in praise of the work of Miss Gladys Seward of Peterborough, who was among the performers. The despatch says:

"She played selections from Chopin, Liszt, and Tschaikowsky with masterful finish. One of the critics declares that, in technical skill and musical temperament, she has all the qualities that go to make a pianist of the first rank. There is a general agreement that a fine artistic future awaits her."

It will be remembered that Miss Seward is studying music, under Mr. Harry Field at Dresden.

HOGS COME BY SCOW.

One of the Largest Shipments Ever Received in Peterborough.

On Monday of this week 205 hogs worth on the hoof about $5500, were brought to this city from Harwood by steamer Monarch. These hogs were consigned to the Matthews Company's plant here. The porkers were bought in the townships of Hamilton and Haldimand, by Messrs Campbell and Thompson, live stock dealers, and sailed to this port in a barge drawn by the good ship Monarch.

It is understood that the price paid by Messrs. Thompson and Campbell was $9.50 per cwt.

FORMER LOCAL MAN APPOINTED

Former Peterborough Citizen Now Paymaster at Toronto City Hall.

Referring to a son of Dr. Hugh Spears, and a former resident of Peterborough, the Toronto Globe says:

"The action of City Treasurer Coady in appointing Mr. Norman Spears as city paymaster, will meet with general approval. Mr. Spears specially qualified for the office by long experience, having had the bulk of the work well in hand during the latter years of the late Paymaster Burton's tenure. He is young and able, evidently with many years of vigorous service before him. The selection was unquestionably in the public interest, and will be an incentive to faithful service throughout the city hall staff.

BACK-WEARY MEN.

The Helping Hand of Dr. Hamilton's Pills Will Cure In a Few Weeks.

"Foundry work compels men to work in the winter in very cold shops," writes Tunis T. Bolter, a well-known mechanic in Hamilton. "I contracted a very severe cold a few months ago which settled in my back and kidneys. I suffered constant pain, and in bending over my work and in heavy lifting, the pain at time was excruciating. My digestion got all out of order, doubtless because the kidneys didn't work right. My wife had used Dr. Hamilton's Pills as a family medicine and I took her advice and started them also. To my great delight a few doses helped me so much it was proof I was using a true remedy. Natural action of the kidneys was brought about, burning and aching ceased, and the back-lameness gradually disappeared. I no longer fear my work. I feel strong and robust, and with such a remedy as Dr. Hamilton's Pills at hand I will probably never again be sick. I advise every working man to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

No other medicine will regulate the system and maintain health like Dr. Hamilton's Pills—beware of the dealer who tries to induce you to take something else on which he makes more profit. Sold in yellow boxes 25c. Prepared by The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

VOL. XXXI NO. 125 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO THURSDAY JUNE 2 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

A Narrow Escape From Burial Alive

One of Mr. MacGregor's Men Buried Under Eight Feet of Earth at the County Jail

Yesterday morning a tragedy, which easily might have resulted in the loss of a human life was only averted by the prompt and intelligent action of Mr. MacGregor, formerly of the plumbing and electrical firm of MacGregor & Reid. Ie is pretty generally known that Mr. MacGregor has the contract for installing a new heating system in the County Buildings. By an almost providential concurrence of events, Mr. MacGregor came to Peterborough a few days ago from his new home in Toronto to look after the above noted contract.

Yesterday morning work was in progress on the apex of the Court House hill. The new boiler house, which will supply steam to heat all the county buildings is to be located just to the east of the registry office and the offices of the surrogate court clerk. Here a deep excavation before described in these columns has been made for the boiler house. To carry the steampipes to the county building, Mr. MacGregor had either to dig down to a depth of about twelve to fourteen feet or tunnel underground at the depth. To save expense and expedite the work Mr. MacGregor decided to make the longest underground tunnel ever constructed in Peterborough. This tunnel runs, some twelve feet beneath the surface, for about forty feet. Yesterday morning, one of Mr. MacGregor's men, who is thoroughly versed in such work and has been in the business for some years, was mole-like carrying on the underground tunnel. Just as he was working at the far end of the tunnel the earth between him and the tunnel entrance suddenly caved in. Fortunately Mr. MacGregor was on hand, and kept a perfect control of his presence of mind. The caved-in tunnel was only about four feet high, and but one man could work therein at a time. Mr. MacGregor had a relay of men work their hardest to "make the dirt fly." The imprisoned man could be heard moaning beyond the barrier of earth shutting him off from "God's fresh air." Spades were plied by trained muscles and the earth passed from the digger to those at the tunnel's entrance. With in about an hour the life saving gan in about an hour the life saving gang succeeded in reaching the man. He was covered by some eight feet of earth fallen from the roof of the tunnel. By rare good luck the imprisoned man's head and shoulders projected beyond the fallen earth to the far-off interior of the tunnel. Enough air was left at this far end to keep him alive till the rescuing gang dug him out. The man saved, whose name by request, is omitted, was none the worse for his close call by death, beyond a badly bruised and severely squeezed body and a pair of arms that will remind him for some days of the incident.

IMMIGRANTS NOT TO LEAVE EMPIRE

GREAT LONDON GATHERING CONVENED WITH THIS OBJECT IN VIEW.

Lord Dundonald Advises British Cities Buying Great Tracts of Canadian Land for Their Unemployed Poor.

London, June 2.—The conference convened by the Royal Colonial Institute is now open. The object was to consider the question of British emigrants now going outside of the Empire, to the Empire's over-seas dominions and also the question of emigration generally, from the United Kingdom. The possibility of some measure of corporation among the emigration societies by the utilizing of labor exchanges was also discussed.

It was also suggested that the Government call a subsidiary conference to formulate proposals for submission to the Imperial conference of 1911. Sir John Edwards, president of forty-four societies, sent delegates to show how the great stream of persons was going outside the Empire. Sir John as chairman, mentioned that last year 110,000 emigrants went to the United States and only 66,000 to Canada, 23,000 to New Zealand.

Lord Dundonald opened the discussion and expressed the view that Britain had neglected the resources which the valor of her ancestors had placed at her disposal. The nation emigration problems would best be solved by great centres of population acquiring fertile estates throughout the Empire, where they could not get work in this country. He believed the investment on such estates would be amply remunerative, the prospects being that they would get their money back with 100 per cent. increase.

HOME FROM THE WEST.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roy Have Had Most Enjoyable Trip to the Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Roy have returned from a tour covering several months to the Pacific Coast. These returned citizens report having enjoyed a splendid trip. Mr. Roy is enthused with the spirit of optimism that is so characteristic of the West. Mr. and Mrs. Roy left here in the middle of February, went through to the Coast by way of the Crow's Nest Pass and Nelson. In Vancouver where they spent a week, Mr. Roy stated that in fifteen minutes he happened to meet about a dozen former Peterborough residents.

In Victoria they met Col. H. C. Rogers. Mr. and Mrs. Roy spent three days at the home of Mr. C. B. McAllister, at Needles, B.C. Mr. McAllister has a splendid fruit farm.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to those failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days' test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $31 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

CHILF KOHLER WAS DRUNK!

THIRTEEN WITNESSES ON STAND TELL OF THREE DIFFERENT OCCASIONS.

Second Day of Trial—Public Deeply Interested in Proceedings and Cleveland Newspapers Follow Sessions Closely.

Cleveland, O., June 1.—The second day's trial of Frederick Kohler, suspended chief of police, known throughout the country as the "Golden Rule Chief," convened before the Civil Service Commission at one o'clock this afternoon.

THIRTEEN WITNESSES.

Kohler was suspended last week when charges of misconduct, intoxication and immorality were filed with the mayor.

In yesterday's hearing thirteen witnesses brought out three occasions when they alleged the chief was under the influence of liquor.

TODAY'S TESTIMONY.

The testimony today touched upon similar events and additional instances when the chief is said to have been drinking were mentioned.

Interest in the case is running high and the newspapers here are devoting columns of space to the hearing.

KEPT A BLUE BOOK.

Chief of Police Kohler, the "Golden Rule Chief," kept a blue book, containing the names of prominent men who visited desruptable resorts, according to a charge made today. It was intimated that the alleged blue book was an instrument of black mail. The accused official vigorously denied this accusation.

J. P. Dawley, the criminal lawyer conducting the prosecuting, today demanded that Mayor Baeher order the police force to aid in securing evidence against Kohler.

"It shall not be laid at my door that there has been any dirty work," said acting Chief Schmunk, when told of this request. "We need the police force to preserve order. No member of it is gathering evidence for the prosecution. Some of the headquarters have been gathering evidence, however, for the chief, the mayor having ordered me to give him every possible chance."

The commission today decided to limit the hearings to one a day, from 1 to 5 p.m., which will keep the case running for probably two weeks.

Earl Grey to Reveal Riches of the North

Determined to Destroy Prevailing False Idea About Canada in Great Britain---His Spectacular Trip to Fort Churchill

Ottawa, June 2.—Earl Grey is determined to destroy the "Frozen North" idea regarding Canada, which seems to prevail so largely in Great Britain. More than any other man he will accomplish this by his spectacular trip through the wild northland, arrangements for which will be completed in about a week. The party will be a little larger than was anticipated—probably about twelve in all.

To show the feasibility of the Hudson Bay route the trip will be accomplished in twenty days, provided no very severe weather is encountered. The only part of the arrangements which remains to be decided upon, is the overland route to Hudson Bay, but is very probable that the first intention of following the surveyed route of the proposed Hudson Bay railway will be abandoned and that the Governor-General will travel by canoe down the Hayes river from Norway House, at the head of Lake Winnipeg. The Hayes river is preferrable to the Nelson river, in that there are fewer portages and navigation generally is less dangerous.

The overland trip to Port Nelson, which is also at the mouth of the Hayes river, will occupy eight days, and twelve days will be spent on the Government steamer, Earl Grey, on the way to St. John's N. F., or to Halifax. After leaving Port Nelson, the Governor-General will visit Fort Churchill. There he will go to Prefontaine Bay on the northwest of Ungava. Prefontaine Bay is one of the finest natural harbors in the world. It is almost completely landlocked, and is capable of accommodating the entire British fleet.

Big Island, on the northern shore of Hudson Strait will next be visited. There are valuable mica mines there. At the eastern end of Hudson Strait a stop will be made at Fort Burwell. Then the Moravian missions and Dr. Grenfell's missions will be visited, and a straight course set for St. John's, N. F., or Halifax.

The arrangements provide for probably the most spectacular trip attempted by a white man, the rapidity of travel being taken into account.

YOUNG BELLEVILLE LAD JUMPED FROM TRAIN AND FELL FORTY FEET

Trenton, June 1.—Mackenzie G. Cunnington, a young Belleville boy, and another lad today boarded a freight going west, and when near Trenton young Cunnington jumped from the train. He fell head foremost into an excavation which is being made for the Trent Valley Canal, and which is nearly forty feet deep. He was taken up unconscious, and at first it was thought he was dead. He was later taken to Belleville hospital. Although bruised and cut it is not thought that he was dangerously injured. His companion stayed on the train until it stopped.

POPE 75 TODAY.

His Holiness Has Occupied Chief Place Seven Years.

Rome, June 2.—There will be no formal celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Pope to-day, as it is customary among Italians to celebrate the name day rather than the birthday anniversary. Nevertheless many of the cardinals, Vatican officials and other churchmen will call upon the Pontiff and offer their congratulations. The two sisters of his Holiness will pass the greater part of the day with him.

Pius X. has now occupied the chair of St. Peter for nearly seven years, having been elected to succeed the late Pope Leo XIII. on August 4, 1903. In origin Pius X. is in many respects the opposite of his predecessor, who was of aristocratic birth and a deep scholar. The parents of the present Pontiff were humble peasant folk, but deeply religious. The Pope retains much of the peasant spirit. During his administration he has displayed great zeal in all his work and has shown rare ability as an organizer. He is an eloquent preacher and an able diplomatist, but has never aimed to excell in purely scholarly attainments. Unlike the most of these who have risen to eminence in the Catholic church he has but slight acquaintance with foreign languages. In fact, his native tongue is the only one which he has mastered, though he has a slight knowledge of French and German.

Brutual Encounter Between Young Men

Huntsville, June 1.—A brutal encounter between two young men named Markle and Buchanan yesterday afternoon has resulted in the former being carefully cared for at the local hospital, and the other locked in the jail, charged with assault. Markle and Buchanan endeavored to settle an old score, liquor contributing to the desire. They met on Minerva street. Markle was knocked down, his face terribly disfigured, his head cut open, and three ribs broken.

He was carried in an unconscious condition into an adjacent shop where he lay for two hours. He was later taken to the hospital, where he is now in a serious condition.

Buchanan submitted to arrest peacefully and was evidently satisfied with the result of his encounter with his adversary. He will be held pending the outcome of Markle's severe injuries. Both parties are from Bound Township, and are members of well known families.

PROVINCIAL ORGANIZATION OF SINGLE TAX LEAGUE FORMED IN TORONTO

Toronto, June 1.—At the Single Tax convention yesterday evening in Guild Hall it was decided to form a league under the title of the Tax Reform and Direct Legislation League of Ontario. This will be composed of all the minor organizations in Ontario, and its object will be to secure such changes in the Assessment Act as will enable municipalities to reduce the rate of taxation on improvements, and to promote the interests of good government by the right to initiate the referendum or the recall in municipal and Provincial affairs.

The first president of the league is Mr. Wilson Southam, editor of the Ottawa Citizen. Mr. A. B. Farmer of Toronto, is secretary, and Mr. D. B. Jacques is treasurer. There will be forty-five vice-presidents, owing to the fact that there are forty-five local associations, and the president of each becomes a vice-president in the league.

ANOTHER PROTEST ENTERED.

Middlesex County Orangemen Take the Same Stand as Others.

London, Ont., June 2.—The County Orange Lodge of East Middlesex, passed a strong resolution with regard to the Coronation Oath, protesting against any change in its wording and adding:

"We insist that those who are asking for the alteration of the oath should use the same endeavor to cut out of the oaths of the bishops and other high officials of the Roman Catholic Church the words expressing their hatred of Protestants of the Empire, and their intention to usurp the legal and other authorities therein, when occasion may require."

NO INQUEST NECESSARY.

Patrick Hogan of Douro, Died From Natural Causes.

Dr. Galivan, who yesterday went to the township of Douro, to investigate the circumstances surrounding the death of Patrick Hogan, made his report, on return to Coroner Dr. Gray. Dr. Gray told a Times representative last night that he does not consider an inquest necessary.

The deceased, Mr. Patrick Hogan, who lived alone on his farm, lot 7, concession 7, Douro township, was found dead in his bed between 10 and 11 o'clock yesterday morning by his brother, Frank Hogan. He was last seen alive at 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon, when he was apparently in good health. Coroner Gray was notified of the circumstances yesterday afternoon, and as noted, requested Dr. Gallivan to visit the premises.

Mr. Michael Maloney, of Douro, whose farm adjoins that of the dead man, told Dr. Gray yesterday afternoon that he had been talking to Hogan at 3 o'clock on Monday after noon and had noticed nothing wrong with him then. Hogan's brother, Frank, works with Mr. Maloney, and yesterday went over to his brother's place, and was startled to find him dead in bed. Hogan was about 35 years of age, and was sober in his habits.

Mr. Maloney stated that there was nothing to indicate the cause of death.

Two Drowned and Two Bably Hurt

Sherbrooke, N.S., June 1.— The Norwegian bark Borgheld struck on Castor Ledges this morning and was wrecked. The crew left bet in the boats, but the latter were smashed on the ledges, two of the party being drowned. The other nine, clinging to the wreckage, were rescued by fishermen, but two were so badly injured that they may die. The other seven are in a very exhausted condition. The vessel was going to Bledore, N.S.

SIX LOST IN THE GULF.

St. Pierre, Miq., June 1.—Six fishermen lost their lives when the brigantine Mauve, of Canoale, France, entering St. Pierre in a thick fog early today. Nineteen were saved.

St. John, N.B., June 1.— A tug towing two light scows struck the rocks off Cape Spencer in the Bay of Fundy during a storm last night, and sank in four minutes. The crew of ten men left in the boats, boarded a scow, and when it filled, transferred to the other scow. After a terrible night the scows were washed ashore. It took two hours for the party to climb over the rocks to the lighthouse, where they were sheltered. Two women almost died from exposure.

WILL MEMORIALIZE THE GOVERNMENT TO MAKE SUFFICIENT APPROPRIATION TO COMPLETE T.V.C. AT AN EARLY DATE

Citizens connected with the industrial interests of Peterborough, met in the Council Chamber last night at the call of Industrial Commissioner Duggan.

The object of the meeting was to arouse active interest in urging upon the government that the Trent Valley Canal be completed at an early date in the interest of all the district along its route.

A couple of hours' enthusiastic discussion resulted in the following resolution being adopted:

Moved by Mr. Larmouth, seconded by Ald. Buller.—That Messrs. Duggan, Kerr and Ald. Phelan be a committee to arrange for the organization of a deputation from the city and the Trent Valley Canal district to wait upon the government at Ottawa and urge upon them that the Trent Valley Canal be completed from end to end at the earliest possible date.

It was contended that such a deputation should result in the canal being completed in three years. It was also understood that this committee will lay the views of this meeting before the City Council, and Board of Trade for active co-operation.

Ald. Gillespie filled the chair.

Mr. Duggan in his opening remarks said he had asked for the meeting in order to secure an opinion from the industrial and other interests of Peterborough as to the most efficient means to be adopted to obtain for Peterborough a water haul system.

The C.P.R. and G.T.R. have done much to facilitate transportation to and from Peterborough, but you will all agree that were the Trent Valley canal completed greater benefits in this regard would accrue to the city. He did not wish to intimate that the rates charged by the railways are unfair, but on the other hand, would like to point out that the influence of the waterways on railway rates has many precedents, one of which will serve. Before a sod was turned, when the Erie canal became financially a possible fact, by the voting of funds by the federal government, it is reported that the rail ways with whom it would be competitive reduced their rates and maintained them for the many years that the canal was building.

While appreciating what has already been done in the construction of this waterway, it might be well, he said, to consider the present situation, at the southern end, the completed portion of which is 16 miles below Hastings. Between this point and Lake Ontario at Trenton there remains 47 miles of water haul to be provided, 17 miles of which is natural navigable water. And he did not think he could be accused of underestimating in contending that not very much more than 20 miles of actual digging remains to be done to open up Peterborough with the lake board.

Continuing, Industrial Commissioner Duggan said that the government had already spent on the canal $9,023,000, and he understands that the estimates for 1911-12, will shortly be under consideration. Consequently this would be a very opportune time to memoralize the powers-that-be at Ottawa for ample provision in their next estimates for an early completion of the canal.

City Clerk Armstrong in addressing the meeting pointed out the importance of an early completion of this waterway, by which a big saving in freight rates would be effected. The government should be urged to make sufficient appropriation at the next parliament to open up both ends.

Mr. Larmouth suggested that a deputation wait upon the government and urge the crying need for a very much larger T.V.C. appropriation in next year's estimates. Contractors down the river are now working slowly for the reason that the appropriation has been rather small, and does not call for expedition. He appreciated what the government has already accomplished in this direction. Work on the canal and the conservation of water at the back lakes had given this city 40 or 50 per cent. more power on the river last winter than ever before. Incidentally, Mr. Larmouth remarked that the Peterborough Light and Power Company have purchased the Auburn dam, and will this summer erect a power house capable of serving 2,000 horse power.

Mr. Meldrum said the estimates of all expenditures on public work for next year are being called in now by the ministers—presumably for campaign purposes—and when the house meets next fall it would be wise for parliament to understand what the constituencies along the T.V.C. route expect at their hands in the way of appropriation. Hence the need of a deputation of influential men to get in personal touch with the ministers at the earliest possible moment.

Mr. F. D. Kerr remarked that when the canal is opened up it will mean a revenue of millions of dollars from tourist traffic alone. Canals have not outlived in their useful ness. On the contrary their importance is becoming more generally recognised every year as in the case in Germany, England and the United States. The two former countries especially are settled with canals.

Mr. Dumble said the important thing now is to get this canal opened up from end to end. It is a through route—a grain route from the Georgian Bay to the seaboard. The government is committed to this project and it must be completed; but there is no reason why it should not be expedited. He (Mr. Dumble) had spent a life time discussing the T.V.C. question, a scheme the United States would have completed in three years.

A couple of resolutions were here framed, resulting in the one above mentioned being adopted. In talking to the question Ald. Duffus thought the industrial commissioner should be congratulated upon the early interest he had manifested in his new duties by calling this meeting. "He is," he said, "the right man in the right place."

APPRECIATION OF MINISTER GRAHAM.

Before closing the following documentary appreciation of the work of Hon. Geo. P. Graham, minister of railways and canals, was unanimously adopted:

Moved by J. H. Larmouth, seconded by T. F. Matthews,—That we desire to place on record our sincerest appreciation of the manner in which the water in the Trent Canal has been regulated and conserved under your direction since you became minister of railways and canals, affording as it has, at all times during the year a regular flow, thereby enabling the various companies to supply electrical energy to the manufacturers in such a satisfactory manner as to enable them to operate their factories and mills without interruption for want of power.

We also approve of the policy of the department in building new dams and renewing old dams on the Gull River, Burpt River, Mississaugua Creek, Deer Bay Creek and Jack's Lake and other tributary waters recently taken over from the Ontario Government, by the Dominion Government, and we hope that it may be your determination to continue this satisfactory policy of conserving the waters.

FRACTURED HIS LEG.

Gilbert Self Falls Some Twelve Feet at New City Power House.

Yesterday evening about five o'clock a serious accident occurred at the new city power house. A bricklayer named Gilbert Self, with another bricklayer named William Pettie, was engaged on a swing scaffold some twelve feet high in laying bricks when the board upon which they were working suddenly turned over. Self was thus hurled to the rock covered ground below, in addition to a general severe shaking up and many incidental bruises, Mr. Self sustained a comminuted fracture of the ankle bone. He was at once taken in the ambulance to Nicholls Hospital. Here Dr. Frederick, assisted by Dr. Morgan, attended to the patient and set the fractured bone. Mr. Pettie escaped the fall by grapping one of the ropes by by grabbing one of the ropes by Mr. Self, who comes from Toronto, was reported, at a late hour last night, to be resting comfortably.

CAVAN LADY'S DEATH.

Miss Lulu Cathcart Dies at Oxbow, Saskatchewan.

The following contains the particulars of the death of Miss Lula A. Cathcart, Cavanville, Ont.:

News of the death of Annie Lulu Cathcart, aged 20 years, even though anticipated for a day previous, came as a shock to this community last Friday morning, May 13th. This young lady passed away in her room in the McCay Block at about three o'clock, on that date, after a short illness caused by an attack of la grippe, with complications, which finally resulted in death being caused by meningitis. The only near relatives present being her sister, Miss Lily, and an uncle, Wm. Cathcart, of Lang, Sask. The deceased came to this town from her former home in Cavanville, Ontario, early last fall, and, with her sister opened a dressmaking store in the McCay Block, where this business was continued until about a week ago. During this short time both these young ladies have made many friends in Oxbow, as was evidenced by the many words of sympathy and acts of kindness tendered them in the hour of trial. The remains were shipped on Friday morning's train to the home of the parents, accompanied by the grief-stricken sister and uncle.—Oxbow, Sask., Herald.

Sciatica

EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY.

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored By Nerviline.

We have all read and heard of the agonies of Sciatica, but only those who have been tortured by this dread malady can fully appreciate what it must mean to be cured after years of suffering.

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to get well was completely wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended Nerviline. I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day and got relief. In order to build up my general CURED health and improve my blood I used Ferrozone, SIX one tablet with each meal YEARS. I continued this treatment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

There isn't a more highly esteemed citizen in Westchester than Mr. Hires. What he says can be relied upon. For six years since being cured he hasn't had a single relapse. Don't accept anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." 25 cents per bottle or five for $1. Sold everywhere or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston.

THE COUNTRY'S WELFARE.

The wealthy and powerful manufacturers of the United States cannot be censured for regarding Canada with covetous eyes. What would it not mean to them to have free course with our vast stores of raw materials and an easy entrance for their manufactures to the growing markets of the Dominion? Once they secured unimpeded access to our natural products they would have the cheap basis upon which to keep pace with the requirements of their own domestic market. After that they could dump the products of Canadian raw materials back into Canada at slaughter prices.

The result would be the crippling of many Canadian industries, the lessening of employment in this country, and a resumption of the exodus of population southwards. The question well may be asked why we should disturb existing conditions? We are not suffering from any want of prosperity or from any lack of markets. The agriculturist gets good prices for the products of the soil. He steadily improves his financial position, and in a very large number of cases grows moderately wealthy. Particularly is this so in the West.

Under present tariff conditions United States industries are compelled to establish branch factories in this country. Hamilton is the home of several extensive enterprises which which have thus crossed the line, and within a few days it has been announced that another, to employ two thousand men, is to erect a big plant there. The same thing is occurring at other Canadian points. The works are put up here because of the abundance of raw materials found in this country, and because, with such a basis of operations, they can do a larger British and foreign trade than from their head factories in the United States.

The pending imposition of a British tariff on United States goods, with apreference to Canadian products, is a further inducement to American industries to come north. Once Canadian exports actually enjoy preferential entry through the British customs, the trek of United States industries into the Dominion will become al, the more pronounced. After much patience and much national expenditure we have got the tide running strongly in our direction. The trend of events is in our favor. Why sacrifice all we have thus gained? Why reverse a highly successful national and Imperial policy on the very eve of greater achievements from its further pursuit?

A TENDERFOOT [illegible]

He Knew How to Play a Good Hand When He Got It.

"Pat Shandy," said a sporting editor, "used to entertain me when I visited his art shop with gambling tales.

"There was one tale about a tenderfoot that I rather liked. It seems according to this tale, that a barkeeper in some mining town vamoosed with three sharpers, and dear help us, tenderfoot that ever ventured to sit in a little poker game among this crew.

"One night the tenderfoot tenderfooted unimaginable, after a half dozen drinks in the saloon, agreed to take a hand in a dollar limit game.

"Things went along in the usual way for awhile. Then an unusual series of nods and winks began to pass about. The bartender had signaled that the tenderfoot held four kings on the draw. There were more nods and winks, and betting began.

"In the midst of the betting a waiter brought sandwiches and whisky in order to distract the tenderfoot, and while the poor dupe was toasting off his drink the sharper next him slipped a sixth card on to his hand, thus of course, nullifying it.

"The unconscious tenderfoot took up a huge sandwich, bit off a large mouthful and began to bet again. Right and left, of course, they raised him. He ate on and bet away calmly. An enormous sum lay on the table.

"Then suddenly the bartender resumed his nods and winks. He was terribly excited. Something was wrong. The sharpers, a little anxious, filled the tenderfoot.

"The tenderfoot finished the last bite of his sandwich, took a long drink of whisky and laid down his original five cards. Then in silence he gathered in his vast pile of winnings and with a cool nod took his leave.

"After his departure there was a terrible time.

"What the dickens did he do with that sixth card?' the sharper cried.

"'Didn't you see?' the bartender, dancing up and down with rage. 'He ate it with his sandwich!'"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A CURE AND A FEE.

Peculiar Experience of a Doctor With a Business Man

In conversation one day about the peculiar views that commercial men sometimes entertain about professional services Dr. N. West Mitchell told the following story:

"A very wealthy man came to consult me about an attack of vertigo. He said that he had just returned from a trip to Europe, where he had consulted eminent specialists, but that they had failed to afford him any permanent relief. 'A physician in London,' he said, 'asked me why I did not make an attempt to be cured nearer home. I thought on my way out west I would stop over to see you.'

"'Has any physician you have visited looked into your ears?' I asked.

"'No,' was his reply.

"I made an examination of his ears, removed some wax and a substance that appeared to be hardened remnants of cotton wool. I sent him away then and told him to come again in a day or two. He did so.

"'Well,' he exclaimed, 'I am cured. How much do I owe you?'

"'About $50,' I replied.

"As he drew a check he asked, 'Did you know when you first examined my ears that you could cure me?'

"'When I told him that I had a very fair conviction that I could be said: 'Well, you are a standard fool. You should have said to me, "I think I can cure you, and I will do so for $10,000 no cure, no pay." You would have got your money without a murmur.'

"'No,' I said, 'if you feel that way about it there are several little charities in which I am interested, and'—

"'No, no!' he interrupted. 'That is my business. I'll be my cure, and you have the price you asked.' The transaction is closed."

Colors.

Different colors are said to be due simply to different rates of vibrations. To red are attributed 458 millions of millions of vibrations per second and to violet 727.

The Bank van Leening.

The Dutch pawnshop of Amsterdam, known as Bank van Leening, is under the control of the municipality and is one of the oldest in the country. Up to 1616 the business was leased by the city to a private company, but as it refused to reduce its interest on pawned articles the city took over the business and has managed it ever since.

The Fleur-de-lis.

France is the only country which allows a flower to appear in its national heraldry. But the fleur-de-lis, or three lilies, is no different from most flowers that it does not seem out of place on the national coat of arms.

English Etchings.

The annual report of the Yorkshire penny bank shows that $375,000 has been saved by child depositors in the last five years.

Hallelujah Jones was in his element.

occupied mind. She was thinking that on her way to the sanitarium she would cross to the cabin for a good night word with the man upon whom her every thought centered.

As it happened, however, Harry was at that moment very near her. Alone on the mountain, the perplexing conflict of feeling had again descended upon him. He had fought it, but it had prevailed and at nightfall had driven him down to the town, where the street preacher now held forth. He stood alone, unnoted, a little distance away near the courthouse steps, where by reason of the crowd Jessica could see neither him nor the dog, which sniffed at the heels of the circle of bystanders as if to inquire casually of salvation.

Numbers were swelling now, and the street preacher, shaking back his long hair, drew a premonitory, wavering chord from his melodeon and struck up a gospel song. The song ended, he mounted his camp stool to propound his usual fiery text.

The watcher by the steps was gazing with a strange, alert intentness. Something in the scene held him enthralled. Hallelujah Jones knew the melodramatic value of contrast. As his mood called he passed abruptly from exhortation to song, from prayer to fulmination, and he embellished his harangue with anecdotes drawn from his lifelong campaign against the arch enemy of souls. Of what he had said the solitary observer had been quite unconscious. It was the ensemble—the repetition of something experienced somewhere before—that appealed to him. Suddenly, however, a chance phrase pierced to his understanding.

Another moment and he was leaning forward, his eyes fixed, his breath straining at his breast. For each word of the speaker now was knocking a sledge hammer blow upon the blank wall in his brain. Hallelujah Jones had launched into the recital of a story which, though the stern charge of a bishop had kept him silent as to name and locality, yet, possessing the vividness of an actual experience, had lost little in the telling. It was the tale of an evening when he had peered through the tilted window of a chapel and seen its dissolute rector gambling on the table of the Lord.

The words shrieked themselves through Harry's brain. Harry Sanderson, not Hugh Stires! Not an outcast! Not criminal, thief and forger! The curtain was rent. The dead wall in his brain was down, and the real past swept over him in an ungovernable flood. Hallelujah Jones had furnished the clew to the mans. His story was the last great wave, which had crumbled all at once the cliff of oblivion that the normal process of the recovered mind had been stealthily undermining. Harry Sanderson at last knew his past and all of pemlessment and distress that it had held.

Harry Sanderson, not Hugh Stires!

Shaking in every limb and feeling all along the courthouse wall like a drunken man, he made his way to the further deserted street. A passerby would have shrunk at sight of his face and his burning eyes.

For three months he, the Rev. Henry Sanderson, disgraced, had suffered eclipse, had been sunk out of sight and touch and hearing like a stone in a pool. For three months—through an accidental facial resemblance and a fortuitous concurrence of circumstances—he had owned the name and ignominy of Hugh Stires. And Jessica? Deceived no less than he, dating her piteous error from that mistaken moment when she had torn the bandage from her eyes on her wedding day, she had never seen the real Hugh in Smoky Mountain. She must learn the truth. Yet how to tell her? How could he tell her all?

At any hour yesterday, hard as the telling must have been, he could have told her. Last night the hour passed. How could he tell her now? Yet she was the real Hugh's wife by law and right. He himself could not marry her if God would but turn back the universe and give him yesterday!

His feet dragging as though from cold, he climbed the mountain road.

As he walked he took from his pocket the little gold cross, and his fingers, numb with misery, tied it to his thong watch guard. It had been only a bauble, a pocket piece acquired he knew not when or how. Now he knew it for the badge of his calling. He remembered now that, pressed a certain way, it would open, and engraved inside were his name and the date of his ordination.

He might shut the cabin door, but he could not forbid the torturer that came with him across the threshold. He might throw himself upon his knees and bury his face in the rough skin of the couch, but he could not shut out words that blent in golden lettered flashes across his throbbing

Cleveland's chief of police, Fred Kohler, has made a success of his "golden rule" policy of confining the number of arrests for trival offenses to the minimum necessary for the protection of society. His plan of having mere drunkards piloted home instead of to the station house has attracted wide attention. But now Cleveland's mayor has suspended him, alleging drunkenness and immorality. Until these charges are proven up to the hilt, the general public will suspend judgment. The Cleveland Press points out that people of the underworld, who loand Mr. Kohler's regulations irksome, have been boasting for some time that they would "get" him. A man is known by his enemies, and Mr. Kohler's seem to be acredit to him.

AMERICAN MILLIONS COMING TO CANADA

SETTLERS ALONE EXPECTED TO TAKE MILLIONS TO DOMINION THIS YEAR.

Investment in Industrial Enterprises is Increasing at Greater Rate Than Ever Before.

Ottawa, May 31st.—While every large investment of British capital in Canadian enterprises is attended by publicity, few persons realize the far greater significance, of the constant transfer of American capital to the Dominion. At the present moment American settlers are bringing into the country an amount of money which, it is estimated, will amount to $160,000,000 at the end of this year.

The investment of American manufacturing capital is increasing as never before. At the same time the imports of American merchandise into Canada are larger than ever. Although American exports to the United Kingdom, France, Germany, Belgium and the Netherlands decreased during April 1st, the exports to Canada increased by one-third. Canadian purchases in the American markets in April amounted to $6,670,920.

This clearly shows that a large amount of the American capital brought in by settlers is returned to the United States for the purchase of American goods with which the settler is familiar. At the same time the proportion of this capital which remains in Canada is larger than the proportion of that sent over from England or from the United States for investment in Canadian railways, mines or manufacturing enterprises.

Need Foreign Machinery.

In the latter Canadian industry still is more or less dependent upon foreign machinery. The agriculturist, however, finds it necessary upon settling in the Canadian West to make a large direct expenditure for his land, followed by a considerable outlay for buildings. The American settler particularly is not content, like his forefather, to establish himself in a slab sided shack, but must house himself comfortably and permanently.

Many persons competent to judge consider this exodus of American capital to Canada to be as important to the United States as the gold exportation to Europe, which is so much talked about and to which the stock market frequently seems responsive. The best opinion here is that the money situation this fall in the American Middle West will be rendered even more stringent than usual because of the withdrawal of capital by Americans settling in Canada. The complaints of Chicago and Minneapolis bankers already have been heard here.

The process works out in this way:—A prosperous farmer in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska or some other Western State decides to sell his farm and emigrate to Canada. He usually finds a customer in a neighbor. The farmer not only withdraws from his local bank all his cash capital, but his neighbor usually applies to the same bank for a loan with which to make the purchase. Immediately the purchase money is paid the emigrant carries the cash to Canada.

It has been estimated reliably that every man, woman and child settling in Canada brings into the country on an average $1,000. Since the emigration from the United States to the prairie provinces is expected to amount to 150,000 persons this year, the flow of capital across the border will be enormous even compared with the direct investment of British capital in Canada.

Mr. William MacKenzie, who, with Mr. Daniel Mann, controls the Canadian Northern Railway, its affiliated steamship lines and many other large industrial enterprise, is the most active agent in stimulating British investment. For the various enterprises Mr. MacKenzie obtained in London recently not less than $40,000,000.

There exists at present the somewhat peculiar condition that Canada is taking gold from New York despite the remarkable increase of imports from the United States. During April the Canadian banks drew no less than $1,150,000 in gold from the United States. Meanwhile American industries show a disposition even more eager than hitherto to establish branches in Canada. Hamilton, Ontario, continues to attract American agricultural implement factories.

To poets and others: The close season for Halley's xcomet is now over; and it was never nearer than 14,000,000 miles at that.

PRESBYTERIANISM IN CANADA.

London, May 30.—At the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, Dr. Norman Macleod claimed that no finer work was being done than by the Presbyterian Church in Canada in the far West. He appealed for further help from Scotland.

Lord Balfour of Burleigh, agreed, and said that the work of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was worthy of the Scottish race. What was now being spent in Canada would be repaid a thousandfold by the loyalty of a great people who would become one of the greatest nations of the world.

Grew Dull, Lost Snap, Vim.

A man never realizes the strain of life until failing ability to work brings it sharply home to him. "I am an insurance agent," writes Mr. W. E. Nemino of Montreal, and to make commissions, a man must have both energy and snap. My digestive organs began to give out; first a sluggish action of the bowels filled my blood with humors. A little scratch would fester and my face get red and pimply. Hot rushes of blood to the head made me very irritable and prevented sleep. I thought I could exercise it off, but the more I did, the more strength I lost. Finally I asked my druggist to recommend a pill that would cure constipation and slow-acting liver—he endorsed Dr. Hamilton's. The first dose told—I had got it right. So active, yet no pill in action—no trouble to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I think them a wonder. I am now as fat as ever, biles all gone, energy enough to get business and give me pleasure and interest in life. Dr. Hamilton's Pills I consider a wonder."

The Cheese Board met yesterday.

Four of Peterborough's charming belles were yesterday transformed into staid matrons. It was marriage day in this city.

Pupils of the local schools who want to examine the drawings in the old Collegiate Institute Building, are requested to call there this afternoon between 4 and 6 p.m., so that their elders may have a chance later on.

Fifteen days' board and lodging was handed out yesterday at the police court to three men arrested by C.P.R. Detective Sam Wright. The charge was riding on the C.P.R. without having invested in tickets.

During last May building permits were taken out in Peterborough for 20 dwelling houses, one church and one grain elevator. These permits cover an expenditure of one hundred and nineteen thousand, two hundred and sixty dollars.

The customs returns for Peterborough for May amounted to $31,-996.84, as against $22,807.29 for the same month last year, showing an increase for this year of $9,189.55.

Lindsay Poultry Association met Monday night and elected their officers for the year. Deputy Reeve B. L. McLean, Lindsay, is the president.

President Roosevelt has now told the British Government how they should manage affairs in Egypt. Why not get him to Peterborough and have our fixed assessment regulations straightened out so that the poor man will not have to pay proportionately seventy per cent. more taxes than the rich property owner?

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A Call From Oregon

Opportunities in the Far West

The greatest industrial activity in this country is now centered in Oregon. Two of the biggest railroad systems in the U. S., with intense rivalry, are pushing branch lines into the remote portions of this State, and an exodus from the East is on in the occupation of this the LAST FRONTIER ON THE CONTINENT. Fortunes will be made here THIS YEAR—NEXT YEAR and EVERY YEAR for the next decade.

Our valleys are the most fertile in the world and irrigation projects are converting the bordering hillsides into gardens. Orchards lands are leaping upward in price and the advance has only started. Water from mountain streams is the purest, timber the finest and climate the most perfect in Uncle Sam's domain. Power plants are springing up along the channels of silvery torrents to develop electrical energy for mines and mills and interburban railways. Fish abound in the rivers, game in the forests and health and joy in the atmosphere. There are no cyclones here or pestiferous insects to endanger life, or make it a burden.

I want Eastern connections and help, financial and otherwise, to seize opportunities that surround this picturesque city of Baker. The returns will be out of all proportion to the help extended. The opportunities are along the lines of vegetable fruit, hay, grain, stock, timber, and mineral lands. There are fortunes in all these. Some mines in this vicinity have record outputs in gold, running into the millions. Yet the surface, overlying the mineral deposits of Baker County, has hardly been scratched.

On a ledge of free gold bearing quartz two miles in length I made a test of 100 tons of ore taken at a depth of only a hundred feet and got over $3000.00 out of it. The mint returns passed through the Citizen's National Bank here.

Among other things, I need money, right now, to begin the MANUFACTURE OF GOLD out of this immense ore body. The shares of the Timber Canyon Mines Company, which OWNS this property, and of which I am secretary have an intrinsic value of at least 50 cents a share based on a conservative valuation of the property and the amount of stock issued.

I will deliver on order, with draft attached, up to 50,000 shares of this stock at 25 cents a share, NET. The full amount of the purchase price will go back in dividends inside of 18 months. Take a block of this as a starter, and get in step with this Eldorado of the West. If there is anything else out here that I can do for you, or you can do for me,—WRITE ME.

Yours for business, and MONEY for both of us,

Big Area Involved in Land Dispute.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 2.—A big land dispute resulting from a trick practiced upon the Government 35 years ago by a wealthy San Franciscan now dead came up for hearing to-day before United States Surveyor General Archer. Palo Verde Valley lands valued at $2,500,000 are involved in this controversy, which, it is believed, jeopardizes the rights of many settlers. Suit has been brought attacking the validity of the title to the lands acquired by the San Franciscan thirty-five years ago. It is charged that this man had a boat loaded on a wagon, and after it had been hauled over a prescribed area claimed 44,000 acres of rich land, under the Swamp and Overflow act following his attesting to the fact that he had made the trip by boat.

Mr. Murray Miller left yesterday for Saskatoon, where he will in future reside.

Grave Fears Fill the Air in Old England

LIBERALS ALARMED AT EFFECT OF ROOSEVELT'S SPEECH ON EGYPT.

More Caustic Comments—Hearst Calls Ex-President a "Tin Soldier" and Tells Him He Should Hurry Back Home.

London, June 1.—Government officials and members of the English Cabinet are today convinced that Col. Theodore Roosevelt's speech yesterday at Guild Hall, in which he rebuked England's administration of affairs in Egypt, will greatly increase the difficulty of dealing with the delicate political situation that confronts England in Egypt.

Owing to the semi-official character of Roosevelt's visit, by reason of his appointment by President Taft to represent the United States at the funeral of King Edward, English officialdom will make no comment for publication regarding the speech But nothing could be plainer than that the leading officials fear that Roosevelt's utterances will act as a fuse that will yet touch off an upheaval in Anglo-Egyptian relations.

Today's criticisms of Roosevelt increased in severity. The Evening Star probably takes the hardest rap at him. "Roosevelt has long been unaccustomed to being spoken to plainly," it says, 'He has long been accustomed to living in a perfect stew of eulogy, but the temptation is irresistible to tell him that he is guilty of a grave offence against the laws binding host and guest, and against the laws that governed the White House when he was its occupant. The fact that his predecessor was assassinated should have made him most careful in his comments regarding the assassination of Boutros Pasha, the Egyptian premier."

MUDDLED AND BOYISH.

The Daily Graphic reminds the colonel that "even Socrates was poisoned for giving too much advice."

The Manchester Guardian voices a common criticism when it says that "Roosevelt's statements are based on misleading evidence." It terms his views "muddled and boyish."

"The speech was well meant, but it was wholly unnecessary, and is calculated to further complicate the difficult problem in Egypt," says the Westminster Gazette.

Even the Evening Standard, a Conservative paper, after referring in a friendly tone to Roosevelt, declares "laying of hands on England's private political subjects seems at first glance a social crime little short of sacrilige."

That Roosevelt violated the proprieties of the occasion nearly everyone concedes, even his friends not defending him on this charge. To receive at one moment the greatest honor that the city could confer, and in the next to arraign the English people for their maladministration of Egyptian affairs, was no unusual that the people have not yet fully recovered their composure.

The Pall Mall Gazette refers to this feature of the case by saying "that Roosevelt prefers the realities to the proprieties."

SOME EGG-SUCKING.

The Globe treats the speech in jocular vein and agrees with Roosevelt. "Grandmamma does not resent instruction in egg-sucking," it says, "but she, herself, is not entirely unfamiliar with the accomplishment." This is suggested by the old English saying, "Don't teach your grandmother how to suck eggs."

Not since the death of King Edward have the London papers played up a story, both editorially and in a news way, as they have Roosevelt's speech. Naturally the Conservative press is more friendly than the Liberal and Radical, inasmuch as Roosevelt's views are a paraphrase of their own. The Express, Telegram, Mail, Post, Standard and Times are almost forced to approve of the speech.

WHAT THE TIMES SAYS.

But even the Conservative press while agreeing with his views, doubts the propriety of his utterances. "Roosevelt must not be surprised," says the Times, "should unpleasant manifestions occur due to the sensitive to his criticism regarding which it is probable the colonel had not reckoned.

The News concludes contemptuously by denying the validity of Roosevelt's claim to first hand information after such a hurried visit to Egypt.

Roosevelt's plea against sentimentality furnishes the Leader with a good laugh, and it refers to the colonel, as "the greatest modern sentimentalist."

OUTRAGED ALL CONVENTIONS.

The Chronicle considers Roosevelt's outspokenness a compliment to Anglo-American solidarity, and advises England to take no offence, "even though the speech did outrage every conventional canon of official international propriety.

The real view of Roosevelt, however, is found in the streets, where the people are freed from the restrictions that hedge the government officials and influence the press utterances. Here the comment is generally and emphatically that Roosevelt not only went beyond the bounds of propriety but that he touched on a subject that was none of his business. If the street opinions are a criterion Roosevelt is far less a popular idol today than he was 24 hours ago.

TEDDY DOESN'T CARE.

Whether England liked the speech apparently made no difference to Roosevelt today for he was hustling about in his usual jovial mood. He was guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Irish Nationalist members of Parliament.

DEMAND RIGHTS AND IDENTITY

AN ARMY OF 9,000 MEN WILL TAKE CENSUS IN CANADA NEXT YEAR

Ottawa, June 2.—Nine thousand men will be required to take the census of next year. The schedules of enumeration embodying some changes from the previous forms are now before the cabinet for approval.

The number of those employed in the work will be very little more than in May, 1901, the idea being to make larger areas assigned to each enumerator. Great growth of the West will operate towards an increased representation in the Commons, but this will depend upon the relative increase in Quebec and the east.

KING'S BIRTHDAY.

His Present Britannic Majesty 45 Years Old Today.

A London cable received last night says that there will be no general public observance of King George's natal day. The banks will not be closed nor will similar financial institutions in Canada debar the public from cashing cheques, negotiating drafts and notes at so much per cent.

King George V., who was born 45 years ago in Marlborough-House, is celebrating the day quietly at Buckingham Palace, surrounded by his family. At the King's personal request no observance of his natal day is observed further than firing of customary salutes by warships at the various naval centers.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Those Who Will Control the Destiny of Park Street Church Ladies' Aid.

At the annual meeting of Park Street Baptist church Ladies' Aid, held in the church parlor the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. M. Mowry.
Vice-President—Mrs. L. G. Gilles pie.
Secretary—Mrs. J. Johnston.
Treasurer—Mrs. R. Bunton.
Auditors—Mrs. (Rev.) W. C. Rid dford and Mrs. W. C. Barrie.
Organist—Mrs. R. Wright.

The treasurer reported receipts of $451.42.

NO CHEESE NUMBERS.

Peterborough Cheese Board Met and Mr. Gillespie Bid Top Price.

At the last session of Peterborough's Cheese Board, the subject of branding and numbering cheese boxes was thoroughly discussed by all present. It was decided on a vote of the salesmen to continue to brand the cheese without using any numbers. The bidding was started by Mr. Morton who offered 10c. After several other bids were made Mr. Gillespie, the Simcoe street merchant and city father, raised prices to 10 9-16c. This got Mr. Gillespie the choice of the market, and he closed Keene, Warminster, Shearer, Central Smith, Selwyn, Villiers, Westwood. All accepted. Warsaw refused. Trevern accepted, as did also Indian River, East Emily, King Edward, Myrtle, Maple Leaf, Young's Point, Pine Grove, Lakefield and Bensfort. Lang refused. Cedardale, Fleetwood and North Dummer accepted. This completed the selection, and Mr. Weir offered 9 1-16 for the balance of the board. Mr. Cook bid 5-8, Mr. Weir beating him out by offering the same price for the balance to the board. He named Warsaw, Oakdale, Daisy D., Ormonde, Lang, Norwood, Killarney. This effected the sale of the entire board.

The meeting then adjourned for three weeks.

The cheese was boarded as follows:

Keene	120
Warminster	105
Shearer	115
Central Smith	161
Selwyn	136

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days' test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

THE WEATHER.

THE CROWDING OUT OF THE IRISH CLERGY.

French Bishops, Who Control the Roman Catholic Church All Over Canada Making It French in Spirit and Character.

Conflict Has No Party Significance Nor Does It Suggest Any Want of Loyalty to the Church.

(From Toronto News.)

At last there seems likelihood of an open conflict between the Irish and French elements of the Roman Catholic Church in Canada.

This conflict has no party significance, nor does it suggest in the remotest degree any want of loyalty to the Church and its doctrines.

It is the outward manifestation of a quarrel which has been going on for years, and which has at last become so acute that it appears in the open.

CROWDING OUT IRISH CLERGY

What is charged is that the French bishops who control the Church are crowding the Irish people and their clergy into the background, and practically making the Church all over Canada French in spirit, in character, in clergy and in bishops.

In Montreal a few years ago there was a very desperate conflict over the organization of a new Irish Roman Catholic parish, in which an attempt was made to plant French priests. The quarrel even went so far that threats were made by the supporters of the Irish element to make representations to the Dominion Parliament during the very time that the Western Autonomy Bills were before the House.

CONFLICT EXTENDS TO WEST

In the West, as in Ontario, the conflict is in progress. Everywhere French priests are preferred before Irish, and in the schools, as in the Church, French teachers are engaged where Irish-speaking Catholics should be employed.

In Ontario the dispute has gone so far that the Irish clergy are organizing to resist the demand for the teaching of French in the schools on the ground that this is only part of a great movement to ostracize Irish-speaking Catholics and to extend the power of the French priests and bishops over this province.

NOTHING UNREASONABLE.

In the main the justice of the case seems to be with the Irish-Catholic element. It is loyal to the Church seeking no exceptional consideration and only asking that, where Irish parishes and dioceses, they shall have people constitute the majority in parishes and dioceses, they shall have Irish clergy and Irish bishops.

DEPUTATION TO GOVERNMENT.

The facts outlined above gave rise to a movement on the part of the Irish Roman Catholics to combat the aggression of the French clergy in a clearly-defined Church policy. A strong deputation of English-speaking Roman Catholics will wait upon the prime minister, Sir James Whitney on June 6th, when they will protest again further special school privileges being extended to small French outposts placed at various points in the Province. The deputation will also ask that these facts be weighed in the appointment of magistrates, license inspectors or other positions through which their rights might be jeopardized."

Population of U. S. One Hundred Million

Washington, June 2.—The Census Bureau has begun enumerating the population from the individual census cards, and Director Durand declared today that the complete census of some cities would be announced within a fortnight.

The individual cards, the compilation of which is in the hands of several hundred experts, if piled on upon another, would make a stack sixteen miles high, according to Mr. Durand's estimate that the population of the United States will prove to be in the neighborhood of one hundred millions.

THE HIGH COURT.

Non. Jury Sittings Begin on Monday With Three Cases for Trial.

The non-jury sittings of the High Court opens here on Monday. It is not stated yet who will preside. There are three cases to be tried.

In the first action John Johnston, living in Peterborough, claims $2,500 damages and asks for an injunction restraining the defendant, Jas. McKibbon, a retired farmer, also of Peterborough, from continuing the deeds complained of. Johnston claims that the defendant entered his land and located another piece of land, marked the boundaries of same and cut trees and brush and piled same in heaps and negligently set fire to same, and neglected to watch the fire. This resulted in the fire extending over plaintiff's land, and destroying the growing timber and soil.

G. W. Hatton for plaintiff, O'Connell & Gordon for defendant.

The second case concerns a bill of sale, and is brought by a resident of Tweed. The defendant lives in Toronto.

The third case is brought by residents of Douro and Smith, daughters and administratrices of J. H Campbell, late of Douro deceased who claim that the defendants, of Douro, two of deceased's sons, obtained $4,950, which was payable to their deceased father as an heir of his deceased brother, and will not account for or distribute the same as part of their father's estate.

Dumble & Johnston for plaintiff Bennistoun, Peck and Kerr for defendants.

Smith Street Bridge is Down.

None but owners of submarines or of a height of Sandy Trotter can cross the Otonabee at Smith street just now as the bridge is down. Work on the new structure is progressing slowly but surely. When the new bridge is completed, residents of the townships to the east will be able to enter this city at Smith street, without feeling as they cross the river that they might be in a conveyance carried by a balloon filled with laughing gas and operated by an inebriate.

HIS LIFE A MYSTERY

WHY DID WEALTHY MAN LEAVE ENGLAND?

Case Up Before Sir William Mulock—Life Story Reads Like a Melodrama.

St. Catherines, Ont., June 3.—Judge Sir William Mullock has decided that Charles Lobb, who came to St. Catherines a stranger in 1874, invested in Pennsylvania oil lands, became a prominent citizen and an alderman of this city was a big-miss and deserted a wife and several children in England. The reason of his going away from England and leaving behind rich collieries and other properties and a loving wife and children will always remain a mystery, for Lobb is dead, and as far as is known he never made a confidante of anyone.

Lobb married a young woman after he came to Canada. Her maiden name was Hannah. That is all that is known about her. They had several children, of whom three survive, C. C. Lobb and Mrs. Richard Newman, of this city. Lobb left a will, bequeathing considerable wealth he possessed here to his children of Hannah Lobb. He did not name the children specifically, however, and on this point the children in England, having at last discovered their father, sued to have the estate in Canada handed over to them.

The case was tried here before Sir Wm. Mullock some weeks ago. The Lobbs here denied that the late Charles Lobb was the missing Chas. Lobb from England, but Judge Mullock decided that he was, giving his decision from samples of handwriting and from depositions made by old friends of Charles Lobb in England. The judge, however, refused to allow the English children any of their father's Canadian estate, even though they were his legitimate children, holding that when Charles Lobb made his will he clearly intended to leave his possessions to the children of Hannah Lobb. No costs were allowed on either side.

No Liquor will be Allowed in Officers' Mess or Canteen

The keeping of liquor in the canteens at the militia training camps is to be strictly enforced this year at the Niagara camp. Brigadier-General W. H. Cotton, camp commander, has issued the following order: "No beer or spirituous liquor of any kind are permitted in any officers' mess, canteen, or other regimental institution in the camp. All canteens will be under camp regulation. They must be visited at least once daily by the field officers of the day of the respective brigades, and at least twice a day by the regimental orderly officers."

The first week of the camp will be devoted to the instruction of squad and company drill and skirmishing and attack practice, while the second week companies will be trained to work together in battalions and brigades. Musketry practice will be carried on until two days before the camp closes.

General Sir John French will be in attendance for three days and will criticise their various movements. On the day previous to the camp breaking up he will inspect the troops.

World to Become a Vast Insane Asylum

WORLD TO BECOME A VAST INSANE ASYLUM.

Insanity Has Increased One Hundred Per Cent.—Dr. Kellogg Speaks of Physical Degeneracy.

Boston, June .—In 205 years this world will be one vast insane asylum declared Dr. J. H. Kellogg, of Battle Creek, Mich., today. Then he stepped aside to permit the doctors of this "seat of culture" to engage in a warm wrangle over his statement, most of them intimating that Kellogg himself should go to a "nut specialist" and have his head examined.

"Physical degeneracy and chronic diseases are increasing," declared Kellogg, "and insanity has increased 100 per cent. in 50 years. This is due to degeneracy originating from our manner of living.

"Only three women out of four nurse their infants, owing to physical degeneracy, which make it impossible, and 75 per cent. of the bottle-fed babies die before they are a year old.

"The increasing use of tea, coffee, tobacco, and alcohol spells the end of a sane human race."

The City's Dog By-Law Amended Last Night

The City Council met in Committee of the Whole last night.

Industrial Commissioner Duggan waited upon the council, in accordance with the result of Wednesday night's citizens' meeting, and offered to the council that their active co operation in organizing a deputation to interview Hon. G. P. Graham on the question of expediting the completion of the Trent Valley Canal. The council heartily endorsed the attitude taken by those present at Tuesday night meeting and on motion of Ald. Duffus, seconded by Ald. Gillespie, they will co-operate with the committee of three named. The Citizens' Committee is composed of Industrial Commissioner Duggan, Ald. Phelan and Mr. F. D. Kerr.

The form of lease under which the C.G.E. Co. acquire the use of the water works dam for a term of 20 years came up before the council, and was approved of.

QUAKER OATS SPUR LINE.

A letter from Mr. W. H. Denham, stated that the agreement drawn up by the city solicitor, granting the Quaker Oats Co. permission to cross Murray street and the government reserve along the river front with a C.P.R. spur line included conditions impossible for the company to accept.

In discussing this question, Ald. Duffus contended that now the city contemplates granting concessions to the Quaker Oats Co., it would be opportune to endeavor to effect an arrangement with them for a protected right of way across the new dam at London street. Such a means of connection between East and West Peterborough is a crying need.

Mr. Denham's letter and plan of new spur line was referred to the city engineer to report on the situation regarding frogs and switches. Members of the council will visit the locality in question with Mr. Hay this morning.

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Morgan,—That the Peterborough Hydraulic Power Co. and the Peterborough Light and Power Co., be requested to sign at early date their existing agreements with the city.

On the advice of City Solicitor E. H. D. Hall the dog bylaw will be amended.

The leash clause will be eliminated and read that dogs must be accompanied by and easier control of their owner or some other person. Another clause modified was the one regarding dogs doing damage, etc. But this will read that no person shall be permitted to retain a dog that that attacks any one or does damage to property, or runs after horses, bicycles, automobiles, and other vehicles.

The leash clause being struck out, Ald. Graham moved, seconded by Ald. Turner, that after July 1st the dog fees be $5 and $3.—Carried on a vote of eight to four.

Ald. Baller's amendment, seconded by Ald. Morgan, that the fees be left as they are was lost. The old by law will be rescinded and a new one embodying the above amendments will be submitted to the council on Monday night.

Ald. Baller will ask for the ayes and nays on the amended dog by-law next Monday night.

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus,—That the Property Committee secure a suitable dog pound and that the police be instructed to enforce the bylaw as amended.—Carried.

Has a Very Strong Grip on Canada

Halifax, N.S., June 2.—The first hour of this morning's session of the Assembly was given over to devotional exercises.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Duval, Winnipeg, who through illness was unable to attend, was read, accompanied by a letter from the Geneva Church, couched in classic French, for the reading of which the clerk was applauded. A long list of applications from Presbyteries to receive ministers from other churches was referred to a special meeting.

Rev. Dr. Sommerville, of the Committee on Statistics, scored delinquent Presbytery clerks for failure to report accurately the condition of affairs, financially and numerical.

The statistical statement shows the number of families in the Church to be 157,161, an increase of 18,787 during the year. The number of communicants is 279,556, an increase of 9,868. There was added on profession of faith 15,720, exactly one communicant from every ten families. This, the committee thought, called for searching inquiry.

The finances showed $1,410,161 paid in salaries by congregations, an increase of $65,514. This means a little less than $3.50 from each family.

RECIPROCITY WITH THE STATES

The shifting prospect of a reciprocity treaty between Canada and the United States is coming to be better understood in both countries, and Uncle Sam is stroking his goatee, with a far away look in his eyes and a ruminating wrinkle on his narrow forehead. Canada is no longer the rooster of bantam size, if once was, ready to peck at the gooseberry in Uncle Sam's hand. It has gooseberries of his own, and the growing on this side of the line has no beseeching in it. Thirty years ago things were different. Canada would then have been quite willing to arrange for a fair reciprocal trading, with its raw material as an exchange for manufactured goods. But now the policy is in the minds of Canadians that Canada is nearing a point in its commercial destiny when it will be able to use up all the raw material in its own industries, and that the basis of a prospective reciprocity with its next door neighbor has come to be not an exchange of raw material for manufactured goods, but an exchange of products, manufactured or otherwise for whatever is required for our country's growth. Uncle Sam in his offishness once made reciprocity a something only to talk about, and the national policy, in the Canadian prosperity it had produced, has brought things very much to the same pass, with the offishness transferred to Canada. We would eagerly desire to be on the most friendly terms with our neighbor; but, as for trading with him, we can hold our heads now just as high as he once did, as we approach him on the question of reciprocal trading. Our next treaty-making with him must be on the principle of a properly balanced see-saw, with no handicap of weight on either end of it, unless Great Britain takes its stand over the fulcrum with preferential trade as an assurance of further consolidation of the Empire.

A HEAVY SNOW STORM IN THE NORTH-WEST--FOUR INCHES OF SNOW FELL--TRAINS HAMPERED

Winnipeg, June 2.—A heavy snowstorm last night along the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway between Medicine Hat and Calgary and over Southern Alberta has interrupted all wire communication between Calgary and the coast, and only one wire is working with Winnipeg.

The storm appears to extend into the mountains. Three or four inches of snow fell, which alternated with sleet, pulling down many telegraph wires and seriously hampering train operation.

ATHERLEY LICENSE MAY BE CANCELLED.

Jury in Fowler Inquest Pass Resolution Asking the Government to Act.

Orillia, June 2.—The jury on the Atherley inquest brought in the following verdict this morning: "The verdict we agree upon unanimously is that William Fowler came to his death by being struck by the pilot of G.T.R. engine No. 2019 on May 19th, 1910, by lying alongside the track while under the influence of liquor obtained from the Cottage Hotel, Atherley."

It is understood that the jury also passed a resolution by a vote of 10 to 3 recommending the Government to suppress the license at Atherley.

ILL HEALTH, ITS CAUSE.

Sluggishness of Liver and Bowels.

It took me a long time to learn, and big doctors' bills in the bargain, writes Mr. Ogilby, of Winnipeg that the disturbance of my system inactivity. A sleepiness and languor extinguished my old time ambition. I fear irritability of temper added little to the comfort of my family, yet the headaches, general misery and melancholy forebodings that weighed me down ought to be considered. Tonics, electric treatment and mineral waters in turn failing to cure me, the advertising of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and the testimonials supporting the claim of great medicinal virtue induced me to try them. The result of even the first box made clear that my own body was making its own poison, that by driving it from the system and removing the cause which undoubtedly resided in the liver and bowels, by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, my health would be as good as ever.

It seems certain to me that more than half the sickness we see about us is caused by carelessness in keeping the bowels open and the liver active. Dr. Hamilton's Pills I found do both and find it better than other remedies. 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston.

NO LINIMENT LIKE "NERVILINE."

Fifty Years' Use Proves It the Strongest, Safest, Best.

1,000,000 Bottles Sold Annually.

The unexampled success of "Nerviline" is due to the fact that it is five times stronger, three times more penetrating, more pain-relieving than any other liniment.

One million bottles used every year—think what this means! Surely stronger proof is not possible that Nerviline is a trusty liniment, a household remedy, upon which mothers can depend in case of accident or sudden sickness. Scarcely an ache or a pain that Nerviline won't cure—among the hundreds of ailments for which it is guaranteed are the following:—

Headache	Neuralgia
Sciatica	Rheumatism
Lumbago	Chest Colds
Sore Back	Toothache
Earache	Cramps
Diarrhoea	Bowel Disorders

Doctors will tell you that nothing but the purest and most healing antiseptic drugs are used in Nerviline—that's why it is so safe for general family use, for the baby as well as the parent. If you haven't tried Nerviline, do so now—your neighbors are almost sure to know of its manifold merits and uses.

Refuse any substitute for Nerviline 000, is burnish to the ground. sold the world over in large 25c bottles, five for $1.00, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

eyeballs. "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife."

So he crouched, a man under whose feet life had crashed, leaving him pinned beneath the wreck to watch the fire that must creep nearer and nearer.

* * * * * * *

Curiosity held Jessica until the evangelist closed his melodeon preparatory to a descent upon the dance hall. Then, thinking of the growing dark with some trepidation, she started toward the mountain.

Ahead of her a muffled puff-puff sounded, and the dark bulk of an automobile was moving slowly in the same direction, and she quickened her pace, glad of this quasi company.

A little way up the ascent a cumbrous shadow startled her. She saw in a moment that it was the automobile, halted at the side of the road. Her footsteps made no sound, and she was close upon it when she saw the three men it had carried standing near by. She made to pass them and had crossed half the intervening space, when some instinct sent her to the shade of the trees. They had stopped opposite the hydraulic concession, where a side path left the main road. It was the same path by which she and August Prendergast had taken their unconscious burden on a night long ago, leading along the hillside, overlooking the snakelike flume and forming a steeper short cut to the cabin above. They were conversing in low tones, and as they talked they pointed, she thought, toward it.

Jessica had never in her life been an eavesdropper, but her excited senses made her anxious. Moreover, she was in a way committed, for she could not now emerge without being seen. As she waited a man came from the path and joined the others. The sky had been overcast and gloomy, but the moon drew out just then, and she saw that the newcomer, evidently a patrol, carried a rifle in the hollow of his arm. She also saw that one of the first three was the automobile's owner.

"It was Shiras killed him."

For some minutes they conversed in undertones, whose very secrecy inflamed her imagination. It seemed to her that they made some reference to the flume. Had there been another robbery of the sluice boxes and could they still suspect Hugh?

Dread and indignation made her bold. When they turned into the path she followed, treading noiselessly, till she was close behind them. They had stopped again and were looking intently at a shadowy gray something that moved in the bottom below.

She heard the man who carried the rifle say, with a smothered laugh:

"It's only Barney McGinn's old white horse taking a drink out of the sluice box. He often does that."

Then the sheriff's voice said: "McGinn's horse is in town tonight, with Barney on her back. Horse or no horse, I'm going to"— The rest was lost in the swift action with which he snatched the firearm from the first speaker, sighted and fired.

In the still night the concussion seemed to rock the ground and roused a hundred echoes. It startled and shocked the listening girl, but not so much as the sound that followed it—a cry that had nothing animal-like and that sent the men running down the slope toward an object that lay huddled by the sluice box.

In horrified curiosity Jessica followed, slipping from shadow to shadow. She saw the sheriff kneel down and draw a collapsed and empty horseskin from a figure whose thieving cunning it would never cloak again.

"So it was you, after all, Prendergast!" the sheriff said contemptuously.

The white face stared up at them, venomous and writhing, turning about the circle as though searching for some one who was not there.

"How did—you guess?"

The sheriff, who had been making a swift examination, answered the panted question. "You have no time to think of that now," he said.

A sinister look darted into the glinting yellow eyes, and hatred and cor-

Century Contributed to the Chimes.

That the chimes to be placed in the tower of St. John's church are considered a valuable acquisition to Peterborough is proven by the generous aid given by people living at a distance. A cheque was received yesterday morning by the Chimes Committee from Mr. E. R. Wood of Toronto, to help this public enterprise. Over $700 has now been received for the fund from people outside Peterborough. Mrs. Thomas Bradburn, Toronto, is another generous out-of-town contributor to the fund.

UNITED STATES REALIZES POSITION.

The United States are waking up to the fact, that Canada is fully competent to preserve her natural resources for the use of her own people. Time was when popular opinion in the United States tended to regard Jack Canuck as a hewer of wood and a drawer of water for Uncle Sam. But certain expressions of opinion of a contrary sort are continually cropping up in the American press, show that this attitude to Canada is fast giving way. Here is a sample from the editorial columns of the American Forestry Journal.

"Canada is measuring her timber resources and preparing to protect them by progressive and drastic measures against exploitation for the benefit of wasteful foreign countries, including her next door neighbor. We cannot look to the north for our salvation. We must husband all our remaining resources and plant trees wherever they can be grown more profitably than other crops, in order that our own future may be assured. This is the only way. Canada has not the resources for her own needs and ours too, and she is sufficiently wide awake and intelligent to guard her own. The only way our timber resources and Canada's can be made inexhaustible, is by the application of the highest scientific knowledge and broad common sense."

IN GRAVE DANGER.

A. J. Balfour in an address before the Primrose League, declares he believes the British constitution is in grave danger because the Government of Britain desires that a majority of the House of Commons shall be master. He foresees a revolution ahead, a revolution masquerading under the cloak of a device for preventing friction between the two legislative chambers.

Just what grounds there are for the former Prime Minister's views is not apparent. It is true the battle between Lords and Commons has resulted disastrously for the former, but because the elected representatives of the people wish to curb the powers of a hereditary chamber on financial matters does not give cause for the alarm that a social evolution is impending. But granting that public opinion is fermented, that there is a liklihood of a social and political revolution, should it be stemmed if such is necessary to maintain the principle of representative government in its entirety?

The old conservative, almost bureaucratic, tendencies of England must gradually undergo reform if Britain is to keep her place at the head of nations. The people of today are the forces that rule—not the family traditions of the past.

IMPORTANCE OF SEED GRAIN.

Canada, being a nation of farmers, has to pay a very large seed bill each year. Last year the crops called for 33,000,000 bushels of seed grain—wheat, oats and barley—and we are constantly increasing our agricultural acreage. This being so, the economy of sowing good, clean grain, is at once apparent. The advantages to be derived from it are like the proceeds of a sum of money laid out at compound interest—they are cumulative in their effect and grow in ever increasing ratio. Some years ago a competition was carried on in some 450 places in Canada to see just what the actual results of using good, pure seed would be. If we reason from it, we find that our grain yield of last year would have increased 190,000,000 bushels, had clean, vigorous seed been sown on every acre under cultivation. Now 190,000,000 bushels of grain would fill 1,500 miles of railway grain cars. It is such a large amount that it is hard for the mind to comprehend, but at any rate it goes to show, that it would pay our farmers to be particular about the kind of seed they sow.

A GOOD PROPOSAL.

The cool proposal by the United States manufacturers that their Government should contribute a portion of the cost of a canal through Ontario, by which the products of the West might find a more ready outlet to the seaboard, may have been prompted by the best of good feeling toward Canada, but it ought not to receive a moment's favorable consideration. When this country is in need of canals it can build them, and it can even build some for which it has no use, like the Newmarket ditch.

PRESBYTERIANISM IN CANADA.

Loodon, May 30.—At the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, Dr. Norman Macleod claimed that no finer work was being done than by the Presbyterian Church in Canada in the far West. He appealed for further help from Scotland.

Lord Balfour of Burleigh, agreed, and said that the work of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was worthy of the Scottish race. What was now being spent in Canada would be repaid a thousandfold by the loyalty of a great people who would become one of the greatest nations of the world.

If you would have a safe yet certain Cough Remedy in the home, try Dr. Shoop's — at least once. It is thoroughly unlike any other Cough preparation. Its taste will be entirely new to you—unless it is already your favorite Cough Remedy. No opium, chloroform, or any other stupefying ingredients are used. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy it wonderful curative properties. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity? Will you tell some sick friend of this, our remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "If it absolutely and unconditionally fail it is free."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments over here in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative we must have quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought them nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, or any other organ the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the centers of these ailments—the failing, faltering, inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the suffering sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, when the maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Blue Vein Remedy—and that nearly it covered by the same blanket of the book, you may procure plain.

Besides, you are free to consult me free of cost. Write me about your home physician. My advice and the book are free. Just address Racine, Wis.

Perhaps a sound or sure from me will close up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice alone. My best effort is hardly worth a passing moment.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the medicine 30 days. Then decide.

Surely I will hear the opportunity.

I will have an honest and trustworthy drug gist to whom you can conveniently go for the 30 day test.

Then look, ask me for the order, for all drug gists are not posted or care to give the 30 day test.

So write me now and save all delays. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 10, Racine, Wis.

The FREE COUPON Buys Your Family Dessert

Take the Coupon below to your grocer and get a package of our latest and greatest creation—Mooney's Sugar Wafers—Canada's finest delicacy—absolutely free. We will pay your grocer the full retail price of this delicious dessert.

So confident are we that you will be delighted with our latest confection—Mooney's Sugar Wafers—that we are willing to pay for the first package. When you taste them once, you'll buy them often. Never before has such a delicious dessert graced your table—never before has such an appetizing and toothsome delicacy been offered you. Mooney's Sugar Wafers are the last word—the best word in the bakers' art. Years of experiment—of unexcelled reputation—are back of this biscuit. Yet they cost no more than common kinds.

Mooney's Sugar Wafers are created by Canada's master bakers—of the finest and costliest materials—in an airy, sunlit, sanitary factory.

Your Meal is Incomplete Without Mooney's Sugar Wafers

It's interesting work—this Mooney Method of biscuit making. In making Mooney Sugar Wafers we use flour that is a special blend of hard spring wheat for nourishment and soft winter wheat for flavor. The most reliable dairymen in Western Ontario supply us with the purest and sweetest butter and cream daily. We get their best, because we pay top prices. We could pay a third less for these ingredients, but we couldn't keep the Mooney high quality standard intact. This would be poor economy—you know this.

When you get your first package of Mooney's Sugar Wafers you'll observe how crispy and flaky the double layers are—how snappy and enticing the exquisite cream between the layers is. Each wafer is a delicious sweetmeat sandwich that fairly melts in your mouth.

Mooney's Sugar Wafers are made in the largest and brightest bakery in Canada. Here we have over 200 trained employees—640 windows—3 miles of floor space. The single special equipment for producing Mooney's Sugar Wafers cost us over $20,000. We even ship our products in our own specially built private cars, so they are of even temperature in transit. When you open the dainty, dust and damp-proof package, the biscuits are fresh, crisp and appetizing—just as they come from the ovens. No other biscuit manufacturer in the country goes to this trouble and expense—but it's part of the Mooney Method of biscuit making. When you taste Mooney's Sugar Wafers for the first time you will know how delicious they really are. The luscious cream centers are made in many flavors—from real fruits.

Try The Taste Test On Mooney's Sugar Wafers

Today at luncheon or dinner, instead of serving the usual dessert, try Mooney's Sugar Wafers. Let their exquisite taste today, decide your desserts of the future. As an adjunct to the social hour; as a delightful accompaniment to ices or beverages—no other dessert confection will prove so charming as Mooney's Sugar Wafers.

It is no longer necessary to spend much money and hours of time making desserts that "might be good," when you can spend little money and no time for a dessert that's always good—Mooney's Sugar Wafers.

MOONEY'S SUGAR WAFERS

The Dessert Your Guests Will Like

Six years ago we gave to the Dominion a better Soda Cracker—better flavored—better made. Today Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas are the standard. Millions of good Canadians from coast to coast eat them. You have heard of biscuits—read of biscuits—eaten biscuits—but until you try Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas you don't know biscuits. They are everything that the ideal biscuit should be. Mooney on a soda cracker means "goodness."

Every year, since we started business in 1903, we have had to enlarge our factory to meet the increasing demand for Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas. A little better flour—a little richer butter—a little finer bakery—a little more care in baking—all these are details of the Mooney Method of biscuit making.

It's with this record of perfection in biscuit production that we offer what we believe is our greatest creation—Mooney's Sugar Wafers. The coupon entitles you to a package FREE. All we ask is that you purchase a 25 cent package of Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas from your grocer. This is to insure our new dessert reaching responsible people, like yourself, who are undoubtedly already acquainted with the high standard of quality maintained by us. • The first package of Mooney's Sugar Wafers is "our treat." PARK ROW SINKING AS RESULT OF A CAVE-IN BUSY THOROUGHFARE SINKS IN NEW YORK CITY AND STOPS PARK ROW TRAFFIC.

The Cave-in In Foundation of New York's Great Municipal Building Buries Five Workmen and Injures Many Others.

Throws Thousands Into a Panic — Three Workmen Rescued, But Two Others are Buried Beneath Thousands of Tons of Earth.

New York, June 3.—Park Row, at the point, where the pedestrian traffic is the heaviest, in New York, apparently is sinking as the result of a tremendous cave-in in the foundation of the new $8,000,000 municipal building, in which five workmen are buried. Three were dug out an hour later. They were still alive. The other two could not be located, and they were believed to have been buried under thousands of tons of earth Pedestrians and vehicles were immediately ordered off the street, traffic was stopped on Third avenue elevated road, and steps were taken to brace the massive iron elevated structure, which began to sag.

GREAT CROWDS ALARMED.

The accident occurred when the morning crowds were pouring into the Row from Brooklyn Bridge, the east side and the Bronx. Thousands who heard the terrific rumble, which tore away and partly filled the immense excavation, were thrown into a panic that taxed the resources of the police reliefs that were hurriedly rushed to the scene.

The excavation in which the cave-in occurred covered an irregular area of 70,000 square feet in the two blocks bounded by Tyron Row, and Centre, Duanne street and Park row. The depth is from thirty-five to forty feet, with precipitous sides.

ARE YOU IN DANGER?

You May Be Neglecting a Small Ailment and Thereby Inviting Serious Disease.

That little maladies grow into serious diseases we all know. Upon the stomach, liver and kidneys rest mainly the work of maintaining health. Most of your little sickness come from derangement of these organs. Experience proves that they are very frequently out of order, not badly perhaps, but even if only slightly out of order, it acts upon the mind and the spirits and upon the strength and regularity of the system.

It won't pay you to neglect your health; at the first sign of headache or languor take Dr. Hamilton's Pills and note how bright you feel next morning. You'll have a grand appetite, enjoy your breakfast and feel full of energy to go to work upon.

Your food soon tastes so good that you eat more than ever before and, of course, you grow stronger, ruddy, vivacious, just sparkling with energy and good health.

Soon your friends will notice the improvement, and by continuing to tone up your system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills you lay the sound foundation of permanent good health.

There is no medicine better for men, women or children, nothing for family use half so beneficial as Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. To look well, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Ready to Race at Montreal.

Montreal, June 3.—The annual spring meeting of the Montreal Jockey Club begins at the Blyue Bonnets course tomorrow afternoon and the Windsor Hotel Cup race, with its guaranteed value of nearly $2,000 is the chief attraction. This rich prize will bring to the post some of the best 3-year-olds that will race in Canada this year, and public interest in the result is general.

The meeting at the Blue Bonnets track will last seven days. The program provides for only four stake events, but to offset this cutting of the stakes there will be seven races carded each day of the meeting, instead of six as heretofore, and many of the overnight events will have an added value of $500, and none will be less than $400. There will also be several handicaps, with an added value of $600 and $500. The stables at the track are well filled with fast horses from many parts of Canada and the United States and all indications point to a successful meeting.

The Board of Works Engaged on Additional Sewage System

Mr. Chipman Will Be at Once Requested to Furnish Plans and Specifications and Tenders to Be Invited.

Steps Being Taken to Secure Pedestrian Right of Way Across the River at London Street—A Move in the Right Direction.

The City Board of Works met in busy session last night, with Chairman Ald. Hicks in the chair.

With its customary despatch this committee transacted a large amount of business in a comparatively short time.

Ald. Metheral moved, seconded by the mayor,—That a drain under the sidewalk on the west side of Park street, between Lake and Parnell streets, be laid under the sidewalk, at an estimated cost of $240.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Duffus, seconded by Ald. Gillespie,—That the City Engineer be asked to report as to the cost of grading Aberdeen avenue, from Benson avenue to the old railway.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Gillespie,—That W. H. Hamilton's request for a crossing at his residence on Rubidge street be granted, the crossing to be laid on the line of Hall street.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Duffus,—That Bolivar street be repaired from Park to John St.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Duffus, seconded by Ald. Metheral,—That the sidewalks on Lansdowne street be laid so as to leave the street the full width, and that any obstructions be removed.—Carried.

Mr. Hall asked that a wooden telephone guy pole in front of his place be replaced with an iron one.

Ald Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Metheral,—That the Bell Telephone Co., be requested to change this pole.—Carried.

A. E. Dunn and E. Green were heard in regard to the government reserve, and Mr. Green's property.

Moved by the mayor, seconded by Ald. Phelan,—That the matter be referred to the city solicitor for a report and with authority to have the property valued.—Carried.

Ald. Gillespie moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan,—That the city engineer report as to the cost of repairing the Peterborough Hydraulic Company's old bridge at London street for pedestrians' use. And also the possibility and cost of having a footbridge over the company's dam.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Phelan, seconded by Ald. Gillespie,—That the question of removing the poles of the Great North Western Telegraph Company from George street, be referred to the Railway Commission to compel the removal of same.—Carried.

Ald. Gillespie moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan,—That the engineer report as to the removal of the standpipe at Wolfe and Aylmer streets.—Carried.

The engineer's report regarding the necessity of a better enforcement of the bylaw prohibiting putting refuse on the streets, was referred to the Police Commissioners.

The engineer reported as to the maintenance of the bridge over the raceway at London street, and asking for instructions as to future maintenance.

Moved by Ald. Phelan, seconded by the mayor,—That the city solicitor be asked to report on the matter, and that if he reports that the city owns the bridge that the city engineer be instructed to repair it.

Moved by Ald. Duffus, seconded by Ald. Duncan,—That the chairman have a bylaw prepared authorizing the construction of sewers on streets regarding which notice has been given, and which have not been sufficiently petitioned against, and which have or will have waterworks upon them.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Gillespie,—That the chairman be authorized to have Wilkie Chipman, C.E., prepare plans and specifications for the pumping station, and the relaying of the sewer on Romaine and Aylmer streets, from Lock street to the King Edward school, and the laying of a sewer on George street, from Romain to Wescott streets, and that tenders be invited for the construction of said work.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Graham,—That the chairman and city solicitor be instructed to procure the landed needed for the pumping station, and to take whatever steps may be necessary for that purpose.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Duffus, seconded by Ald. Duncan,—That the matter of thinning out of the trees at Park, Simcoe, and Downie streets, and the removal of some of the poles on these streets be referred to the city engineer to report.—Carried.

IS IT BEGINNING OF HUGE MERGER! COMPETE WITH THE STEEL TRUST

Hamilton, June 2.—The twenty-five million dollar steel merger completed here yesterday, taking in the Hamilton Steel and Iron Company, the Canadian Screw Company, the Canadian Nut and Bolt Company, and the Montreal Rolling Mills Company, is regarded as the first step in the gigantic merger of Canadian steel interests predicted some time ago by the Wall Street Journal, which prophesied a merging of Dominion Iron and Steel Company of Sydney, the Algoma Steel Company, of the Soo, the Canada Iron Furnace, the Drummond interests of Montreal, and a number of smaller concerns.

The Journal points out that the Canadian enterprise and Canadian ore supplies are the only sources now in sight for competition in a large way with the United States Steel Corporation, and suggests the possibility of the Canadian consolidation raising a hundred million of capital in England and invading the United States.

Gates or Flagman at All St. Crossings

Last night the adjourned inquest on little Mamie Feeley, killed by a G.T.R. train, a week ago today, was resumed in the council chamber. Mr. R. E. Wood, county crown attorney, acted for the city, whilst Mr. W. E. Foster of Montreal, looked after the interests of the railroad.

The most interesting feature of the meeting was the address given by Coroner Dr. Gray to the jury men. The coroner said he did not blame the train crew at all. He said that whilst the G.T.R. main line was one of the best in the country, the Midland division was lacking an up-to-date roadbed and appliances. The Railway Commission should have the matter called to their attention.

Several witnesses, who live near the scene of the accident, testified to the speed of the train which killed little Mamie Feeley. Their evidence seemed to show that the noon Port Hope train goes about 14 to 15 miles an hour, but most of them only spoke generally, not having seen the train in question. At 9.30 the jury went out to consider their verdict which was that:

"We find that Mamie Feeley came to her death by being struck by an engine on the Grand Trunk railroad. We find that no blame is to be attached to any of the train crew. We would recommend that the railway should supply gates or flagmen in the city at every street where the railway crosses, particularly at the corner of Park and Wescott streets, as many school children pass that place daily. We think, if our suggestions are adopted, that the expense involved should be borne by the railway affected."

The meeting then adjourned

Old Age Pensions for Canada Discussed

Last night Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's church, presided at a meeting held in the Y.W.C.A. parlors. Mrs. Cummings, who is a lady thoroughly versed in her subject gave a lecture on old age pensions.

Canada, she said, is taking part in a world-wide movement in making possible to provide for the future, in a way that is absolutely sure, and at a less cost than by any other investment.

The Canadian annuities scheme was unanimously adopted by the whole parliament in July, 1908, and the cost of the administration of the same is borne by the country.

Other countries have adopted an old age pension scheme, but this is only applicable for those whose income is under $200 a year, at 65 or 70 years of age, with many conditions attached. This plan is likely to encourage pauperism, and deception, and in Denmark it has been found that people when they are nearly 70 years of age deliberately arrange their affairs with their friends, so as to come under the terms of those who are to receive pensions.

The Canadian annuit scheme, based upon the figures of expert English actuaries adopted by the Canadian Government is the best modern plan because it places no humiliating restrictions upon the beneficiaries, was cheap, is absolutely secure.

All residents of Canada between the ages of 5 and 85 years of age may purchase annuities and these vary in amount from $50 to $400, the cost also varying according to age of the purchaser.

The payments may be made through the post office, weekly, monthly quarterly half-yearly or yearly in regular amounts or irregular sums, four per cent. compound interest being allowed on all money paid in. The annuity cannot be paid before 55 years unless in case of invalidity or disability.

Mrs. Cummings here gave a great many details as to the cost of annuities at various ages. For a small sum annuities can be guaranteed for from five to twenty years, so that if the annuitant died in that time the annuity will still be paid quarterly to the heirs.

The address, while principally intended for women, was applicible to men aswell, and Mrs. Cummings strongly urged upon parents and others interested in children the desirability of making provision for their future by the purchase of annuities.

Mrs. Cummings will be at the Oriental Hotel today until four o'clock, and will be glad to meet anyone who would like to discuss the matter with her.

Double Murder and Libel.

The Times has been requested to publish the following, taken from the Catholic Register, Toronto:—"Despatches from St. Paul, Monday, convey the news of a fearful tragedy in which an insane man named Gibbons shot and killed his wife from whom he had been separated for over a year and the pastor of South St. Paul, Father Walsh, one of the most devoted priests in the whole diocese. The poor woman leaves behind her eight children. The people on learning of the lunatic's terrible act, with difficulty were restrained from lynching the murderer. The impression conveyed by many of our daily papers was grossly unjust to the murdered priest.

BOXER UPRISING TO BE REPEATED INCITING PEOPLE TO KILL FOREIGNERS

Washington, June 3.—The city of Nanking, China, has been posted with placards inciting the people to the destruction of foreign life and property.

London, June 3.—Missionary societies with branches in China and business houses that trade in China united today in the opinion that the foreign legations in Pekin by Chinese revolutionists of an impending anti dynasty uprising, presents a serious danger to foreigners throughout China.

The Foreign Office, which is seeking to minimize the danger, is severely criticized by those best acquainted with conditions in that country. Yesterday's news is wholly confirmatory of recent advices received by missionary headquarters and London merchants with branch houses in China.

A vast network of Chinese secret societies and guilds, embracing millions of members and working under the general direction of an organization called the "triad," is back of the present disturbance. While it is primarily an anti-Manchu movement, those best informed on Chinese affairs, declare that it will inevitably assume the proportions of a war on all foreigners. For this reason they are urging that England wait no longer to take steps to check the movement. Unless drastic action is taken immediately, the Boxer uprising of a few years ago will be repeated on a far larger scale, in the opinion of students of Chinese affairs.

E. H. Riley Resigned to Make Protest

Edmonton, June 3.—Political conditions are again upset by the resignation of E. H. Riley, one of the ablest of the insurgent Liberal members of the administration, as a protest against the ignoring of Hon. Mr. Cushing, in the formation of the government.

In a letter to his constituents, Riley said that from the time the Legislature, not the government, appointed the committee to investigate the waterways contract and the House adjourned from that moment certain influences began to work with the view of frustrating the will of the people, and it will be an everlasting stain to the Province and to the lasting disgrace of the individuals concerned, when posterity is informed that the chief justice and the lieut.-governor were prime instigators in the nefarious work.

Riley protests at the interference of the lieut.-governor in proroguing the house without giving the members the chance to discuss the situation even when the chance of administration was announced. Critizing the omission of Hon. Mr. Cushing from the administration, he declares "that, if such men are driven from public life by mere party employes, and if the will of free people is to be trampled ruthlessly underfoot merely to promote the interests of a certain clique, than, gentlemen, I, for one, must cease to ally myself with that party."

A Suicide Wave Alarms

INCREASE IN SELF-DESTRUCTION STARTS MUCH DISCUSSION IN ENGLAND.

Unemployment is Blamed—Overpopulation and Suggestive Press Also Given as Causes.

London, June 4.—That suicides are on the increase in the United Kingdom and have been for some time has been the subject of regretful comment from time to time. Why this should be the case many opinions have been expressed. Some affirm that the country is overpopulated and that the difficulty of employment has a good deal to do with it. To a certain extent that is true.

Others allege that the "yellow press" of the country does not improve the minds of the lower classes by publishing distressing cases, which affect those prone to depression and so lead them to make away with their lives. It is likewise true that double suicides have been increasing through young couples despairing of ever accumulating the ways and means to make homes for themselves, owing to the difficulty of getting work that will bring them "living wages"; while love betrayals also play their part.

The matter has been taken up by the Salvation Army, which sends out workers to look for poor despondents who are tired of life and try to give them a decent start in life again.

Bishop Bonomelli of Cremona propounds a theory which he thinks should have an effect in suppressing suicide, and which he commends to all who have the matter at heart. He thinks that suicide is attributable in many cases to wounded pride, deluded avarice and real or imaginary love betrayals.

The bishop recognizes that the new social conditions created by material progress are largely responsible for increase of suicides all over Europe. He also insists that the main cause is the spirit of irreligion that stalks abroad, flaunting a romantic literature that glorifies the act of self-murder, a melodrama that culminates in a grand coup, generally of duel suicide, and so planned for the sympathy of the audience through the medium of the "yellow press," which by giving undue prominence to its suicide chronicle disposes its readers to regard the phenomenon as one not calling for censure.

It is a stern and regrettable necessity, he thinks, from a Christian and social point of view, to maintain a clear distinction by withholding solemn funerals in the case of suicides. That, he thinks would have a very beneficial effect on impressionable minds.

ENJOYABLE PROGRAM.

Large Audience at Victoria Park Listened to the Band.

Last night although the weather was somewhat chilly for ladies wearing their new spring apparel, Victoria Park was crowded by several thousand citizens, who enjoyed to the utmost, the splendid concert rendered by the band. The selections rendered were of a higher grade than customary at such entertainments, and an almost strictly classical program was presented. Possibly the feature of the evening was Rossinis' grand overture "Semeramidi. The rendition presented of this classical composition displayed the splendid knowledge of brass and reed instruments and technique of our leading local band. The "Songs of 1863" were thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience. The program was as follows:

March, Argandab—Thomas.
Overture, Semeremide—Rossini.
Cornet Solo, Flocktonian Polka—Casey. (Sergt Hughes.)
Barn Dance—Kerry Mills.
Selection, Songs of 1863—Calvin.
Reminiscenses of Plantation—Chambers.
Potpourri—Popular Songs of the Day—Kerry Mills.
Frozen Bill, grotesque—Pryor.
March, Forest King—Peters.
God Save the King.

Honor Confederate Dead.

Lakeland, Fla., June 3.—With elaborate military display and appropriate exercises, a handsome monument erected to the memory of the Confederate dead of this section will be unveiled in Munn Park today. The Daughters of the Confederacy are in charge of the exercises.

If You Lived in Montreal

You could come and see the wonderful Cartwright Automatic Press, which is destined to revolutionize the job-printing world, and make money for the shareholders of the Company, as other great inventions, like the Linotype and Telephone, have done.

But, if you cannot call and see the Press itself, you can do as many other investors are doing,—you can read the interesting Prospectus and our little booklet, entitled "Expert Opinions", which gives some adequate idea of this great invention.

You will note when you read the literature we send you, how Publishers, Printers, and all classes of men connected with the printing business—men who thoroughly understand the real merit and value of such an invention—are the most enthusiastic endorsers of the Press, and what is still more important, they are buyers of both the presses and the shares.

Write us at once for this free literature, and we will forward it by return mail.

Those who buy earliest get shares at the most favorable price.

CHARGE MADE THAT ROOSEVELT'S EGYPTIAN UTTERANCES WAS ENGINEERED IN FINANCIAL CIRCLES.

In Order to Secure Recall of Sir Eldon Gorst, Consul General in Egypt—Labor Interests Declare This is the Case.

Stock Exchange Said to Be at the Back of Move and Political Circles are Set Agog—Strong Feeling Against the Colonel.

London, June 3.—Apparently oblivious of the storm which he has raised or disregard with which he is looked upon as the result of his Guild Hall speech on Egypt, Theodore Roosevelt today quit London for the week-end, going to the Buckinghamshire country place, Chequers Court, of Arthur Lee, where the ex-president spent a part of the last week end.

Mr. Roosevelt, speaking as an American citizen, gave the best wishes of his compatriots to Captain Robert F. Scott, leader of the British Antarctic expedition, about to leave England. Captain Scott was one of the guests of Chequers Court the others including John Burns, the labor cabinet member, and Sir Harry Johnston, the African authority.

GETS HER SECOND WIND.

England seems to have recovered her second wind after her first gasp of surprise at Mr. Roosevelt's speech on Egypt and Imperialistic strictures at the Guild Hall. The criticism of Kier Hardie's paper the Labor Leader, and the comments of Bernard Shaw, the writer, are regarded as the most significant, explaining the attitude of British Radicals towards the former president of the greatest republic.

CARTOONISTS ARE BUSY.

The cartoonists are making the most of the Guild Hall speech, the most pertinent cartoon being that of Sir F. C. Gould in the Westminster Gazette, depicting Roosevelt as a Roman charioteer, driving the American Eagle and the British Lion tandem. The Pall Mall Gazette's cartoon shows Roosevelt as a doctor placing a finger on the weak spot labelled "Sentimentality" of his patient, John Bull, who wears a fez.

From "The Girl and the Wizard."

By special arrangement with the publishers of the musical play "The Girl and the Wizard," The New York World will publish next Sunday the song hit of the production, words and music complete. This is the famous "Frantzi Frankenstein" song which fairly brings down the house every time it is sung. Be sure to order next Sunday's New York World to get this song.

Confederate Memorial Unveiled.

Lenoir, N.C., June 3.—A memorial to the Confederate dead of Caldwell County will be unveiled today with impressive ceremonies. The cord holding the flag will be pulled by Miss Dell Harper Barnhardt, the little granddaughter of Major G. W. F. Harper.

Fat Defeating Extraordinary

MARGARET KNOLLY.

SLENDER Margaret Knolly, now, if you please. The fascinating leading lady of the Bijou, now more fascinating than ever, astonished all her friends on Broadway the other day by presenting to their admiring gaze a svelt and willowly form in place of the plump, not to say fat, outlines with which she gaily sailed away to new triumphs and foreign shores last January. After a good deal of diplomatic cross-examination from interested fat acquaintances, the secret was cautiously whispered to a few dear friends with the result that everybody knows it now. It was not exercise, nor fasting, nor sea air nor worry about her new venture that had brought about this wonderful willowy change in the charming Margaret; no, none of these; nothing but a simple mixture which all good druggists are familiar with and can supply at small cost, to-wit: One-half ounce Marmola, three-quarter ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and four and three-quarter ounces Peppermint Water. "Grown folks need a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime," explained the now slender Margaret. "It is simply wonderful. It takes off the fat quickly, as much as a pound a day, and keeps it off. You can eat what you like, too. In that respect it is unlike anything of the kind I ever heard of, and besides it has another splendid feature—it is entirely harmless and will not cause wrinkles. I think it is about as essential a toilet article for the woman who is fat and wants to get thinner as face powder. In order to get the best results, however, you should buy the Marmola in the original package and mix it with the other two ingredients after you get home."

SPRAINED WRIST AND ANKLE.

After Being Laid Up With Great Pain for Ten Days, Relief Was Gained Instantly By Applying

NERVILINE.

One of the most soul-distressing accidents that can befall one is a bad ankle or wrist sprain. "If I had only known of 'Nerviline' earlier, I could have saved myself an enormous amount of pain, and many agonizing nights of sleeplessness." Thus writes P. F. Quinn, a young farmer living near Brockville. "I tumbled from a TESTIMONIAL hay loft to the barn floor and NO. sprained my right ankle and left 4366. wrist. They swelled rapidly and caused excruciating pains. It was not convenient to go to the city, and the liniment in the house was useless. When I got Nerviline relief came quickly. It took down the swelling, relieved the pain, and gave me wonderful comfort.

"I can recommend Nerviline for strains, bruises, swellings muscular pains and sore back. I have proved it a rare cure in such cases."

Think what it might some day mean to you to have right in your home ready for an accident or emergency sickness, a bottle or two of Nerviline. Get it today, 25c., or five for $1.00, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

MARK TWAIN AND HIS THEORY OF LIFE.

Mark Twain is dead; but some one has unearthed a book which is said to have been written by him and of which only two hundred and fifty copies were issued in its first and only edition. The New York Times says it is genuine, though Mr. Clemens's friends have so far not come forward to say that they had ever heard him talk of it. Possibly the unearthing of the work may be some thing like the late discovery of the North Pole—with less truth than money in it. The title of the book is "What is Man?" and certainly the author of it imbeds humanity in rather a dismal doctrine concerning its origin and growth. As the Times says: "The doctrine of the book is not an inspiring doctrine. It takes the glory out of man. It takes the pride out of him, it takes the heroism out of him, it denies him all personal credit, all applause. It not only degrades him to a machine, but allows him no control over the machine; makes a mere coffee mill out of him, and neither permits him to supply the coffee nor turn the crank; his sole and piteously humble function being to grind coarse or fine, according to his make, outside impulses doing all the rest."

In a word, the book makes everything of environment. And, in dealing with Adam and Shakespeare, as examples, the author says man is merely a machine acted upon by his environment. The fruit from the tree of knowledge from without was what brought Adam and Eve to learn that it was immodest to go about without clothing. If Shakespeare had been born and bred on a barren rock in the ocean he would have produced nothing. Shakespeare, like Adam and every other man that has been, was merely a machine—not a sewing machine like the very ordinary man, but a marvellous Gobelin loom, which automatically turned out that pictured and gorgeous fabric that still compels the astonishment of the world. The book also tells us that pleasure is the motive power of this machine called man, and winds up with this pleading: —"Diligently train your ideals upward toward a summit where you will find your chiefest pleasure in conduct which, while contenting you, will be sure to confer benefits upon your neighbor and the community."

Philosophy makes out that we make our own environment and then our environment turns around and makes or unmakes us; and possibly Mr. Clemens, when he had got so far in his study of philosophy began to long to formulate a philosophy of his own, and hence wrote this book entitled "What is Man?" It is more likely, however, that some novice has thought to make money out of his first effort to write a booklet, and has been able to attach Mark Twain's name to it as its author to make it sell. It is an author's name nowadays that is accepted by the publisher, not what he says. Not long ago, a young author, disgusted at the publisher's "returned with thanks" in the case of his own handwriting Milton's "Lycidas" and sent it to eleven publishers, one after the other, with his own name signed, and had the extreme gratification of having it returned, as his own had been. We will now have to wait until we learn whether the New Yorks Times has again been taken in as it once was in the matter of ex-President Cleveland's supposition interview reported after his death, and as its London namesake was in the case of the Parnell letters. We may be wrong in our surmise, though if we be, the examination of the problem "What is Man?" by the great humorist will hardly add to his fame, as a student of human nature as to its origin or growth.

THE MARRIAGE MONTH.

Enter June, the month of weddings upon which subject much nonsense has been written by well meaning persons who would enjoy a funeral solemnity upon those taking part in a marriage celebration. There can be no doubt but that the obligations undertaken by the contracting parties are solemn enough, but the union for life of "two souls with but a single thought," is an occasion for rejoicing rather than sorrow. To most young people the ceremony is somewhat of an ordeal. It is made the harder when the bridal party is surrounded by faces as long as though the couple were the victims of some cruel fate. It is made the easier by the good-natured jollity of friends who express their confidence in the future of the bride and groom by smiles rather than tears.

It is quite true that some wedding pranks have been carried too far, but if good taste and moderation are exercised by the wedding party, there should be but little objection to the innocent confetti-throwing and other means of congratulating the newly-weds which are generally adopted. On the whole, these things relieve the strain of what may easily be made a trying proceeding for those immediately concerned. Since the sensible substitution of confetti for rice, the dangerous element in marriage celebrations has been greatly removed.

Peterborough is enjoying a season even more than usually prosperous, and the probability therefore is that June will see the city's marriage record eclipsed. It will be in the grey days of fall, however, that the crucial test of the happiness of the month's honeymooners will come when they have settled down in their homes and are accommodating themselves to the humdrum duties of their life together. The happy marriage is altogether more usual than the news columns might lead one to think, for the unhappily wedded are generally the ones who take the road to publicity. Canadian couple who have chosen sanely and well have no reason to expect other outcome to their experiment than that which the fairy tales accord to the good prince and the beautiful princess; "And so they lived happily ever afterwards."

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days' test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A glance at the society columns will convince the most skeptical that the late spring has not interferred with the marriage crop at any rate.

Montreal police paid no attention to the statement of an aged man, arrested as a drunk, when he said he had been shot. After spending the night in a cell it transpired that he had a bullet in his head and may not live. Constables cannot be too careful in ascertaining the real condition of those whom they arrest. It is easy to acquire the habit of considering that everyone who is delirious on the street is drunk.

Col. Sam Hughes knows not whether to be elated or mournful. General French has praised his pet rifle, and the Board of Trade has condemned his pet ozone plant.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A QUAINT OLD TAVERN

The Old Cheshire Cheese, in the Heart of London.

SERVES A FAMOUS PUDDING.

A Noble Pastry it is, and it Was Sampled by Such Men as Gladstone, Dickens, Thackeray, Tennyson, Trollope and Whistler.

Nearly all Americans when they go to London make it a point to visit that quaint old tavern in the heart of the newspaper and printing business, the Old Cheshire Cheese, to partake of its famous pudding.

It is the Londoner's delight when he gets back to Fleet street to make a rush for the pudding, and it is almost the last thing he eats before leaving it. Travelers in the Sahara have seen mirages of that pudding, and during the Boer war the men shut up in Ladysmith and Mafeking dreamed of it at regular intervals.

Precisely at 1 o'clock p. m. Tom conveys the pudding from the first to the main floor. It is a big pudding, and the price of it is just 2 shillings—that is to say, a feed of it is 2 shillings, as much as you please, as many shaves as you ask for, eat and come again, all for 48 cents of American coin. Cheap, aye, and, oh, how good it is! It is worth crossing the Atlantic to get a sniff of it, and the aroma lingers in the memory for many a day.

Big? The dimensions are Falstaffian. It is a round earthen vessel something more than two dozen inches deep, with a diameter of about eighteen inches. A noble pastry, my masters!

When it is placed upon the service table an elliptical white crust meets the hungry gaze. Tom and his myrmidons take their places in front facing the host, who, knife and spoon in hand, poses with gentle dignity and benignant mien. It is a moment of solemn thought when every man hopes that his portion will be larger than his friend's and that he will be blessed with an abundance of gravy. But they ought from years of acquaintance with the host to understand that his hand is as steady as his judgment is impartial.

No more and nothing better for one than for another. He waves his weapons, and the first onslaught is made. The room is full of a delicious steam bearing with it the concentrated essences of ambrosial substances. The guests sniff it up and murmur choice blessings on the cook, the original inventor, the house and the host. It is a time when men feel good, one toward the other.

One smell of that pudding makes the whole world kin. This famous pudding, which has tickled the palates of thousands, is thus compounded:

A crust of flour, water and suet.
Beefsteak.
Sheep's kidneys.
Lards.
Mushrooms (freshly gathered).
Oysters.
Stock.
Pepper and salt.

But it is the boiling that does it. For at least twelve hours this heaven sent pudding is kept slowly simmering in an immense copper specially constructed for the purpose. It must not boil quickly, but the same temperature be kept up the whole period. The steak assumes a juicy tenderness; the larks—not sparrows, as some malignant spirit has suggested, although sparrow pudding is not to be despised—are soothed to the bone, and you can chew up each little songster without an effort; the kidneys are soft and mushy and offer no resistance to the digestive organs, and the oysters, despite their lengthened cooking, are not leathery. The amalgamation and assimilation of the variety of constituents are perfect; the result is bliss.

There is a story told of one eminent diplomatist who had seven helpings of the pudding and still yearned for more, and there is another remarkable narrative of four men who ordered a pudding of the regulation size and finished it among them.

J. Pierpont Morgan praised the pudding, and Theodore Roosevelt was delighted with it. Lord Beaconsfield bestowed his approbation thereon, and Gladstone thought it far superior to his famous "three courses." Dickens, Thackeray, Meredith, Swinburne, Tennyson, Trollope, Whistler, Leighton, Gale, Phil May—all sons of the best of men of their day have fed upon the pudding, and it no doubt helped to inspire their work.

Apparently any cook can fashion it, mix it, fix it, boil it. Let any cook try it. Lots of cooks have tried it, but the results have not been satisfactory. There was a man who once ran the Old Cheshire Cheese, and in his day the pudding first achieved its great fame. When he sold the old hostelry and took a house in the financial district he announced that the same pudding—the same in every respect—would be served every Saturday.

Many of the Cheese's old patrons came around to celebrate. There was the fame, but the aroma was wanting; there were the identical materials, but the flavor was not in them. It was not the same, not a bit of it. There was something missing. It may have been the shades of the departed great ones of a bygone time. And so it is that today the famous dish of the Old Cheshire Cheese tastes as of old, and its devotees cannot be seduced by any designing invitation based upon "just as good" simply because there is nothing just as good.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Thoughts are mightier than the strength of hand.—Sophocles.

Cleveland's chief of police, Fred Kohler, has made a success of his "golden rule" policy of confining the number of arrests for trival offences to the minimum necessary for the protection of society. His plan of having more drunkards piloted home instead of to the station house has attracted wide attention. But now Cleveland's mayor has suspended him, alleging drunkenness and immorality. Until these charges are proven up to the hilt, the general public will suspend judgment. The Cleveland Press points out that people of the underworld, who found Mr. Kohler's regulations irksome, have been boasting for some time that they would "get" him. A man is known by his enemies, and Mr. Kohler's seem to be acredit to him.

A Call From Oregon

Opportunities in the Far West

The greatest industrial activity in this country is now centered in Oregon. Two of the biggest railroad systems in the U. S., with intense rivalry, are pushing branch lines into the remote portions of this State, and an exodus from the East is on in the occupation of this the LAST FRONTIER ON THE CONTINENT. Fortunes will be made here THIS YEAR—NEXT YEAR and EVERY YEAR for the next decade.

Our valleys are the most fertile in the world and irrigation projects are converting the bordering hillsides into gardens. Orchards lands are leaping upward in price and the advance has only started. Water from mountain streams is the purest, timber the finest and climate the most perfect in Uncle Sam's domain. Power plants are springing up along the channels of silvery torrents to develop electrical energy for mines and mills and interurban railways. Fish abound in the rivers, game in the forests and health and joy in the atmosphere. There are no cyclones here or pestiferous insects to endanger life, or make it a burden.

I want Eastern connections and help, financial and otherwise, to seize opportunities that surround this picturesque city of Baker. The returns will be out of all proportion to the help extended. The opportunities are along the lines of vegetable fruit, hay, grain, stock, timber, and mineral lands. There are fortunes in all these. Some mines in this vicinity have record outputs in gold, running into the millions. Yet the surface, overlying the mineral deposits of Baker County, has hardly been scratched.

On a ledge of free gold bearing quartz two miles in length I made a test of 100 tons of ore taken at a depth of only a hundred feet and got over $3000.00 out of it. The mint returns passed through the Citizen's National Bank here.

Among other things, I need money, right now, to begin the MANUFACTURE OF GOLD out of this immense ore body. The shares of the Timber Canyon Mines Company, which OWNS this property, and of which I am secretary have an intrinsic value of at least 50 cents a share based on a conservative valuation of the property and the amount of stock issued.

I will deliver on order, with draft attached, up to 50,000 shares of this stock at 25 cents a share, NET. The full amount of the purchase price will go back in dividends inside of 10 months. Take a block of this as a starter, and get in step with this Eldorado of the West. If there is anything else out here that I can do for you, or you can do for me,—WRITE ME.

Port Arthur, Ont.

Re Mariday Park Subdivision

Dear Sir:

In obedience to instructions from the Mayor and Council of this City, I beg to submit the following report upon the property known as Mariday Park, and the conditions under which it is proposed to subdivide and sell same.

Street Railway: The present Street extension of our Electric Railway system will run through the property, and the Mariday Park Subdivision will be directly served by the cars operating on the line to be constructed directly through your property to Current River.

Water and Sewer Mains: All streets are being provided with water and sewer mains, and connection to same will be made with each lot at the expense of the City. The cost of this work is estimated at Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000).

Streets and Boulevards: All streets are 66 feet wide, being delivered to the City by the owners of the property. The roadways will be 28 feet wide, and will be constructed with concrete curbs, and macadamized with trap rock, as per City specifications. The boulevards will be 19 feet on each side of the roadways, and will be sodded. The cost of this work is estimated at Twenty Thousand Dollars ($20,000).

Sidewalks are to be laid on both sides of all streets, and will be of concrete, 5 feet wide, and will be laid in the property lines, practically adjoining the boulevards. The cost of this work is estimated at Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000).

Lanes and Alleys: Lanes and alleys are to be laid out in the rear of all lots, and will be 12 feet wide. The cost of this work is estimated at Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000).

Trees and Shrubs: Trees and shrubs will be planted on each side of the roadways, between the sidewalks and the property lines, and will be supplied and planted by the City. The cost of this work is estimated at Two Thousand Dollars ($2,000).

Fences: The fences now on the property, dividing the property from the adjoining farms, are to be removed by the City, and the cost of same is estimated at Five Hundred Dollars ($500).

Summary: The total cost of the above mentioned improvements is estimated at Thirty-seven Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($37,500).

Character of Subdivision: In connection with the sale of the property, the City will impose certain restrictions as to the character of the buildings to be erected thereon, and will also fix the cost of same at not less than Two Thousand Dollars ($2,000) in order to secure a first-class residential section.

Yours truly,

J. Lobb

City Engineer.

The Seal of Civic Approval

No block of residential realty in any Canadian city from ocean to ocean has never received at the hands of the ratepayers, who can best realize a city's necessities, an unmistakable seal of approval, such as Mariday Park has received from the taxpayers and Council of the City of Port Arthur. Every investor realizes the indisputable fact that rapid transit revolutionizes real estate values. Our first Mariday Park consideration was to secure the extension of the Electric railway line directly through the property. In October last year we entered into an agreement with the City Council to provide this transportation facility; which agreement was submitted in the form of a by-law, and carried almost unanimously by the ratepayers of the city on November 4th, 1909. This glowing tribute to the necessity and desirability of the property, requires no further comment.

Development of the Property

All Streets and Avenues are 66 feet wide. The driveways are 28 feet wide. A strip of 19 feet on each side being reserved for boulevards and walks.

The lots have a frontage of 50 feet, varying in depth from 105 to 140 feet, to 12 and 14-foot lanes.

The property is beautifully treed with yellow birch, poplar and spruce. Cement walks, macadamized streets, water and sewer connections are being installed by the city under the direction of the City Engineer, whose letter regarding this feature of Mariday Park development we reproduce herewith.

Building Restriction

To make Mariday Park an ideal place to live and to ensure the model development of the property, building restrictions have been carefully prepared, and will be incorporated in each Agreement of Sale and Deed.

Home Investors

When our Mariday Park property goes on the market, as in all our previous home offerings, the major portion of the property will be sold to Port Arthur people—the people who understand best local real estate conditions and values.

MARIDAY PARK--The Commanding Heights of the Grandest of Harbors

Location and History.

THE City of Port Arthur rises on a succession of terraces, from the shores of Thunder Bay, culminating in less than half a mile, and at an altitude of 198 feet, in the broad plateau of Mariday Park. This location affords the city's most magnificent view of the panorama of Thunder Bay, including Thunder Cape (1,350 feet high), the Welcome Islands, Mount McKay (1,080 feet high), the Valley of the Kaministiquia and the sister city of Fort William. Here one has a splendid outlook over the harbor of Thunder Bay, upon whose waters float a ceaseless procession of the ponderous leviathans of lake traffic, and whose commodious docks and elevators receive the golden cargoes which feed the Empire's millions.

Mariday Park was acquired and held, almost since the inception of Port Arthur, by a somewhat "different" character—Alderman Daniel Francis Burk—who, in the early days pinned his faith, future and funds to the then undeveloped resources on the shores of Thunder Bay. Adhering tenaciously to the belief that the then embryo site must, at a not-too-distant date, become the location of a populous and prosperous city, he proceeded to apply the British motto, "What we have we hold," to the situation, and forthwith placed a "Nothing Doing" sign on the property.

Possessed with the three outstanding characteristics of the pioneer of this country—sagacity, sense and sand—Daniel Francis Burk bent his energies in other directions, arranged to liquidate the demand of the Tax Collector, and waited.

Time flies—but nowhere as in the West. The clearance became a hamlet; the hamlet merged into a village; the village assumed the proportions of a town—the Hand of Destiny was at work. The patron of the Blazed Trail—the speculator from the more effete East—dropped around and commenced to sit up and make a few observations.

"Who owns that hundreds acres up on the hill?" was what he queried.

"D. F. Burk," was the answer.

"What does he ask for it?"

The reply was always the same, "He won't sell."

And so it came to pass that the citizens of the classic city of Port Arthur builded their homes up to and around Mariday Park, the gem spot of the city's residential section. Likewise, it also came to pass that Daniel Francis Burk, consoled by the realization of his early dreams, finally acceded to the oft-expressed wish of the citizens that the property should no longer impede the city's natural pathway of expansion. On September 30th, 1909, he transferred to the present owner and developer for a large fortune a property that had cost him a comparatively paltry sum thirty years before.

Designed to Meet a Civic Necessity.

It must be admitted that the phenomenal growth, in recent years, of all Western towns and cities has had a tendency to produce a rather build-as-you-please agreement between Vendors and Purchasers, and a consequent unsightly and undesirable outcropping of "Shack" homes. Perhaps nowhere throughout the vast West can the curse of building restrictions neglect in the residential area be more forcibly brought home than in the Twin Cities of Port Arthur and Fort William. After all it can be said that surroundings really make the home.

Designed and developed to satisfy the needs of the select home-site-seekers of Thunder Bay, Mariday Park presents a restricted, highly developed home land for folks of artistic temperament and twentieth century ideas. It can be truthfully stated that the residents of Port Arthur and Fort William eagerly await the opportunity to make their selection.

The LIME JUICE CLUB

A Long Way After the Lime Kiln Club

Something was up. Just what it was no one new, but Sir Richard's countenance wore an unusually severe expression, and Anvil Batts was observed to have on a swan shirt, while Bro. Fourply Brown for the first time in his life, had stove-blacked his brogans and had his vest buttoned all the way up.

"Gentlemen, I shall now have the unqualified pleasure to introduce you to one of the most conspicuous men in this country," remarked the President as his eagle eye wandered down the centre aisle. "The committee on Pains and Anxieties will now act."

The committee acted. Led by Bro. Fiddlestring Butcher, they disappeared in the direction of the ante-room, to reappear after a moment escorting a distinguished stranger of middle age.

"Gentlemen, I have the honor to present to the Lime Juice Club my old friend and companion, Prof. Johnston, at present residing in Apsley," said the President, as the stranger reached the platform.

The reception given the Professor was fully equal to the enthusiasm of Ald Turner over the dog by-law, and those hit with hunks of falling plaster on account of the applause, preserved their good nature in a wonderful degree.

SCIENCE.

The Professor explained that he was on his way to Ottawa to see about getting a government job, and he had halted for a couple of days to make the personal acquaintance of every member of the Club in matters affecting science and art, and also to get a letter of introduction from the President to Premier Laurier.

"Science," added the Professor, as he stepped on Bro. Connery's corns, "is above us, below us, and all around us, and yet the great majority of men don't seem to realize the fact. What builds the fires in the stove but science? What boils the potatoes in the kettle except science? What furnishes our clothes, our homes and our graves, except science? Gaze on the sun. But for science who'd know whether that shiny orb is over in the United States or 90,000,000 miles in the sky in a bee line? Gaze on the moon. But for who among us would know its influence on the crop of government office seekers. (Hard looks at Bro. Jamfed Jones from all parts of the Hall) Look at the stars. Before the advent of science who could tell Venus from Aunt Betsy, the north star from the big dipper or the dog stars from the cat stars. Science made the steam engine, the covered cars, the wheel barrow, the the whitewash brush, and the printing press on which The Times is printed. Science throws bridges across rivers; it brings up water from the deep well; it puts out fires; (Wild cheer by mistake from ex-Chief Rutherford, who narrowly escaped a heavy fine.) It gives us the fine comb; it makes the ping hat and the stand up collar; it brings us the glorious First of July, it mixes peas and beans with our coffee, water with our whiskey, and enables us to put an axe on the bottom of the pack when playing poker.

"It may be well to mention a little circumstance right here and now," said the President, as the meeting opened. "I want it distinctly understood that the rules of Parliament don't govern the proceedings of this Club, only to a certain extent. For instance, if Jamfed Jones or Judge Elmhurst, of Keene, should make use of this floor to call each other liars and other hard names, and make a display of muscle, an apology next day would have effect on this Club. Because why? Because the two members wouldn't be here to apologize! That's the point I want to set forth, and we will now go on with the regular business.

A COMMUNICATION.

A letter was read from Bro. Huckleberry Watson, of Smith making enquiries of this Club as to whether the rain-fall in Ontario during the past twelve months was above or below the average.

Bro. Crepes Mulcahey, who had been very quiet and humble minded since his jump from the back window, got upon his feet and replied: "I suppose that question appeals to me personally, because I suppose I am the only member of the Club who watches such things. It is my opinion that the rainfall for last year is far below the average."

"Bro. Mulcahey," said the President, "you are a valuable member of this Club, and the Club would be mighty lonesome to lose you; but still what you don't know about the rainfall would lay the foundation for a heap of dry weather. My wife keeps a barrel under the spout to catch rain-water, and I am confident that the quantity of rain-water in that barrel for the last year has been more than for any year in ten years. The Secretary will reply accordingly."

MUSIC AND POETRY.

Bro. Mozart Jones made a speech 27 feet long in which he stated his belief that music had done more to keep the human race happy and peaceful than any other influence. He believed in music and song, and the Lime Juice Club, as the representative of cultured people, should hold out encouragement. He would move that apremium of $20 be given each year for the best song and chours sent in by the composer, and he would favor any move to put move to put music in the hands of the Messrs.

Bro. Threeply Davis favored fishing as well as music. The art of fishing was yet in its infancy. (Wild cheer by mistake from Bro. Tiedup Garley, who was promptly fined $900 and costs.) He had know most to sit and fish all day and not get a nibble. (Sensation.)

Bro. Garley, who had recovered from his surprise at being fined, cautiously arose and ventured to remark that what was needed was a new kind of hook—one which will bait itself and pitch right into hard work while its owner finds a shady spot and goes to sleep.

LIVING TOO FAST.

Axletree Smith said he rose to defend the Canadian people against the aspersions of a portion of the Grit and Tory Press. He had lately read in the Examiner and also in the Review that Canada, as a nation, was living too fast, and that it must soon become bankrupt. Such unwarranted attacks on his native country him with indignation clear down to his last bunion, and if the press of this country would not resent them he would.

"Living too fast!" As he repeated he drew himself up. "I have worn this same paper collar, which I bought from Bro. Harry Leffrun, three weeks? Is that living too fast? Here is a vest over ten years old by the almanac! Is that dressing to kill? Look at the red wool ten patches on the knees of these black pants, and tell me if it looks as if this nation was death on store clothes? Living too fast! Why the very idea is impostorous! Is potatoes boiled with the hides on and pierced out with Bro. Mervin's bacon and ordinary brown bread living too fast? On behalf of the citizens I protest! On behalf of the people I warn the papers in question that we can't be sassed beyond a certain point. (Sensation.) When that point has been passed there will be a demand for gore and reveage."

This speech was received with great applause, and Prof. Gwedam Slabs, next took the floor and said:

"Civil war has its herfos and is to be deplored and shunned—but if she must come—if we must resort to force of arms to preserve our honor, then let us resent! (Cheers.) Let us gird on the armour of right, and march forward with brave hearts! He who sasses the people of this country sasses the Lime Juice Club

IT MUST BE CRUSHED.

The person or persons who, sometime during Thursday night climed up the roof of the Hall of Wisdom and filled the chimney with old hats, straw, boots, &c., are hereby warned that it was the practice of such devilry as this that brought Giteau to the gallows. When the janitor started the fire the Hall soon filled with smoke, and the opening of the meeting was delayed twenty minutes by the joke.

As soon as Bro. Slabs sat down, Bro. Darkness Smith offered the following resolution:

"Resolved, That we do hereby express our deep indignation at this exhibition of human depravity, and

"Resolved, That we ask ourselves with klarm where tis infringment of the rights of freemen will end, and

"Resolved, That we pronounce the perpetrators of this apaling outrage as outlaws, imbeciles and despots of the deepest dye."

The resolutions were adopted and filed, and the President quietly observed that this fresh outrage was another evidence to him of the drift of the times towards barbarism. If the chimney of the Hall of Wisdom could be choked up with old hats, what was to prevent the City Council chamber and the Sewer Committee from being blown up by the same gang? It was a spirit which must be suppressed and crushed at any cost, and he would authorize the Secretary to offer areward of $14,000 to any person who would capture, convict and send the perpetrators of this fiendish crime to the Kingston Penetentiary for fifty years.

A HEATHEN BODY.

The Hon. J. L. Briggs, of Norwood, failed to appear last week as advertised, owingt to the death of his grandfather. His presence was now announced by the keeper of the Bear Trap, and he was escorted into the Hall by Bros. Slabs, McCann and Miller, members of the committee on Pains and Anxieties. After a general introduction to the Club he began:

"The object of my arriving here at the present time is to warn you all to beware of the present and all future Dominion Parliaments. The popularr idea is that the body are composed of men of high honor and noble minds, but don't you believe it! It was stated in The Morning Times that I went down to Ottawa at the front end of the last session to secure the place of head clerk of the cloak room. So I did. They have to have one there, and if e can't run a hat rack as well as a man with a mole on his ear then I want to die before night. Well, I got out, there in time. I spoke to Senators with bald heads, and many of the members of the Commons, and they were pleased to pat me on the back and remark that I was fourteen rods ahead of all other candidates. They smiled on me; they said that Providence must have tumbled me down there for the special good of the state; I walked high and was happy. I felt sure of the place, the way I made common people stand back was tough on shoe leather. But am I bossing this cloak room? Am I hanging up hats and bowing before the great esquires? I reckon not? Because those great baldheads sold me out and give the place to a man who shows every tooth in his head when he bites into a peanut. They are all on the sell, and the truth won't stick unless nailed on and clinched on the other side. I warn you all to beware of the whole crowd. I hear that tge Club are arranging to go down to Ottawa on the opening of the next session, on a great club excursion. Don't you go! They smile on you with one elbow and knock your teeth down your throat with the other!"

The Harmony Club then sang several selections from Mozart, the Janitor locked up the water dipper and the match box, and the meeting was carefully adjourned for one week.
Lime Juice Club.

"The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year," when the oldest resident assures you that there never was such a changeable spring as this, and that it must be due to Halley's comet. The fact of the matter is that the O.R. has been blaming changeable springs on one thing or another all his life. Spring is the one season of the year that has a perpetual license to change its mind whenever it likes. There is no such thing as standard spring. The only inevitable sameness about the most fickle of seasons is furnished by the complaints of oldest residents and others whose gardens are not growing to suit their taste.

calmly reminded them. Prendergast struggled to a sitting posture then fell back, convulsed. "Hugh Stires! He was the only—one who knew—how it was done. He's clever, but he can't get the best of Prendergast!" A spasm distorted his features. "Wait—wait!"

He fumbled in his breast, and his fingers brought forth a crumpled piece of paper. He thrust it into the sheriff's hands.

"Look! Look!" he gasped. "The man they found murdered on the claim there"—he pointed wildly up the hillside—"Dr. Moreau. I found him—dying! Stires"—

Strength was fast failing him. He tried again to speak, but only inarticulate sounds came from his throat.

A blind terror had clutched the heart of the girl leaning from the shadow. "Dr. Moreau"—"murdered." Why, he had been one of Hugh's friends! Why did this man couple Hugh's name with that worst of crimes? What dreadful thing was he trying to tell? She hardly repressed a desire to scream aloud.

"Be careful what you say, Prendergast," said the sheriff sternly.

The wretched man gathered force for a last effort. His voice came in a croaking whisper:

"It was Stires killed him. Moreau wrote it down—and I—kept the paper. Tell Hugh—we break—even."

Chapter 25

WHILE the man whom the town knew as Hugh Stires listened to the tale of the street preacher, another, unlike yet curiously like him in feature, had slowly climbed the hilly slope from the north by the sanitarium road. He walked with a jaunty swagger bred of too frequent application to a flask in his pocket.

As he walked unsteadily along Hugh drank more than once from the flask to deaden the superstitious dread of the place which was stealing over him. On the crest of the ridge he skirted the sanitarium grounds and at length gained the road that twisted down toward the lights of the town. In the dubious moonlight he mistook the narrow trail to the Knob for the lower path to the cabin. As he turned into it the report of a rifle came faintly from the gulch below.

He quickened his steps and stumbled all at once into the little clearing that held the new made grave and Jessica's statue. The sight terrified his intoxicated imagination. His hair rose. The name on the headstone was Stires, and there was himself—no, a ghost of himself—sitting near. He turned and broke into a run down the steep slope in his fear—for he imagined the white figure was pursuing him—he tripped and fell, regained his feet, rushed across the level space, threw his weight against the cabin door and burst into the room.

A dog sprang up with a growl, and in the light of the fire that burned on the hearth a man sitting at the rough hewn table lifted a haggard face from his arms, and each recognized the other.

The ghost was gone now before firelight and human presence, and Hugh, with a loud laugh of thay incredulity, stood staring at the man before him.

"Harry Sanderson!" he cried. His shifty eyes surveyed the other's figure—the corduroys, the high laced boots, the soft blue flannel shirt. "Not exactly in purple and fine linen," he said. The impudent swagger of intoxication had slipped over him again, and his boisterous laugh broke with a hiccough. "I thought the gospel game was about played out that night in the chapel. And now you are willing to take a hint from the prodigal. How did you find my—nest? And perhaps you can tell me who has been making himself so at home here lately?"

"You were something of a howling swell as a parson."

"I have," said Harry evenly.

Hugh's glance, that had been wavering about the neat interior, returned to Harry, and knowledge and anger leaped into it. "So it was you, was it? You are the one who has been trying his hand as a claim jumper!" He lurched toward the table and leaned upon it. "I've always heard that the devil took care of his own. The runaway rector stumbles on my manor, and, with his usual luck—Satan's luck we called it at college—steps in just in time to strike it rich."

He stretched his hand suddenly and caught a tiny object that glittered against Harry's coat—the little gold cross which the other had tied to his watch guard. The thong snapped, and Hugh cast the pendant rattling across the doorway.

"You were something of a howling swell as a parson," he said insolently, "but you don't need the jewelry now!"

Harry Sanderson's eyes had not left Hugh's face. He was thinking swiftly. The bolt from the blue had been so recent that this sudden apparition seemed a natural concomitant of the situation. Only the problem was no longer imminent. It was upon him. Jessica was not for him—he had accepted that. Though the clock might not turn backward, this man must and between them. Yet his presence now in the predicament was intolerable.

"Well," said Hugh, with a sneer, "what have you got to say?"

"How much will you take for the property?"

"That's your game, is it? But I'm not such a numskull! Whatever you could offer, it's worth more to me to know you, Satan Sanderson," he sneered. "You were always the same sanctious hypocrite in the old days, pretending to be so almighty virtuous, while you looked out for No. 1. I saw through you then, too, when you were posing as my friend and trying to get your best all along to queer me with the old man! I know it well enough. I knew what the reason was all! You wanted Jessica! You"—

Self-control left Harry suddenly, as a cliff's wall is whipped from its gaskets in a white squall. Before the words could be uttered his fingers were at Hugh's throat.

At that instant there was the sound of running feet outside, a hurried knock at the door and an agitated voice that chilled Harry's blood to ice. His hands relaxed their hold. He dragged Hugh to the door of the inner room, thrust him inside, shut and bolted it upon him.

Then he went and opened the outer door.

* * * * * * *

The accusation of Prendergast had stunned Jessica's faculties. As in an evil dream she had seen the sheriff rise to his feet and methodically put the fragment of paper into his pocketbook. A moment later she was running up the dark path, her thoughts a confusion in which only one coherent purpose stood distinct—to warn him. They would know no need to hasten. If the man she loved had reached the cabin, she would be before them.

She stood before the door, her hands clasped tightly, her eyes on Harry's face.

"What has happened?" he asked.

"Men will be here soon—men from the town. I overheard them. I wanted to let you know!" she hesitated. It had grown all at once difficult to put into words.

"Coming here? Why?"

"To arrest a man who is accused of murder."

If her eyes could have pierced the bolted door a few feet away! If she could have seen that listening face behind it, as her clear tones fell, grow instinct with recognition, amazement and evil suspicion—a look that her last word swept into a sickly gray terror! If she could have heard the groan from the wretched man beyond!

"Whose murder?"

"Dr. Moreau's."

Jessica waited with caught breath, searching his countenance. It was told now, but he must know that she had not credited it, that "for better, for worse," she must believe in him now. "I knew, oh, I knew!" she cried. "You need not tell me!"

"No," he said gravely. "I am not the man they want. It has all come back to me—the past that I had lost. Such a crime has no part in it. Jessica," he said, "you have tried to save me from danger tonight. I need a greater service of you now. It is to ask no questions, but to go at once. I cannot explain why, but you must not stay here a moment."

"Oh," she cried bitterly, "you don't intend to leave! You choose to face it, and you want to spare me. If you really want to spare me, you will go! Why, you would have no chance where they have hated you so. Prendergast was killed robbing the sluice tonight, and he lied—lied—lied! He swore you did it, and they will believe it!"

He put back her beseeching hands. How could he explain? Only to get her away—to gain time—to think!

"Listen!" she went on wildly. "They will wait to carry him to the town. I can go and bring my horse here for you. There is time! You have only to send me word and I will follow you to the end of the world! Only say you will go!"

He caught at the straw. The expedient might serve.

"Very well," he said; "bring him to the upper trail and wait there for me."

She gave a sob of relief at his acquiescence. "I will harry, hurry!" she cried and was gone, swift as a swallow flight, into the darkness.

As he re-entered the cabin the calmness fell from Harry Sanderson as a mask drops, and the latent passion sprang in its place. He crossed the room and drew the bolt for the wretched man who, after one swift glance at his face, groveled on his knees before him, sobered and shivering.

"For God's sake, Harry, you won't give me up?" Hugh cried. "You can't mean to do that! Why, we were in college together! I'd been drinking tonight or I wouldn't have talked to you as I did."

Harry drew his feet from the frantic hands that clasped them. "Did you kill Moreau?" he asked shortly.

"It was an accident," moaned Hugh. "I never intended to. I swear to heaven I didn't! He hounded me, and he tried to bleed me. I only meant to frighten him off! Then—then—I was afraid, and I ran for it. That was when I came to you at Ainslee and—we played." Hugh's breath came in gasps, and drops of sweat stood on his forehead.

"When we played!" he echoed. "How have you settled your debt, the 'debt of honor' you once counted so highly? How have you lived since then? Have you paid me these days or double living you staked, and lost?"

"But I will!" he exclaimed desperately. "If you'll only help me out of this I'll live straight to my dying day! You don't know how I've suffered, Harry, or you'd have some mercy on me now! Let me go, Harry, for my father's sake!"

"Your father is dead," said Harry.

"Then for old time's sake!" He tried to clasp Harry's knees. "They may be here at any minute! I must have been seen as I crossed the mountain! I thought it would never come out or I wouldn't have come! I'll go far enough away. I'll go to South America, and you will never see me alive again, neither you nor Jessica! For God's sake, Harry, listen! Jessica wouldn't want to see me hung! For her sake!"

It was "Sir Harry Sanderson of St. James' parish, of the scrupulous conscience—whose college career as Satan Sanderson had come to be a fiery sore in his breast—who now spoke.

"Get up!" he said. "Have you any money?"

Hugh rose, trembling and ashen. "Hardly $10," he answered.

Harry considered hastily. He was almost penniless. Nearly all his share of the strike had gone to repay the forged draft. "I have no ready cash," he said, "but the night we played in the chapel I left a thousand dollars in my study safe. I have not been there since." He took pencil and paper from his pocket and wrote down some figures hastily. "Here is the combination. You must try to get that money."

"Wait," he added as Hugh's hand was on the latch. He must risk nothing. He could make assurance doubly sure. "A half mile from the foot of the mountain, where the road comes in from Funeral Hollow, wait for me. I will bring a horse there for you."

Hugh crushed the paper into his pocket and opened the door. "I'll wait," he said. He darted out, slipped around the corner of the cabin and stealthily disappeared.

Harry sat down upon the doorstep. The strain had been great. In the reaction he was faint, and a mist was before his eyes. The die was cast. Hugh could easily escape. Until he himself spoke he would not even be wanted. He, Harry Sanderson, was be scapegoat, left to play his part.

How long he sat there he did not know. He sprang up at a muffled sound. He had still a work to do before they came for Hugh! He saw in an instant, however, that it was Jessica, leading her horse by the bridle.

"I could not wait," she breathed. "You did not come, and I was afraid!" Mounting, he leaned from the saddle and took both her hands in his. Still he did not kiss her.

"Jessica, you believe I am innocent?" he asked anxiously.

"Yes—yes!"

"Will you believe what I am doing is for the best?"

"Always, always!" she whispered, her voice vibrating. "Only go!"

He released her hands and rode quickly up the grassy path.

As she stood looking after him a dog's whine came from the cabin. She ran and released the spaniel and took him up in her arms.

As she did so a sparkle caught her eye. It came from the tiny gold cross lying where Hugh had flung it near the lighted doorway. She picked it up, looked at it a moment abstractedly and thrust it into her pocket scarce consciously, for her heart was keeping time to the silenced hoof beat that was carrying the man she loved from danger.

* * * * * * *

Where the way opened into the county cut of Funeral Hollow, Harry dismounted and went forward slowly, on foot, leading the horse, till a figure stepped from a clump of bushes to meet him with an exclamation of relief. Hugh had waited at the rendezvous in sickening apprehension and dismal speculation of Harry's intentions and had not approached till he had convinced himself that the other came alone. He wrung Harry's hand as he said:

"If I get out of this, I'll do better the rest of my life, I will, upon my soul Harry!"

"You may not be able to get into the chapel," said Harry; "my rooms"—he felt his cheek burn as he spoke—"may be occupied. On the chance that you will, take this." He took off the ruby ring whose interlaced initials had once certified him in his error of identity. The stone is worth a good deal. It would be enough to take you anywhere."

Hugh nodded, slipped the ring on his finger and rode quickly off. Then Harry turned and walked rapidly backward the town.

Chapter 26

At the sound of steps in the hall corridor and the harsh grating of the key in the lock, Harry rose hastily from the iron cot whereon he had been sitting and took a step forward.

"Jessica!" he exclaimed.

She came toward him, her breath hurried, her cheek pale. Tom Felder's face was at her shoulder. "I have a little matter to attend to in the office," he said, nodding to Harry. "I shall wait for you there, Miss Holme."

She thanked him with a grateful look, and as he vanished, Harry took her hand and kissed it. He longed to take her in his arms.

"I heard of it only at noon," she began, her voice uncertain. "I was afraid they would not let me see you, so I went to Mr. Felder. They were saying on the street that he had offered to defend you."

"I had not been here an hour when he came," he said.

"I know you have no money," she went on. "I know what you did with the gold you found. And I have begged him to let me pay for any other counsel he will name. I have not told him—what I am to you, but I have told him that I am far from poor and that

The FREE COUPON Buys Your Family Dessert

Take the Coupon below to your grocer and get a package of our latest and greatest creation—Mooney's Sugar Wafers—Canada's finest delicacy—absolutely free. We will pay your grocer the full retail price of this delicious dessert.

So confident are we that you will be delighted with our latest confection—Mooney's Sugar Wafers—that we are willing to pay for the first package. When you taste them once, you'll buy them often. Never before has such a delicious dessert graced your table—never before has such an appetizing and toothsome delicacy been offered you. Mooney's Sugar Wafers are the last word—the best word in the bakers' art. Years of experiment—of unexcelled reputation—are back of this biscuit. Yet they cost no more than common kinds.

Mooney's Sugar Wafers are created by Canada's master bakers—of the finest and costliest materials—in an airy, sunlit, sanitary factory.

Your Meal is Incomplete Without Mooney's Sugar Wafers

It's interesting work—this Mooney Method of biscuit making. In making Mooney Sugar Wafers we use flour that is a special blend of hard spring wheat for nourishment and soft winter wheat for flavor. The most reliable dairymen in Western Ontario supply us with the purest and sweetest butter and cream daily. We get their best, because we pay top prices. We could pay a third less for these ingredients, but we couldn't keep the Mooney high quality standard intact. This would be poor economy—you know this.

When you get your first package of Mooney's Sugar Wafers you'll observe how crispy and flaky the double layers are—how snappy and enticing the exquisite cream between the layers is. Each wafer is a delicious sweetmeat sandwich that fairly melts in your mouth.

Mooney's Sugar Wafers are made in the largest and brightest bakery in Canada. Here we have over 200 trained employees—640 windows—3 miles of floor space. The single special equipment for producing Mooney's Sugar Wafers cost us over $20,000. We even ship our products in our own specially built private cars, so they are of even temperature in transit. When you open the dainty, dust and damp-proof package, the biscuits are fresh, crisp and appetizing—just as they come from the ovens. No other biscuit manufacturer in the country goes to this trouble and expense—but it's part of the Mooney Method of biscuit making. When you taste Mooney's Sugar Wafers for the first time you will know how delicious they really are. The luscious cream centers are made in many flavors—from real fruits.

Try The Taste Test On Mooney's Sugar Wafers

Today at luncheon or dinner, instead of serving the usual dessert, try Mooney's Sugar Wafers. Let their exquisite taste today, decide your desserts of the future. As an adjunct to the social hour; as a delightful accompaniment to ices or beverages—no other dessert confection will prove so charming as Mooney's Sugar Wafers.

It is no longer necessary to spend much money and hours of time making desserts that "might be good," when you can spend little money and no time for a dessert that's always good—Mooney's Sugar Wafers.

MOONEY'S SUGAR WAFERS

The Dessert Your Guests Will Like

Six years ago we gave to the Dominion a better Soda Cracker—better flavored—better made. Today Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas are the standard. Millions of good Canadians from coast to coast eat them. You have heard of biscuits—read of biscuits—eaten biscuits—but until you try Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas you don't know biscuits. They are everything that the ideal biscuit should be. Mooney on a soda cracker means "goodness."

Every year, since we started business in 1903, we have had to enlarge our factory to meet the increasing demand for Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas. A little better flour—a little richer butter—a little finer bakery—a little more care in baking—all these are details of the Mooney Method of biscuit making.

It's with this record of perfection in biscuit production that we offer what we believe is our greatest creation—Mooney's Sugar Wafers. The coupon entitles you to a package FREE. All we ask is that you purchase a 25 cent package of Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas from your grocer. This is to insure our new dessert reaching responsible people, like yourself, who are undoubtedly already acquainted with the high standard of quality maintained by us. 'Bird's Eye View of the City of Port Arthur from Mariday

MARIDAY PARI

WE WELCOME THE SEARCHLIGHT OF IN

PORT ARTHUR--A City With a Future, Not a Past

PORT ARTHUR crosses the threshold of 1910 in the flower of a triumphant prosperity. The mining industry is flourishing as never before; the lumber business has recovered from the world-wide financial stress of two years ago; the marine interests look forward with confidence to the greatest development in their history; the agriculturists of the surrounding townships are more prosperous than ever before; the contractors and builders have the greatest construction year in the city's record before them.

But, more than all, Port Arthur looks for material advancement because of the awakening of her citizens to a greater appreciation of the opportunities within her borders, and to a general determination to make the most of them.

It is well within the mark to state that no city possesses natural advantages exceeding those possessed by Port Arthur—the Doorway to Great Britain's Granary.

Occupying a commanding position at the Canadian head of the magnificent water route formed by the stretches of the noble St. Lawrence and the five Great Lakes, upon whose bosom floats a greater volume of commerce than any waterway the world over;

With a deep water harbor unrivaled on this continent for security, accessibility and capacity;

With a mid-Dominion position presenting the minimum cost of transportation for the manufacture of the raw materials of the East for the ever increasing demands of the fast-filling Western Provinces;

With a fishing industry giving employment to hundreds of men, and a score of tugs;

With a profusion of cheap water power developments close at hand;

With enormous tracts of pulp timber yet untouched, and a background district the whole of which is mineralized, particularly with iron ores, awaiting only the confidently predicted improvements in the method of electric treatment;

With a surrounding country to the north and west containing 16,000,000 acres of good free grant agricultural country adapted to the growth of wheat, oats, barley, clover, timothy, and all root crops craving the development of the settler;

With a relative geographical position on the gateway of commerce to the Great Prairies of the North-West, and the mining and timber lands of British Columbia such as Chicago holds to the fortunes of the great Western States;

With an outlook financially, industrially and commercially greater than has been;

Can it reasonably be expected that Port Arthur should look forward to the year 1910 with other than hopefulness and optimistic enthusiasm?

The fifth decennial census will exhibit to the world the astonishing material progress made by the whole Dominion during the past decade. It will show that the growth of this country from the Great Lakes to the shores of the Pacific far outstrips—in agricultural, industrial and educational development—the phenomenal advancement of the Old Dominion, and will forcibly present to Canadians the indisputable fact that the day is fast approaching when preponderance of population will give to the West the dominant voice in the nation's councils.

"Dispense with lost motion from farm to factory, and from land to sea. All warehouses, grain elevators and factories should be in direct communication with canal, ocean and railroad transportation."—E. H. Harriman.

Blessed with unique, geographical, industrial and commercial advantages, if, "made to order," Port Arthur could not possibly present a more favoral field for the successful application of this time-proven maxim, and the consequent remunerative employment of capital, however great or however small.

Never in the history of Western Canada has a real estate investment been presented surrounded by a wealth of detail that assures rapid increased values such as Mariday Park presents.

During the past six years it has been our privilege to handle 3½ millions of Port Arthur and Fort William real estate, every dollar's worth of which has proved remunerative to our clients.

MAYOR'S OFFICE
PORT ARTHUR, CANADA

December 22nd, 1909

J. J. Carrick, Esq.,
22 Cumberland Street,
Port Arthur

Dear Sir:

Consistent with the best interests of all our citizens, it is my pleasure to state that the Council of the City of Port Arthur, having in mind the great demand for a model restricted residential area, within easy access of the business centres, such as your Mariday Park property presents, have authorized and endorsed your Street Railway and Improvement Plans, as filed.

The greatest care must be exercised in the expenditure of civic improvements; to serve fairly the needs of a fast evolving city such as ours, but I wish to assure you that everything that can, will be done by me, either in my official capacity or as a citizen thereof, to bring the City of Port Arthur to the high place which it is entitled to fill as the most charming residential city of the Great West.

Yours truly,
H. Ware
Mayor.

DOVER TO CALAIS AND BACK

Englishman Crossed Channel Twice in His Aeroplane—Ninety Minutes in the Air.

London, June 2.—Charles Stewart Rolls, the youngest son of Lord Llangattock, to-day crossed the English Channel twice in an aeroplane. Flying from Dover to Sangatte, near Calais, he circled over that village, flew back to Dover without descending, circled over Dover and finally descended, after a magnificent flight of ninety minutes, during which time he covered over fifty miles. He is the first English aviator to cross the Channel, and the first airman to make the double journey.

Rolls had been at Dover for some time waiting for afavorable opportunity to make the Channel flight. One came this evening, and was immediately taken advantage of. At 5.30 the wind dropped almost to a dead calm, and Rolls arranged to start an hour later. Almost exactly at the stroke of 6.30 Rolls took his seat in his short Wright biplane and, with a rousing cheer from the spectators, among whom were his parents, Lord and Lady Llangattock and his brother-in-law and sister, Sir John and Lady Shelley, he rose into the air in splendid style. The biplane made a big sweep toward Dover Castle, then back along the cliffs, and headed straight to sea at a height of about 600 feet. Rolls increased his height to about 800 feet while within a mile of land. He was followed as fast as possible by a tug, which kept him in sight halfway.

About an hour after his departure word reached Dover from Calais that Rolls was returning and by 7140, with the aid of glasses, his biplane could be seen far out over the Channel. The aeroplane soon grew visible to the naked eye, and when it was over Dover lightship, 2½ miles from the shore, the channel steamers and yachts and vessels in the harbor set their tooters going, while the crowds cheered themselves hoarse. Rolls didn't descend at once.

Gradually decreasing his height, he circled above the outer towers of Dover Castle, then made a beautifully judged encircling movement over the ancient Norman keep and finally after a series of other evolutions landed in the meadow from which he had started, as lightly as a bird stops.

While over Sangatte, Rolls dropped three weighted envelopes containing messages of greeting to the Aero Club of France. He said his experience all the way was most exhilirating.

THE POWERS AND PERSIA.

Russia and Great Britain were in diplomatic straits ten years ago over the suzerainty of Persia; and, but for the interruption of the Russo-Japanese war, there might have been open rupture between the two powers. As it is, the influence in Persia is divided between Russia and Great Britain; and the German diplomats are sounding an alarm over the conditions of affairs, in which Germany has no share in the monopolization of all economic and financial opportunities in the land of the Xerxes. Emperor William has been induced to take a stand on the question. It is alleged that the Russo-British entente has virtually shut the Persian door of trading opportunities against Germany. This is not in line with Germany's international aggrandisement; and the way is seemingly being prepared to protect the prestige of Germany as a power to be consulted in arriving at such arrangements even in an isolated eastern realm. Meatime, the diplomats are busy over the problem, and very much depends on the forbearance of the Emperor, which could nearly always be depended upon as a forwarding of peace, during the latter lifetime of his uncle, the King of England. In 1908, the triple alliance of Britain, Russia and France was arranged, over the annexation of Bosnia and Hergovina, as pendencies of Austria. This was mainly brought about through the interventions of Germany; and now the world may have to witness the breaking up of the entente between Britain and Russia over Persian affairs by a like intervention on the part of Emperor William.

Birthday of Spanish Monarch.

Copenhagen, June 3.—Flags will be displayed in profusion today and the bells throughout the kingdom will peal merrily in honor of the sixty-seventh birthday anniversary of King Frederick VIII. Get the Choice Oranges of Our 5,000 Groves

We pick, pack and ship 60% of the California Orange crop. These are of varying grades. The choicest selections are packed under the "Sunkist" label. To get the finest oranges you must insist on fruit that is wrapped in tissue paper with the word "Sunkist" printed thereon.

"Sunkist" Navel Oranges Are Seedless

They are delightfully sweet, juicy and fiberless. They are firm, thin skinned and deep tinted.

"Sunkist" oranges and lemons are picked by gloved hands, wrapped in "Sunkist" tissue paper, packed carefully so as to eliminate chances of becoming bruised or soft. No bruised fruit or fruit that falls to the ground is put in a "Sunkist" wrapper.

Look for "Sunkist" on the wrapper. Ask your dealer for oranges and lemons with "Sunkist" label on the tissue paper wrapper. Oranges and lemons without "Sunkist" wrappers are not "Sunkist" brand. Be sure you get oranges and lemons in their original "Sunkist" wrappers.

Free: Rogers' Orange Spoon

To make it doubly interesting for you to insist on "Sunkist" in the original wrappers—either oranges or lemons—we will give you a beautiful Rogers' Orange Spoon. Just send us twelve wrappers and six 2c stamps for postage, packing, etc., and we will send the spoon by return mail. Get a dozen "Sunkist" and send today for your first spoon. Address

G.T.R. Engineer killed at Belleville

G.T.R. Engineer Kemp was instantly killed at Belleville yesterday morning. While he was standing beside his engine, which was attached to a freight train, No. 5 passenger train rushed in, and Kemp was struck by the cylinder at the side of the engine and instantly killed. The late Engineer Kemp was a comparatively young man, and was only married a couple of years ago.

Gladys Mitchell's Funeral Today.

This afternoon the funeral of little Gladys Violet, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. R. W. Mitchell, 467 Mark street, Ashburnham, will be held to Little Lake cemetery at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. Robt. Pogue will officiate. The little girl, whose sad demise took place on Thursday evening, will be missed by not only the sorrowing relatives, but by many of her little friends.

Presentation to Mrs. R. A. Dutton.

A few days ago a number of Mrs. R. A. Dutton's most intimate friends called at her home and spent a most enjoyable evening in games and music. A feature of the evening's enjoyment was the presentation to Mrs. Dutton of a beautiful ring set with pearls. The accompanying address was read by Mrs. T. C. Elliott and the presentation made by Mrs. G. W. Hall. Mrs. Dutton leaves shortly for Toronto, where she will in future reside.

Clock Once in St. John's Church Tower.

The younger generation doubtless are unaware that 75 years ago there was a clock in St. John's church tower. Yesterday a young gentleman employed in a local bank, asked a lady acquaintance, if she remembered the clock and how it struck the hours. He now wonders why the thermometer suddenly fell several hundred degrees and why icicles suddenly hung from trees near by. If that lady's glance could have killed the clerks of one bank, at least, would have worn black ties today.

Flags flew from many public and private business places yesterday in honor of the King's birthday.

SOCIETY EVENTS

The Times will be pleased to receive notices of Wedding, Social Events, Personal Announcements, which will be published in this column free of charge.

Miss Spillsbury, Water street, is so far recovered from her recent illness as to be about again.

Mr. Ryerson Ritchie went to Boston last night.

Miss Hazel Craig is visiting her parents in Ashburnham.

Mr. Hogan and wife, of Rochester, N.Y., are visiting Mr. Hogan's parents, Ashburnham.

Mr. Harold White of the post office staff, is in the city after a week's visit to Toronto.

Mrs. Corbman and family have left for Vancouver, where they will reside in the future.

Mrs. Whiteroft has gone to Edmonton to visit her brother-in-law, Mr. Fred Whiteroft.

Mrs. Thos. Medd and son, Earle, formerly of Peterborough, left yesterday afternoon on the 4.36 C.P.R. for Toronto, where they will reside.

Miss Essie Ryan and Mrs. A. Goodfellow, left yesterday evening for Toronto, where they will visit for a few weeks.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. Cameron, corner of Charlotte and Stewart streets, Dr. Cameron was called away to Saranac Lake.

The Times had a call yesterday from Mr. Chester W. Laing, son of Mr. Robert Laing, of this city. Mr. Laing holds a very important position with the Dominion Coal Co., at Glace Bay, N. S., which has become widely known on account of the great coal strike, which has only recently been settled. Mr. Laing is a young man who is geredit to his native town, and who has already made his mark in the business world. He leaves for the east today.

At "The Isle of Jewels," an operetta presented in Peterborough on Thursday evening of last week, under the direction of Mr. Rupert Glidden, Master Mowat Garrett of town won great applause by his cornet solo, "The Maple Leaf." Mr. and Mrs. Carruther of Peterborough, were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Kindred during Sunday and Monday. —Mrs. Jas. E. Fowler and children have returned from Peterborough, where they have spent the past two weeks with friends.—Havelock Standard.

Professor Robert Turner, of Boston, will give an illustrated lecture on Beautiful Ireland in St. Peters T. A. S. Hall on Monday evening, June 6th, and another on Ben Hur, Tuesday evening, June 7th. Admission, 25c. Reserved seats 35c., Children 10c. Tickets at Mr. James Lynch's Drug Store.

Little Local Lines

A large number of pleasure trippers are going to Western Canada from Peterborough this spring.

A valuable white fox terrier was struck by a street car yesterday morning at the corner of Sherbrooke and Park streets, and instantly killed. It belonged to Mr. Sherwood, 464 Sherbrooke street, who regrets very much the loss of the animal.

A Sunday School convention will be held at St. John's next week, commencing Monday, and delegates from all the parishes of this district will be present.

The brigade received a call to the rear of the residence of Wm. Faint, Hunter street, east, yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock.

Mr. George Thomas, who was formerly proprietor of the Dominion Cafe here, and who moved from here to conduct a restaurant in Guelph has opened a cafe in St. Thomas.

The agents and district employes of the Prudential Insurance Co., are planning for an enjoyable excursion on the 1st of July. No definite point for the trip has yet been decided upon.

The Sunday school of St. Luke's church will hold its sessions for June, July and August at ten o'clock in the morning, commencing tomorrow. The Mission Band will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Latest cablegrams say that revolution is rampant in Tokio, Japan. With the Chinese and other foreigners trying to monopolize trade on Peterborough's leading thoroughfares let us hope that there will be no trouble here.

Mr. Frank Hogan, who has recently been employed by the Prudential Insurance Company of this city, has accepted a position as manager of the Union Life Insurance Company, in Lindsay. His friends will wish him success in his new position.

Read the report of the Lime Juice Club's latest meeting in this issue. Prof. Billium Wailey has promised to deliver an address at next week's session as has Mr. Jack Hadlum. The latter's address will disclose some secrets in local road repairing.

DEAFNESS OF WHITE CATS.

An Affliction Which Prevents Their Being Good Mouse Catchers.

According to a magazine writer, the deafness of the average cat's sense of hearing is proverbial, but it is a proverb that needs qualifying. For example, many white cats are absolutely deaf, and though the idea may appear absurd at first sight, I am inclined to believe that the color of the cat is associated with its sense of hearing.

I have several times imported Persians or long haired cats from abroad, but not one white one in the number has been able to hear the slightest sound. Of course I have possessed white cats that could hear, but they have been the exception, and that applies as much to the short hair pet of the fireside as to the aristocratic long hair of the shows. Moreover, I have observed that the white cats dullest of hearing are those with blue eyes.

The cats with orange eyes which I have had could hear quite well, those having odd eyes that is, one orange and one blue—could hear a little but not well, and those having blue eyes were quite deaf, though all have come from the same litter. All kittens have blue eyes till they are about six weeks old, when the eyes change to their adult or permanent color. But to show how widely the permanently blue eye differs to begin with from other eyes I may say that immediately the eyes of white cats that are to have permanently blue eyes open they will shine bright red in the dark and neither the ephemeral kitten blue nor any other color eye does this.

One peculiarity of deaf cats is that they seem to have an aggravated sense of feeling in their foot pads. It is very difficult for a heavy walking animal such as man to approach a deaf cat from behind without giving it warning, and this I attribute to the extreme sensitiveness of the cat's feet, recording the slightest tremor of the ground and so to a certain extent taking the place of hearing. It is a belief held by some country people that white cats do not make good hunters, good mouse or rat catchers, even if they do hear. I am inclined to think that there is a foundation for this idea, and I would go further and say that dark colored cats make the best mouse and rat catchers because they hear best.

Where Slavery Exists.

Joseph Burtt, of England, who has visited the slavery part of West Africa, and seen how the Portuguese are treating the hapless natives, says:

"The world should unite and stamp out slavery in Africa and everywhere else. The cultivation of the cocoa in the islands of San Thome and Principe, West Africa, employs 50,000 ignorant blacks who are kept in pitiable servitude. In the islands fevers and tropical diseases carry off the people rapidly and 5,000 slaves have to be taken there yearly to maintain the needed labor supply.

"These slaves come principally from the central regions of Africa. Some are sold for debt; some are given up on accusation of witchcraft; some are captured in tribal feuds and village raids, but most are captured by expeditions equipped and sent out for the damnable purpose. They are conveyed to the coast, fastened together with wooden shackles to prevent them escaping. It is a long march, many hundred of miles, nine days of which is over a desert. Approximately 50 per cent. of the slaves die on the march."

The Strength of a Shark.

Given special advantages, such as that of holding the end of a stout rope at the other extremity of which is a hook fixed in a shark's mouth, man may, with the assistance of a number of his fellows, have the best of the shark. But alone and in the water the advantage is wholly and absolutely the other way, and the strongest swimmer and the bravest heart fail when the tyrant of the sea decides to make his acquaintance. The shark is gifted with great strength, a savage temper, dogged perseverance and exceptional power of jaw. The lion and tiger may mangle, the crocodile may lacerate, the bulldog may hold fast—the shark alone of living creatures possesses the power of nipping off a human limb at a bite.

Making it Simple.

The scholarly looking man with the big eyeglasses had been invited to address the Sunday school and was making a few remarks concerning the lesson.

"I see the word 'line' occurs here," he said. "Will some one give me a definition of 'line'?"

Nobody answered.

"It is very easy," he proceeded encouragingly, "though you may find it a little perplexing to convey the idea in simple terms. Try again. Well, the ordinary signification of the word is longitudinal extension, but here it denotes a predetermined boundary. I am sure, my young friends, you can remember that."

Needed No Help.

The old colored woman ambled into the police court where her son was to be tried on a charge of petit larceny. She had been talking to a police court lawyer the evening before, and, catching sight of her, the limb of the law hustled toward her.

"Well, did you get up that $5 for me?" he inquired eagerly. "They are going to try Hamp's case now."

"Well, now, seh, I didn't git de money, mister. Times is jes so hard I done colluded ter let Hamp go on an be convicted widout de 'sistance ob counsel."

Tomboy.

Verstegan gives the following origin of the word "tomboy" as applied to romping girls: "Tumbe, to dance; tumbod, danced; hereof we yet call a wench that skippeth or leapeth lyke a boy, a tomboy; our name also of tumbling cometh from hence."

A Born Leader.

"Why are you constantly referring to Bliggins as a leading citizen?"

"I can't help having an admiration for the man," replied Miss Cayenne. "He belongs to our whist club and always knows which card to play first."

Pe-ru-na is the Best Medicine in the World.

I RECOMMEND PE-RU-NA.

MR. EMILE MAROIS.

MR. EMILE MAROIS, 1870 Ontario street, Montreal, Canada, writes:

"After taking nine bottles of Peruna, I find that I am cured.

"I still take it occasionally. For me it is the best medicine in the world.

"I have recommended it to a number of persons."

Mr. J. C. Hervias Pelletier, Dept. de l'Agriculture, Ottawa, Ontario, writes:

"The Peruna is particularly efficacious in the cure of catarrhal affections of the lungs and bronchial tubes.

"Six bottles cured me this winter of Bronchitis. I am completely restored and I owe thanks to the Peruna.

"I have recommended this remedy to a large number of my friends afflicted with the same trouble, and they have verified my good opinion of this valuable remedy."

A TIMELESS WORLD.

What Would Happen If We Were Entirely Inclosed by Clouds.

If astronomers are right in ascribing the wonderful brightness of Venus to the existence of an atmosphere continually filled with clouds, then she must be a world without time—at least there can be no measurement of time there such as we have here.

It is because we can see the sun and the stars that we are able to traverse the oceans and run railroad trains across the continents.

Surround our earth with an unbroken shell of clouds and what would become of all our clocks and chronometers? Not a ship could safely cross the sea; not a railroad would be able to run its trains without a series of frightful wrecks. In a few weeks every clock and watch would be hopelessly wrong and all exact timekeeping would cease.

Probably there are few who stop to think of the way in which our every day life depends upon astronomical observations. Our great primary timekeeper is the earth rotating on its axis. If we could not see the sun and stars because of clouds we should not know that the earth rotates and there would be no standard to which we could refer our timepieces and by which we could correct them. In fact, we should probably have no timepieces.

There could be no hours and minutes, for they are exact divisions of an ideal day based upon celestial observations which would be impossible to us.

They could not be based upon clocks or other mechanical devices, because the most exquisite chronometer that can be constructed will not keep time indefinitely and must be continually corrected by means of observations of the stars made in the observatories.

There could be no accurate maps of countries or charts of the seas, for such maps and charts can be made only by the aid of astronomical observations.

There could be no parallels of latitude or meridians of longitude, for they, too, are based on celestial observations which would be impossible to us.

We should not know with any certainty where we were upon the earth. We could not measure the distance from New York to London nor from New York to San Francisco.

Poetical minds, moved by the spectacle of Venus in her glory, have drawn brilliant pictures of the delights of life in that radiant world, but there is another side to the question of which we may well think as we gaze admiringly upon her electric splendor.—Garrett P. Serviss in New York American.

The "Arabian Nights."

The collection of tales called "Thousand and One Nights," or the "Arabian Nights," is of unknown date and authorship. It was first made known in Europe about the end of the seventeenth century by Antoine Galland, who was employed by Colbert to collect manuscripts in the east. The copy of the Arabic manuscript brought by Galland from Syria contained a marginal note dated 1584, and from internal evidence the middle of the fifteenth century has been fixed upon as the probable period of the composition of the work. Some of the tales were evidently borrowed by the writer from other authors, and Von Hammer identifies at least the plot and some of the stories of the "Arabian Nights" with an earlier collection in Persian called the "Thousand Fanciful Stories."

April Fooling.

The origin of the custom of April fooling cannot be traced with any degree of certainty. In the literature of the first century there are found many references to it, and yet beyond that it is scarcely possible to go. One suggestion is that the custom of playing tricks on the first day of April was derived from some ancient pagan custom, such as the Hull festival among the Hindoos or the Roman feast of the Hilaria. One fact, however, we do know, and that is that the practice prevails in many countries under various names which would seem to indicate that it dates away back to the early history of the race.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Four Extremes.

The coldest place on earth inhabited by man is Verkhoyansk, above the arctic circle, in northeastern Siberia. The thermometer there drops to 90 degrees below zero in January, but sometimes rises to 86 degrees above zero in the shade in July, dropping, however, to the freezing point on the warmest summer nights. The hottest place in the world is in the interior of the great Sahara desert, in Africa, where the thermometer rises to 122 degrees. The wettest place is Greytown, Nicaragua, where the mean annual rainfall is 200 inches. The place of least rain is Port Nolloth, in South Africa, where less than an inch sometimes falls in a year.

All For Love.

"Did you ever know a girl to die for love?"

"Yes."

"Did she just fade away and die because some man deserted her?"

"No; she just took in washing and worked herself to death because the man she loved married her."—Houston Post.

A Cruel Hint.

Nell—Harry had such a masterful way about his proposing that I liked him.

Belle—Did you? That's queer, for it was exactly what made most of us other girls turn him down.—Baltimore American.

Live as though life was earnest and life will be so.—Owen Meredith.

DISTANCES ON KAWARTHA LAKES.

Cut This Out and Keep It for Future Use.

Below is a useful list of distances on the Kawartha Lakes. Every motor boat enthusiast should cut it out and keep it for future use. The mileages are all authentic, having been accurately measured in the centre of the channel between the points named.

Wellington-st. bridge, Lindsay, to Upper Dock, Sturgeon Point, 9 miles.

Long cut, Lighthouse to Lighthouse, 6-10 miles.

Upper dock, Sturgeon Point, to the Government dock, Pleasant Point, 1 mile.

Lower dock, Sturgeon Point, to Mr. Connell's Island, 3½ miles.

Bobcaygeon to Fenelon Falls, 14½ miles.

Fenelon Falls to Rosedale bridge, 4½ miles.

Rosedale bridge to entrance canal, Balsam Lake, 5½ miles.

Bobcaygeon to Chemong, 16½ miles.

Bobcaygeon to Buckhorn, 16½ miles.

Buckhorn to Chemong, 13½ miles.

Buckhorn to Burleigh, 7 miles.

Burleigh to Crowe's Landing (direct) 8½ miles. (via store 9 miles.)

Crowe's Landing to Young's Point, 12 miles.

Head of Stoney Lake to Young's Point, 12 miles.

Boschimk to Young's Point 9 miles.

Burleigh to Juniper Island, 3½ miles.

Young's Point to Juniper Island, 6 miles.

Young's Point to east end Clear Lake, 4 miles.

Young's Point to Lakefield, 5 miles.

Lakefield to Peterboro, 10 miles.

Peterboro to Rice Lake 21 miles.

Hastings to Trent Bridge, 6 miles.

Trent Bridge to Healey's Falls, 6½ miles.

Lists like the above are useful in planning trips with points to stop for meals or camp at night. One can also calculate the probable time of the trip, and for those who are a little timid about starting out on exploits of such a kind, it will show that although the country may look wild and desolate they are not in reality very far from points in civilization.

The First Gold Rush.

The voyage of the argonauts, the date of which is uncertain, was profoundly a rush for gold, to be collected in fleeces placed in the torrents flowing down the flanks of Mount Caucasus. But older much was the westward movement, which Chaldean records of 2600 B. C. chronicle, to the gold bearing land of Mashitiba, afterward known as Midian.

Later on, but still at a very early period, there was a rush from Egypt to a spot inland from the present Suakin. Long afterward this was described by Diodorus Siculus, who left a map, still extant, showing the wells provided for the gold seekers between the Red sea and the mines.

About 1000 B. C. there seems to have been another rush of miners in search of gold into South Africa. Its numbers can only be guessed at from the extensive remains that still exist, but it has been calculated that at least $300,000,000 was secured by these early adventurers.

In modern times the first rush was that to California in 1848-9.

Sea Birds.

Taking the sea birds all round, they are far more careless in their nesting than their cousins inland. The terns, the skua, the puffins, the black throated diver, the guillemot, make no nests, properly so called. The puffin, however, usually burrows a rabbit burrow and is not particular whether its original owners have done with their home or not. If they interfere or even try to pass a peck from the puffin's great parrot shaped bill is enough to warn them against making the experiment a second time. The auks are birds of the northern seas and are perhaps the finest divers of any feathered things. Their short wings look, in fact, far more like fins than wings, and, unlike gulls, the auks catch their prey beneath the surface. The auk's selection of a spot to lay her eggs is eccentric to a degree. She chooses a bare, broken ledge of hard rock overhanging the waves. It looks as though it were a feat to balance eggs in such a place, and the marvel is that the first one does not send them rolling over the crags.—Boston Herald.

Homing Pigeons.

The average speed of a homing pigeon in calm weather is 1,200 yards a minute. With a strong wind in the direction of flight some pigeons have made 1,900 yards, or considerably more than a mile a minute.

Must Get Permission.

One of the bylaws of a cottage hospital in Wales reads thus: "No patient shall curse or swear or use any indecent or abusive language, nor shall play at cards or dice, nor smoke within the infirmary without the authority of the medical officer and at certain hours."

View cards of Peterborough, assorted colored or black and white at Times Bookstore for 10 cents per dozen.

SALVATION ARMY EMIGRATION.

If an estimate made by Col. Howell, secretary of the immigration department of the Salvation Army, is borne out, 150,000 people will have the British Isles for Canada this year under the Army's auspices. Profiting by experience, the Army is now careful to select only such persons as are likely to be self-supporting when they come to this country. The restrictions laws now are such that it is impossible for any organization to dump on Canada's shores immigrants who are likely to become a public burden. The plight of such individuals, even if admitted, would be no better than it was before they left home.

The present policy of the army is to pilot to Canada only people who measure up to certain standards. They must either be skilled artisans, qualified as farm hands, or be able to fill the demand for domestic service. They must also be able to pay their own travelling expenses instead of looking to the Army for assistance, exception in this particular being made only in "cases of unforeseen emergency arising after arrival in Canada." Persons not meeting these requirements will be assisted by the Army at home, and not sent away.

Other British charitable organizations might well follow the example set by the Salvation Army in emigrating matters, instead of protesting against Canada's policy of excluding immigrants, whose condition would not be improved here, and who would only prove an additional tax on Canadian charity.

WE REPAIR WEAK MEN

ONE SECRET OF OUR SUCCESS. Every case submitted to us receives the personal attention of our Medical Staff, who consider the symptoms, complications and chronicity, and then decide as to the disease and curability. Specific remedies are then prescribed by the case and are compounded by our own chemist in our own Laboratory. Such appropriate treatment cannot fail to cure, as specific medicines are selected to cure the symptoms that trouble you. We have no cure-all medicines like most specialists use who send the same medicines to all patients alike and cure none. We have treated patients throughout Canada for over twenty years and can refer to any bank as to our responsibility.

We Guarantee Cures or No Pay. We Treat all Diseases of Men and Women.

London People Alarmed At Their War Airships

British Army Dirigible Circles the Dome of St. Paul's---People Thought Germans Were About to Blow Up City

London, June 4.—A war airship early this morning flew over the heart of London, and circled the dome of St. Paul's. It was the British army dirigible Beta, which left Farnborough at 11.30 p-m., and returned here at 3.30 a.m., having covered 110 miles in four hours, an average of 27½ miles an hour.

WAR SCARE REVIVED.

The German war scare was revived in the wee sma' hours when the whirring dirigible flitted over the city. It was seen by hundreds, despite the hours, and the newspapers offices received scores of warnings that Germans were about to blow up the city.

An interesting phase of the event is the fact that the start at Farnborough, thirty miles southwest of London, was made from near the tombs of Napoleon III., and the Prince Imperial Louis, who lie at Farnboeough Hill. The trip was unannounced.

The army aviators today declared that the dirigible was under control at every moment of the trip and swept about the cathedral at 2.15 planned. The trip is hailed as the best flight ever made by a British dirigible.

Sunday School Convention will Open Tonight

Today the Church of England Sunday School Convention and Teachers' Training School open in the halls of St. John's church. The convention covers three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

His Lordship Bishop Sweeney and Provost Macklem, D.D., of Trinity College, Toronto, are in the city in connection with the convention. His lordship preached in St. John's church at the morning service, and at St. Luke's in the evening. Provost Macklem occupied the pulpit of St. John's in the evening and of All Saints' in the morning. Ven. Archdeacon Warren, B.A., conducted the morning service at St. Luke's church, and at All Saints' in the evening.

A public meeting will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock when Rev. Canon Davidson, M.A., rector of St. John's, will occupy the chair. Addresses will be given by Rt. Rev. the Lord Bishop of Toronto. Ven. Archdeacon Warren and others. A fine musical program will be given under the direction of Mr. R. J. Dewey.

The Oath Question Raises a Storm

LETTER IN REPLY TO REV. DR. O'BRIEN.

Writer Declares That Roman Catholic Church Believes She is Commissioned to Extirpate all Heresies

To the Editor of The Times,

Sir,—The following letter was refused by The Review, which was called upon by Rev. Dr. O'Brien, to reply to his letter. The Review declined for reasons best known to itself to follow a manly, straightforward cause in an important matter:

"The Rev. Dr. O'Brien in last night's issue of The Review says, respecting the oath you published as that of the R. C. Bishop of Quebec that "if you can prove that the R. C. Bishops in Quebec or anywhere else subscribe to an oath such as you published I shall pay one hundred dollars to any charity in Peterboro you name." He further says that he awaits your reply. Dr. O'Brien does not say that the renunciation of Princess Eza is a forgery in which she swore, "I condemn, reject and anathematize all things contrary thereto and all the heresies which the Church condemned, rejected and anathematized."

Amongst these "heresies" is Protestantism. Will Dr. O'Brien deny that? Will Dr. O'Brien deny that the Roman Church believes that she is commissioned by Jesus Christ to extirpate from off the face of the earth where possible all heresies, Protestantism among them?

Whether The Review published a literally correct version of the oath of the bishops of Quebec is not material if the true intent and meaning of the Church of Rome is not belied: and will Dr. O'Brien say that the Church recognizes that Protestantism has a right to live and propagate itself? If he will I will give twenty-five dollars to any charity he may name.

Now let it be known that Protestants do not feel that Roman Catholics cannot be saved in their communions, as Catholic do of Protestants, nor that they have not just as good a right to think what they please as Protestants have. That is the essence of Protestantism, and Protestantism stands before all things for full liberty of thought, which the Roman Catholic Church expressly forbids and condemns.

The present inflamed condition of the popular mind is due to that most extraordinary and far-reaching document of modern times, viz: the Papal Encyclical denouncing Modernism, dated the 9th day September, 1907. "Modernism" is the right of a man to think for himself and involves, of course, the corresponding responsibility. The Encyclical says, "Such is the situation for the Modernists and their one great anxiety is, in consequence, to find a way of conciliation between the authority of the Church and the liberty of believers." (The reference is to Modernists as yet within the Church.) This desire for liberty is absolutely intolerable to the inflexible "infallibility" of the Roman Church, which claiming infallibility in FAITH and MORALS, aspires to rule the world with a rod of iron. "Faith and Morals" comprise religious belief and human thought and conduct. They comprise therefore all that is meant by LIBERTY. Democracy, as the source of government, is especially repudiated by the Church and every Catholic knows that the opinions of the Roman Catholic laity are treated with scant courtesy. On this last point the Encyclical says: "Note here, Venerable Brethren, the appearance already of that most pernicious doctrine which would make of the laity a factor of progress in the Church."

Whilst, therefore, there is a need of greater courtesy on the Protestant side, there is need of more respect for human freedom on the Roman Church side; when both agree to praise what is good in the other we may have less dogma, and we will have a sweeter Christianity and a happier state of affairs all round.

The last Papal Encyclical addressed to the Heirarchy only, and not to the faithful, is the clarion call of the Church to its forces to assemble. The issue now before the people of the world is the gravest in 600 years.

With respect for all parties,

Yours, etc.,
For LIBERTY."

NORWOOD MAN TOUCHED.

Met Two Bad Men Who Took His Watch and Money.

On Friday a resident of Norwood, arrived in the city without an overcoat or guardian. The Norwood gentleman left his hotel during the morning of Friday, to see a man in the north end of the city. En route he met two other men. The meeting resulted in his crossing the River Lethe. He remembers nothing until Friday afternoon when he was found by some children lying in the gully between the Normal School and the Margaret Cox Home for Girls. Two boys showed him the way to his hotel. The gentleman from Norwood deplores the loss of a gold watch and chain, and $15 in cash. He succeeded in getting back to the safer confines of Norwood.

Tell some deserving Rheumatic sufferer, that there is yet one simple way to certain relief. Get Dr. Shoop's book on Rheumatism and a free trial test. This book will make it entirely clear how Rheumatic pains are quickly killed by Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy—liquid or tablets. Send no money. The test is free. Surprise some disheartened sufferer by first getting for him the book from Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis.

THE NEW CHIEF.

Police Commissioners Choose Daniel Thompson of Woodstock.

On Saturday morning the Police Commissioners met and solved that vexed problem of who is to succeed the late G. I. Rossel, as chief of the Peterborough police force.

Their choice, evidently a wise and generally popular one, fell on Mr. Daniel Thompson, at present chief of the Woodstock police force. Chief Thompson, who is 37 years of age, has been chief at Woodstock for over four years, and before his appointment in Woodstock was 12 years on the London (Can.) force.

His credentials are excellent and he made a favorable impression with the Police Board when he appeared as an applicant. City Clerk Armstrong wired Chief Thompson of the commissioners' choice and the latter immediately sent a telegram of acceptance. He commences his duties July 1st. The salary will be $1,200.

OFF FOR CALIFORNIA.

Mr. Ernest Hanna, Proprietor of the Princess, Goes to Los Angeles.

Mr. Ernest Hanna, one of Peterborough's leading electricians, who has so successfully operated and owned the Princess moving picture theater during the past few months, will leave on the 14th proximo, for Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. Hanna has just closed a five years' contract with the Great White Sewing Machine Co. He will go to the Pacific Coast as the company's agent to "demonstrate" the magnificent auto cars this company manufacturers. Whilst his headquarters will be at Los Angles, Mr. Hanna will doubtless have to tour through the most of California. The offer made him involves a salary that would not be despised by the average bank manager. Whilst Peterborough loses a good citizen, Mr. Hanna's many friends will congratulate him on the new opening offered. The Princess theater is now being sought by several would-be owners. A gentleman from Buffalo, N.Y., Saturday made Mr. Hanna a good offer that the latter gentleman may accept. The latter gentleman may accept.

INWARD CLEANING.

Assures Outward Beauty.

No greater mistake than to imagine that regularity is a sign of good health—it is an advantage, but if your skin is murky and your spirits dull, it is the surest sign that nature is lagging a little. Now by lagging is meant that the liver is a little lazy—the kidneys weak—the stomach failing just a little in its work. It may be a little of all three.

Just one remedy—inward cleaning with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. This removes, so to speak, a cobweb here and there, a visible sign of careless inward house-cleaning.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills ensure beauty, give a dainty complexion, act upon the skin, upon your spirits. Some will ask, How do Dr. Hamilton's Pills Act? Why mildy, of course, but very effectively upon that great trio of health, the stomach, liver and kidneys.

To get that robust, hearty health, to have the sparkle of vigor, to look and feel always at your best, tone and regulate your system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Thousands find this advice good—so will you—refuse a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

SOLDIERS AT LODGE.

Free Masons Belonging to Local Garrison Attend Peterborough Lodge.

Friday evening was military night at Peterborough Lodge A.F. & A.M. This lodge was attended by Masons belonging to the local garrison, in uniform. The first degree was conferred. There were representatives present from the 57th Regiment, the Dragoons and the Battery. The local soldiery was under command of Bro. Lieut.-Col. Stevenson. A most enjoyable evening was spent by all present. The following brethren acted as the officers of the evening during the exemplification of the degree:—

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

New Curate for St. John's Appointed

Yesterday the large flag flew over the tower of St. John's church in honor of the presence of his lordship the Bishop of Toronto. Bishop Sweeney's presence in the city is due to the Sunday School convention which opens tonight. His lordship before beginning his sermon at the morning service announced it had been on his conscience for a long time that the rector of St. John's, Rev. Canon Davidson, with so large and rapidly growing a congregation had no assistant in his work. It was now his duty and pleasure to announce that he, the bishop, had at last appointed a curate for St. John's. The new curate, Rev. Mr. Carpenter, comes to Peterborough with very high recommendations from far-off Newfoundland.

His lordship spoke in complimentary terms of the splendid work done by rector and congregation of St. John's in connection with the chimes. He thought the chimes would be a public benefit and ring out for all in a way that would give pleasure to everybody in the city.

His text taken from St. Luke 1.. 66, "What manner of Child Shall this be?" descriptive of Zacharias and Elizabeth's child led to an eloquent, interesting and instructive address. Here, the speaker said was the child of aged parents brought up as it should be. In these modern days it is far too common for the future of children to be neglected by the way they are trained in the present. How could a child's future give promise for the best if the home surroundings are wrong? If profanity is heard by the child in its home the child could not but lose respect for things religious. To summarize, the splendid address given by his lordship was replete with good practical common sense and with good advice to parents as to management of their offspring.

In the evening his lordship conducted the services in St. Luke's church. Later on his lordship was the guest of Miss Lundy, Ashburnham, for supper.

A SECOND TERM FOR EARL GREY

HIS EXCELLENCY LEAVING FOR ENGLAND

Ottawa, June 4.—Great pressure is being brought to bear upon his excellency the Governor-General to remain for another term of four years as the King's representative in Canada, and from hints that have been dropped in official circles, it is considered that this extension is not an impossibility, though there are practically no precedents where the governor-general has exceeded the term of five years.

It was pointed out today that his excellency leaves on Tuesday next for England, and until a few days ago there was no word of his going back so soon. Therefore, the outcome of his excellency's visit to England will be watched with much interest.

NO WEDDING BELLS WILL RING FOR HER

PROSPECTIVE BRIDEGROOM CHANGED MIND AFTER PRESENTS WERE BOUGHT

St. Catharines, June 4.—Port Dalhousie was to have been the scene of a wedding on Monday next, but the ceremony has been called off. For some time one of the charming and popular young ladies of the village had been preparing for the event; invitations had been sent out and a large number of presents had been received at the house.

A few days ago, however, the intended bridegroom called at the house and made a confession. It was that he had changed his mind and was enamored of another. He is a prominent real estate agent of St. Catharines.

DEATH OF ALBERT HORSFIELD.

Well-Known Young Man Passed Away Saturday Evening.

The many friends of Albert Horsfield, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Horsfield, will regret to learn of his death which occurred at the resident of his parents, 470 Park street on Saturday evening. He had been ill for some time and his death was not unexpected.

The deceased was 25 years of age, and was a young man of a kindly disposition. Of an affable nature he made many warm friends, who with the sorrowing family will feel the loss keenly.

He was a member of the 57th Regiment, H. Co., and was also a member of St. John's congregation. He leaves to mourn his loss besides his sorrowing parents, five sisters and two brothers. The sisters are Mrs. E. Carveth of Toronto, Misses Edith, Jean, Agnes and Emily, and two brothers, Charles and Arthur, all of this city. The bereaved family will have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their sad loss.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at 2.15, service at St. John's church. Interment at Little Lake cemetery.

(Barrie papers please copy.)

MRS. BARRON'S DEATH.

Sudden Demise of Stratford Lady Who Has Relatives Here.

The friends and relatives here of Mrs. (Judge) Barron of Stratford, were shocked to hear that she had suddenly passed away at her home. It seems that whilst out in her garden Mrs. Barton was seized with a sudden fainting spell. She was assisted to the house but never recovered consciousness.

The deceased had quite a number of relatives living in Peterborough and Lindsay. She was a daughter of the late late Hartley Dunsford, for many years registrar of the County of Victoria, and agent of the Bank of Montreal, at Lindsay.

Besides the judge, two daughters and one son survive. Miss Ruby is at present on the Pacific Coast; Miss Alice at home, and Master John is a naval cadet on H.M.S. Canada at Halifax. Mrs. A. P. Poussette of this city is a sister of Judge Barron. She and Mr. Poussette left for Stratford on Saturday evening to attend the funeral.

WILL STAND BY CHIEF KOHLER

NINETY WITNESSES WILL SWEAR TO ALIBI ON IMPORTANT CHARGE.

He Was At a Theater, Accompanied By His Wife at Time He Was Alleged to Have Been Intoxicated.

Cleveland, June 4.—Further testimony was introduced at the hearing of charges against Chief of Police Kohler today that he had been drunk on several occasions. The defense will begin early in the week to put on its hundred or more witnesses. Attorney Boyd has received more than 90 responses from men and women who were at the opera house the night of March 14th, and who will testify that Kohler was in the theater with his wife that evening, and was not intoxicated on the streets.

A few of the citizens who will testify on behalf of the chief as to his character, general conditions in Cleveland for the last seven years, and in refutation of charges, will be Police Judge McGannon, William McLaughlin of Pickands, Mather & Company; R. H. York, D. C. McIntyre, Thomas Newman, Charles W. Toland, Dr. J. G. Kipp, A. F. Harts, John Leicht, vice-president of the Cleveland-Sandusky Brewing Co and former business associate of the mayor. Mrs. Leicht, Adolph Haas, of the Board of Elections, and Mrs. Haas, Ernest Reaugh, of the Reaugh Construction Company, Attorney Ralph Linder, George A. H. Gardiner, manager of the opera house, and Lan Wertheimer.

Dr. J. G. Kipp, who came from a restaurant near Euclid Avenue and E. 105th street on the night Kohler was visiting the Brandts in the Haddam, will say among other things that the chief was not intoxicated when he entered the automobile. Before he saw Kohler come out, he saw Patrolman Elliott taking the number of the auto.

If You Lived in Montreal

you could come and see the wonderful Cartwright Automatic Press, which is destined to revolutionize the job-printing world, and make money for the shareholders of the Company, as other great inventions, like the Linotype and Telephone, have done.

But, if you cannot call and see the Press itself, you can do as many other investors are doing,—you can read the interesting Prospectus and our little booklet, entitled "Expert Opinions", which gives some adequate idea of this great invention.

You will note when you read the literature we send you, how Publishers, Printers, and all classes of men connected with the printing business—men who thoroughly understand the real merit and value of such an invention—are the most enthusiastic endorsers of the Press, and what is still more important, they are buyers of both the presses and the shares.

Danish Boat on Rocks in Perilous Position

One Thousand People on Beard the Liner United States which is in a Bad Position

Copenhagen June 4.—With 1,000 passengers aboard, the Danish Atlantic liner United States went ashore early today in Christian Sand Fjord, Norway. The first advices stated that she was leaking badly and lay in a bad position on the rocks.

PUMPS SET GOING.

Capt. Wulff made immediate investigation after the passengers had been quieted and ordered the pumps set to work. Distress signals were sent up calling for aid from the steamers in the vicinity. News of the disaster was immediately flashed from Christian Sand to other ports and many steamers were directed by wireless to change their course for the work of rescue.

INCREASE THE DANGER.

Treacherous currents about the Fjord increased the vessel's danger. It is not yet known whether it will be possible to save her. While news of the liner's disaster reached Christian Sand, special services for the passengers' safety were said in the Cathedral of the town. Great crowd went out to watch the rescue work from shore. A flotilla of fishing boats put out as soon as the word was received of the accident.

THROWN FROM BERTHS.

The vessel struck today while the passengers were asleep, according to the advices received here. Many were thrown from the'r berths and in a few minutes the decks were crowded with apanic-stricken crowd. The heroism of the officers and crew, aided by a few of the passengers, prevented the panic from spreading into a mad fight.

Public Service of Reparation Held

Montreal, June 5.—A very interesting ceremony called "Reparation", took place yesterday at the Roman Catholic church of St. Michael's, where some people broke open the tabernacle, and stealing the host, scattered it all over the floor of the church. All the people of St. Michael's were present to make public reparation for the indignity, and there was also a great number of Catholics from all over the city.

The portions of the ritual providing for such a public ceremony of reparation are probably the most touching in all the Catholic ceremonial. Catholics, believing as they do in the real presence of Christ in the blessed sacrament, consider the church is the real center of the parish.

The ceremony proper consisted of the singing of the psalm "Miserere Mei Deus," as well as of public prayers of reparation. These were followed by the sermon and imparting of benediction.

AN INSULT TO THE WHOLE WORLD

A VIOLENT PROTEST AGAINST ROOSEVELT

Geneva, Switzerland, June 4.—The Young Egyptian Committee today issued a violent protest against the sentiments expressed by Theodore Roosevelt in his speech at the Guild Hall in London, and in which the former president of the United States expressed the opinion that Great Britain should show a firmer hand in Egypt.

The committee declares that the speech was an insult not only to Europe and Egypt, but to the whole civilized world.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Wants to Retain the Present Bell in St. John's Church.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

I see that Mr. P. J. Lotz, representing the Meneely Bell Co., of Troy, N.Y., offers to allow $300 for the present bell of St. John's church, should the Chimes Committee give him their order. Cannot the present bell be retained? Go where you may, where can you hear a bell in any church tower with the tone of St. John's present bell. The chimes are much to be desired, but try and keep the old bell. Its tone may be simulated or even equalled but it certainly cannot be excelled.

TO MEET THIS MONTH.

Baptists of Peterborough Arrange Interesting Series of Programs.

A very interesting convention will meet in Peterborough this month, when the Peterborough Association of Baptist churches will assemble at Park St. Baptist church on the 15th, 16th and 17th, to transact the years business. The sessions will be all open to the public, morning, afternoon and evening. Many prominent speakers will be in attendance.

The program for the various meetings is a very interesting one. It includes addresses by leading clergy of the district and also splendid musical selections.

Pain anywhere stopped in 20 minutes sure with one of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. The formula is on the 25-cent box. Ask your Doctor or Druggist about this formula! Stops womanly pains, headache Racine, Wis., for free trial to prove value. Sold by all dealers.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days' test will surely tell. Try it once and see! Sold by all dealers.

NERVILINE.

Fifty years ago Nerviline was used from coast to coast and in thousands of homes this treaty liniment served the entire family, cured all their minor ills and kept the doctor's bill small. Today Nerviline still holds first rank in Canada among pain-relieving remedies — scarcely a home you can find that doesn't use it.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 4398

From Port Hope, Ont., Mr. W. T. Greenway, of the Guide newspaper staff, writes: "For twenty years we have used Nerviline in our home, and not for the world would we be without it. As a remedy for all pain, earache, toothache, cramps, headache and disordered stomach, I know of no preparation so useful and quick to relieve as Nerviline."

Let every mother give Nerviline a trial; it's good for children, good for old folks—you can rub it on as a liniment or take it internally.

Wherever ther is pain, Nerviline will ease it. Refuse anything but Nerviline, 25c. per bottle, five for $1.00, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

REVOLUTIONAL HISTORY.

There is complaint in Boston of a declining patriotism and a lack of interest in historic monuments. Of late years there has been a tendency to re-write the history of the revolution, and to do justice to England and to those Americans who stood by England. But surely it ought to be possible to see history in its right proportions without losing interest in the birth of a nation.

In the perios immediately following the Revolution it was natural that the event should be represented as the result of a violent quarrel. England felt that she had suffered a loss and that a great nation had been severed. The revolting Americans rejoiced in their triumph over a powerful nation. Much was made of the grievances of the colonists, and they were taught to believe that they had freed themselves from the grip of a tryant. The Fourth of July was an occasion for heated rhetoric, for fiery denunciations of George the Third and his ministers.

But now the event is viewed in a different light. The American colonists received not worse, but far better treatment than the colonists of any other nation. They enjoyed more substantial free dom than the people of England itself. The land itself. The commercial restrictions to which they were subjected was the natural products of an age of restriction. The attempt to tax the colonies was not an act of cruel oppression, but a piece of pedantry and parish politics.

But the birth of a nation, and especially the birth of a republic, was a great event in the world's history, worthy of being nobly remembered. America could not have been long governed from England. Its population was destined soon to exceed that of England. Communication was slow. It was many years before the age of steamboats and telegraph The working out of a scheme of Imperial federation would therefore have been exceedingly difficult. It must be remembered that the idea of colonial self-government, combined with Imperial unity, was not developed until seventy years after the revolution, and that in the case of Canada, many British statesmen believed that the two things were incompatible.

In course of time we may see the American revolution commemorated not as an act of destructive violence, but as a creation, not as the outcome of a quarrel, but as a stage in the evolution of free institutions. All humanity is the gainer because the experiment of republican government has been worked upon a vast scale, and its faults as well as its merits displayed. The advocates of a sane Fourth of July should not content tent themselves with denouncing fire crackers. They should strive to make the commemoration worthy of an event of world-wide importance.

A PEACE PROJECT.

A project mooted since the death of King Edward is fraught with world wide consequences if it should but happen to come to realization. It is announced from London that some good man, imbued with the King Edward peace spirit, has in his mind's eye the formation of a universal King Edward peace association—such an association as will be officered by the rulers of the world's greatest nations, and that will find its membership among the great and powerful of all countries—from among those who were the guests of honor at the funeral of Great Britain's King and who, by their presence, declared their wish to pay tribute to this man of peace. It is even hinted that Emperor William of Germany may be the first president of the association.

The world may well pray that such a project may be the outcome of the universal sorrow at the death of the Peacemaker, says the Guelph Herald. It would indeed prove no emmty memorial to the late King, and the blessing of a mightier one than even he assuredly rests upon it. With Emperor William at its head verily verily something marvellous in transition will have been accomplished.

METERING THE COW.

That nobly necessary animal, the cow, is no longer to be allowed to have her own sweet whey about her milk production. A record book which is now being furnished by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa makes it incumbent upon the cow either to furnish good milk and plenty of it, or quit. It is, in a word, a cow meter, and quite as useful to the farmer as the gas meter, the water meter, and the speed meter to the city man.

One of these books will keep the record of twenty cows for one year. It is designed to make unpopular the animal who insists upon eating her head off without giving a quid pro quo, or a cud pro quo, or words to that effect. It enables the farmer to keep track of the amount and quality of her milk, and what is quite as important, of the amount and quality of her feed, and the comparative cost of both. Without desiring in the least to hurt the bovine feelings of any well meaning animal, it may safely be said that certain veracious cows are going to be put to blush by these meter-books.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

MARK TWAIN AND HIS THEORY OF LIFE.

Mark Twain is dead; but some one has unearthed a book which is said to have been written by him and of which only two hundred and fifty copies were issued in its first and only edition. The New York Times says it is genuine, though Mr. Clemmt's friends have so far not come forward to say that they had ever heard him talk of it. Possibly the unearthing of the work may be some thing like the late discovery of the North Pole—with less truth than money in it. The title of the book is "What is Man?" and certainly the author of it imbeds humanity in rather a dismal doctrine concerning its origin and growth. As the Times says: "The doctrine of the book is not an inspiring doctrine. It takes the glory out of man. It takes the pride out of him, it takes the heroism out of him, it denies him all personal credit, all applause. It not only degrades him to a machine, but allows him no control over the machine; makes a mere coffee mill out of him, and neither permits him to supply the coffee nor turn the crank; his sole and piteously humble function being to grind coarse or fine, according to his make, outside impulses doing all the rest."

In a word, the book makes everything of environment. And, in dealing with Adam and Shakespeare, as examples, the author says man is merely a machine acted upon by his environment. The fruit from the tree of knowledge from without was what brought Adam and Eve to learn that it was immodest to go about without clothing. If Shakespeare had been born and bred on a barren rock in the ocean he would have produced nothing, Shakespeare, like Adam and every other man that has been, was merely a machine—not a sewing machine like the very ordinary man, but a marvellous Gobelin loom, which automatically turned out that pictured and gorgeous fabric that still compels the astonishment of the world. The book also tells us that pleasure is the motive power of this machine called man, and winds up with this pleading: — "Diligently train your ideals upward toward a summit where you will find your chiefest pleasure in conduct which, while contenting you, will be sure to confer benefits upon your neighbor and the community."

Philosophy makes out that we make our own environment and then our environment turns around and makes or unmakes us; and possibly Mr. Clements, when he had got so far in his study of philosophy began to long to formulate a philosophy of his own, and hence wrote this book entitled "What is Man?" It is more likely, however, that some novice has thought to make money out of his first effort to write a booklet, and has been able to attach Mark Twain's name to it as its author to make it sell. It is an author's name nowadays that is accepted by the publisher, not what he says. Ned long ago, a young author, disgusted at the publisher's "returned with thanks" in the case of his own handwriting Milton's "Lycidas" and sent it to eleven publishers, one after the other, with his own name signed, and had the extreme gratification of having it returned, as his own had been. We will now have to wait until we learn whether the New Yorks Times has again been taken in as it once was in the matter of ex-President Cleveland's supposition interview reported after his death, and as its London namesake was in the case of the Parnell letters. We may be wrong in our surmise; though if we be, the examination of the problem "What is Man?" by the great humorist will hardly add to his fame, as a student of human nature as to its origin or growth.

THE MARRIAGE MONTH.

Enter June, the month of weddings upon which subject much nonsense has been written by well meaning persons who would enjoy a funeral solemnity upon those taking part in a marriage celebration. There can be no doubt but that the obligations undertaken by the contracting parties are solemn enough, but the union for life of "two souls with but a single thought," is an occasion for rejoicing rather than sorrow. To most young people the ceremony is somewhat of an ordeal. It is made the harder when the bridal party is surrounded by faces as long as though the couple were the victims of some cruel fate. It is made the easier by the good-natured jollity of friends who express their confidence in the future of the bride and groom by smiles rather than tears.

It is quite true that some wedding pranks have been carried too far, but if good taste and moderation are exercised by the wedding party, there should be but little objection to the innocent confetti-throwing and other means of congratulating the newlyweds which are generally adopted. On the whole, these things relieve the strain of what may easily be made a trying proceeding for those immediately concerned. Since the sensible substitution of confetti for rice, the dangerous element in marriage celebrations has been greatly removed.

Peterborough is enjoying a season even more than usually prosperous, and the probability therefore is that June will see the city's marriage record eclipsed. It will be in the grey days of fall, however, that the crucial test of the happiness of the month's honeymooners will come when they have settled down in their homes and are accommodating themselves to the humdrum duties of their life together. The happy marriage is altogether more usual than the news columns might lead one to think, for the unhappily wedded are generally the ones who take the road to publicity. Canadian couple who have chosen sanely and well have no reason to expect other outcome to their experiment than that which the fairy tales accord to the good prince and the beautiful princess: "And so they lived happily ever afterwards."

THE POWERS AND PERSIA.

Russia and Great Britain were in diplomatic straits ten years ago over the suzerainty of Persia; and, but for the interruption of the Russo-Japanse war, there might have been open rupture between the two powers. As it is, the influence in Persia is divided between Russia and Great Britain; and the German diplomats are sounding an alarm over the conditions of affairs, in which Germany has no share in the monopolization of all economic and financial opportunities in the land of the Xerxes. Emperor William has been induced to take a stand on the question. It is alleged that the Russo-British entente has virtually shut the Persian door of trading opportunities against Germany. This is not in line with Germany's international aggrandisement; and the way is seemingly being prepared to protect the prestige of Germany as a power to be consulted in arriving at such arrangements even in an isloated eastern realm. Meatime, the diplomats are busy over the problem, and very much depends on the forbearance of the Emperor, which could nearly always be depended upon as a forwarding of peace, during the latter lifetime of his uncle, the King of England. In 1908, the triple alliance of Britain, Russia and France was arranged, over the annexation of Bossia and Herzovina, as pendacies of Austria. This was mainly brought about through the interventions of Germany; and now the world may have to witness the breaking up of the entente between Britain and Russia over Persian affairs by a like intervention on the part of Emperor William.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days' test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A glance at the society columns will convince the most skeptical that the late spring has not interferred with the marriage crop at any rate.

Montreal police paid no attention to the statement of an aged man, arrested as a drunk, when he said he had been shot. After spending the night in a cell it transpired that he had a bullet in his head and may not live. Constables cannot be too careful in ascertaining the real condition of those whom they arrest. It is easy to acquire the habit of considering that everyone who is delirious on the street is drunk.

Col. Sam Hughes knows not whether to be elated or mournful. General French has praised his pet rifle, and the Board of Trade has condemned his pet ozone plant.

A Call From Oregon
Opportunitiesin the Far West

The greatest industrial activity in this country is now centered in Oregon. Two of the biggest railroadsystems in the U. S., with intense rivalry, are pushing branch lines into the remote portions of this State, and an exodus from the East is on in the occupation of this the LAST FRONTIER ON THE CONTINENT. Fortunes will be made here THIS YEAR—NEXT YEAR and EVERY YEAR for the next decade.

Our valleys are the most fertile in the world and irrigation projects are converting the bordering hillsides into gardens. Orchards lands are leaping upward in price and the ad-vance has only started. Water from mountain streams is the purest, timber the finest and climate the most perfect in Uncle Sam's domain. Power plants are springing up along the channels of silvery torrents to develop electrical energy for mines and mills and interburban railways. Fish abound in the rivers, game in the forests and health and joy in the atmosphere. There are no cyclones here or pestiferous insects to endanger life, or make it a burden.

I want Eastern connections and help, financial and otherwise, to seize opportunities that surround this picturesque city of Baker. The returns will be out of all proportion to the help extended. The opportunities are along the lines of vegetable fruit, hay, grain, stock, timber, and mineral lands. There are fortunes in all these. Some mines in this vicinity have record outputs in gold, running into the millions. Yet the surface, overlying the mineral depositsof Baker County, has hardly been scratched.

On a ledge of free gold bearing quartz two miles in length I made a test of 100 tons of ore taken at a depth of only a hundred feet and got over $3000.00 out of it. The mint returns passed through the Citizen's National Bank here.

Among other things, I need money, right now, to begin the MANUFACTURE OF GOLD out of this immense ore body. The shares of the Timber Canyon Mines Company, which OWNS this property, and of which I am secretary have an intrinsic value of at least 50 cents a share based on a conservative valuation of the property and the amount of stock issued.

I will deliver on order, with draft attached, up to 50,000 shares of this stock at 25 cents a share, NET. The full amount of the purchase price will go back in dividends inside of 18 months. Take a block of this as a starter, and get in stepwith this Eldorado of the West. If there is anything else out here that I can do for you, or you can do for me,—WRITE ME.

Yours for business, and MONEY for both of us,

LIBERALS ALARMED AT EFFECT OF ROOSEVELT'S SPEECH ON EGYPT.

More Caustic Comments—Hearst Calls Ex-President a "Tin Soldier" and Tells Him He Should Hurry Back Home.

London, June 1.—Government officials and members of the English Cabinet are today convinced that Col. Theodore Roosevelt's speech yesterday at Guild Hall, in which he rebuked England's administration of affairs in Egypt, will greatly increase the difficulty of dealing with the delicate political situation that confronts England in Egypt.

Owing to the semi-official character of Roosevelt's visit, by reason of his appointment by President Taft to represent the United States at the funeral of King Edward, English officialdom will make no comment for publication regarding the speech But nothing could be plainer than that the leading officials fear that Roosevelt's utterances will act as a fuse that will yet touch off an upheaval in Anglo-Egyptian relations.

Today's criticisms of Roosevelt increased in severity. The Evening Star probably takes the hardest rap at him. "Roosevelt has long been unaccustomed to being spoken to plainly," it says, 'He has long been accustomed to living in a perfect stew of eulogy, but the temptation is irresistible to tell him that he is guilty of a grave offence against the laws binding host and guest, and against the laws that governed the White House when he was its occupant. The fact that his predecessor was assassinated should have made him most careful in his comments regarding the assassination of Boutros Pasha, the Egyptian premier."

MUDDLED AND BOYISH.

The Daily Graphic reminds the colonel that "even Socrates was poisoned for giving too much advice."

The Manchester Guardian voices a common criticism when it says that "Roosevelt's statements are based on misleading evidence." It terms his views "muddled and boyish."

"The speech was well meant, but it was wholly unnecessary, and is calculated to further complicate the difficult problem in Egypt," says the Westminster Gazette.

Even the Evening Standard, a Conservative paper, after referring in a friendly tone to Roosevelt, declares "laying of hands on England's private political subjects seems at first glance a social crime little short of sacrilige."

That Roosevelt violated the proprieties of the occasion nearly everyone concedes even his friends not defending him on this charge. To receive at one moment the greatest honor that the city could confer, and in the next to arraign the English people for their maladministration of Egyptian affairs, was so unusual that the people have not yet fully recovered their composure.

The Pall Mall Gazette refers to this feature of the case by saying "that Roosevelt prefers the realities to the proprieties."

SOME EGG-SUCKING.

The Globe treats the speech in jocular vein and agrees with Roosevelt. "Grandmamma does not resent instruction in egg-sucking," it says, "but she, herself, is not entirely unfamiliar with the accomplishment." This is suggested by the old English saying, "Don't teach your grandmother to suck eggs."

OUTRAGED ALL CONVENTIONS.

The Chronicle considers Roosevelt's outspokenness a compliment to Anglo-American solidarity, and advises England to take no offence, "even though the speech did outrage every conventional canon of official international propriety.

The real view of Roosevelt, however, is found in the streets, where the people are freed from the restrictions that hedge the government officials and influence the press utterances. Here the comment is generally and emphatically that Roosevelt not only went beyond the bounds of propriety but that he touched on a subject that was none of his business. If the street opinions are a criterion Roosevelt is far less a popular idol today than he was 24 hours ago.

TEDDY DOESN'T CARE.

Whether England liked the speech apparently made no difference to Roosevelt today for he was lunching about in his usual jovial mood. He was guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Irish Nationalist members of Parliament.

Ready to Race at Montreal.

Montreal, June 3.—The annual spring meeting of the Montreal Jockey Club begins at the Blyue Bonnets course tomorrow afternoon and the Windsor Hotel Cup race, with its guaranteed value of nearly $2,000 is the chief attraction. This rich prize will bring to the post some of the best 3-year-olds that will race in Canada this year, and public interest in the result is general.

The meeting at the Blue-Bonnets track will last seven days. The program provides for only four stake events, but to offset this cutting of the stakes there will be seven races carded each day of the meeting, instead of six as heretofore, and many of the overnight events will have an added value of $500, and none will be less than $400. There will also be several handicaps, with an added value of $600 and $500. The stables at the track are well filled with fast horses from many parts of Canada and the United States and all indications point to a successful meeting.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!

Now you would not willingly pay for that which was worthless—would you?

Then why pay for something you could obtain first proved to you to be entirely worthless?

Positively ignoring what Dr. Shoop's remedies can do for the sick, I say to you I will not ask you to pay unless health first returns. And I put my statement in writing and signed and sealed to your order to help. No pay—my contract.

I positively pledge to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is to either make you well and strong free if it fails". Let others do the same or else pass their prescriptions by.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative for a few days and note the immediate benefit. Then, when well and strong, if you can say you have been benefited, pay me what you think it is worth. Not a penny if you say no. Is that fair? Isn't it worth a trial on that basis? You decide. You are the one to decide. You have the money. You have the health. You have the say. I am willing to leave it entirely with you

AT the sound of steps in the jail corridor and the harsh grating of the key in the lock, Harry rose hastily from the iron cot whereon he had been sitting and took a step forward.

"Jessica!" he exclaimed.

She came toward him, her breath hurried, her cheek pale. Tom Felder's face was at her shoulder. "I have a little matter to attend to in the office," he said, nodding to Harry. "I shall wait for you there, Miss Holme."

She thanked him with a grateful look, and as he vanished, Harry took her hand and kissed it. He longed to take her in his arms.

"I heard of it only at noon," she began, her voice uncertain. "I was afraid they would not let me see you, so I went to Mr. Felder. They were saying on the street that he had offered to defend you."

"I had not been here an hour when he came," he said.

"I know you have no money," she went on. "I know what you did with the gold you found. And I have begged him to let me pay for any other counsel he will name. I have not told him—what I am to you, but I have told him that I am far from poor and that nothing counts beside your life. He says you have forbidden him to do this—forbidden him to allow any help from any one. Hugh, Hugh! Why do you do this? The money should be yours, not mine, for it was your father's! It is yours, for I am your wife!"

He kissed her hand again without answering.

"Haven't I a right now to be at your side? May't I tell them?"

He shook his head. "Not yet, Jessica."

"I must obey you," she said, with a wan smile, "yet I would share your shame as proudly as your glory! You are thinking me weak and despicable, perhaps, because I wanted you to go away. But women are not men, and I—I love you so, Hugh!"

"I think you are all that is brave and good," he protested.

"I want you to believe," she went on, "that I knew you had done no murder if an angel from heaven had come to declare it I would not have believed it I only want now to understand."

"What do you not understand?" he asked gently.

She half turned toward the door as she said, in a lower key: "After you had gone many things came back to me that seemed strange—something curious in your manner. You had not seemed wholly surprised when I told you you were accused. Why did you shut the cabin door and speak so low? Was there any one else there when I came?"

He averted his face, but he did not answer. She was treading on near ground.

"My horse came back this afternoon," she continued. "He had been ridden hard in the night, and his flanks were cut cruelly with a whip. You did not use him, but some one did."

She waited a moment. Still he made no reply.

"I want to ask you," she said abruptly, "do you know who killed Dr. Moreau?"

His blood chilled at the question. He looked down at her speechless. "You must let me speak," she said. "You won't answer that. Then you do know who really did it. Oh, I have thought so much since last night! For some reason you are shielding him. Was it the man who was in the cabin—who rode my horse? If he is guilty, why do you help him off and so make yourself partly guilty? The whole town believes you are guilty—I see it in all their faces. They are sorry, many of them, for they don't hate you as they did, but they think you did it—even Mr Felder, though I have told him what I suspect and though he is working now to defend you!"

"Jessica," he urged, "you must trust me and have faith in me. I know it is hard, but I can't explain to you! I can't tell you—yet—why I do as I am doing, but you must believe that I am right."

"You speak as if you were sorry for me," she said, "and not for yourself. Is it because you know you are not in real danger—that you know the truth must come out, only you can't tell it yourself or tell me either? Is that it?"

"It is not that, Jessica," he said gravely, "yet you must not fear for me—for my life. Try to believe me when I say that some time you will understand and know that I did only what I must."

"Will that be soon?" she asked.

"I think it may be soon," he answered.

Her face lighted. The puzzle and dread lifted. "Oh, then," she said—"oh, then, I shall not be afraid. I cannot share your thoughts nor your secret, and I must rebel at that. You mustn't blame me—I wouldn't be a woman if I did not—but I love you more than all the world, and I shall believe that you know best, Hugh," she added softly, "do you know that—you haven't kissed me?"

Before her upturned, pleading eyes and trembling lips the iron of his purpose bent to the man in him, and he took her into his arms.

* * * * * * *

A frosty gloom was over the city of Anniston, moon and stars hidden by a cloudy sky, from which a light snow the first of the season, was sifting down. The streets were asleep. Only occasional belated pedestrians were to be seen in the chilly air. These saw a man, his face muffled from the snowflakes, pass hurriedly toward the fountained square, from whose steeple 2 o'clock was just striking. The wayfarer skirted the square, keeping in cover of the houses as though avoiding chance observation, till he stood on the pavement of a Gothic chapel fronting the open space.

On the night of his flight from Smoky Mountain, Hugh had ridden hard till dawn, abandoning the horse to find its way back as best it might. He had slept through the next day. For two days after his arrival he had hung about outside the town in a fever of impatience, for, though he had readily ascertained that the premises were unoccupied, the first night he had been frightened away by the too zealous scrutiny of a policeman, and on the next he had been unable to force the door. That morning he had secured a skeleton key, and now the weather was propitious for his purpose.

After a moment's reconnoitering he scaled the frost fretted iron palings and gained the shelter of the porch. He tried the key anxiously. To his relief, it fitted. Another minute and he stood in the study, the door locked behind him, his veins beating with excitement.

Crouching down before the safe, he took from his pocket the paper upon which was written the combination.

The match scorched his fingers, and he lighted another and began to turn

"You speak as if you were sorry for me."

the knob. The lock bore both figures and letters in concentric rings, and he saw that the seven figures Harry had written formed a word, Hugh dropped the match with a smothered exclamation, for the word was Jessica! So Harry really had loved her in the old days! He swung the massive door wide and took out the canvas bag with the thousand dollars. With this and the ruby ring—it must easily be worth as much again—he could put the round world between himself and capture.

He closed the safe and with the bag of coin in his hand groped his way to the door of the chapel. It was less dark there, for the snow was making a white night outside, and the stained glass cast a wan glimmer across the aisles. He greatly needed sleep, and tonight in the open that was out of the question. He could gain several hours' rest where he was and still get away before daybreak. He drew together the altar cushions and lay down, the canvas bag beside him, but he was cold, and at length he rose and went into the vestry for a surplice. He wrapped this about him, and, lighting a cigarette, lay down again. He was very tired, and in a few minutes he was sleeping heavily.

The last half consumed cigarette dropped from his relaxing fingers to the cushion, where it made a smoldering nest of fire. A tiny tongue of flame caught the edge of a wall hanging, ran up to the dry oaken rafters and speedily ignited them. In fifteen minutes the interior of the chapel was a mass of flame, and Hugh woke gasping and bewildered.

With a cry of alarm he sprang to his feet, seized the bag of coin and ran to the door of the study. In his haste he stumbled against it, and the dead lock snapped to. He was a prisoner now, or he had left the skeleton key in the inside of the outer door. Clutching his treasure, he ran to the main entrance. It was fast. He tried the smaller windows. Iron bars were set across them.

He made shift to wrap the surplice about his mouth against the stifling smoke and fiery vapors. The bag dropped from his hand, and the gold rolled about the floor. He stooped and clutched a handful of the coins and crammed them into his pocket. Was he to die after all, like this, caught like a rat in a trap?

Uttering a hoarse cry, with the strength of despair, Hugh wrenched a pew from the floor and made of it a ladder to reach the rose window. Mounting this, he beat frantically with his fist upon the painted glass. The crystal shivered beneath the blows and clinging to the iron supports, his beard burned to the skin, he set his face to the aperture and drew a gulping breath of the sweet, cold air. In his agony, with that fiery hell openin' beneath him, he could see the massed people watching from the safety that was no near.

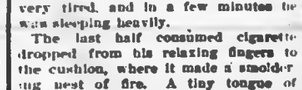
"Look! Look!" The sudden cry went up, and a thrill of awe ran through the crowd. The glass Hugh had shattered had formed the face of the penitent thief in the window design, and his outstretched arms filled those of the figure. It was as though by some ghastly miracle the painted features had suddenly sprung into life, the haggard eyes opened in appeal.

All at once there came a burst of warning. The wall opened outward, tottered and fell.

Then it was that they saw the writhing figure, tangled in the twisted lead bars of the wrecked rose window. Shielding their faces from the unendurable heat, they reached and bore it to safety, laying it on the crisp, snowy grass and tearing off the singed and smoking ministerial robes.

Judge Conwell was one of those in the flaring confusion he leaned over the figure. The gleam of the ruby ring on the finger caught his eye. He bent forward to look into the drawn and distorted face.

"Good God!" he said. "It's Harry Sanderson!"



Chapter 27

IN communities such as Smoky Mountain the law moves with fateful rapidity. Harry had been formally arraigned the second morning after his self surrender and had pleaded not guilty. The grand jury was in session—indeed, had about finished its labors—and there had been no reason for delay. All necessary witnesses for the state were on the ground, and Felder for his part had no others to summon. So that when Dr. Brent one keen forenoon swung himself off a Pullman at

Get the Choice Oranges of Our 5,000 Groves

We pick, pack and ship 60% of the California Orange crop. These are of varying grades. The choicest selections are packed under the "Sunkist" label. To get the finest oranges you must insist on fruit that is wrapped in tissue paper with the word "Sunkist" printed thereon.

"Sunkist" Navel Oranges Are Seedless

They are delightfully sweet, juicy and seedless. They are firm, thin skinned and deep tinted.

"Sunkist" oranges and lemons are picked by gloved hands, wrapped in "Sunkist" tissue paper, packed carefully so as to eliminate chances of becoming bruised or soft. No bruised fruit or fruit that falls to the ground is put in a "Sunkist" wrapper.

Look for "Sunkist" on the wrapper. Ask your dealer for oranges and lemons with "Sunkist" label on the tissue paper wrapper. Oranges and lemons without "Sunkist" wrappers are not "Sunkist" brand. Be sure you get oranges and lemons in their original "Sunkist" wrappers.

THE TOWER INSPECTED.

Expert Decides That Small Alterations are Necessary for Chimes.

Saturday morning some of the local reporters gathered at St. John's church tower. Mr. F. P. Lotz, secretary of Messrs. Meneely & Company, bell manufacturers, of New York State, examined the tower of this grand old sacred edifice, to see whether the tower would stand the weight and vibration of the proposed chime of bells. Mr. Lotz, who is an expert in such matters, decided that some alterations will have to be made to the tower at acost not exceeding $150. The present floor have to be lowered some distance.

The proposed chimes, consisting of eleven bells, will begin at 2,500 pounds and vary down to 270 pounds.

They would be operated by ropes reaching to the second floor and the system by means of which the different notes are struck is simple, each rope having a number to correspond with a note. The manufacturers use a broams hammer, believing that the tone is improved.

A tickling or dry cough can be quickly loosened with Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. No opium, no chloroform, nothing unsafe or harsh. Sold by all dealers.

CITY FATHERS MAKE A RECORD IN THE WAY OF BREVITY

A LARGE AMOUNT OF BUSINESS TRANSACTED IN AN HOUR AND A HALF'S REGULAR MONTHLY SESSION.

Council Passes Bylaw Authorizing the Execution of a Lease Between the Water Commissioners and the C.G.E. for the Water Works Dam.

The City Council met in regular monthly session last night, all the members present. A big batch of business was pushed through in an hour and a half.

A number of communications and petitions for public improvements, were referred to the committees to which they belong.

The council were asked by Mr. F. R. J. Mitchell and others to have steps taken to abate an alleged nuisance from a saw mill on the creek at Donegal street. This was sent to the Legal Committee.

A letter from Queen Alexandra, expressed her majesty's sincere thanks for the sympathy extended her by this city in her recent bereavement.

DOG FEES TO BE $2 AND $1.

Ald. Bradburn presented the Committee of the Whole's report, which was adopted with the exception of a clause recommending the fees for dogs to be $5 and $3, after July 1st The solicitor had advised his worship that such fees would be illegal according to statute. The fees will, therefore reamin in the amended by-law at the old schedule of $2 and $1.

BOARD OF WORKS.

Ald. Hicks presented the Board of Works' report, the full text of which has previously been published.

MANUFACTURERS' COMMITTEE REPORT.

Ald. Gillespie presented the following:

Gentlemen, — Your Manufacturers' Committee beg leave to report that they have conferred with Messrs. B. F. Ackerman, Son, & Co., in regard to an enlargment of their factory.

We recommend that upon B. F. Ackerman, Son & Co., purchasing fifty feet additional land adjoining their factory on George street and making such additions to their factory, at a cost of not less than $8,000, as will enable them to employ from fifty to seventy-five additional hands that they be given a fixed assessment of $15,000 for ten years for municipal purposes and that the council consent to a spur being constructed from the Canadian Pacific Railway across Dalhousie street east of the creek on the usual terms.

The report was adopted as read.

FINANCE REPORT.

The report of Finance Minister Bradburn, including a recommendation for the payment of a number of accounts, passed council.

PROPERTY REPORT.

Ald. Duncan's report of the Property Committee's monthly business as previously published, was adopted as read. The clauses not previously published are as follows:

We ask the Peterborough Water Commissioners to lay the necessary main and service for the isolation hospital as was arranged last year they would do without charge.

We recommend that the Peterborough City Trust be requested to set aside three acres of land on the Hilliard Farm on the hill at the north boundary for the isolation hospital, and that the chairman and architect be authorized to lay out the site and to engage a surveyor for that purpose if required.

We recommend that the matter of the government reserve and the property of Edward Green be referred to the Board of Works.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT.

Ald Morgan's report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee was adopted. The committee will take up the matter of moving a light near Spaulding's Bay to a more advantageous position.

THE HOUSE OF REFUGE.

Ald. Morgan reported as follows:

Gentlemen,—Your Special Committee appointed in regard to the House of Refuge beg leave to report that they have been informed by the Peterborough Protestant Home that the home would erect a building to cost not less than $20,000 and furnish it if the city would give $10,000 and a site and agree to levy a rate on the Protestant ratepayers sufficient to maintain the home and all the inmates sent to it by the Charity Board.

We reccomend that the chairman of this committee and Ald. Bradburn interview Mr. T. F. Bradburn, M.P.P., in regard to a date for an interview with the Ontario Government with respect to the matter,and that the members of this committee a representative of the Peterborough Protestant Home and the Rev. Father McColl be appointed to wait on the government and that the expenses of the deputation be paid.

The report was adopted.

BYLAWS.

Bylaws authorizing the construction of sidewalks and sewers passed their several readings.

The bylaw to provide for the borrowing of $30,000 to pay for the construction of a sewerage and drainage system in the south-western portion of the city was read and passed

A bylaw authorizing an increase of a hundred dollars each in the salaries of Plumbing Inspector Thompson and Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine,the city engineer's clerk, said increases to date from June 1st last, passed its several readings.

NEW DOG BYLAW.

A new bylaw to provide for restraining the running at large of dogs passed its several readings.The fees remain at $2 and $1, while the leash clause in the old bylaw has been eliminated. However any dog running at large may be captured, captured, and empounded, and if not redeemed or sold within 48 hours, said dog will be hestroyed. Also any dangerous dog or canines that have attacked any person, or are in the habit of doing damage to citizens' property and running after horses and vehicles, may not be retained by their owners.

ISOLATION HOSPITAL.

Ald. Duncan fathered a bylaw to authorize the execution of contracts for the erection, heating, plumbing and wiring of an isolation hospital, which passed its several readings.

The figures of these contracts have already been published.

THE ALARM SYSTEM.

On motion of Ald. Morgan, the execution of an agreement with the Bell Telephone Co., for supplying current for the fire alarm system was authorized.

ANOTHER FIXED ASSESSMENT.

A bylaw to authorize the fixing of the assessment of B. F. Ackerman & Son, at $15,000 for ten years from January 1st, 1911, passed its several readings. This bylaw will have to be ratified by the legislature.

LEASE OF WATER WORKS DAM.

A bylaw authorizing the execution of a lease from the City Water Commissioners to the Canadian General Electric Co., Limited, for the water works dam passed council.

PRUNING SHADE TREES.

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Gillespie,—That the Board of Works look into the matter of pruning shade trees and removing dead ones. Ald. Turner specified certain streets that need looking after in this connection.

Ald. Hicks remarked that the small appropriation for pruning trees had been pretty well pruned already for other purposes. Ald. Turner withdrew his motion on the understanding that the Board of Works will take the matter up in a general way keeping within their appropriation.

FIRE CHIEF INVESTIGATION.

The investigation into certain charges against the fire chief that claimed the Fire, Water and Light committee's attention, and that of the Committee of the Whole last week, here culminated in no executive action being taken, on a vote of 7 to 5. In this connection it should be borne in mind that a man in public office, must by reason of his responsible position, court public and private criticism, and in many cases an unusual degree of espionage on his actions. The chief, like other men, has his faults; and, equally like other lords of creation, a sufficient measure of virtues that warrant generous consideration on the part of those in authority over him. He is generally admitted to be a splendid fire-fighter, in whom the fullest confidence is placed by the heads of many large interests, and the council's action last night clearly demonstrated the fact that 7 out of 12 aldermen had no reason to differ from that opinion.

HAVE YOU A BAD SORE?

If so, remember these facts—Zam-Buk is now the most widely used balm in Canada, yet four years ago it was unknown here! Why has it become so popular? Because it heals sores, cures skin diseases, and does what is claimed for it. Why not let it heal your sore?

Remember that Zam-Buk is altogether different to the otdinary ointments. Most of these consist of animal fats. Zam-Buk contains no trace of any animal fat, or any mineral matter. It is absolutely herbal.

Remember that Zam-Buk is at the same time, healing, soothing and antiseptic, Kills poison instantly, and all harmful germs. It is suitable alike for recent injuries and diseases and chronic sores, ulcers, etc. Test how different and superior Zam Buk really is. All druggists and stores at 50c. box. You are warned against harmful substitutes and imitations.

SALE OF RARE BOOKS.

Library Costing Over a Million Dollars Put on Sale.

London, June 6.—The fourteenth portion of the famous library of the late Sir Thomas Phillips of Middle Hall, Worcestershire and Thirlestane House, Cheltenham, was put on sale at Sheby's auction rooms yesterday, the auction sale to last four days. The collection contains many rare and valuable books, classical manuscripts, mainly on vellum, early monastic cartularies and chronicles, royal household books, wardrobe and jewel rolls and a large number of autograph letters and documents bearing on Monmouth's rebellion and the French Revolution. One of the most interesting manuscripts is the original Household Book of Account in connection with the expense incurred by Eleanor daughter of Edward III., on her journey to Verhe for her marriage with Reginald, Earl of Gelders.

Sir Thomas Phillips was the son of a wealthy Manchester merchant, and was born in 1792. All through his life he accumulated books and manuscripts, and his wealth permitted him to make extensive purchases of entire libraries put upon the market. It is estimated that he spent more than $1,000,000 for his enormous library. He died in 1877, and since his death parts of his collection were sold at auction at different times.

New Stores Instead of a Hotel.

Mr. F. L. Robinson, owner of that property formerly known as the Queen's Hotel, on Aylmer street, is having the building remodelled. Instead of the former dispensary of meals and wet goods the place is being converted into two modern and well equipped stores. Plate glass fronts will be inserted. This is a fine location for small shops and the owner and tenants of these new store will doubtless have a profitable investment.

Foreign Cruise for Middies.

Annapolis, Md., June 6.—The midshipmen from the Naval Academy sailed on their annual practice cruise yesterday, cheered by their friends and relations who waved hats and handkerchiefs, when the three battle ships, Massachusetts, Indiana and Iowa weighed anchor. For the first time in ten years the middies are going on a foreign cruise which will take them to Marseilles, Gibraltar and the Azores. They are expected return to Annapolis about August 29. The entire cruise will cover a distance of nearly 10,000 miles.

Ireland Illustrated at T.A.S.

Last night Prof. Robert Turner, of New York City, gave a lecture on Ireland, accompanied by a splendid set of steroptican slides of Irish views in the T.A.S. assembly hall. There was a large audience present, who enjoyed the eloquent speaker's description of the Emerald Isle. The views presented portrayed, to the life, many of Ireland's picturesque scenes.

A British Columbia despatch states that a former resident of Peterborough, Andrew Grant, has been drowned in the Squamish River, B. C. He was boom foreman with a lumber company there.

BELIEF OFFICER MILLER GOING TO THE OLD COUNTRY.

Was Given Two Months' Leave of Absence by the City Council Last Night.

The city fathers met in Committee of the Whole last night at 7.30.

Relief Officer Miller was granted two months' holidays.

Ex-Mayor Best asked for 20 feet of the King Edward Park so that the houses on his property could face advantageously. Mr. Best proposes to give the city eight feet of his property for a walk and boulevard. This matter was referred to the Board of Works.

MR. J. R. JEWELL'S FUNERAL.

Held Yesterday Under Auspices of the Orange Order.

The news of the death of John Robt. Jewell, who died in Toronto on Saturday afternoon, came as a great shock to his many friends in this city.

The late Mr. Jewell has resided in Toronto for the past three years, previous to which he had been employed by the J. E. A. Fitzgerald Coal Co.

He is survived by his parents, who live at Rossmount, and four sisters residing in Peterborough, namely, Stella, Millie, Mrs. Brownskue and Mrs. Wilson.

The funeral left the residence of John Foster, Jackson Park, at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, and was under Orange auspices, Canon Davidson officiating.

Monaghan Woman Gets Alimony

An action for alimony was tried at the evening session of the High Court before Chief Justice Falconbridge. In this case Mrs. Margaret Dobbin, sued her husband Andrew Dobbin of North Monaghan. Judgment was given for plaintiff by consent. The local master in chancery is to fix the amount and costs. Mr. R. Ruddy, K.C. for plaintiff, Mr. D. O'Connell for defendant.

Good Work Being Done in the West by Dominion Government

Dr. B. R. Poole, a former citizen of Peterborough, but now residing at Estavan, Sask., has returned for a few weeks' visit and was yesterday kept busily engaged exchanging greetings and shaking hands with his many old friends.

The doctor holds the responsible position of veterinary inspector for the Dominion Government at Estavan. This little Saskatchewan town is situated some twenty or twenty-five miles from the Dakota frontier. Although Estavan may be somewhat limited in population; at at that point, to judge by Dr. Poole's enthusiastic remarks, the government is doing splendid work for the dominion and especially for ranchers and farmers of Alberta and Saskatchewan. Dr. Poole remarked that at this one-minute spot in the great map of the Northwest, the government is saving the farmers thousands upon thousands of dollars annually. He is located there to prevent horses with, or suspected of having contagious diseases from entering Canada. Dr. Poole carefully examines every horse entering Canada at Estavan, and the present astonishing tide of American immigration to Canada will indicate the number of horses being brought to this country, from not only Dakota but other Western States. During one week alone the doctor examined sixteen hundred horses. The horses are subject to the test of inoculation of "mallein," a culture of the microbe that causes the spread of glanders. A horse is kept subject to absolute inspection for 24 hours. Should there be a "reaction," i.e., should the animal prove to be infected with glanders, it is stamped with the letters "E.R" on the left front hoof and deported to the United States. By "E.R." is meant "entry rejected." Although thousands of horses have come in from various parts of the U.S., comparatively few have been found to be infected and those infected deported.

INCREASE IN SELF-DESTRUCTION STARTS MUCH DISCUSSION IN ENGLAND.

Unemployment is Blamed—Overpopulation and Suggestive Press Also Given as Causes.

London, June 4.—That suicides are on the increase in the United Kingdom and have been for some time has been the subject of regretful comment from time to time. Why this should be the case many opinions have been expressed. Some affirm that the country is overpopulated and that the difficulty of employment has a good deal to do with it. To a certain extent that is true.

Others allege that the "yellow press" of the country does not improve the minds of the lower classes by publishing distressing cases, which affect those prone to depression and so lead them to make away with their lives. It is likewise true that double suicides have been increasing through young couples despairing of ever accumulating the ways and means to make homes for themselves, owing to the difficulty of getting work that will bring them "living wages"; while love betrayals also play their part.

The matter has been taken up by the Salvation Army, which sends out workers to look for poor despondents who are tired of life and try to give them a decent start in life again.

Bishop Bonomelli of Cremona propounds a theory which he thinks should have an effect in suppressing suicide, and which he commends to all who have the matter at heart. He thinks that suicide is attributable in many cases to wounded pride, deluded avarice and real or imaginary love betrayals.

The bishop recognizes that the new social conditions created by material progress are largely responsible for increase of suicides all over Europe. He also insists that the main cause is the spirit of irreligion that stalks abroad, flaunting a romantic literature that glorifies the act of self-murder, a melodrama that culminates in a grand coup, generally of dual suicide, and so planned for the sympathy of the audience through the medium of the "yellow press," which by giving undue prominence to its suicide chronicle disposes its readers to regard the phenomenon as one not calling for censure.

It is a stern and regrettable necessity, he thinks, from a Christian and social point of view, to maintain a clear distinction by withholding solemn funerals in the case of suicides. That, he thinks would have a very beneficial effect on impressionable minds.

Miss Lundy Gives Dance In Honor of Miss Mallory of Brockville.

Last night Miss Lundy entertained a number of her friends at the handsome residence of her brother, Mr. J. J. Lundy, Ashburnham. The dance was given in honor of Miss Mallory of Brockville, who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Travers of the Bank of Montreal. Between the dances, Miss Lundy's guests enjoyed the beautifully laid out gardens and grounds which lead towards Little Lake.

Miss Lundy with her proverbial tact and "Savoir faire," as to entertaining guests, made the evening hours flit on quickly flying wings for all present. Those who have enjoyed an evening at Mr. J. J. Lundy's hospitable home understand its adaptability to make guests at Verulham Hall enjoy themselves. Those few who did not dance or preferred to "sit out" the dances, found charming spots for conversation. Shortly after midnight supper was served, "sans ceremonie." The dance ended shortly after midnight. Among those present were the guest of the evening, Miss Mallory, who looked charming in an embroidered pink silk mulle over pink satin, Mrs. Jarvis from the Northwest, in black satin, the Misses Belcher, Miss Halliday in a handsome costume of white lace over silk, Miss Bertha Moore cream satin, Miss Irene Perks in pink satin, Miss Muriel Rogers in blue satin, Miss Lily Pearce in in pink satin, Miss Marjorie Dela Fosse, Mrs. Currier, Miss Aylmer, Miss Twinkle Clementi, the Misses Hall, Messrs. Dobie, Wainwright, Grubbe, W. Sheffield, Ross, Dr. Hamond, McLean, Mullholland, Cyril Hill, Rackham, Perks, Currier and others.

The hostess, Miss Lundy, was becomingly attired in pale green silk, and her niece, Miss Muriel Baldwin, who assisted the hostess receive, looked charming in pale green satin.

WORLD TO BECOME A VAST INSANE ASYLUM.

Insanity Has Increased One Hundred Per Cent.—Dr. Kellogg Speaks of Physical Degeneracy.

Boston, June .—In 265 years this world will be one vast insane asylum declared Dr. J. H. Kellogg, of Battle Creek, Mich., today. Then he stopped aside to permit the doctors of this "seat of culture" to engage in a warm wrangle over his statement, most of them intimating that Kellogg himself should go to a "nut specialist" and have his head examined.

"Physical degeneracy and chronic diseases are increasing," declared Kellogg, "and insanity has increased 100 per cent. in 50 years. This is due to degeneracy originating from our manner of living.

"Only three women out of four nurse their infants, owing to physical degeneracy, which make it impossible, and 75 per cent. of the bottle-fed babies die before they are a year old.

"The increasing use of tea, coffee, tobacco, and alcohol spells the end of a sane human race,"

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

BEFORE TREATMENT AFTER TREATMENT

He was surprised at how the sores healed—"I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicines, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out afresh—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, leanness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish. W. DOCTORS CONDEMN OILY LINIMENTS.

The Public are Warned to Be Careful of These Strong-Smelling Oily Liniments, Containing Harmful Acids, Ammonia, Etc.

Many people have clung to the old-fashioned idea that a thick, greasy liniment is the best kind. Doctors say not—and they know.

Recently a number of these white, oily liniments were analyzed, and they were found to contain an enormously high percentage of harmful acids, and such irritating chemicals as ammonia, etc. For the moment they may cause a warm sensation when first applied, but their continued use never cures rheumatism, and only deteriorates the skin, sets up inflammation and causes endless trouble.

When a doctor warns you to quit using a white, oily liniment—do so. He knows that a thick liniment can not penetrate, cannot sink through the pores and reach the seat of the pain.

When asked his opinion a few days ago, Dr. Roberts stated that he considered a strong, penetrating, pain-subduing liniment, such as Nerviline, to be superior to any of the white ammonia liniments. In his twenty-five years of practice he had witnessed cases of rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago that simply would not respond to ordinary treatment—but Nerviline cured them. The same physician also spoke of the great advantages of keeping a preparation like Nerviline in the house always, because of cramps, diarrhoea, stomach disorders, earache, toothache, headache and such minor ailments. Nerviline is a first-class cure. There is scarcely an ache or a pain, internal or external, that Nerviline won't cure. In thousands of homes no other pain-relieving medicine is used. Fifty years' continued success and the endorsement of the profession are proof that Nerviline is the liniment for the home.

Any good druggist or dealer can supply the large 25c bottles of Nerviline.

CHURCH UNION.

The month of June is generally a busy season for the churches—the Methodist, the Presbyterian and the Congregational—are drawing nearer and nearer to the consummation of a union which is expected to include the three as one. The Presbyterian General Assembly in session last week at Halifax and one of the most important of the questions under review is this one of union. The arguments all seem to be in favor of the movement; but unanimity does not always mature along the line of the right of it. There has been opposition, and possibly there will continue to be opposition; but, if such opposition has no more of a plea than what has been so far urged against the movement, the financial consummation of union is only a question of time. This is not said in any assertive way, as if against any one who has taken a stand against the union. The committee and sub-committees who have for several years back been matering the terms of union have no cause to blame themselves for unseemly haste or impatience. The impatience and lack of logical acumen have been in evidence from those who have thought to make much of the secondary while discussing the question. No one can shut his eyes to the economic necessity for union. There is a sad waste of spiritual energy as well as of financial resources from the present conditions of denominational segregation in the rural parts. Denominational rivalry has enervated the Protestant churches in every Canadian province. Men, women and children rally round the stronger institution to the neglect of one that is weak in spirit and poorly equipped. The church-goer in the country district, who has become acclimated to the day of small things, assumes a serious responsibility, religious as well as secular, when he stubbornly takes up a meaningless stand against the united front that would undoubtedly make for greater things in this age of co-operative progressiveness. And no less do the members of the city churches, who oppose union, stand in the way of making the most of their contributions to the mission field at home and abroad by making common cause in their religious efforts and a common exchequer in carrying them out. A critical stage has been reached in the evolution, as far as the Presbyterians in Canada are concerned. Presbyteries and kirk sessions have been called upon to mature their ideas on the movement during the past year; and this week a first practical vote will be taken in the Manitoba Assembly. The vote will put upon record a majority and a majority; and hereafter it will be for the majority to mature a unanimity without any of the acrimonious contention that tends to produce a permanent standing aside in any offshoot church. If such a thing should by any possibility occur, those who have favored union from the beginning, will hardly be to blame for aggressiveness in the remotest degree.

...to station, returning from his ten days' absence, he found the town thrilling with the excitement of the first day of the trial. Before he left the station he had learned of Prendergast's death and accusation and knew that Tom Felder had come to the prisoner's defense. Dr. Brent had taken no stock in the young lawyer's view of Hugh Stires.

He betook himself to the filled court-room. The court had opened two hours before and half the jury had been selected. His attention was given first to the bench where the prisoner sat and second to a chair close to the railing beside Mrs. Halloran's, where a girl's face glimmered palely under a light veil.

Toward this chair the hundreds of eyes in the room that morning had often turned. Since the day Mrs. Halloran had surprised Jessica at work upon the rock statue she had kept her counsel; but, as the physician had conjectured, the monument had been stumbled upon and had drawn curious visitors. Thus the name on the grave had become common property and the coincidence had been chattered of. That Jessica had chiseled the statue was not doubted. She had bought the tools in town, and old Paddy Wise, the blacksmith, had sharpened them for her. The story Prendergast had told in the general store, too, had not been forgotten, and the aid she had given the fever stricken man had acquired a new significance in face of the knowledge that she had more than once been admitted to the jail with Felder. From the moment of the opening of the trial Jessica had divided interest with the prisoner.

Circumstantially speaking, the evidence was flawless. Dr. Moreau, while little known and less liked, had figured in the town as a promoter and an inventor of "slick" stock schemes. He had come there with Hugh Stires from Sacramento, where they had had a business partnership of short duration. There had been bad blood between them there, as the latter had once admitted. The prisoner had pre-empted the claim on Smoky mountain in an abortive "boom" which Moreau had engineered, and over whose proceeds the pair, it was believed, had fallen out. He had then, to use the attorney's phrase, "swapped the devil for the witch" and had taken up with Prendergast, who by the manner of his taking off had finally justified a jail record in another state. Soon after this break Hugh Stires had vanished. On the day following his last appearance in the town the body of Moreau had been found on the Little Paymaster claim shot by a cowardly bullet through the back, a fact which precluded the possibility that the deed had been done in self defense. There was evidence that he had died a painful and lingering death. Suspicion had naturally pointed to the vanished man, and this suspicion had grown until, after some months' absence, he had returned, alleging that he had lost his memory of the past, to resume his life in the cabin on the mountain and his partnership with the thief Prendergast. The two had finally quarreled and Prendergast had moved to town.

Subsequent to this the latter had been heard to make dark insinuations as to the cause of the quarrel, but since grossly significant, hinting at criminal knowledge of the prisoner. The crime of this chapter had been Prendergast's dismissal in the gulch when he had produced the scrap of paper which was the crux of the case. He declared he had found Moreau dying; that the latter had signed with his own hand the memorandum which fastened the crime upon Hugh Stires.

In his cross examination Felder sought gamely to lighten the weight of the evidence. All rested, he said, upon a single scrap of paper, a fragment of scrawling in no way difficult of imitation, and this in turn upon the confession of a thief, struck down in an act of crime, whose word in an ordinary case of fact would not be worth a ...ing. No motive had been alleged

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days' test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSION.

Very Rosy Picture Has Been Painted of Results of Plan.

Much has been written about the success of the new method of governing municipalities by commission and a very rosy picture has been painted about the results of the plan reference being made to the Des Moines system, as being pre-eminently successful. We are indebted to the Brantford Expositor for the following from the pen of a Pittsburg journalist which gives a rather different account of the results in Des Moines. The Pittsburg journalist, who has been conducting an investigation of the scheme so clearly stated what, reasoning a priori, we concluded must follow the adoption of the commission system of municipal government that we have no hesitation in giving his story in full. "The working of the plan," he says, "is full of disappointment because of the favoritism practised by councilmen in appointments, the placing of relatives on the payroll, the violation of campaign promises, the playing of peanut politics and trading of votes for measures, log rolling—the same things which occurr in other forms of government all occurr without exception under the Des Moines plan. Meanwhile citizens brow restless at having nothing to do about their affairs for long periods of years at a time.

It seems a safe forecast to predict a general turning away from the system after it is found that only at intervals will the people have anything to say about their own business. They are too fond of politics to be shut out. They are jealous of a group of five men having all the say and dividing up all the patronage of themselves, taking care of their friends, building up machines, doing wicked things that men do under various other systems of government.

The plan is no insurance against cheap men in office and selfish men and men who ignore campaign platforms, personal promises, public opinion generally. The clumsiness of the recall makes it practically unworkable. It serves chiefly to fortify and intrench the politicians who find that they can beat it at any time especially since on a new election, if one is ever called, the man assailed can himself become a candidate and if he gets more votes than anybody else he continues in office.

The prophet's task in politics is a thankless one, but it does not require that one be a prophet or a son of a prophet, or the seventh son of a seventh son, to see that in any live, growing American community control of all local affairs in a hand ful of men is bound to work out such envies and jealousies, such ill-advised measures, such selfish management of the gifts and favors to be distributed that the people will almost certainly go back to a system by which they have more frequent power of voting, so that if they make mistakes, at least they are their own mistakes and not some body else's. American communities with few exceptions are loath to to say at frequent intervals, give up the right to have something

The case of Los Angeles' recall is cited, but that case is known now to have been one in which there was a race case involved that inflamed everynody and wrought a gross injustice to the man that was recalled, so that there is not much cited of that case anymore. No one need be deluded in the idea that there is any virtue in the Des Moines plan itself, any inherent quality that guarantees any city adopting it against any evil of misgovernment that it is possible under ant other system and more over, such evils are no less likely to flourish under that plan than any other ever devised, if the experience of Des Moines already is good testimony on that point. Only good men will give good government."

In view of this statement, perhaps it will be just as well for Canadian municipalities to await developments before abandoning their present system of municipal government, which while not perfect, is reasonably successful.

More Honors for Roosevelt.

London, June 6.—Many persons of distinction are preparing yto go to Oxford tomorrow, when the honary degree of D.C.L., is to be conferred upon Theodore Roosevelt. The degree will be conferred at a convocation to be held in the Sheldonian Theater immediately before the Romanes lecture. Lord Curzon will propose the degree, and after Mr. Roosevelt has been duly presented by Dr Goudy, Regius Professor of Civil Law, Lord Curzon will confer the the degree in Latin. This ceremony being concluded, the chancellor will, in English, express the welcome of the university to Mr. Roosevelt, who will then deliver the Romanes lecture.

SOUR RISINGS FROM STOMACH.

Those Who Experience Fullness and Pain After Meals, Stomach Disorders and Indigestion, Should Read Below.

"When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of Port Richmond. "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels, for I had to use salts or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour, and always after eating there was pain and fullness, and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel so glad that I have found a mild, yet certain remedy. To-day I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter, I am sure, proves it."

Sermons By Local Clergymen Published.

It is gratifying to Peterborough citizens to know that Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's church, has been chosen by the Publishers' Press of Montreal, among those preachers whose sermons will be printed for newspaper republication. A former local clergyman, Rev. Dr. Symonds, formerly of St. Luke's church, is also mentioned among those whose exhortations will appear in print.

Ex-Warrior Fined $12.

At yesterday's police court appeared a young man who has served his country in South Africa, met another man with a similar record. Not satisfied with past experience fighting Boers these ex-warriors met in personal conflict in a local barroom on Saturday. The doughty ex-soldiers of the King had imbibed a few samples of Canadian made stimulante. During the ex-warriors' mixup a mirror worth $14 was smashed. The one blamed for the discussion was fined $12 and costs.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days' test will surely tell. Try it once and see! Sold by all dealers.

SOCIETY EVENTS

The Times will be pleased to receive notices of Weddings, Social Events, Personal Announcements, which will be published in this column free of charge.

Dr. B. R. Poole, V.S., is home from Saskatchewan, on a few weeks' visit.

Mr. Pat. Young of Young's Point, was in the city yesterday on business.

Mr. Alex. Chalmers of Lakefield, spent Sunday at his home here.

Miss M. Gall and Miss Laura M. McFarlane of Keene, were in the city yesterday.

Miss Edith Richardson, Toronto, is visiting her cousin, Dr. Marshall, Hunter street, for a few days.

Mr. W. Canfield of the engineering department of the Canadian General Electric Company, is in Montreal.

Mrs. N. E. Pollard and son, Cecil, are here from Fort William, the guests of Mrs. J. Pollard, 57 George street.

Mr. Stanley Lewis, who has been a drug clerk with Mr. Madill, left at noon yesterday for Kingston, where he has secured a good position.

Mr. B. F. Ackerman and Mr. R. J. Winch left the city Saturday morning for a few days' outing at Stoney Lake.

Mrs. Henimingsen and two children, of Chicago, arrived in the city yesterday, and will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. McFadden, Elm street, during the summer.

Mr. Ernie Brownscombe, of the Bank of Ottawa, Portage la Prairie, who has been in the hospital there sick with typhoid fever, arrived in the city yesterday to recuperate at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Burritt have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter at St. John's church, on Wednesday, the 15th of June, at two o'clock p.m., and after wards to a reception at 232 Brock steeet.

We are pleased to note that Mr. Jack Pilling, who was injured, Saturday afternoon at the River side Park, and who is a patient at Nicholl's Hospital, is doing as well as could be expected.

At this morning's session of the police court a boy who escaped from the local Children's Shelter, will have to explain his action to the magistrate. It seems that this 13-year-old lad does not appreciate the kindly rule of the Shelter nor to attend school when away from its benificent influence.

The First Gold Rush.

The voyage of the argonauts, the date of which is uncertain, was professedly a rush for gold, to be collected in fleeces placed in the torrents flowing down the flanks of Mount Caucasus. But older much was the westward movement, which Chaldean records of 2800 B. C. chronicle, to the gold bearing land of Melukkha, afterward known as Midian.

Later on, but still at a very early period, there was a rush from Egypt to a spot inland from the present Suakin. Long afterward this was described by Diodorus Siculus, who left a map, still extant, showing the wells provided for the gold seekers between the Red sea and the mines.

About 1600 B. C. there seems to have been another rush of miners in search of gold into South Africa. Its numbers can only be guessed at from the extensive remains that still exist, but it has been calculated that at least $250,000,000 was secured by these early adventurers.

In modern times the first rush was that to California in 1848-9.

Sea Birds.

Taking the sea birds all round, they are far more careless in their nesting than their cousins inland. The terns, the skua, the puffins, the black throated diver, the guillemot, make no nests, properly so called. The puffin, however, usually burrows a rabbit burrow and is not particular whether its original owners have done with their home or not. If they interfere or even try to pass a pack from the puffin's great parrot shaped bill is enough to warn them against making the experiment a second time. The auks are birds of the northern seas and are perhaps the finest divers of any feathered things. Their short wings look, in fact, far more like fins than wings, and, unlike gulls, the auks catch their prey beneath the surface. The auk's selection of a spot to lay her eggs is eccentric to a degree. She chooses a bare, broken ledge of hard rock overhanging the waves. It looks as though it were a feat to balance eggs in such a place, and the marvel is that the first gale does not send them rolling over the crags.—Boston Herald.

Homing Pigeons.

The average speed of a homing pigeon in calm weather is 1,210 yards a minute. With a strong wind in the direction of flight some pigeons have made 1,980 yards, or considerably more than a mile a minute.

Must Get Permission.

One of the bylaws of a cottage hospital in Wales reads thus: "No patient shall curse or swear or use any indecent or abusive language, nor shall play at cards or dice, nor smoke within the infirmary without the authority of the medical officer and at certain hours."

ANSWER TO "LIBERTY" WILL APPEAR TOMORROW.

A letter from Rev. Dr. O'Brien in answer to one signed "Liberty," which appeared in yesterday's edition, was unfortunately crowded out of today's issue, but will be published tomorrow.

ILL HEALTH, ITS CAUSE.

Sluggishness of Liver and Bowels.

It took me a long time to learn, and big doctors' bills in the bargain, writes Mr. Ogilby, of Winnipeg that the disturbance of my system inactivity. A sleepiness and languor extinguished my old time ambition. I fear irritability of temper added little to the comfort of my family, yet the headaches, general misery and melancholy forebodings that weighed me down ought to be considered. Tonics, electric treatment and mineral waters in turn failing to cure me, the advertising of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and the testimonials supporting the claim of great medicinal virtue induced me to try them. The result of even the first box made clear that my own body was making its own poison, that by driving it from the system and removing the cause which undoubtedly resided in the liver and bowels, by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, my health would be as good as ever.

It seems certain to me that more than half the sickness we see about us is caused by carelessness in keeping the bowels open and the liver active. Dr. Hamilton's Pills I found do both, and find it better than other remedies. 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

A Call From Oregon

Opportunities in the Far West

The greatest industrial activity in this country is now centered in Oregon. Two of the biggest railroad systems in the U. S., with intense rivalry, are pushing branch lines into the remote portions of this State, and an exodus from the East is on in the occupation of this the LAST FRONTIER ON THE CONTINENT. Fortunes will be made here THIS YEAR—NEXT YEAR and EVERY YEAR for the next decade.

Our valleys are the most fertile in the world and irrigation projects are converting the bordering hillsides into gardens. Orchards lands are leaping upward in price and the advance has only started. Water from mountain streams is the purest, timber the finest and climate the most perfect in Uncle Sam's domain. Power plants are springing up along the channels of silvery torrents to develop electrical energy for mines and mills and interburban railways. Fish abound in the rivers, game in the forests and health and joy in the atmosphere. There are no cyclones here or pestiferous insects to endanger life, or make it a burden.

I want Eastern connections and help, financial and otherwise, to seize opportunities that surround this picturesque city of Baker. The returns will be out of all proportion to the help extended. The opportunities are along the lines of vegetable fruit, hay, grain, stock, timber, and mineral lands. There are fortunes in all these. Some mines in this vicinity have record outputs in gold, running into the millions. Yet the surface, overlying the mineral deposits of Baker County, has hardly been scratched.

On a ledge of free gold bearing quartz two miles in length I made a test of 100 tons of ore taken at a depth of only a hundred feet and got over $3000.00 out of it. The mint returns passed through the Citizen's National Bank here.

Among other things, I need money, right now, to begin the MANUFACTURE OF GOLD out of this immense ore body. The shares of the Timber Canyon Mines Company, which OWNS this property, and of which I am secretary have an intrinsic value of at least 50 cents a share based on a conservative valuation of the property and the amount of stock issued.

I will deliver on order, with draft attached, up to 50,000 shares of this stock at 25 cents a share, NET. The full amount of the purchase price will go back in dividends inside of 18 months. Take a block of this as a starter, and get in step with this Eldorado of the West. If there is anything else out here that I can do for you, or you can do for me,—WRITE ME.

Yours for business, and MONEY for both of us,

VOL. XXXI NO. 130 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO WEDNESDAY JUNE 8 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

GOLDWIN SMITH, THE GRAND OLD MAN OF THE GRANGE, DIED YESTERDAY AT 3.20

AFTER MONTHS OF SUFFERING, THE GREAT JOURNALIST, PHILOSOPHER, AUTHOR, SCHOLAR AND PHILANTHROPIST PASSED AWAY PEACEFULLY

Had Been Weak All Day, and Life Just Ebbed Out---Those at Bedside Hardly Knew When He Ceased to Breathe

Toronto, June 7.—Goldwin Smith is dead. After months of suffering, the grand old man of the Grange, scholar, writer, philosopher, philanthropist, contemporary of Gladstone, and the greatest minds of the nineteenth century, has passed away. The end was not unexpected. In fact the wonderful vitality of this remarkable man and his long battle with the inevitable, has commanded admiration. King Edward who recently expressed his concern and sympathy with the distinguished patient a few months ago, crossed the bar before Goldwin Smith.

HIS WIDE REPUTATION.

The announcement of the death of Goldwin Smith will be received with regret in all places where the English language is spoken, because, wherever it is spoken the name of so distinguished a master of our tongue has become familiar. In the intellectual center of Empire, at Oxford—the "home of lost causes"—they will write up one more on the long list of men of eminence who have done honor to the historic Alma Mater, and whom the University does not fail to honor in return. He did not keep all her traditions, nor regard all her loyalties, nor entertain all her beliefs; but she has ever been a tolerant mother, and in the calm, centuries-long survey of her children, has rarely been unwise enough to do anything to mar their progress or to lessen her own pride in their career. Here in the city, where he has lived so many years, among his trees and his books, among friends whom he trusted and acquaintances who are proud of his recognition, the grief will be genuine and great.

LEADING DEBATERS OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH ENGAGE IN BATTLE OVER SEPARATION.

Old Friends on Opposite Sides in Conflict to Divide University From Church —Running Away With University.

Halifax, June 7.—A great debate over the recommendation for the separation of Queen's University, Kingston, from the Presbyterian Church began before the General Assembly yesterday. Its progress was full of dramatic features and the struggle promises to be keen and prolonged, if not bitter. The majority report presented by the assembly commission favored separation, a minority report opposed it.

Rev. Dr. Lyle, the retiring moderator, moved, seconded by Hamilton Cassels, K.C., of Toronto, the adoption of the majority report. The out standing debaters of the Presbyterian Church in Canada then jumped into the fray.

POINTS IN DEBATE.

Principal Gordon—The trustees can not continue their work with any heartiness if they must continue under present conditions.

Rev. W. C. Clark, Quebec—The change is inevitable.

Dr. Herridge, Ottawa—If the separation takes place Queen's is not going to the dogs or the place where there is no dogs.

Dr. D. D. McLeod, Barrie (who presented minority report)—Are you prepared to give away a university. If Queen's wants money she can get it. She would lose honor if she broke faith with her thousands of benefactors.

Richard Lees, Peterborough—Some colleges in the United States now refuse the Carnegie foundation.

Rev. Dr. Drummond, Hamilton—No wise business man would take the chance of a $5 bill on Premier Whitney's vague promise.

Rev. J. G. Inkster, London—Separation would be the road to anywhere.

Rev. J. J. Wright, Elk Lake.— A part of the crew is trying to run off with the ship.

ONLY TWO ALIVE.

Peterborough Citizens Mentioned in Local Papers Half a Century Ago.

Yesterday Mr. James Stevenson, ex-M.P., of 453 Water street, received from a friend of his, by mail, a copy of the Peterborough Review of Dec. 4th, 1857. This venerable parcel of the present Daily Evening Review differs very materially from its surviving progeny, in "make up," type, advertising, size, price, etc. The paper is composed of only four pages, and the price five shillings per annum. All prices mentioned in the advertisements are given in pounds, shillings and pence. One peculiarity that specially attracted Mr. Stevenson's attention was that of all the many men mentioned in advertisements, only two are now alive, viz., himself and Mr. Henry Calcutt of Ashburnham.

A SUCCESSFUL MEETING.

Local Anglican Sunday School Convention Most Interesting.

The opening session of the Sunday school convention of the Archdeaconry of Peterborough, in progress at St. John's church Sunday school, was marked by brilliant addresses and a large audience.

Those present could not but feel impressed with the words of his lordship the Bishop of the Diocese and Venerable Archdeacon Warren. Full of encouragement and advice, their remarks were most interesting and helpful. The chair was taken by the rector of St. John's church, who, after the opening devotional exercises referred to the high privilege he felt at standing before such a large number of the devoted members of the church.

SCORES KILLED IN BED BY AN ITALIAN EARTHQUAKE

Central and Southern Italy were Devasted by Another Quake---Hundreds were Injured---Many Towns and Villages Affected

Rome, June 7.—A terrific earthquake—the worst since that of December, 1908, which destroyed Reggio and Messina—today shook Central and Southern Italy.

Hundreds are believed to be dead and many towns destroyed.

Calitri, an Apulian town of eight thousand people, is in ruins and twenty are known to be dead there alone.

A seismic wave is reported to have swept the gulf of Manfredonia, on the Adriatic, and grave fears are felt for Bari, a city of eighty thousand.

WIRES DESTROYED.

The first reports received here said the earthquake was felt through the Provinces of Basilicata, Campania and Calabria, and in Sicily, as well as in Apulia. The destruction of telegraph wires left the fate of scores of towns in doubt.

A special emergency meeting of the cabinet was called on receipt of the first information here, and a relief plan immediately taken up. The news was received almost at the same time at the Vatican. The Pope immediately retired to his private chapel to pray for the people of the affected district.

Special services were held in the churches of Rome.

ONE HUNDRED KILLED.

Rome, June 7.—A despatch from the Avillino district states that more than one hundred have been killed there by the earthquake. Thirty are known to be dead at Calitri, and scores are believed to be buried in the ruins of the town. Troops arrived there at noon, and are digging in the debris in the hopes of rescuing the victims. Martial law has been proclaimed throughout the whole stricken scene.

School Board in Regular Monthly Session---Teachers are Re-Engaged for Ensuing Year

THE BOARD DEPLORES THE DEATH OF KING EDWARD VII., AND PLACES THE SAME ON RECORD.

Several Teachers Resign and Others Appointed in Their Place— Kind Words for Resigning Teacher, Mr. Wm. Smith.

The Board of Education met in regular monthly session last night. There were present: Chairman L. M. Hayes, and Trustees Crane, Dr. Morrison, Dumble, W. H. Hill Miller, Adams, Fair, and Dr. Burnham.

On the initiative of Chairman Hayes the board placed on record its deepest regret at the death of King Edward VII., of happy memory.

A resolution to this effect was moved by Chairman Hayes, seconded by Mr. Dumble. Both mover and seconder spoke in exceedingly appropriate eulogy of Britain's late monarch, Edward the Peacemaker.

MR. SMITH'S SERVICES ARE APPRECIATED.

Mr. Wm. Smith of the Central school staff, sent in his resignation, feeling, as he wrote, that his recent illness, and advanced years had unfitted him from discharging, to his own satisfaction, the duties demanded of him.

Mr. W. H. Hill spoke warmly in eulogy of Mr. Smith's 30 years' efficient and faithful services on the Public School teaching staff. Hundreds of prominent citizens have received part of their education at his hands, and he stands high in the esteem of the whole community. He thought that in accepting Mr. Smith's resignation with regret, in consideration of his present ill-health the inspector should be authorized to furnish a supply teacher for the balance of this term, the same not to affect Mr. Smith's salary.

Mr. Hill moved, seconded by Col. Miller,—That Mr. Smith's resignation be accepted, and the inspector furnish a supply in his place from now until the end of the school term, and that Mr. Smith be paid his salary as usual.—Carried unanimously.

Chairman Hayes quite agreed with this course. He had known Mr. Smith for many years, during which time he had served the board very faithfully andefficiently.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Misses Burgess, Rankin and Emmerson tendering their resignations on the teaching staff.—Accepted.

From Miss A. H. Cameron, applying for position as Kindergarten teacher.—Accepted.

From Mr. Richardon, principal of the King Edward school, asking that a small grant be given to aid in securing trophies for the scholars baseball league.—Referred to the Finance Committee with power to act.

It is understood that the Separate School Board has made a grant for the above purpose.

Mr. Dumble did not like the trophy business; let the boys play, he said, for the pleasure and honor and glory of winning and not trophies.

From Inspector Mowat, asking the board to fix the date for the closing of present school term and opening of the next term, to avoid confusion.—Referred to the Supervision Committee with power to act, and see that the dates are publicly announced in the press in such a way that no misunderstanding can arise, especially as to the re-opening of the schools.

COSTS OF ACCIDENT.

The board was asked to pay the medical bill—$2—of Goring Ashcroft, a scholar who fell off the Collegiate Institute fence, and sustained injuries to his face and head.

Mr. Dumble thought this bill should be paid. It is only a small matter and school fences should be kept in good condition.

Mr. Crane moved, seconded by Dr. Burnham,—That the application of Mr. Ashcroft be referred to the Finance Committee, they to consult the solicitor and report back to the board.—Carried.

The board did not wish to establish a precedent in such matters, hence their action.

SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

Mr. Crane moved, seconded by Dr. Morrison.—That the Supervision Committee invite tenders for text books and supplies for Public schools for the ensuing term, and award the contract to the lowest tenderer. This will include supplies for the Collegiate Institute.—Carried.

TEACHERS RE-ENAGED FOR THE ENSUING YEAR.

A Gratuity for Mr. Wm. Smith in Recognition of His Long and Faithful Services.

At the meeting of the Board of Education last night, Mr. W. H. Hill, chairman of the Committee on Appointments, presided the followai Appointments, presented the following report, which was unanimously adopted:

To the Chairman and members of the Board of Education;

Gentlemen,—Your Committee on Appointments beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That Mr. Arnott M. Patterson be appointed permanently to fill the vacancy on the Collegiate Institute staff, caused by the resignation of Mr. Geo. M. Hofferd, at the salary applicable to specialists and honor graduates, viz., minimum $1400, increasing to the maximum of $1700 according to schedule, and duties to start 1st September, 1910.

2. That Mr. R. N. Merritt be appointed a member of the Board of Examiners for the entrance examination 1910.

3. That Miss L. A. McDonald be appointed to fill the vacancy on the Public School staff caused by the resignation of Miss Emmerson, at the minimum salary of $450, with increases according to schedule, and duties to start 1st September, 1910.

4. That Miss Mina Clare, Miss Belle Wilson, and Miss A. R. Cameron be appointed on the Kindergarten staff to fill the vacancies caused by the resignations of Miss Denne, Miss Rankin and Miss Burgess, the two former at the minimum salary of $450 increasing according to schedule, and the latter at a fixed salary of $400 per year. Duties in each case to start 1st September, 1910, and in case any of those named decline the appointment, the next in order of merit as recommended by the inspector be appointed.

5. That Miss Mabel R. Howson, and Miss Ethel M. Richardson, who are assisting in the Kindergarten at the Queen Alexandra school be paid the sum of $15 each for their extra work during the last three months.

6. That the salary schedule of the special teachers engaged jointly by the Education Department and the board be amended as follows, and to date from 1st September, 1910:

	Min.	Max.	Yearly Increase
Manual training instructor	$650	$800	$30
Household Science Instruct.	500	650	30
Art Instruct.	450	600	30
Music Instruct.	350	500	30

7. That in recognition of the long and faithful services, extending over 30 years, of Mr. William Smith, who has resigned from the Public school staff, your committee recommend that he be granted a gratuity of the amount of a year's salary, one half of which to be paid on the 1st July, 1910, and the balance on the 1st July, 1911.

HOTEL IMPROVEMENTS.

R. J. Munro Has Begun Operations Demanded by License Comm.

Alterations in the Munro House were begun yesterday morning. It will be remembered that the License Commissioners when deciding which of the local licenses should be extended and which cut off, mentioned three hotels which had to comply with certain, laid-down conditions to get an extension for a full year. Among those so affected was the Munro House. Mr. R. J. Munro, the proprietor, against whom nothing was brought affecting his personal or business life was brought here to enlarge his hotel premises. This energetic and law abiding boniface at once arranged to have Doris & Godfrey, the saddlers at the south-west corner of Hunter and Water streets, move out and occupy a quickly arranged store, east of the hotel. Also Mr. Munro began at once the erection of a new barn to replace that taken in, its altered condition by the saddlery firm. Yesterday Mr. Munro had a gang of carpenters engaged in tearing out the corner shop, formerly used for making and selling saddlery. The main entrance to the Munro House, redivious, will be from the corner, where the office will be located.

The hour at which the service at St. Luke's church in connection with the Sunday school convention was to have been held has been changed from 8 to 10 o'clock this morning.

Anglicans Warned Marriage Vows

Ottawa, June 7.—Before the 250 clerical and lay delegates at the Anglican Synod of Ottawa annual session which opened here today, Archbishop Hamilton delivered his annual charge. He deplored the insufficiency of men for the ministry, and told his clergy that this was due to the attractions of other professions and the inadequate provision the Church is making for its clergy.

Recalling a discussion at the recent Lambeth Conference in England, he warned Anglicans not to marry Roman Catholics, and recalled that in this connection an enclyscal had in part said, "We desire to warn members of our communion against contracting marriages with Roman Catholics under the conditions inspired by Roman canons, especially as those conditions bind them to have their children brought up in areligious system, which they themselves cannot accept."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

More Honors for Roosevelt.

London, June 6.—Many persons of distinction are preparing to go to Oxford tomorrow, when the honary degree of D.C.L., is to be conferred upon Theodore Roosevelt. The degree will be conferred at a convocation to be held in the Sheldonian Theater immediately before the Romanes lecture. Lord Curzon will propose the degree, and after Mr. Roosevelt has been duly presented by Dr. Goudy, Regius Professor of Civil Law, Lord Curzon will confer the the degree in Latin. This ceremony being concluded, the chancellor will, in English, express the welcome of the university to Mr. Roosevelt, who will then deliver the Romanes lecture.

Good Offer Towards the Chimes Fund

(To the Editor of The Times.)

In the Examiner of June 7th is a letter signed "Progress." The writer offers to increase his present subscription of $5 to $15 if nineteen other citizens will do the same. Here is a patriotic Peterborough citizen who recognizes that the chimes fund is one that will result in every man, woman and child in the city getting a tangible benefit. The citizen making this offer is not a member of St. John's church, thus demonstrating the general interest taken in the chimes. I might say that if the generous offer of "Progress" is taken up by "the noble nineteen," I will double the small amount I have subscribed to the chimes fund.

WORK ENSURED.

Building Permit Taken for New C.G. E. Co., Machine Shop.

A building permit for the construction of a new machine shop at the Canadian General Electric Works, was taken out yesterday. It will be built on Albert street, and will be two hundred and seventy-four feet long and one hundred and twenty-feet wide. It will have a foundation of eight to ten feet high and one storey eighteen and a half feet high. The building will be of brick and steel and the estimated cost is one hundred thousand dollars. It is expected that the building will be finished by the first of December next. Mr. J. L. Wood has charge of the construction.

The Coronation Oath

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir:—Your correspondent in Monday's Times signing himself "Liberty" was right in saying that I made no mention of the oath said by the Review to have been taken by Princess Ena. However, I entered no protest against the insulting oath which everyone knows the King of England is at present by law obliged to take. My sole purpose in correcting the Review in regard to the Bishop's oath was because it was said to be taken by the "Bishops of Quebec—a part of the British Empire," and because on the strength of this fictitious oath certain petitions looking for numerous signatures are being circulated in our midst. I believe that an honest public would welcome a statement of facts.

However, "Liberty" bobs up but he does not reply to my letter, neither has he taken up my challenge to prove that the Bishops of Quebec take any scurrilous oath such as attributed to them in the Review of May 28th.

Instead, your correspondent wanders, and draws a red herring across the path, tries to shift and change the topic under discussion; he upbraids me for not saying certain things, wants to know if I will deny others and then dilates, quite characteristically, on his hobby, modernism.

Since "Liberty" has taken up his pen, let him take up my challenge, let him show that "the intent and meaning of the Catholic Church" is manifested or embodied in the Bishop's oath as published in the Review of May 28th; let him in a "manly and straightforward" manner disclose his identity and not hide behind a name that every scientific jack-ass has brayed forth for the past hundred years.

Then I am prepared with your permission to discuss any and every teaching of the Catholic Church, Princess Ena's or any other oath included.

Yours very truly,
M. J. O'BRIEN.

THE BIG STICK.

If the gist of ex-President Roosevelt's London fulminations may be taken as indicating that Britain's clemency to "new-caught, sullen peoples" is often mistaken by those same people for cowardice, then we may take it that he will find men to echo his opinion. Great Britain however, does not advertise to any appreciable extent, and we are of opinion that she is doing more good work in Egypt than meets the eye. At the best Mr. Roosevelt's impressions of the land of the Pyramids can probably be relegated to the "car-window" class, and the situation in those regions is perhaps too subtle and deep to allow of his quick-fire intellect seeing more than the phosphorescent foam on the face of the waters. He has, we presume, never plumbed the depths of meaning in the story of "The White Man's Burden," nor understand the patience and tolerance that must be meted out in spite of the wearisome refrain of "flattered folk and wild," as Kipling terms them, half-devil, and half-child:—

"The cry of those ye humor,
Ah slowly! towards the light;
Why brought ye us from bondage
Our loved Egyptian night."

If the stability of the Empire to which we belong is to be maintained by riding rough-shod over the racial and religious ideas of its constituents, then will its name no longer stand synonymous with freedom and equality, and its prestige will suffer accordingly. There may be defects in the administration of the Soudan, but the "big stick" method is not going to remedy them, and the ex-President's eulogy of American control in the Philippines is open to question, since it is palpable that the name of America is anathema maranatha in those islands. Take it for all in all his calithumpian four has savored more of the burlesque than the serious. Apart from the consideration that his speech was an outrage on every official and international propriety, as the London Chronicle declared, it may be said, that on more than one occasion the idol of the States has proved commonplace when he meant to be grandiloquent, and ludicrous when he meant to be impressive. Roosevelt may, as the American papers boastingly proclaim, have tied the British lion's tail in a knot by his speech, but if America had Britain's "job", and tried to run the Empire along the line indicated by the ex-President, we fancy there would be a few feathers missing in a very short time. Mr. Roosevelt is a courageous man, but he has the misfortune of appearing to blend his courage with bravado, and he is certainly ill-qualified to usurp the role of Pontifex Maximus and dictate to Europe on the strength of a few cursory observations made through American spectacles.

for the killing of Moreau by the prisoner, but Prendergast had had motive enough in his accusation. It had been open knowledge that he hated Hugh Stires, and his own character made it evident that he would not have scrupled to fasten a murder upon him.

But as Felder studied the twelve grave faces in the jury box, who in the last analysis were all that counted, he shared his client's hopelessness. Judgment and experience told him how futile were all theories in the face of that inarticulate but damning witness that Prendergast had left behind him. So the afternoon dragged through, a day for the state.

Sunset came early at that season. Dark fell, and the electric bulbs made their mimic day, but no one left the room. The outcome seemed a foregone conclusion. The jurymen no longer gazed at the prisoner, and when they looked at one another it was with grim understanding. As the last witness for the state stepped down and the prosecutor rested the judge glanced at the clock.

"There is a bare half hour," he said tentatively. "Perhaps the defense would prefer not to open testimony till tomorrow."

Felder had risen. He saw his opportunity—to bring out sharply a contrasting point in the prisoner's favor, the one circumstance, considered apart, pointing toward innocence rather than guilt; to leave this for the jury to take with them, to offset by its effect the weight of the evidence that had been given.

"I will proceed, if your honor pleases," he said and amid a rustle of surprise and interest called Jessica to the stand.

As she went forward to the witness chair she put back the shielding veil, and her face, pale as bramble bloom under her red bronzed hair, made an appealing picture. A cluster of white carnations was pinned to her coat, and as she passed Harry she bent and laid one in his hand. The slight act, not lost upon the spectators, called forth a sibilant flutter of sympathy, for it wore no touch of designed effect. Its impulse was as pure and unmistakable as its meaning.

"That man's name," he hissed, "is not Hugh Stires."

Harry had started uncontrollably as she rose, for he had had no inkling of the lawyer's intention, and a flush darkened his cheek at the cool touch of the flower. But this faded to a settled pallor as under Felder's grave questioning she told in a voice as clear as a child's, yet with a woman's emotion struggling through it, the story of her disregarded warning. While she spoke pain and shame traveled through his every vein, for, though technically she had not brought herself into the perplexing purview of the law, she was laying bare the secret of her own heart, which now he would have covered at any cost.

"That is all, your honor," said Felder when Jessica had finished her story.

"Do you wish to cross examine?" asked the judge perfunctorily.

The prosecutor looked at her as in stant. He saw the faintness in her eyes, the twitching of the gloved hand on the rail. "By no means," he said courteously and turned to his papers.

At the same moment as Jessica stepped into the open aisle the ironic chance treated the spellbound audience to a novel sensation. Every electric light suddenly went out and darkness swooped upon the town and the courtroom. Hubbub arose—people stood up in their places.

The judge's gavel pounded viciously and his stentorian voice bellowed for order.

"Keep your seats, everybody!" he commanded. "Mr. Clerk, get some candles. This court is not yet adjourned."

As the pall of darkness fell upon the courtroom it brought to Jessica a sense of premonition as though the present prefigured the gloomy end. She became sick and stumbled down the aisle feeling that she must reach the open air.

In the room Jessica had left the mob mill was simmering about. Here and there a match was struck and showed a circle of brightness. The glimmer on one of them lit the countenance of a man who had brushed her shoulder as he entered. It was Hallelujah Jones.

"Wait, wait!" he cried. "I have evidence to give!" He pointed excitedly toward Harry. "This man is not what you think. He is not"—

The judge's gavel thumped upon the wood. "How dare you," he vociferated "break in upon the deliberations of this court? I fine you $20 for contempt."

Felder had leaped to his feet. What could this man know? He took a bill from his pocket and clapped it

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days' test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

If the farmer delegates to London Methodist Conference, who vigorously opposed the measure making $900 the minimum salary for pastors, had to pay cash for their food as other classes of the community do, they would think the minimum in question too low rather than too high. The farmer is so independent of his fellow beings, that he is inclined to forget the extra expenses which have to be incurred by those not situated as he is himself.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

BRITAIN AND GERMANY.

No Love Lost Between These Two Nations.

It is amusing at times to take note of the action of nations much as one takes note of the impulses of men, under the influence of prejudice. Ever since Kaiser William joined with the German nation, during the South African war, in backing up the Boers in their resistance to British rule, there has been no love lost between the two nations; and, but for the moderation of our present day civilization, and the family ties between the monarchs regent over the two nations respectively, the distrust between the two might have developed itself ere this, into open resistence. Of late the rivalry between the two has found a soothing in the building of warships. Germany has the largest and most efficiently organized army in the world, and Britain possesses the most powerful navy. The latter is mistress of the seas. The former is maturing the ambition to assume or share in such a prestige and, as it was in the case of the Boer War, the people of Britain cannot get rid of the notion that Kaiser William is ever fomenting the ambition by building new ships supplementary to the German navy. Indeed, no one can study the situation in its evolutionary aspects, without coming to the conclusion that our present day civilization is going to have its hands full in obviating open strife. The pulse of diplomacy keeps beating within this greatest of all natural rivalries. The prejudice exists; and we all know how sweet a morsel to prejudice is to men and nations, being always much more attractive for some reason or other than the counsel which cultivates peace. Between the late Edward VII, and his nephew the Kaiser, there was no hard feeling. The peace loving nature of the former was a check on the ambitious impulses of the latter to take his place in history as a formidable disturber ily ties between uncle and nephew has been substituted by the family tie between cousins in the reigning William and George, we are all examining the problem of European peace in the light of this substitution. In fact, so far have the people of England begun to study that problem on the light of the Kaiser's conduct during the obsequies services of his uncle, that they are wondering whether their diagnosis of the Emperor's character is one that ought not to be revised; and, were it not for the Teutonic stubbornness of the Germans, some of whom have been foolishly sympathizing with certain of their public journals in their uncalled for aspersions on the late King of England, the animosity between the two consanguineous peoples might come to a healing in the near future. Of one thing we may be sure, and that is, that any unfriendly feeling between the reigning cousins will retard such a healing. Just as the penchant for building warship, the one bigger than the other, in a rivalry that may and in financial straits to both nations, cannot but also regard anything like an approaching "entente cordiale" between the two nations over which the royal cousins rule. A policy of common-sense would do much to save the situation.

ARE YOU IN DANGER?

You May Be Neglecting a Small Ailment and Thereby Inviting Serious Disease.

That little maladies grow into serious diseases we all know. Upon the stomach, liver and kidneys rest mainly the work of maintaining health. Most of your little sickness come from derangement of these organs. Experience proves that they are very frequently out of order, not badly perhaps, but even if only slightly out of order, it acts upon the mind and the spirits and upon the strength and regularity of the system.

It won't pay you to neglect your health; at the first sign of headache or languor take Dr. Hamilton's Pills and note how bright you feel next morning. You'll have a grand appetite, enjoy your breakfast and feel full of energy to go to work upon.

Your food soon tastes so good that you eat more than ever before and, of course, you grow stronger, ruddy, vivacious, just sparkling with energy and good health.

Soon your friends will notice the improvement, and by continuing to tone up your system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills you lay the sound foundation of permanent good health.

There is no medicine better for men, women or children, nothing for family use half so beneficial as Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. To look well, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Incorrigible Boy for Industrial.

Yesterday afternoon Willie Duncan, a boy not fourteen years of age who seems to have run wild and been under no parental control, appeared before his worship Magistrate Dumble at the police court. The youngster will be sent to the Industrial school in Toronto. The boy refused to stay at home and schooling seemed a minor factor in his life.

A tickling or dry cough can be quickly loosened with Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. No opium, no chloroform, nothing unsafe or harsh. Sold by all dealers.

Trouble Between 57th and Band Over

The Times was informed yesterday that the unfortunate difference existinb between the 57th Regiment and their long-time splendid band has at last been overcomé and that the former cordial relations are to be restored. If this is correct the citizens of Peterborough will have lost the subject for conversation in which a general and deep regret was universally expressed.

School Boys Find Cartridges.

Yesterday morning the proudest boy in Peterborough schools was the one who found a real loaded blank rifle cartridge. As the pupils of the Central school assembled to prepare for the day's scholastic work, the boys and some of the girls found that some companies of the 57th Regiment nad fought a sham battle in front of the county building. The field of combat at once became of infinitely more interest than any prosaic old seat of learning. One boy suggested a search for cartridge shells. Within twenty seven seconds the long grass in front of the north end of the county building looked as though a Kansas cyclone had swept by. With yells and shrieks of delight one youngster after another proudly displayed the empty shell of a blank cartridge. Some of the already deafening cries of "I've got another," "I've got a dandy," was drowned under the enthusiastic howls of delight of one fortunate lad who found a cartridge that had fallen unexploded. "Come on fellers and let's get two rocks. We'll put this cartridge on one and smash it with another. Gee, but there'll be a bully noise."

Tell some deserving Rheumatic sufferer, that there is yet one simple way to certain relief. Get Dr. Shoop's book on Rheumatism and a free trial test. Little Local Line

The Board of Education met last night in regular session. Full particulars on first page.

Constable Bennett of Havelock, had a busy time on Monday. He assisted High County Constable Cochrane in arresting the alleged horse thieves. Earlier in the evening he took into custody two tramps.

Yesterday the city was placarded by advertisements of an auction sale on Saturday, June 11th, conducted under the auspices of the Militia Department of the old drill shed in Ashburnham. Here is an old and honorable landmark gone.

Yesterday afternoon the session of the High Court, with Chief Justice Falconbridge presiding, was continued. The case of Johnston versus McKibbon occupied the attention of the court. As a result, after all evidence was in, judgment was reserved.

Sam Hagan, a Seattle miner, has just brought to that city from Alaska 900 pounds of gold worth $160,000. If this fortunate man wants to invest his wealth, Peterborough offers possibilities that will ensure good interest and absolute security. Peterborough, and incidentally the property therein, is certain to increase rapidly in values of real estate.

CONSTABLE COCHRANE BUSY.

Alleged Horse Thieves Captured at Some Distance From Havelock.

When Hight County Constable Cochrane dons his dignity and exercises his ingenuity born of long years of experience, law breakers may well tremble or jump the confines of Peterborough county. On Monday afternoon this officer went to Havelock in search of several horse thieves, who were supposed to be in that neighborhood. About 12 miles below the town, Alfred Claude was arrested, whilst Thomas Edwards was rounded up further on. They were brought to this city and appeared before magistrate Edmison, who remanded them until Monday in Havelock.

A $20,000 Dessert

It cost us over $20,000 to build the single special equipment for making Mooney's Sugar Wafers. When you taste them you will agree with us that the money was well spent.

VOL. XXXI NO. 131 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO THURSDAY JUNE 9 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

FRESH TREMORS THREW THE POPULACE INTO A PANIC

MILLION PEOPLE SLEEP OUT OF DOORS IN EARTHQUAKE STRICKEN DISTRICT.

Fresh Tremors Felt — Number of Dead Will Reach 300—King Aids in the Relief—Property Damage $2,000,000.

Naples, June 8.—Fresh tremors in Italy's earthquake stricken district today threw the population into a panic as serious as that occasioned by the first shocks. At Avellino, King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Halena, who insisted on joining him in the tour of the affected territory, appeared before the people in an effort to check their fright. Not even the royalties, however, could reassure the terrified.

Fully a million of people slept out of doors last night, and when day came refused to venture into their homes again even for cooking. Camps have been pitched around all towns in the waist of Italy from which word has reached here. Army tents are in demand.

It is believed that as the full list of the dead is secured and the fatalities in outlying districts have been learned that the death roll will run high. Government officials stated today that the first estimate of three hundred would not be too high. The towns are all under martial law, troops patrolling the streets, curbing the frightened people and directing the work of rescuing the dead and injured in the worst stricken towns.

Field hospitals have been set up at many points, and surgeons have been detailed to go through the remoter districts, to aid the injured on the farms.

On Bargain.

Fifteen cents or two for 25 cents, will buy a fourteen inch doll's high chair, rocker or arm chair. These are strongly made and painted white. Don't fail to get one of these bargains at Times Bookstore.

A REALLY CONSPICUOUS FIGURE

London, June 8.—The Westminster Gazette remarks:—"Throughout the English-speaking world the passing away of Goldwin Smith will be noted as the disappearance of one really conspicuous in the figures of his time. He was a brilliant controversialist who gave and received strokes with the same zest. He has lived to see the sharpness of his sword play soften and his popularity expand until he became almost an object of veneration among the Canadian people with whom he had cast in his lot.'

The Times in the course of a three column memoir says: —Goldwin Smith was almost unequalled among his contemporaries as a master of English prose. Perfectly free from party ties or bias in Canadian politics, he was a determined foe of political corruption. Standing alone in his prestige of intimate association with the great literary and political figures of a remarkable period in England, he wrote nothing which did not at once command attention and hearing. He set and maintained a standard of literary excellence in Canadian journalism which was everywhere recognized and appreciated. He stood for purity of civic administration, for honor as the base of political conduct. The unscrupulous tools of any party dreaded the lash of his cutting satire. Even those who differed from him most read with interest and pleasure his brilliant periods, but in spite of the charm of his style, the strength of his convicti on, the courage with which he expressed them, and the general excellence of his intentions, he never gained the place of influence in Canadian life to which he probably aspired, and to which his abilities appeared to entitle him."

Eight are Pledged to be Suicides

Pekin, June 6.—On Wednesday next a formal demand will be made upon the throne for the immediate convocation of a national parliament. The authors of the exaction to be attempted are the delegates to the provincial assemblies, who have the support of organizations of merchants.

The recently issued imperial decree constituting the Provincial Assemblies set forth that the way was being paved for a general legislative body to be summoned nine years after the first meeting of the assemblies.

Today delegates to the Provincial Assemblies are gathered here with the avowed purpose of exacting the issuance of an imperial decree summoning a national parliament forth with. The delegates have determined not to leave the capital until their memorial is granted. Eight of their number are pledged to suicide in the event that Prince Cheun, the regent, decides to adhere to his original program.

The merchants are furthering the aims of the delegates by refusing to pay the stamp tax till the regent comes to their way of thinking.

The presentation of the memorial is not likely to call forth an early response. On the contrary it is expected that Prince Chun will delay his reply as long as possible.

It is learned from the leaders of the movement that they do not intend to use drastic measures because of the fear that an anti-dynastic revolution would only serve to bring the armies of foreign powers into China.

Palace spies are watching closely delegates who have arrived here from the Chinese colonies in Australia, the Philippines, and elsewhere, and who are believed to represent the revolutionary element among the Chinese living abroad.

Rome, June 8.—A despatch received by the foreign office says Mohammet Abdullah, the Mad Mullah whose cruelties have resulted in terrible outrages in Africa and the sending of several expeditions against him by Italy and England, has been captured and shot by natives friendly to the whites. According to the despatch he was captured in a fight at Hardega, and after his execution his followers disbanded and are now in flight pursued by their foes.

WEDDING GIFTS WORTH $500,000

London, June 8.—With the marriage today of Miss Margaretta Drexel, daughter of Anthony Drexel, the millionaire banker of Philadelphia and London, to Guy Montagu Geo. Finch Hatton, Viscount Maidstone, another coffer full of American dollars found its way into the custody of the British nobility.

The wedding took place in fashionable St. Margaret's church, Westminster. The Bishop of London, assisted by Canon Horsley Hunson and minor clergymen, officiated. The bride was given away by her father. The bridesmaids were Lady Gladys Finch Hatton, sister of the groom; Misses Hilda Chichester, and Easey Gunning, his cousins; Misses Edith Wayne, Nellie Post, and Mildred Carter, all American girls; Lady Violet Manners, and Misses Rhoda Astlet, Sybil Fellowes, and Constance Combe

Lord Maidstone was attended by his brother, the Hon. Harold Finch Hatton, and the church aisle was lined by troopers of his Lordship's regiment, the Royal East Kent Yeomanry.

The wedding presents are among the most numerous and costly ever seen in London, estimates of their cost running as high as $500,000. Among them are:

A diamond chain of unusual length from J. Pierpont Morgan.

A twelve-carat diamond set in a ring, from George Jay Gould.

Pearl dog collar with diamond bars and a diamond plaque i slung from a chain, from Anthony Drexel.

String of pearls from Mrs. Drexel.

Diamond and pearl tira, from Edward T. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia Drexel's business partner.

Antique gold mounted fan, from the Duke and Duchess De Vizen.

Gold-fitted auto bag, from Count and Countess Sigray.

Enamel neck slides, from Lord Allingtop.

Old silver bell, from Dowager Lady Arran.

A set of Wedgewood vases from Lady Bessborough.

FUNERAL OF GOLDWIN SMITH WILL LIKELY BE ON SATURDAY

NEW YORK PRESS ON DR. SMITH

New York, N.Y., June 8.—The World, of Goldwin Smith, in part says: "Goldwin Smith did not long survive his pupil, King Edward. He had lived eighty-seven years, had won honors, had toiled usefully. He rose superior to circumstances, which cast his life among aristocratic associates. He was a foe of cant and adefender of civil and religious freedom. He powerfully aided with his pen in England the cause of the north in our secession war. In Canada, as in Oxford and Ithaca, he was a Liberal. He held that manifest destiny would make Canada and the United States in time one country, and he welcomed meantime every effort for trade reciprocity and neighborly understanding. Such a life is worth much to peace and progress."

The Sun, in a biographical sketch, says "Goldwin Smith in his later life was called the last of the great agnostics, but he was so universally known through his writings that he scarcely needed any such identification. All his life he was a thinker and a clear and forceful writer, and he never lacked a medium through which to disseminate his views."

Under the caption, "Goldwin Smith," the Herald editorial this morning says: "A strong man, who never hesitated to take a stand for what he believed was right. Professor Goldwin Smith, whose death is recorded this morning, ever held the respect even of those whose views were not his. A patriotic far-seeing Canadian, he urged political union with the United States and opposed as unnatural the erection of tariff walls between the two countries

SERVICE WAS HELD AT CONVOCATION HALL.

Death Mask Taken—Coffin Like That of Mrs. Smith—Pictures Given to Toronto.

Goldwin Smith's Last Article Was on Church Union—People May See the Remains.

Toronto, June 8.—In the midst of his beloved books, his tools as he was wont to call them, the master of the Grange sleeps his last sleep this morning. The June sun streams around the closely drawn blinds and lies in golden bands on the carpets and across the table where he will never again write for the enlightenment of the world. By his head stands a simple little bouquet of dark red roses and marguerites. They arrived this morning from Professor Clark of Trinity, himself an old Oxford scholar, and like the dead man, though in lesser degree, enthroned in the world of books.

Dressed in a plain black suit the dead scholar lies on a simple couch facing the door, his wasted hands simply crossed. He has failed greatly, the weary hours of his last illness telling on him heavily. His beard had been allowed to grow and this has changed his appearance considerably.

On three sides of him stand his books ranged in solid ranks as close by as they can be packed from floor to ceiling. There is not a gap in the ranks that the eye can see. On the table neatly arranged are manuscript papers, it is as though the owner of all that accumulated wisdom of all the ages had lain down

Would Unify All the Marriage Laws

Ottawa, June 8.—At this morning's session of the Anglican Synod Rev. J. F. Gorman presented a notice of motion asking the Synod to pass a resolution favoring the unification of all the marriage laws of the Dominion. The resolution states that recent cases have come to light in Quebec where dissolutions of marriage have been made by ecclesiastical authorities. This, it reads, should be done away with and the marriage laws of Canada be made the same in all the provinces. The resolution will be discussed in connection with the moral and social reform committee report.

Should Always be Prepared for War

London, June 8.—Theodore Roosevelt receiving from Oxford University the degree of Doctor of Civil Law, today demanded the maintenance of "the fighting edge"—the constant preparedness for war, and the readiness to use the big stick.

Reiterating his race-suicide doctrine in his Romanes lecture, his subject being "Biological Analogies in History," the former president again gave his views on the position of the white man, his subject being of especial interest now because of the furor created by the Guild Hall speech attacking British rule in Egypt and the aspirations of the natives there.

NO CUT-AND-DRIED PLAN.

"The Englishman and the American," he said, "are brought into contact with utterly alien peoples, some with a civilization more ancient than their own, others still in, or having but recently risen from, barbarism. The problems that arise are of well-nigh inconceivable difficulty. They cannot be solved by the foolish sentimentality of stay-at-home people, with little patent receipts, and those out-and-dried theories of the political nursery which have such limited applicability amid the crash of elemental forces.

"Neither can they be solved by the raw brutality of the men who adopt might as the only standard, and treat alien races only as subjects for exploitation.

EACH MAN AS BROTHER.

"There can be no justification for one race managing or controlling another unless the management and control are exercised in the interest and for the benefit of that other race. We cannot afford to deviate from the great rule of righteousness which bids us treat each man on his worth as a man."

WILL GO BACK WARD.

Of race-suicide his most striking declaration was: "A most ominous sign is the dimunition in the birth rate now shared by most of the civilized nations of Central and Western Europe, of America and Australia, a dimunition so great that if it continues for the next century at the rate which has obtained for the last twenty-five years, all the more highly civilized peoples will be stationary, or else have begun to go backward in population, while many of them will have already gone very far backward.

Little Damage was Done to the Crops

Winnipeg, June 8.—Reports received from all parts of the West show that while crops have been practically at a standstill during the past two weeks owing to the cold weather and cloudy skies, the damage from frosts has not been as heavy as was at first feared, and with weather, which has now arrived, the crops will be safe.

Some of the early-planted oats were nipped by frost and at occasional points, particularly in Manitoba, the wheat was touched, but taken as a whole the damage will not be more than five per cent., if that high.

Alberta reports now are more favorable than Manitoba or Saskatchewan, and the heavy snowstorm seems only to have done good. Everything now depends upon warm weather. If the weather is favorable from now on the crops will be well up to the average for 1910. The weather today is warm, with the probabilits of a contiguance.

The Coronation Oath

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—The Rev. Dr. O'Brien asks for my real name. I have sent him my card, accordingly, by this mail. So long as the correspondents know that the correspondence is being conducted in good faith it does not matter to the public what names are subscribed to it. All trouble on that score being at an end let Dr. O'Brien and myself address ourselves to the task before us.

Dr. O'Brien says:

"Since 'Liberty' has taken up his pen, let him take up my challenge, let him show that 'the intent and meaning of the Catholic Church' is manifested or embodied in the Bishop's oath as published in the Review of May 28th; let him in a 'manly and straightforward' manner disclose his identity and not hide behind a name that every scientific jackass has brayed forth for the past hundred years. Then I am prepared with your permission to discuss any and every teaching of the Catholic Church, Princess Eva's or any other oath included."

In reply to this challenge, therefore, let me say, first of all, that I am not anxious to maintain the actual correctness in form of the oaths referred to so long as they are correct in substance, because we maintain that the whole Catholic teaching is filled with the "animus damnandi" towards all forms of religious and moral teaching other than those of the Roman Catholic Church. A few unimportant words are of no consequence, but I admit that they should not be printed if not correct.

In order to secure a satisfying answer on the real points at issue, I submitted a question to Dr. O'Brien and I now repeat it.

"Will Dr. O'Brien deny that the Roman Church believes that she is commissioned by Jesus Christ to extirpate from off the face of the earth where possible, all heresies, Protestantism among them?"

And let me repeat the question immediately following:

"Will Dr. O'Brien say that the Church recognizes that Protestantism has a right to live and propagate itself? If he will I will give twenty-five dollars to any charity he may name."

Let me ask another question that suggests itself:—"Have the Methodist clergy, for example, a right to preach the Gospel? Has anybody outside the R.C. Hierarchy a right to preach the Gospel OR TO SAY WHAT THEY THINK is right or wrong in any line of human thought? If so, in what line?"

Dr. O'Brien says in his letter some thing about the braying of a jackass. There is a mistake here. Jackasses do not bray. Donkeys have a monopoly of that form of vocalism. There is a laughing jack-ass it is true, but it is a bird. However if it is a bit of delicate reference to myself it may be all right, yet for the good name of this correspondence let us be correct about the animal and not "fall down" in our natural history.

Let us, however, consider the chief and vital point of this discussion. Does not the Roman Catholic Church say that there is no such thing as that which the PEOPLE understand as LIBERTY? It is for this liberty, this freedom, so far as a man can be free, that I am contending, since without it men are slaves, worse even than the blacks, who while they were physically bond were yet "free" to THINK as they pleased. It is no answer to say that human restriction is sometimes better than freedom or is so for some people. That may indeed be true, but what man can therefore rise up and say he has the right to decide for others in that particular? It is for the people as a whole to say that. It is that very extraordinary idea of an exclusive right to rule and dominate that actuates all forms of trusts, industrial as well as religious, and that is driving mankind to madness or socialism. I agree that the present is the most momentous date in history. THE LATENT PAPAL ENCYCLICAL HAS MADE LIBERTY THE ISSUE. It says on this point:

"Such is the situation for the Modernists and their one great anxiety is, in consequence, to find a way of conciliation between the authority of the Church and the liberty of believers,"

As a consequence, the struggle, now more intense than ever before, is for the right of men to decide for themselves as between men and men and themselves and God. The claim of any man whether by virtue of his office or otherwise, be he king or priest, to claim by right divine the right to decide for men in that respect is to revive the old "divine right" idea of men over men, a privilege once claimed by kings, a claim that has plunged the world in blood and sorrow before and seems likely to do so again. What would Catholics say if Protestants denied them the privilege of believing and worshipping as they saw fit. It would be an intolerable position and the reverse is just as intolerable. If God is the judge then let Him do the judging as between them that profess to do His Will and argue for their different creeds for, surely, it is only the All-knowing and the All-wise that can truly probe the heart of man. But to put the judging in the control of man is to put one man in another's power in a way that is at once as plainly needless as it is plainly, I submit, unworkable.

Yours Respectfully,
FOR LIBERTY.

May Not Push War on The Lords

VETO QUESTION NOT LIKELY TO BE FORCED FOR IMMEDIATE CONSIDERATION.

Parliament Met Yesterday—All Classes Concerned in Proposal to Eliminate Protestant Declaration in King's Oath.

London, June 8.—The first parliament of King George V. assembled today confronted by the most complex situation that has ever faced that body at the beginning of a new reign. In a political situation of great delicacy with the effects of King Edward's death becoming more apparent daily, Parliament takes up not only the great question of curbing the veto powers of the House of Lords, and of straightening out of the national finances, but of altering the King's oath. The latter now seems to dominate the public mind, all creeds and classes taking sides on the proposal to eliminate the protestant declarations in the oath, termed insults to the Roman Catholics.

CONSIDERED THE OATH.

Previous to the formalities of opening, the cabinet met in Downing street, all the members being present. It is understood at this meeting the question of the oath was given particular importance.

In well informed political circles the belief has been gaining ground that while the fight would continue with much bitterness, the war on the Lords would not be forced to immediate consideration. Radical Liberals, however, are keen for the veto question to be urged ahead, declaring that important advantages would be lost to the government through delay.

Both sides have been reported to desire a breathing space in which they may size up the situation, and the attitude of King George.

THE WEATHER.

Fine and warm.

MISS LOTTIE DAVIDSON NOW MRS. H. B. VANEVERY.

A Quietly Solemnized Wedding of General Local Interest.

The wedding of Miss Lottie J. Davidson and Mr. Holland Blair VanEvery was solemnized yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, 563 Aylmer street. The wedding whilst of special interest in Peterborough, was quietly carried off, only immediate friends of the contracting parties attending.

Rev. Robert Pogue officiated and Miss Georgie Davidson, sister of the bride, played the wedding march.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. VanEvery left on the 4.36 C.P.R. train for the States, and will reside in York, Penn., where the broom holds a good position.

The numerous beautiful presents, received testified to the high esteem in which both the bride and groom are held by their many friends.

KNOWLEDGE OF FOOD.

Proper Selection of Great Importance in Summer.

The feeding of infants is a very serious proposition, as all mothers know. Food must be used that will easily digest, or the undigested parts will be thrown into the intestines and cause sickness.

It is important to know that a food can be obtained that is always safe; that is Grape-Nuts.

A Texas mother writes: "My baby took the first premium at a baby show and is in every way a prize baby. I have fed him on Grape Nuts since he was five months old. I also use your Postum for myself."

Grape-Nuts food is not made solely for a baby food by any means, but is manufactured for all human beings.

One special point of value is that the food is partially predigested in the process of manufacture, not by any drugs or chemicals whatsoever, but simply by the action of heat, moisture, and time, which permits the diastase to grow, and changes the starch into dextrin, a portion of which is further changed to dextrose or grape-sugar. This presents food to the system ready for immediate assimilation.

Its special value as a food, beyond the fact that it is easily digested, is that if supplies the needed elements to quickly rebuild the cells in the brain and nerve centres throughout the body.

MEN—YOU NEED NERVE

EARLY INDISCRETIONS AND EXCESSES HAVE UNDERMINED YOUR SYSTEM

The nerves control all actions of the body so that anything that debilitates them will weaken all organs of the system. Early indiscretions and Excesses have ruined thousands of promising young men. Unnatural Drains sap their vigor and vitality and they never develop to a proper condition of manhood. They remain weaklings, mentally, physically and sexually. How you feel? Are you nervous and weak, despondent and gloomy, specks before the eyes with dark circles under them, weak back, kidneys irritable, palpitation of the heart, boastful, debilitating dreams, sediment in urine, pimples on the face, eyes sunken, hollow cheeks, careworn expression, poor memory, lifeless, distrustful, lack energy and strength, tired mornings, restless nights, changeable moods, premature decay, bone pains, hair loose, etc.

If You Lived in Montreal

you could come and see the wonderful Cartwright Automatic Press, which is destined to revolutionize the job-printing world, and make money for the shareholders of the Company, as other great inventions, like the Linotype and Telephone, have done.

But, if you cannot call and see the Press itself, you can do as many other investors are doing,—you can read the interesting Prospectus and our little booklet, entitled "Expert Opinions", which gives some adequate idea of this great invention.

You will note when you read the literature we send you, how Publishers, Printers, and all classes of men connected with the printing business—men who thoroughly understand the real merit and value of such an invention—are the most enthusiastic endorsers of the Press, and what is still more important, they are buyers of both the presses and the shares.

EARACHE, TOOTHACHE!

To Cure the Pain in Ten Seconds and Get Instant Relief, Nothing Equals.

NERVILINE.

Fifty years ago Nerviline was used from coast to coast and in thousands of homes this trusty liniment served the entire family, cured all their minor ills and kept the doctor's bill small. Today Nerviline still holds first rank in Canada among pain-relieving remedies — scarcely a home you can find that doesn't use it.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 4398

From Port Hope, Ont., Mr. W. T. Greenaway, of the Guide newspaper staff, writes: "For twenty years we have used Nerviline in our home, and not for the world would we be without it. As a remedy for all pain, earache, toothache, cramps, headache and disordered stomach, I know of no preparation so useful and quick to relieve as Nerviline."

Let every mother give Nerviline a trial; it's good for children, good for old folks—you can rub it on as a liniment or take it internally.

Wherever ther is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse anything but Nerviline. 25c. per bottle, five for $1.00 all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

PARTY STRIFE RESCHED.

The decorious truce that followed the death of King Edward is already over. The two great parties are at each others throats. The direct charge is made that the King's death was due to the measures taken by the Liberal leaders. They, it is maintained, first introduced the crown into the controversy between the lords and the commons.

English politics has the reputation for a decorum beyond that enjoyed by politics elsewhere. Yet human nature is human nature, and in times of sharp stress any weapon will be seized. It has already been reported that Queen Alexandra told John Burns, over the King's coffin, that he and Asquith were responsible for the King's death. It is now reported further that Princess Victoria, on meeting the kaiser, brought the same accusation against Asquith and Lloyd-George.

It is quite possible that the course of King Edward's life for many years was not such as would help brace him for a great political crisis and that the first envisagement of reality, after a long term of functioning that was largely decorative, may have imposed a severer strain than he could bear; yet the world will regret the unchivalrous introduction of the women of the royal family as fuel added to the flames of party controversy, even if uncautious words uttered during the first hours of grief shall have supplied some pretext for such a step. The feminine element, true, is not unknown to British politics; but the quarrel as it stood, even before the King's death, was acute and complicated enough without the introduction of added features. Forbearance today will be matter for gratulation in retrospect when the long-continued controversy shall finally have reached its closed.

LOOKS LIKE STUPIDITY.

The control of immigration is so difficult a problem that there should be no disposition to criticize the government unreasonably in this connection. Some years ago the influx of the unemployable and other undesirables assumed quite alarming proportions. The situation was accentuated by the temporary commercial reverse of 1907 and 1908, and the different charitable organizations of the country became overtaxed. As a direct outcome of this experience the immigration regulations have been made more stringent. The sieve through which the arrivals are strained has been fitted with a finer mesh.

The tendency in all reforms is to run to extremes, and possibly, that is what the government has done in this instance. An order-in-council adopted this spring requires all immigrants, except farm-laborers, to have not only tickets to their ultimate destination in this country, but also $25 in cash for the head of the family, and a proportionate amount for each of the other members. This rule has given rise to some hardship and to much ill-feeling in Great Britain.

The Westminster Gazette objects to the ungenerous spirit in which the regulation is being interpreted and applied. It calls particular attention to the efforts of an emigration society to help a reputable woman with four children to join her husband already at work in Canada. Every inquiry had been made, and the committee were unanimously agreed that it was a most deserving case for assistance. The husband had sent a letter explaining that he was in full work, and hoped soon to be able to refund the money which it was proposed to advance for the emigration of his family.

At this point Canadian officialdom stepped in with the decision that the wife and children could not be allowed to go because the husband and father was not engaged in farm work. The crime of which the father was convicted and his family penalized. The wife and children will now have to wait until he can earn the $176 necessary for their passage and landing money. No doubt ever since he came out this industrious artisan has been working to get a home together for those he left behind. It will probably take him another year to save up the money needed to bring them out. Meantime their passage, which had already been taken by the emigration society in question, has been cancelled. Surely there is need for greater elasticity in our emigration laws, and for more intelligence in their enforcement.

down on the clerk's desk.

"I beg to purge him of contempt," he said, "and call him as a witness."

Hallelujah Jones snatched the Bible from the clerk's hands and kissed it. Knowledge was burning his tongue. The jury were leaning forward in their seats.

"Have you ever seen the prisoner before?" asked Felder.

"Yes."

"When?"

"When he was a minister of the gospel."

Felder stared. The judge frowned. The jury looked at one another, and a laugh ran round the hushed room.

The merriment kindled the evangelist's distempered passion. Sudden anger flamed in him. He leaned forward and shook his head vehemently at the table where Harry sat, his face as contrite as the flower he wore.

"That man's name," he blazed, "is not Hugh Stires. It is a cloak he has chosen to cover his shame. He is the Rev. Henry Sanderson of Aniston."

* * * * * * *

Harry's pulses had leaped with excitement when the street preacher's first exclamation startled the court room; now they were beating as though they must burst. Through the stir about him he heard the crisp voice of the district attorney:

"I ask your honor's permission before this extraordinary witness is examined further," he said caustically, "to read an item printed here which has a bearing upon the testimony." He held in his hand a newspaper which earlier in the afternoon, with cynical disregard of Felder's tactics, he had been casually perusing.

"Read it, sir."

Holding the newspaper to a candle, the lawyer read in an even voice, prefacing his reading with the journal's name and date:

This city, which was aroused in the night by the burning of St. James' chapel, will be greatly shocked to learn that its rector, the Rev. Henry Sanderson, who has been for some months on a prolonged vacation, was in the building at the time and now lies at the city hospital, suffering from injuries from which it is rumored there is grave doubt of his recovery.

In the stirred that rippled the courtroom Harry felt his heart bound and swell. Under the succinct statement he clearly discerned the fact. He saw the pitfall into which Hugh had fallen—the trap into which he himself had sent him on that fatal errand with the ruby ring on his finger. "Grave doubt of his recovery!" A surge of relief swept over him to his finger tips. He would be free to go back—to be himself again, to be Jessica's—if Hugh died. The reading voice drummed in his ears:

The facts have not as yet been ascertained, but it seems clear that the popular young minister returned to town unexpectedly last night and was asleep in his study when the fire started. His presence in the building was unsuspected until too late, and it was by little short of a miracle that he was brought out alive.

As we go to press we learn that Mr. Sanderson's condition is much more hopeful than was at first reported.

Harry's heart contracted as if a giant hand had clutched it. His elation fell like a rotten tree girdled at the roots. If Hugh did not die! He chilled as though in a spray of frigid air. Hugh's escape—the chance his conscience had given him—was cut off.

The judge reached for the newspaper the lawyer held, ran his eye over it and brought his gavel down with an angry snort.

"Take him away," he said. "His testimony is ordered stricken from the records. The fine is remitted, Mr. Felder. We can't make you responsible for lunatics. The court stands adjourned."

Felder had been among the last to leave the courtroom. He was discomfited and angry. At the door of the courthouse Dr. Brent slipped an arm through his.

"Too bad, Tom," he said sympathizingly. "I don't think you quite developed it."

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days' test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

If the farmer delegates to London Methodist Conference, who vigorously opposed the measure making $900 the minimum salary for pastors, had to pay cash for their food as other classes of the community do, they would think the minimum in question too low rather than too high. Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE MARRIAGE MONTH.

Enter June, the month of weddings upon which subject much nonsense has been written by well meaning persons who would enjoy a funeral solemnity upon those taking part in a marriage celebration. There can be so doubt but that the obligations undertaken by the contracting parties are solemn enough, but the union for life of "two souls with but a single thought," is an occasion for rejoicing rather than sorrow. To most young people the ceremony is somewhat of an ordeal. It is made the harder when the bridal party is surrounded by faces as long as though the couple were the victims of some cruel fate. It is made the easier by the good-natured jollity of friends who express their confidence in the future of the bride and groom by smiles rather than tears.

It is quite true that some wedding pranks have been carried too far, but if good taste and moderation are exercised by the wedding party, there should be but little objection to the innocent confetti-throwing and other means of congratulating the newly-weds which are generally adopted. On the whole, these things relieve the strain of what may easily be made a trying proceeding for those immediately concerned. Since the sensible substitution of confetti for rice, the dangerous element in marriage celebrations has been greatly removed.

Peterborough is enjoying a season even more than usually prosperous, and the probability therefore is that June will see the city's marriage record eclipsed. It will be in the grey days of fall, however, that the crucial test of the happiness of the month's honeymooners will come when they have settled down in their homes and are accommodating themselves to the humdrum duties of their life together. The happy marriage is altogether more usual than the news columns might lead one to think, for the unhappily wedded are generally the ones who take the road to publicity. Canadian couple who have chosen sanely and well have no reason to expect other outcome to their experiment than that which the fairy tales accord to the good prince

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity?
Will you tell some sick friend of this remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free to you if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments every where in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative alone that quickly vitalizes, and strengthens, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the cause of these ailments—the failing, faltering inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the suffering sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, when maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same identical "no risk, no pay" protective plank.

In fact, you are free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will show my unique method. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is ready to your simple request.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the message to some sick friend.

I shall be glad to give the opportunity.

I will have an honest and trustworthy drug clerk to whom you can confidently go for the 30 day test.

Then first, and not till then, pay me if you please and not one cent need you pay for the 30 day test.

So write me only a card—and I will send you all details, also my valuable book, entitled "Dr. Shoop's Home Physician," which tells you how to get well and keep well. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 58, Racine, Wis.

BACK-WEARY MEN.

The Helping Hand of Dr. Hamilton's Pills Will Cure in a Few Weeks.

"Foundry work compels man to work in the winter in very cold shops," writes Truss T. Bolter, a well-known mechanic in Hamilton. "I contracted a very severe cold a few months ago which settled in my back and kidneys. I suffered constant pain, and in bending over my work and in heavy lifting, the pain at time was excruciating. My digestion got all out of order, doubtless because the kidneys didn't work right. My wife had used Dr. Hamilton's Pills as a family medicine and I took her advice and started them also. To my great delight a few doses helped me so much it was proof I was using a true remedy. Natural action of the kidneys was brought about, burning and aching ceased, and the back-lameness gradually disappeared. I no longer fear my work. I feel strong and robust, and with such a remedy as Dr. Hamilton's Pills at hand I will probably never again be sick. I advise every working man to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

No other medicine will regulate the system and maintain health like Dr. Hamilton's Pills—beware of the dealer who tries to induce you to take something else on which he makes more profit. Sold in yellow boxes 25c. Prepared by The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

Old Citizen is Seriously Ill.

The many friends of Mr. Edward Clarke of 51 Weir street, will regret to learn that this venerable Peterborough citizen is seriously ill. Mr. Clarke, who is the father of Mr. Frank Clarke, the George street jeweller, is 86 years old. It is feared that, owing to his advanced age, recovery on his part is almost beyond hope.

T.A.S. Picnic.

At a meeting of the committees in connection with the T.A.S. picnic, which is held annually on the first of July, it was decided that the merchants will not be called upon to contribute prizes this year. Any friends of the society, however, who desire to, may donate prizes to competition.

Tell some deserving Rheumatic sufferer, that there is yet one simple way to certain relief. Get Dr. Shoop's book on Rheumatism and a free trial test. This book will make it entirely clear how Rheumatic pains are quickly killed by Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy—liquid or tablets. Send no money. The test is free. Miss Emma Argue Now a Matron.

A pretty June wedding took place yesterday at 2.15, the contracting parties being Miss Emma Argue and Mr. Frank Sanderson. The marriage took place at the home of the groom's brother-in-law, 220 London street. Miss Greta LeBar made a very pretty flower girl. Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson left for Buffalo and other points on the 4.36 C.P.R. train, and on their return will reside in Peterborough.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A Remenyi in the Making.

One of Peterborough's leading musicians yesterday afternoon, attended the Crystal Theater to hear the little musical prodigy, George Shepperly. This seven-year-old boy, abrother of the celebrated Shepperly Sisters, is at this tender age a violinist whose future will bring the name of Canada into international talk. The little fellow, not much larger than his violin, brought out a sweetness of tone and a correctness of touch that shows a master violinist in the making. The musician noted has attended three performances simply to hear this child. He assured The Times that the boy gives promise of being a second Remenyi. Little George closed his engagement here last night.

SOCIETY EVENTS

The Times will be pleased to receive notices of Wedding, Social Events, Personal Announcements, which will be published in this column free of charge.

Mr. Fred Miller of Rochester, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. Walter Belleghem is in Toronto for a few days on business.

Mr. E. G. Haney of Lockport, N. Y., is in the city, and will remain here for some time.

Messrs. T. C. Donohue and G. M. Reebles, of Colborne, Ont., are at the National.

Mrs. John Brown of Chicago, Ill., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. D. Allison, Water street.

Miss Rose Coughlin of St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, is visiting Mrs. L. Deyman, Louis street.

Mr. Leo Hogan, who has been visiting his parents in Ashburnham, left for Rochester at noon yesterday

Mrs. Wm. D. Arnott of North Monaghan, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Robert Linton, in Campbellford.

Mrs. William VanEvery, 208 Rubidge street, has returned home from a two months' visit with friends in New York, and Springville, Penn.

Mr. and Mrs. Lockhart, Weller St. have returned from an extremely pleasant automobile jaunt throughout Western Ontario. They were away over a month.

Very general regret was expressed throughout the city yesterday over the resignation of Mr. Wm. Smith from the local staff of teachers.

If you would have a safe yet certain Cough Remedy in the home, try Dr. Shoop's — at least once. It is thoroughly unlike any other Cough preparation. Its taste will be entirely new to you—unless it is already your favorite Cough Remedy. No opium, chloroform, or any other stupefying ingredients are used. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy it wonderful curative properties. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

Little Local Line

Mr. Wm. Stabler will ship a number of store hogs to Buckhorn on Monday next.

A meeting was held yesterday evening in the Y.M.C.A. rooms, for the purpose of reorganizing the Cricket Club.

The annual excursion to Peterborough on Wednesday, June 15, under the auspices of the Unionville Public Library Board bids fair to attract a great crowd.

More Italians have arrived in Hastings to push along work on the T.V.C. It is hoped that the Dagos are good hustling workers as we want that canal finished.

A tickling or dry cough can be quickly loosened with Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. No opium, no chloroform, nothing unsafe or harsh. Sold by all dealers.

The Peterborough dentists are again the inaugurators of the Thursday half holiday during June, July, and August.

Last night at 8.10, a sight, possibly common in European countries, but strange in Canada, was seen on George street immediately in front of the Customs House. Two well dressed men had their arms round one another's necks and vigorously kissed each other on their respective faces. Whiskey.

THE BAILEY CASE.

Mr. Munro Replies to "Humanity's" Article in The Times.

To the Editor of The Times.

Sir,—A correspondent signing himself "Humanity" in a recent issue of The Times, criticises the action of the jury in the Bailey case for not punishing the parents for criminal neglect. I shall not attempt to reply to the epithets applied to Christian Scientists by your correspondent, such as "hypocritical antics," "ignorant," "education of a scullion," "cunning of a fortune teller," "foolish and disreputable," "faker," etc., for such language of itself destroys any weight it might have. There is one point, however, which I should like to briefly allude to.

"Christian Science is not a "fad," but a practical and demonstrable system of religion and healing, which for the past forty years, in the face of the bitterest opposition and ridicule, and oftentimes persecution, has proved beyond the shadow of a doubt its right to be recognized as the greatest blessing that has come to mankind since the day of our great Master, whose teachings and practice it logically explains and interprets, in the way he commanded, namely, by the healing of sickness and the overcoming of sin. To compel a Christian Scientist to resort to a system of healing in which he has no faith, simply because it happens to be the practice of the majority, and to deprive him of the privilege of depending upon that system which he has proven in his own experience to the most efficacious, would be intolerance of the worst kind, and would not only be opposed to the precepts of the Golden Rule, but directly contrary to the British sense of justice and fair play upon which we in this country pride ourselves. Fortunately this sort of intolerance has fallen into disuse, and the law protects those who are in the minority as it does those in the majority. Were "Humanity's" ideas consistently carried out, and those would some day find himself punished terms of healing, prosecuted, he would some day find himself punished for practising his favorite method of healing, for at the present rate that drug healing is being abandoned it will be simply a matter of time till that system becomes a thing of the past. We must all learn to be more tolerant of the opinions and beliefs of those who differ from us, and be willing to accord to our neighbor the same rights which we ourselves enjoy.

Thanking you for space for this explanation, I remain,

Yours very truly.
C. R. MUNRO.

MADE MONEY AT COBALT.

Mr. Milton Porter in the City After Three Successful Years in Cobalt.

Mr. Milton Porter, an old Peterborough boy, who for the past three years has "made good," in the Cobalt District, mining and prospecting is again in Peterborough on a flying visit. Yesterday he was kept busily engaged in shaking hands with his hosts of friends. Mr. Porter is a brother of "Dave," and the two formerly ran Porters' Delicatessen. Mr. Porter who has just returned from an extended visit to Boston, New York and other eastern points, is accompanied by his friend, Mr. J. McMillan of Cobalt. Both these gentlemen left Cobalt with bank rolls of most corpulent dimensions. When they arrived here the said bank rolls had swelled like a Zeppelin balloon after interesting New York capitalists in Cobalt mines. Mr. Porter yesterday showed The Times a big chunk of ore found in the O'Brien mine, that is almost pure silver. Mr. Milton Porter and his friend Mr. McMillan leave in a few days for Saskatoon, where they have large real estate investments. This is the way Peterborough bred boys get on.

MISS STEINHOFF HONORED.

Pupils of Central School Held an At-Home Yesterday Afternoon.

A pleasing function was yesterday afternoon held in the Collegiate Institute when Miss Ethel Steinhoff, instructress of domestic science in the local schools was hostess. The pupils of the Senior Fourth class of the Central school held an at-home. The guests were the parents and friends of the pupils, and the guest of honor Miss Steinhoff. A very pleasant hour or two were passed. Refreshments made by the pupils were served and in their appetizing flavor and dainty appearance, displayed the good work done by Miss Steinhoff, and also the close attention the pupils must have paid to her instructions. A pleasing feature of the afternoon was the presentation by the pupils, to Miss Steinhoff of a large and very handsome bouquet of American beauty roses. Miss Steinhoff was taken completely by surprise and expressed her thanks for the handsome boquet in a few well chosen words.

It might be added that every article of the dainty repast served on this occasion was cooked by the pupils themselves.

Funeral Saturday

for a moment to rest, and would presently rise again to resume his work. There is an expression of high serenity, of sublime tranquility on the wasted face, a look as though he had solved the problem as though the seeker after truth, as he is described by a friend, had at last found it. The bed in which he died has been removed, and the couch that has always stood in the room, and on which in his declining years he so often rested, has been wheeled into the center of the room to give its master his last rest.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Leary and daughter, Miss Katie, are in Cobourg for a few days to attend the funeral of Mrs. Leary's youngest brother, Mr. George A. Wright.

CAVAN NEWS.

The sheds of the Methodist Church in Cavanville are being re-modeled and repaired. Mr. W. Elliott and Mr. C. Paul have the contract.

Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Nill.

Miss Lola Harkness of Millbrook, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr and Mrs. T. Harkness.

The many friends of Mrs. H. Braithwaite are sorry to hear of her illness.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church held their monthly meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Hunter. A large attendance was present and a pleasant social time was spent at conclusion of business meeting.

An Asbestos Proposition

An Investment That Should Appeal to the Investors

The Rochester & Wyoming Asbestos Co.

Owning 220 acres of Rich Asbestos property in the central part of the State of Wyoming.

Capital Stock $500,000, divided into 500,000 shares with a par value of One Dollar each, full paid and non-assessable.

Offering only 50,000 shares, Treasury Stock at One Dollar per share.

The main features of this Company are: Its low capitalization ($500,000) and the fact that six of the seven of the Board of Directors are business men of the City of Rochester; no bonus or free stock; every share of stock issued except as property purchase price has been paid for in cash. The Company is being, and will continue to be, conducted on economical basis. The Company has also the advantage of having the services of Mr. Edwin Hall, State Geologist of Wyoming, and an Official Inspector of Mines as Consulting Engineer. The fact that Mr. Hall has accepted this position as Consulting Engineer indicates the reliability of the Company. As a state official it is his duty to see that only Companies conducted on the soundest business principles be allowed to exist.

Only 50,000 shares of Treasury Stock is offered for sale at $1.00 per share. Subject to increase at any time.

A Call From Oregon

Opportunities in the Far West

The greatest industrial activity in this country is now centered in Oregon. Two of the biggest railroad systems in the U. S., with intense rivalry, are pushing branch lines into the remote portions of this State, and an exodus from the East is on in the occupation of this the LAST FRONTIER ON THE CONTINENT. Fortunes will be made here THIS YEAR—NEXT YEAR and EVERY YEAR for the next decade.

Our valleys are the most fertile in the world and irrigation projects are converting the bordering hillsides into gardens. Orchards lands are leaping upward in price and the advance has only started. Water from mountain streams is the purest, timber the finest and climate the most perfect in Uncle Sam's domain. Power plants are springing up along the channels of silvery torrents to develop electrical energy for mines and mills and interburban railways. Fish abound in the rivers, game in the forests and health and joy in the atmosphere. There are no cyclones here or pestiferous insects to endanger life, or make it a burden.

I want Eastern connections and help, financial and otherwise, to seize opportunities that surround this picturesque city of Baker. The returns will be out of all proportion to the help extended. The opportunities are along the lines of vegetable fruit, hay, grain, stock, timber, and mineral lands. There are fortunes in all these. Some mines in this vicinity have record outputs in gold, running into the millions. Yet the surface, overlying the mineral deposits of Baker County, has hardly been scratched.

On a ledge of free gold bearing quartz two miles in length I made a test of 100 tons of ore taken at a depth of only a hundred feet and got over $3000.00 out of it. The mint returns passed through the Citizen's National Bank here.

Among other things, I need money, right now, to begin the MANUFACTURE OF GOLD out of this immense ore body. The shares of the Timber Canyon Mines Company, which OWNS this property, and of which I am secretary have an intrinsic value of at least 50 cents a share based on a conservative valuation of the property and the amount of stock issued.

I will deliver on order, with draft attached, up to 50,000 shares of this stock at 25 cents a share, NET. The full amount of the purchase price will go back in dividends inside of 18 months. Take a block of this as a starter, and get in step with this Eldorado of the West. If there is anything else out here that I can do for you, or you can do for me.—WRITE ME.

Yours for business, and MONEY for both of us,

"Can't Quit Coffee"

Well, that is humiliating. It's hard enough to BE A SLAVE but infinitely worse to acknowledge the desperate condition where individual will is gone. However, there is nothing easier if you go about it in the right way. And nothing that will pay bigger dividends in health, comfort and money-making capacity.

Perhaps coffee keeps you awake nights, dulls your brain when you need the sharpest edge on your wits possible.

It's the steady, clear, original thinker whose judgment is wide awake during business hours, that makes the well-paid doer of valuable work; the chap who forges ahead on his own initiative—the successful money-maker.

If coffee gets in its deadly work for only one hour of your business day, that may be just the time when opportunity is calling the loudest. But if your judgment is cloudy from caffeine-poisoning—coffee-drinking—you may not see the opportunity or not be able to swing things your way.

To be in the best trim all the time, drop coffee entirely and use well-made Postum. By "well-made" is meant, as the directions say, boil your Postum at least 15 minutes after boiling begins. Have it dark and rich (it won't hurt you—not even a baby) and get the fine, snappy flavour and full food value.

Let Postum, in a word, help you quit coffee and start you on the road to every-day comfort, rousing good health and quite possibly a fortune.

Hunstville Men were Stabbed--One May Die

H. HEBER AND W. HANES ARE UNDER THE DOCTOR'S CARE AS A RESULT.

One May Die of Wounds—Men Hurt Had Interferred in Fight — A Woman in the Case.

Huntsville, June 9.—A serious stabbing affray occurred on Main street west last night at 11 o'clock, and as a result two well-known citizens are this morning under the doctor's care.

The assailant's name is Boyd, and the wounded men are H. Hebner and W. Haines. Hebner's condition is very serious, the weapon entering at the back, but penetrating to the lung. Haines was stabbed in the chest but is not seriously hurt.

The affair followed an altercation in which Boyd and a man named White were the principals. Haines and Hebner had witnessed the fight, and protected White from Boyd's onslaughts. They were walking homeward some time after, when Boyd rushed from his house, it is said, with a knife. Haines was able to go home unaided, but Hebner was carried to the office of Dr. McRuer and later removed to his home. The report was circulated this morning that he was dead, but his condition is not greatly changed from last night. The doctors in attendance are unable to say this morning what the outcome will be, all admitting that his condition is very serious.

Boyd has been placed under arrest. It is said that beneath the whole thing a woman figured.

FORMER CITIZEN DEAD.

Brother of City Treasurer Passed Away at Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan.

Mr. Frank Adams, city treasurer, has been advised by telegram of the death at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., of James M. Adams, who passed away on Wednesday.

The late Mr. Adams, who was 53 years of age, was a native of Peterborough, and had lived here till he was about twenty-five years old, when he left for Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., where he has resided ever since. He was for a number of years manager for the Frank Perry Lumber Co., of Sault Ste. Marie. During the past few years he has conducted a couple of general stores in that place.

Surviving are the deceased's wife and his mother, and six brothers: Frank and Harry of this city, Robert of Winnipeg, George of Nome, Alaska, William of Snowflake, Man., and Samuel of Edmonton.

The funeral arrangements have not been completed yet, but will be announced today. Interment will take place in Little Lake cemetery.

Oxford Hotel Changes Ownership.

It has been known for some time that Mr. B. Laroque, formerly proprietor of the Montreal House, denied a renewal of liquor license, has been negotiating for possession of the Oxford Hotel, operated by Mrs. W. Bowman. The only hitch in this transfere was the consent of the License Commissioners to transfer Mrs. Bowman's license to Mr. Laroque. Yesterday afternoon at about 3.30, Mr. Laroque took possession of the Oxford. Mrs. Bowman and family, it is reported, will take rooms on George street. Mr. Laroque is now in full possession of the Oxford.

DEAD ON THE FIELD OF HONOR.

The King's Perilous Visit to Emperor William.

The picture of Edward the Seventh toiling faithfully and bravely at his post while suffering from dangerous and serious illness is a noble one. T. P. O'Connor calls it a tragic, but it is perhaps somewhat unheroic to speak of death at the post of duty as a tragedy. It is a pity that the picture has been marred by an attempt to use it for partisan purposes. Take as a part of an unspoiled picture Mr. O'Connor's description of the King's visit to Berlin.

Last year the relations between this country and Germany were strained, and this man, whose chief aim in life was to leave the world in peace, and especially to save his own loved land from war, resolved to pay a visit to Berlin. It was winter—Berlin's winters are specially severe. It meant tremendous exertions, for the ceremonials of a military empire with a grandiose court are merciless in their duration, and in their complexity, but King Edward went. He passed through the bleak streets, he whom a breath of air might kill; he bowed to the crowds, he sat through the long dinners, he made appropriate speeches, and more than once Death just came up to him. One night he fought the grim intruder; it was just a chance that he did not breathe his last in a foreign capital and amid strange faces.

Now consider how easy it would have been to make an unfair partisan use of this bit of history. Unquestionably the danger of war with Germany was a source of greater anxiety to King Edward than the fight between the Liberals and the House of Lords. But how unfair and absurd it would be to say that the men who made the war scare in Great Britain were to blame for the death of King Edward, if sincere, they were not to blame at all. If insincere, they were to blame because they wantonly imperilled the peace of nations. But men who hold convictions strongly cannot be expected to be silent lest they should increase the cares and anxieties of kings and statesmen. If a man believes that the nation is in danger and needs greater fleets and armies, it is his duty and right to say so; and a similar duty rests upon a man who believes that the House of Lords should be curbed or reformed. It is better after all, that the burdens of great servants of the State should be increased by noble anxieties than by sordid ones.

APPRECIATE HOSPITALITY.

S.S. Convention Helped to its Great Success by Local Citizens.

Rev. Mr. McLean of Colborne, the joint secretary, and inaugurator of the convention in progress at St. John's school, is very highly pleased with the success of the convention, and says he cannot speak in too cordial terms of the hospitality of Peterborough.

"The churchmen of Peterborough have thrown open their doors to the delegates," says Mr. McLean, "and citizens outside the church have also been most generous and considerate. I may say on behalf of those interested that they have been very satisfactory and excellent practical progress has been made, especially in view of the fact that the convention is the first one to be held in the Archdeaconry of Peterborough.

"The convention committee is very much indebted to the local hospitality committee. The chairman, Mr. James Edgar and Mr. R. J. Devey, the other member of the committee, have performed their duties with despatch and in a way thoroughly satisfactory to all the clergy and the delegates."

BOUNDARY DISPUTE IS NOW SETTLED WITH THE STATES

CANADA GIVES UP CLAIM TO ONE ISLAND AND GETS FISHING CONCESSIONS.

One Lone Man on Island—He Tried to Vote on Both Sides, But Paid No Taxes.

Ottawa, June 9.—All boundary disputes are now settled between Canada and the United States.

A tiny bit of an island called "Pope's Folly," and lying in Passamaquody Bay, close to the boundary of Maine, is now part of the United States, and on the other hand Canada is granted certain valuable fishing rights.

The government here has served official intimation of the settlement through Ambassador Bryce at Washington.

"Pope's Folly," is just a bit of rock, about an acre in extent, projecting out of the sea water. The waves almost wash over it, when there is a gale, but on it for years there has lived a solitary old man, who was— until today—neither American nor Canadian. On the rocky top of the island, he had a rough wooden dwelling, a few chicken, a pig and a boat.

It seems that there were once two pigs, but one being of an explorative turn of mind fell into the sea and perished. The owner of the pigs lives by fishing.

It is said that the American municipality which claimed the island, and the Canadian municipality had great trouble in deciding which should collect the taxes from the one resident of Pope's Folly." That person, however, settled the question by declining gently, but firmly, to pay either. The sea, he argued, was his roadway, the sky his school and the pig his neighbor.

When there was an election in the United States, the old man put on his boat, rowed to Maine, and insisted on voting. When an election came on in Canada, he chose the shore of Nova Scotia and voted or tried to vote there. But now with the final settling of the point he becomes, will nilly an American. Main may collect taxes. Maine may accept his ballots, while Canada looks over the boundary wall and weeps for a lost island and a lost citizen, to say nothing of the pig.

GOLDWIN SMITH AND RELIGION

New York, June 9.—The Sun this morning says:

"I heard Ingersoll," wrote Goldwin Smith in a personal letter to the editor of this paper. "He was extremely clever, but he did little good, and has left little trace."

Again, in sending one of the last of the remarkable series of personal letters to the Sun in which he discussed during a period of several years the greatest problems that concern the human mind, the destiny of man, the changing standards of religious faith, the immortality of the soul, Goldwin Smith said of that particular article:

"I believe nothing will be found in it impious by any man who does not hold—as no men of science, I suppose, do, and even Gladstone did not—by the inspiration and infallibility of Genesis. My special object in fact, was rather to show before I went out of the world that I was not without religion.

"I feel that my state is still doubtful, and I do not wish to go out of the world as a reputed enemy of religion. This leads me to address to you one more letter not a very long one—and to feel that its appearance as early as it would be convenient to you is on my own account to be desired."

This last letter was written after the accident to Mr. Smith. There is surely no impropriety now in our publishing these private explanations of his attitude towards the subjects he was discussing and the audience he was addressing.

They show the urgency of Goldwin Smith's desire to be misunderstood by no man as regards the the character of his quest.

Huron Synod on the Royal Oath

London, Ont., June 9.—The following notice of motion by Frank Metcalfe of Blythe, and John Rainsford of Clinton, was heartily applauded in the Synod of Huron this morning and will be duly passed:—"That it is not advisable that any change be made in the coronation oath, and that we as a body deprecate any action looking towards such a change."

When balloting for delegates to Provincial and General Synods was commenced, Bishop Williams announced that 158 lay delegates had registered, the largest number in the history of the Synod. A message was received today from the archbishop and synod of Ottawa, thanking the Synod of Huron for their good wishes.

Were Awed at the Sight of the Sheriff

Goderich, June 9. — Summonses were served on fifteen of the farmers to appear before Magistrate Butler this morning for pulling up the track at the Dunlop crossing on the Ontario West Shore Railway. The sheriff was called to the spot yesterday to read the Riot Act in the event of trouble, but his presence so overawed the farmers that no trouble occurred. Summonses for fifty farmers have been issued.

It appears a large proportion of the Colborne township farmers are strongly in sympathy with the railroad, and large numbers of the Ashfield farmers, the adjoining township, came down to fight for the railway, if necessary.

It is alleged that the temperance people, who have just carried local option in that district, are at the bottom of all the trouble; wanting to force the railway to remove the hotel on the corner, and compel the company to take the building down rather than allow the road to curve out into the lake shore road to pass the structure.

Colborne township was the only municipality that would not guarantee the bonds of this road, and have given trouble from the beginning. it is alleged, not so much the farmers as a few old-timers who have been elected in the township council.

Excursion to City From Agincourt.

Shortly after ten o'clock yesterday morning, many strangers, mostly wearing badges, promenaded our principal streets and parks. They came from Agincourt and intermediate points per C.P.R. The excursion was run under auspices of the Foresters. About four hundred arrived in the city. They were a well dressed and well behaved lot of visitors. Many took advantage of the one hour for a nickle ride on the street cars.

Illustrated Lecture at St. John's.

Miss L. Thomas, a returned missionary, who has spent some years in South America gave a most interesting and instructive lecture in St. John's church Sunday school last night. The lecture was enhanced in interest by a series of splendid limelight views of the southern continent. The large audience present thoroughly enjoyed this illustrated address. The brilliant lamp and outfit for throwing the views was kindly furnished by the Peterborough Light and Power Co.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Death of Mrs. Elizabeth Loucks.

After a week's illness, Mrs. Elizabeth Loucks, wife of David Loucks, died from heart failure. She was aged seventy-three years, and had been a resident of Peterborough but eleven months, coming here from Morrisburg. The deceased lady leaves her husband, two daughters and one son.

SENDS PROTEST TO THE VATICAN

PRUSSIAN MINISTER ORDERED TO COMPLAIN ABOUT THE LATEST ENCYCLICAL.

All Germany Aroused—Nation's Religious and Patriotic Feelings Wounded, Says the Chancellor.

Berlin, June 9.—In the Prussian Diet today three interpellations were addressed to the government asking what it intended to do in answer to the Pope's recent encyclical regarding the tercentenary celebration of the canonization of Cardinal St. Carlo Borromeo, in which today's speaker declared, the Pope had abused Protestant monarchs and Protestantism generally.

All the speakers assailed the Vatican and one of them demanded the recall of the Prussian minister at the Vatican.

The official explanation of the encyclical in the Osservatore Romano, the organ of the Vatican, fails utterly to clear the situation, according to the anti-Catholic members of the Diet.

"The holy father in his encyclical," the Osservatore Romano says, "he had meant to combat errors of the modernists. He had not the least intention, as is evident from the text of the encyclical, to offend non-Catholics in Germany or their principles."

In reply to the interpellations Chancellor Von Fethmann-Hollweg said that the Prussian minister at the Vatican had been instructed to protest to the Vatican and to make it known that not only German Protestants but the religious and patriotic feeling of Germany as well had been wounded by the encyclical. The chancellor said the Vatican's reply had not yet been received.

ATTACK ON MARTIN LUTHER.

The encyclical issued on the occasion of the third centenary of the canonization of St. Charles Borromeo, extolled Borromeo as the champion of Catholicism against the Protestant reformation and declared he established at the time of the Council of Trent that the principles of Catholicism had been undermined by Martin Luther.

Half a Million for the Old Age Fund

Halifax, N.S., June 8.—The attendance was smaller at the assembly this morning, and work will have to be rushed. Rev. Dr. Ramsay reported for the committee on the reception of ministers, and Rev. Dr. Hannay for the committee on the formation of new Presbyteries, and Rev. Dr. Turnbull for the committee on minister evangelists reported in quick succession.

J. K. MacDonald, one of the keenest business heads in the assembly, presented the report of the aged and infirm ministers' fund, revealing a very satisfactory state of finances. The committee aims to acquire an endowment of half a million dollars to put it on a sound basis, and Judge Forbes, St. John, placed that point before the assembly in a strong speech.

A resolution was adopted having regard to the Toronto booksellers, charged with selling obscene books. It challenged the utterance of the minister of justice regarding the matter and it was resolved to lay this deliverance before the premier, appealing to him to take action.

Contractors Arranging For a New Theatre

Yesterday Contractors Tom Rutherford and James Bogue, made a thorough examination into the premises occupied by the Crystal theater and the store, to the immediate south, occupied by Mr. Frank Mason. Mr. Mason is removing from this store in three weeks, and the store will be added to the Crystal. Contractor Rutherford, who has just completed the garage on Simcoe street for Mr. William Snowden, and which building involved a large amount of structural iron work, yesterday showed The Times how the junction of Mason's present store and the Crystal will be a job of a very similar character. The thick wall dividing the two places will be entirely removed and the upper stories carried by iron beams. In this way the enlarged theater will consist of one large room without a single inside pillar to obstruct the view of patrons.

Peterborough Beats Mother Shipton.

The City of Peterborough is bound to keep to the fore. This city is outdoing anything contained in the famous prophecy of the lamented "Mother Shipton." This lady foretold that "carriages without horses shall go., etc." She, however, could not foresee that graven images would give orders for a city's conduct. In Victoria Park is a large placard forbidding anyone to walk on the grass, "By order of Statue." Now is the Statue thus protecting the park that of the mayor, the chairman of the Board of Works, or of an auburn-haired member of the police force? If this statue would promulgate regulations whereby our taxes would be reduced, Peterborough would be an ideal spot to live in.

Roosevelt's Last Day in the Old Land

London, June 9.—This was Theodore Roosevelt's last day in England and was a busy one despite the fact that no set program for his entertainment had been arranged.

The ex-president started before breakfast in an effort to catch up with his correspondence, dictating and writing for several hours all told. He also underwent a thorough treatment. He believes that the sea voyage will prove beneficial to his throat, and plans to give that organ as thorough a rest as possible caution is being taken on the trip. Nevertheless, every precaution is being taken to off-set possible damp weather.

The announcement that Foreign Secretary Grey will accompany Mr. Roosevelt to Southampton, where he embarks on the liner Kaserin Auguste Victoria, is taken as meaning that England regards the ex-president as on the plane of royalty. Such an honor is customarily only given to royalties.

The police today completed arrangements to guard him on the trip from London to Southampton. The Scotland Yard men, who have been looking after him during his stay in England, have been reinforced for the occasion. The Southampton police have also taken precautions for handling any crowds.

All day today friends of Mr. Roosevelt kept him busy saying fare well. He spent some time with Captain Arthur Lee, who has been his host, and several other close friends, noted as big game hunters.

There are many of his countrymen among the 700 booked for passage on the Auguste Victoria.

Mr. Roosevelt refused today to comment on the resolutions adopted by a committee of the International Arbitration and Peace Commission which declares his Guild Hall speech to be a dangerous precedent in dealing with delicate political problems, and protests against his advocacy of harsh methods in Egypt.

Mrs. Roosevelt spent the day in a sight-seeing trip to several points which she had never previously had an opportunity to witness, and in meeting personal friends for the last time here.

Peterborough Newly-Weds were There Too

"New hope may bloom
And days May come
Of milder, calmer beam.
But there's nothing half so sweet in life
As Love's young dream."

Into the old town they streamed today, brides and bridegrooms wearing no printed sign of their new profession, but still indelibly marked among the newlyweds. Every seventeenth person who passed the News office this morning bore the confessing smile and joyous gait of united love, the other sixteen trudged along just as discontented and envious as they could be. All the world loves a lover and pities a married man. The bridegroom, however, being between the two degrees, gets a refined mixture of the double feelings and that is what makes him look so unusual and out of touch with ordinary creatures.

"HERE COMES THE BRIDE."

As long as young folks keep on wedding in Hamilton, Brantford, St. Thomas, London, Owen Sound, Windsor, Peterborough, Galt, Stratford, Guelph and other cities and towns of mixed population, it will be impossible to escape the June shower of care-free and optimistic youth. The Union Station ushered into the metropolis today at least a score of married couples, two days or less away from the old home and the family parlor, and only July 1st will see any let-up in the arrivals. Porters on Pullman cars profiting from tips will probably be the controlling factor in Wall street at the end of 30 days. Taxicabs and other vehicles that could roll through the "sights" have been on demand at any old price the driver would care to ask. Restaurants have been called on for their choicest viands; hotel bell boys on their June receipts can go to Muskoka for July. Waiters at the newly-weds' tables are watching the flotation of railway bonds very closely, the theaters that have remained open, have sold any number of tickets to persons who answered to the honeymoon description, picture post card dealers could have sold their supply of linked-hearts or flying cupids ten times over; furniture dealers disposed of the big rocking chair without three seconds haggling over the price; bridegrooms simply said they must have it, and the precious lamb would not oppose him.

SIMPLY CAN'T COUNT 'EM

Oh, these are merry days, these in this honeymoon month, when the gallivanting couples come tripping into the big city from the cross roads or Provincial town. No official count is being kept of the couples, because one of the officers at the Union Station got as far as 1,462, and then was accused of carelessness. June has 21 days to run, so the worst by far is yet to come—Toronto News.

LOOKS LIKE STUPIDITY.

The control of immigration is so difficult a problem that there should be no disposition to criticize the government unreasonably in this connection. Some years ago the influx of the unemployable and other undesirables assumed quite alarming proportions. The situation was accentuated by the temporary commercial reverse of 1907 and 1908, and the different charitable organizations of the country became overtaxed. As a direct outcome of this experience the immigration regulations have been made more stringent. The sieve through which the arrivals are strained has been fitted with a finer mesh.

The tendency in all reforms is to run to extremes, and possibly, that is what the government has done in this instance. An order-in-council adopted this spring requires all immigrants, except farm-laborers, to have not only tickets to their ultimate destination in this country, but also $25 in cash for the head of the family, and a proportionate amount for each of the other members. This rule has given rise to some hardship and to much ill-feeling in Great Britain.

The Westminster Gazette objects to the ungenerous spirit in which the regulation is being interpreted and applied. It calls particular attention to the efforts of an emigration society to help a reputable woman with four children to join her husband already at work in Canada. Every inquiry had been made, and the committee were unanimously agreed that it was a most deserving one for assistance. The husband had sent a letter explaining that he was in full work, and hoped soon to be able to refund the money which it was proposed to advance for the emigration of his family.

At this point Canadian officialdom stepped in with the decision that the wife and children could not be allowed to go because the husband and father was not engaged in farm work. The crime of which the father was convicted and his family penalized. The wife and children will now have to wait until he can earn the $176 necessary for their passage and landing money. No doubt ever since he came out this industrious artisan has been working to get a home together for those he left behind. It will probably take him another year to save up the money needed to bring them out. Meantime their passage, which had already been taken by the emigration society in question, has been cancelled. Surely there is need for greater elasticity in our emigration laws, and for more intelligence in their enforcement.

ATHLETICS FOR GIRLS.

Outdoor life is a good thing for girls. It is health building, disciplinary and inspiriting. It affords fine foundation for matured womanhood. But exercise not be excessive or strenuous. If so, the female form divine will become muscle-bound and lose its rounded curves and contours. Athletic femininity should model on the graces of the elegant Venus of Melos. It should not aspire to Amazonian bulginess of muscular development.

DOCTORS CONDEMN OILY LINIMENTS.

The Public are Warned to Be Careful of These Strong-Smelling Oily Liniments, Containing Harmful Acids, Ammonia, Etc.

Many people have clung to the old-fashioned idea that a thick, greasy liniment is the best kind. Doctors say not—and they know.

Recently a number of these white, oily liniments were analyzed, and they were found to contain an enormously high percentage of harmful acids and such irritating chemicals as ammonia, etc. For the moment they may cause a warm sensation when first applied, but their continued use never cures rheumatism, and only deteriorates the skin, sets up inflammation and causes endless trouble.

When a doctor warns you to quit using a white, oily liniment—do so. He knows that a thick liniment can not penetrate, cannot sink through the pores and reach the seat of the pain.

When asked his opinion a few days ago Dr. Roberts stated that he considered a strong, penetrating, pain-subduing liniment, such as Nerviline, to be superior to any of the white ammonia liniments. In his twenty-five years of practice he had witnessed cases of rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago that simply would not respond to ordinary treatment— but Nerviline cured them. The same physician also spoke of the great advantages of keeping a preparation like Nerviline in the house always, because of cramps, diarrhoea, stomach disorders, earache, toothache, headache and such minor ailments. Nerviline is a first-class cure. There is scarcely an ache or a pain, internal or external, that Nerviline won't cure. In thousands of homes no other pain-relieving medicine is used. Fifty years' continued success and the endorsement of the profession are proof that Nerviline is the liniment for the home.

Any good druggist or dealer can supply the large 25c. bottles of Nerviline.

FRIDAY, JUNE 10, 1910.

A PRACTICAL PLEADING.

The cultivation of a wholesome public opinion is what is wanted on the American continent; and, if Canada would enter on a contest with the United States in acquiring it there would be more in the contest for both nations than in any international Marathon or tariff arrangement. Nor is there any preaching about the scheme nor any specious boasting about moral superiority. The following bit of pertinent advice to Senator William Lorimer, who represents Illinois at Washington, places the terms of the contest in a concrete unmistakable form. "Mr. Lorimer ought to retire immediately from his seat in the upper house of Congress. His continued service in that body will be a cause of profound humiliation to the honorable and right-thinking people of a great State. If Mr. Lorimer has a due appreciation of the proprieties, if he is a man with a delicate sense of honor and of scrupulous honesty, he will retire at once; voluntarily, from the Senate. For the title to the seat which he now holds is tainted with fraud and dishonour, and no self-respecting man, of unbending integrity should be willing to enjoy honors obtained under circumstances which indicates a deliberate traffic in the votes of venal legislators."

Such an appeal is a direct way of getting at the corruption to be met with in the highest political walks of life in both countries. There is no room for the technicality operator in such a plea. Mr. Lorimer has been identified with fraud and dishonor, and his place is unmistakably outside of any political walk in life. Why? Simply because public opinion in the United States would strive with Canada or any other nation in setting up the highest possible standard of public morality in its administrative affairs. The other day, we said that the United States was in the way of showing us an example in the cleaning up of our "Augean stables," in municipal provincial and federal governments. And we said it with no desire to underrate Canada's emulation to keep our "stables" as well tidied-up as her neighbor's. But we know how all special pleading for an improved public morality is coming to be laughed at by those who are busy in setting up a "new code of morals." Our parliamentary commissions of investigation have lower'd the level of public morality. Their verdicts have only made sport for the public in the white-washing line. The culprit, instead of being punished by such has only been glorified by being, in the majority of instances, advanced a stage in his ploitical preferment. And to trace the stories of such verdicts seems only to provide food for the cynicism of the political parvenu, who has, within his party-view of things only the "main chance," for a fundamental. The advice given to Senator Lorimer by an exponent of American public opinion, is a bit of advice which must be given to every Canadian publicist, if Canada would keep pace with her neighbor in saving her morality from further decline. Just think of it! There is getting to be a class of hoodlum publicasters in both countries who hand themselves to defame the statesmanship that fails to adopt corrupt methods while pleading for the suffrages of the people. "You cannot win an election," these say, "without buying votes at a higher figure than your opponent. Neither president or premier can run things for long—or even get there—without having recourse to corrupt methods." And therein lies the starting places for a country going forward or backward in its motahty emulations.

NEWFOUNDLAND AND CANADA.

It is to be hoped that the Dominion Postmaster-General will be able to co-operate so effectively with the Government of Newfoundland that daily mail service will be established between the two countries. Sir Edward Morris, the Premier of Newfoundland, states that largely as the result of the establishment of the Reid Railway and Steamship Company, the trade with Canada has increased from two to five million dollars in the past twelve years. There is every reason to believe that the growth of this trade will continue. The Island is now very prosperous and the products of the two countries are such that an interchange of them is natural and should prove to be of great benefit to both of them.

We have on more than one occasion referred to the unfortunate manner in which some fifteen years ago the offer of Newfoundland to join the Dominion was met at Ottawa. Although the opportunity of rounding off the Dominion by the inclusion of Newfoundland was then lost and may not recur for many years, there is every reason why Canadian statesmen should do all in their power to enlarge our commercial relations with the "Ancient Colony."

MONSTER BATTLESHIPS.

The naval architect quoted by us a few weeks ago as saying that the limit in size and armaments of battleships had not been reached has already proved to be correct in his assertion. The latest warship to be laid down for British navy is to be seven hundred feet long and have a displacement of 26,000 tons. Her turbine engines will be capable of developing 70,000 horse power, giving her a speed of 27½ to 30 miles an hour. The new ship's guns will be large enough and numerous enough to enable her to meet and overcome a super-Dreadnought. We hear a good deal about the anxiety that British people feel about the naval forces of foreign Powers. It would be interesting to learn what the people of other countries think of the course that the British Government pursues in insisting on leading the world in the construction of more formidable and larger vessels than any rival nation seems able to do. There is, however, a fly in the ointment of national contest at bearing of these monster additions to the British navy. That is the fact that the huge leviathans may be destroyed and sent to the bottom by a torpedo well aimed or by the appliances available to the commander of an insignificant submarine navigated to strike at the defenceless part of the giant battleship.

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR.

The recent aerial triumphs achieved by Paulhan and Curtiss have proved that the hope of the future lies with the heavier-than-air machine. Though the lighter-than-air machine is still capable of improvement, there seems little probability of its undergoing any extraordinary development such as may yet be looked or in the case of the aeroplane.

Aviation is yet in its infancy, but it is likely to advance by rapid flights, or whatever expression will do duty for leaps and bounds in aeronautical parlance. All the newspapers of to-day are busy conjecturing as to its possibilities, and their gropings into the future are many and strange. One suggests that no one will be surprised if the author of the next freak novel shall divide the society of the twenty-first, or even the twentieth century, into three classes—the aviators with dominion over the air, the motorists having exclusive enjoyment of the surface roads, and the rest of humanity confined by the statute of self-preservation to the use of subways. We do not know whether our local Legislature took this last contingency into their consideration of the Montreal underground or not. Perhaps they are more likely to be affected by the query, "Who owns the airf" which is naturally stimulated by these ethereal voyages.

But the chief problem of aviation is the extent of its possibilities as a potent factor. In the battles of the future. When, as the New York Sun states the case, "it is considered that modern armies have always included stationary balloons in their equipment to consider the lines of the enemy on the day of battle and to signal his movements, can it be doubted that the achievements of the dirigible and the aeroplane are being attentively observed by military specialists and that with every extension of their radius of movement and every ascent to higher altitudes it becomes more certain that no war establishment will be without them when the field must be taken for offence or defence."

Man has not yet equalled the bird, and it is not yet known how accurately he will be able to guide the movements of air craft. Otherwise a single airship could make short work of a fleet of Dreadnoughts. Curtiss, as he passed over the water in his wonderful voyage, felt that he had the shipping at his mercy. And if million dollar Leviathans can be destroyed by a few cents worth of explosives in this manner, then we may expect a revolution in warfare. Tennyson's dream of a day, when the heavens will fill with commerce and the airy navies will grapple in the central blue, seems to be within measurable distance of realization.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days' test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

THE DEAD SCHOLAR.

Such Men are Not Wholly of the World.

The death of Goldwin Smith suggests the loneliness of the Sage and the Scholar. Such men are not wholly of the world in which they live. They are remote in their thinking from most of those about them. They regard ideals for which the world is not ready. They often leave human nature out of the account.

For example the school to which Goldwin Smith belonged never quite understood the spirit of nationalism. In this he was like Bright, and, perhaps, like Morely until the heavy burden of India fell upon his shoulders. He hated war, and of every form of Imperial enthusiasm and nationa, expansion he was suspicious. He was proud to be an Englishman, but often impatient of the means by which England was beneficient and mighty.

It is doubtful if he ever quite understood the impulses which move the masses of mankind, or, knew that in nationalism there is something beyond prudence and beyond philosophic reasoning. From time to time nations will act as individuals ought not to act, and the iron hand becomes essential to the preservation of national integrity. The scholasf looks deeply into the crimes and errors of the long past, and perhaps is prone to imagine that the world has learned the lesson of peace and good-will, and that preaching and teaching are the only weapons necessary in his generation. But this human world has notlearned the lesson. It would be rash even to conclude that there will never be another Napoleon Bonaparte.

It is too true that the luxury of peace unfits for war, and that causes as old as the race still brings nations into conflict. This is barbarism if you like, but, unfortunately, in human nature there is a touch of barbarism which persists through the generations. For all that such men as Goldwin Smith do noble work in the world, and by the very vigor of their contumacy keep evil passions and rash ambitions in check.

He had a deep compassion for human misery. His hand was ever busy with the distresses of his fellows. A simple, gracious gentlemen, a noble master of the English tongue, a wise and sympathetic counsellor between capital and labor, a keeper of his own conscience, and a staunch champion of religious freedom and intellectual sovereignty, he is linked with many memories that we shall cherish, and has left us many an example that we will do well to follow.

MARK TWAIN AND HIS THEORY OF LIFE.

Mark Twain is dead, but some one has unearthed a book which is said to have been written by him and of which only two hundred and fifty copies were issued in its first and only edition. The New York Times says it is genuine, though Mr. Clement's friends have so far not come forward to say that they had ever heard him talk of it. Possibly the unearthing of the work may be something like the late discovery of the North Pole—with less truth than money in it. The title of the book is "What is Man?" and certainly the author of it imbeds humanity in rather a dismal doctrine concerning its origin and growth. As the Times says: "The doctrine of the book is not an inspiring doctrine. It takes the glory out of man. It takes the pride out of him, it takes the heroism out of him, it denies him all personal credit, all applause. It not only degrades him to a machine, but allows him no control over the machine; makes a mere coffee mill out of him, and neither permits him to supply the coffee nor turn the crank, his sole and piteously humble function being to grind coarse or fine, according to his make, outside impulses doing all the rest."

In a word, the book makes everything of environment. And, in dealing with Adam and Shakespeare as examples, the author says man is merely a machine acted upon by his environment. The fruit from the tree of knowledge from without was what brought Adam and Eve to learn that it was immodest to go about without clothing. If Shakespeare had been born and bred on a barren rock in the ocean he would have produced nothing. Shakespeare, like Adam and every other man that has been, was merely a machine—not a sewing machine like the very ordinary man, but a marvellous Gobelin loom, which automatically turned out that pictured and gorgeous fabric that still compels the astonishment of the world. The book also tells us that pleasure is the motive power of this machine called man, and winds up with this pleading: "Diligently train your ideals upward toward a summit where you will find your chiefest pleasure in conduct which, while contenting you, will be sure to confer benefits upon your neighbor and the community."

Philosophy makes out that we make our own environment and then our environment turns around and makes or unmakes us; and possibly Mr. Clements, when he had got so far in his study of philosophy began to long to formulate a philosophy of his own, and hence wrote this book entitled "What is Man?" It is more likely, however, that some novice has thought to make money out of his first effort to write a booklet, and has been able to attach Mark Twain's name to it as its author to make it sell. It is an author's name nowadays that is accepted by the publisher, not what he says. Not long ago, a young author, disgusted at the publisher's "returned with thanks" in the case of his own handwriting Milton's "Lycidas" and sent it to eleven publishers, one after the other, with his own name signed, and had the extreme gratification of having it returned, as his own had been. We will now have to wait until we learn whether the New Yorks Times has again been taken in as it once was in the matter of ex-

President Cleveland's supposition interview reported after his death, and as its London namesake was in the case of the Parnell letters. We may be wrong in our surmise; though if we be, the examination of the problem "What is Man?" by the great humorist will hardly add to his fame, as a student of human nature as to its origin or growth.

Pain anywhere stopped in 20 minutes cure with one of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. The formula is on the 25-cent box. Ask your Doctor or Druggist about this formula! Stops womanly pains, headache pains anywhere. Write Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., for free trial to prove value. Sold by all dealers.

A PEACE PROJECT.

A project mooted since the death of King Edward is fraught with world wide consequences if it should but happen to come to realization. It is announced from London that some good man, imbued with the King Edward peace spirit, has in his mind's eye the formation of a universal King Edward peace association—such an association as will be officered by the rulers of the world's greatest nations, and that will find its membership among the great and powerful of all countries—from among those who were the guests of honor at the funeral of Great Britain's King and who, by their presence, declared their wish to pay tribute to this man of peace. It is even hinted that Emperor William of Germany may be the first president of the association.

Don't Risk even a penny—until health returns. And I mean just exactly that.

I am the one physician who says to the sick: "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you health."

For 20 years Dr. Shoop's Restorative has been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are prized only where used in every community—and everywhere those who try the rich, and all poor sick, the infirm and overtaxed and uncertain medicines. Thousands upon thousands have in this manner actually used Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

When the Heart or the Heart nerves fail, know how Shoop's Restorative brings them back to health again. Even those of this class I positively take no money risk whatever. They know that when health fails to return Dr. Shoop will blame; I gladly pay the druggist for that test. And for that test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted.

But write me first for an order.

This will save delay and disappointment.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy, but all are not prepared to make the rich, red blood which they make. I, on hand and responsible druggist in every community, every where, to whom my word is as pay," guarantees in this ad.

Tell me also which book you need.

The kindly letter will surely come to you and helpful book be sent you. Then if you are perfectly satisfied you risk no penny. If you would your self, write Dr. Shoop, Box 2, Racine, Wis.

Below are names—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some matter of ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescriptions and special advice plan. My best effort is always at your service.

INWARD CLEANING.

Assures Outward Beauty.

No greater mistake than to imagine that regularity is a sign of good health—it is an advantage, but if your skin is murky and your spirits dull, it is the surest sign that nature is lagging a little. Now by lagging is meant that the liver is a little lazy—the kidneys weak—the stomach failing just a little in its work. It may be a little of all three.

Just one remedy—inward cleaning with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. This removes, so to speak, a cobweb here and there, a visible sign of careless inward house-cleaning.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills ensure beauty, give a dainty complexion, act upon the skin, upon your spirits. Some will ask, How do Dr. Hamilton's Pills Act? Why mildly, of course, but very effectively upon that great trio of health, the stomach, liver and kidneys.

To get that robust, hearty health, to have the sparkle of vigor, to look and feel always at your best, tone and regulate your system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Thousands find this advice good—so will you—refuse a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Small Fire on Smith Street.

Yesterday evening at about 5.30 an alarm from box 46, brought out the fire brigade. The fire laddies turned out with their usual celerity. Chief Howard requisitioned the delivery van of a local merchant and sped to the scene. The fire, which was on Smith street near the bridge, fortunately amounted to nothing serious, in fact it was extinguished before the brigade arrived.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

California Petroleum

Wonderful Production of Oil in the Golden State.

San Francisco, Cal., June 9.—When half a century ago the United States Government surveyors reported crude petroleum floating on the Pacific ocean, little did they think that today the yearly production of new wealth from the California oil fields would be more than all of California's mines.

Already California oil lubricates ninety per cent. of the wheels west of the Mississippi and furnishes motive power for nearly half of them. Great locomotives unheard of and impossible a few years ago, and only made possible by liquid fuel, deliver oil to the furnaces of factory, mine, refinery, power plant and home, while enormous tank steamers transport the oil products to all parts of the world.

The refineries of California, employing thousands of men, manufacture more than two hundred different articles of commerce, varying from the finest grades of lubricating and illuminating oils, to vaseline, or earth jelly, and skid grease, including various cosmetics, prismatic dyes and ointments. As a residium after the manufacture of cheap gas, either for light or fuel, there remain the ingredients necessary for a superior grade of coke, so hard and pure that it has been called carbonite. From this product many useful mechanical agents are manufactured, among them being carbon pencils, electrodes and an abrasive element superior to emery or carborundum.

Five thousand factories in Southern California have been made possible by the use of crude oil, either as fuel direct, or converted into gas or electric energy. Railroads which have not paid dividends for years have been enabled to do so by the vast saving from fuel bills.

With a production this year that will approximate seventy million barrels, worth nearly twice as much as the entire citrus crop, worth more than the combined output of all the metal mines, with production constantly growing in response to steadily increasing prices, and an ever growing and expanding market, the outlook for the producers of California oil within the next few years are flattering indeed.

"Can't Quit Coffee"

Well, that is humiliating. It's hard enough to BE A SLAVE but infinitely worse to acknowledge the desperate condition where individual will is gone. However, there is nothing easier if you go about it in the right way. And nothing that will pay bigger dividends in health, comfort and money-making capacity.

Perhaps coffee keeps you awake nights, dulls your brain when you need the sharpest edge on your wits possible.

It's the steady, clear, original thinker whose judgment is wide awake during business hours, that makes the well-paid doer of valuable work; the chap who forges ahead on his own initiative—the successful money-maker.

If coffee gets in its deadly work for only one hour of your business day, that may be just the time when opportunity is calling the loudest. But if your judgment is cloudy from caffeine-poisoning—coffee-drinking—you may not see the opportunity or not be able to swing things your way.

To be in the best trim all the time, drop coffee entirely and use well-made Postum. By "well-made" is meant; as the directions say, boil your Postum at least 15 minutes after boiling begins. Have it dark and rich (it won't hurt you—not even a baby) and get the fine, snappy flavour and full food value.

Let Postum, in a word, help you quit coffee and start you on the road to every-day comfort, rousing good health and quite possibly a fortune.

An Asbestos Proposition

An Investment That Should Appeal to the Investors

The Rochester & Wyoming Asbestos Co.

Owning 220 acres of Rich Asbestos property in the central part of the State of Wyoming.

Capital Stock $500,000, divided into 500,000 shares with a par value of One Dollar each, full paid and non-assessable.

Offering only 30,000 shares, Treasury Stock at One Dollar per share.

The main features of this Company are: Its low capitalization ($500,000) and the fact that six of the seven of the Board of Directors are business men of the City of Rochester; no bonus or free stock; every share of stock issued except as property purchase price has been paid for in cash. The Company is being, and will continue to be, conducted on economical basis. The Company has also the advantage of having the services of Mr. Edwin Hall, State Geologist of Wyoming, and an Official Inspector of Mines as Consulting Engineer. The fact that Mr. Hall has accepted this position as Consulting Engineer indicates the reliability of the Company. As a state official it is his duty to see that only Companies conducted on the soundest business principles be allowed to exist.

Only 30,000 shares of Treasury Stock is offered for sale at $1.00 per share. Subject to increase at any time.

Felder paced a moment without speaking. "I need evidence," he said then; "anything that may help. I made a mistake. You heard all the testimony?"

The other nodded.

"What did you think of it?"

"What could any one think? I give all credit to your motive, Tom, but it's a pity you're mixed up in it."

"Why?"

"Because, if there's anything in human evidence, he's a thoroughly worthless reprobate. He lay for Moreau and murdered him in cold blood, and he ought to swing."

"The casual view," said the lawyer gloomily. "Just what I should have said myself—if this had happened a month ago."

His friend looked at him with an amused expression. "I begin to think he must be a remarkable man!" he said. "Is it possible he has really convinced you that he isn't guilty?"

Felder turned upon the doctor squarely. "Yes," he returned bluntly. "He has. Whatever I may have believed when I took this case, I have come to the conclusion—against all my professional instincts, mind you—that he never killed Moreau. I believe he's as innocent as either you or I."

"He has as good as admitted to Miss Holme that he knows who did it."

"Come, come! Putting his neck into the noose for mere Quixotic feeling? And who, pray, in this God forsaken town, should he be sacrificing himself for?" the doctor asked satirically.

"That's the rub," said the lawyer. "Nobody. Yet I hang by my proposition."

"Well, he'll hang by something less tenuous, I'm afraid."

Delayed the itinerant.

But it won't be your fault. The crazy evangelist was only an incident. He merely served to jolt us back to the normal. By the way, did you hear him splutter after he got out?"

"No."

"You remember the story he told the other night of the minister who was caught gambling on his own communion table? Well, Hugh Mitres is not only the Reverend Henry Something-or-other, but he is that man too! The crack brained old idiot would have told the tale all over again only the crowd hustled him. There he is, now," he said suddenly as a light sprang up and voices broke out on the opposite corner. "The gang is standing by. I see your friend Marley McGinn," he added, with a grim enjoyment. "I doubt if there are many converts tonight."

Even as he spoke there came a shout of laughter and warning. The spectators scattered in all directions, and a stream of water from a well directed hose deluged the itinerant and his music box.

Ten minutes later the street preacher, drenched and furious, was treading his melodeon toward Funeral Hollow, on his way to the coast.

Chapter 28

As Harry stood again in the obscure half darkness of his cell it came to him that the present had a farreaching significance; that it was but the handiwork and resultant of forces in his own past. He himself had set Hugh's feet on the red path that had pointed him to the shameful terminus. He had gambled for Hugh's future, forgetting that his past remained, a thing that must be covered. He had won Hugh's counters, but his own right to be himself he had staked and lost long before that game on the communion table under the painted crucifixion.

The words he had once said to Hugh recurred to him with a kind of awe. "Put myself in your place? I wish to God I could!"

Fate—or was it God?—had taken him at his word. He had been hurled like a stone from a catapult into Hugh's place—to bear his knavery, to suffer his dishonor and to redeem the baleful reputation he had made.

A step outside the cell, the turning of the key. The door opened, and Jessica, pale and trembling, stood on the threshold.

"I cannot help it," she said as she came toward him, "though you told me not to come. I have trusted all the while and waited and—and prayed. But today I was afraid. Surely, surely, the man you are protecting has had time enough. Hasn't he? Won't you tell them the truth now?"

He knew not how to meet the piteous reproach and terror of that look. She had not heard the street preacher's declaration, he knew, but even if she had it would have been to her only an echo of the old mooted likeness. He had given her comfort once, but this was no more to be, no matter what it meant to him or to her.

"Jessica," he said steadily, "when you came to me here that first day and I told you not to fear for me I did not mean to deceive you. I thought then that it would all come right. But something has happened since then—something that makes a difference. I cannot tell who was the murderer of Moreau. I cannot tell you or any one else, either now or at any time."

She gazed at him startled. She had a sudden conception of some element hitherto ungussed in his makeup—something inveterate and adamant. Could it be that he did not intend to tell at all? The very idea was monstrous. Yet that clearly was his meaning. She looked at him with dashing eyes.

"You mean you will not!" she exclaimed bitterly. "You are bent on sacrificing yourself, then? You are going to take this risk because you think it brave and noble, because somehow it fits your man's gospel. Can't you see how wicked and selfish it is? You are thinking only of him and of yourself, not of me."

"Jessica, Jessica!" he protested, with a groan. But in the self torture of her questionings she paid no heed.

"Don't you think I suffer? Haven't I borne enough in the months since I married you for you to want to save me this? Do you owe me nothing, me whom you so wronged, whose"—

She stopped suddenly at the look on his face of mortal pain, for she had struck harder than she knew. It pierced through the fierce resentment to her deepest heart, and all her love and pity gushed back upon her in a torrent. She threw herself on her knees by the bare cot, crying passionately:

"Oh, forgive me! Forget what I said! I did not mean it. I have forgiven you a thousand times over. I never ceased to love you. I love you now more than all the world."

"It is true," he said, tearing misery in his tone. "I have wronged you. If I could coin my blood drop by drop to

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Mme. Lina Cavalieri, the most beautiful woman on the operatic stage, attributes her success to those old fashioned beauty doctors, sleep and rest.

Miss Mary N. Potts at her wedding in St. Johnsbury, Vt., wore the same dress that had been worn on similar occasions by her grandmother, her mother and her mother's two sisters.

The recent prominence in the suffrage discussion of Dr. Mary Walker recalls one of the cleverest remarks that the lamented Bill Nye ever uttered. He described Dr. Mary as "the only self made man in America."

Miss Helen Taft, who is a student of Bryn Mawr, has been subjected to so much annoyance by curious people trying to get a look at the president's daughter that her location has been taken out of the college directory.

Mrs. Isaac L. Rice, who is known the country over as the president of the Society For the Suppression of Noise, has two very talented daughters, Miss Muriel Rice, who is interested in keeping alive an interest in American poetry, and Miss Dorothy Rice, who has appeared as a painter of life in the sweatshops of New York city.

Church and Clergy.

The gospel is preached in thirty different languages in the United States.

At a church in England a clergyman told the congregation that, while he had not personally witnessed it, he had been told that card playing had taken place during service.

Bishop Charles E. Cheney of the Reformed Episcopal church, now in his seventy-fifth year, preached a sermon in Christ church of that denomination in Chicago on the fiftieth anniversary of his rectorship.

At a meeting of the Rodolph Shalom congregation in Pittsburg Rabbi Leonard J. Levy was elected pastor for life at an annual salary of $15,000. He is to receive a $5,000 yearly pension if he should wish to retire after reaching the age of seventy-five, and the same amount is to be paid to Mrs. Levy in the event of her husband's death.

Science Siftings.

Experiments with ultra violet light appear to show that it is more effective for sterilizing liquids than ozone.

A carload of radium, Edison says, would have as much energy as all the millions of tons of coal mined in the United States in a year.

A French scientist says the rays from incandescent lights are beneficial to human health, destroying bacteria, stimulating circulation and cellular activity and reducing pain.

Recent experiments have proved conclusively that coal dust which has been ground to a state so fine that it will pass a 200 mesh sieve will explode from contact with either a naked flame or with the arc of an electric current.

Colors.

Different colors are said to be due simply to different rates of vibrations. To red are attributed 458 millions of millions of vibrations per second and to violet 727.

The Bank van Leening.

The Dutch pawnshop of Amsterdam, known as Bank van Leening, is under the control of the municipality and is one of the oldest in the country. Up to 1616 the business was leased by the city to a private company, but as it refused to reduce its interest on pawned articles the city took over the business and has managed it ever since.

The Fleur-de-lis.

France is the only country which allows a flower to appear in its national heraldry. But the fleur-de-lis, or three lilies, is no different from most flowers that it does not seem out of place on the national coat of arms.

A Call From Oregon

Opportunitiesin the Far West

The greatest industrial activity in this country is now centered in Oregon. Two of the biggest railroadsystems in the U. S., with intense rivalry, are pushing branch lines into the remote portions of this State, and an exodus from the East is on in the occupation of this the LAST FRONTIER ON THE CONTINENT. Fortunes will be made here THIS YEAR—NEXT YEAR and EVERY YEAR for the next decade.

Our valleys are the most fertile in the world and irrigation projects are converting the bordering hillsides into gardens. Orchards lands are leaping upward in price and the advance has only started. Water from mountain streams is the purest, timber the finest and climate the most perfect in Uncle Sam's domain. Power plants are springing up along the channels of silvery torrents to develop electrical energy for mines and mills and interburban railways. Fish abound in the rivers, game in the forests and health and joy in the atmosphere. There are no cyclones here or pestiferous insects to endanger life, or make it a burden.

I want Eastern connections and help, financial and otherwise, to seize opportunities that surround this picturesque city of Baker. The returns will be out of all proportion to the help extended. The opportunities are along the lines of vegetable fruit, hay, grain, stock, timber, and mineral lands. There are fortunes in all these. Some mines in this vicinity have record outputs in gold, running into the millions. Yet the surface, overlying the mineral depositsof Baker County, has hardly been scratched.

On a ledge of free gold bearing quartz two miles in length I made a test of 100 tons of ore taken at a depth of only a hundred feet and got over $3000.00 out of it. The mint returns passed through the Citizen's National Bank here.

Among other things, I need money, right now, to begin the MANUFACTURE OF GOLD out of this immense ore body. The shares of the Timber Canyon Mines Company, which OWNS this property, and of which I am secretary have an intrinsic value of at least 50 cents a share based on a conservative valuation of the property and the amount of stock issued.

I will deliver on order, with draft attached, up to 50,000 shares of this stock at 25 cents a share, NET. The full amount of the purchase price will go back in dividends inside of 18 months. Take a block of this as a starter, and get in stepwith this Eldorado of the West. If there is anything else out here that I can do for you, or you can do for me,—WRITE ME.

Yours for business, and MONEY for both of us,

OUTDOOR SPORT AND ZAM-BUK.

Every athlete, every ball-player, every swimmer, every canoeist, every man or woman who loves outdoor life and exercise should keep a box of Zam-Buk handy.

Zam-Buk is a purely herbal preparation, which as soon as applied to cuts, bruises, burns, sprains, blisters, etc., sets up highly beneficial operations. First, its antiseptic properties render the wound free from all danger from blood poisoning. Next its soothing properties relieve and ease the pain. Then its rich, herbal balms penetrate the tissue, and set up the wonderful process of healing. Barbed wire scratches, insect stings, skin diseases, such as eczema, heat, rashes, ringworm, babies' heat sores, chafed places, sore feet—all come within Zam-Buk's powers. It also eases and cures piles. All druggists and stores. Avoid imitations.

No choir practice was held in St. John's church last night owing to the convention. The boys assembled at 7.30 for Mr. Barber's model class on catichising.

PREMIER BOTHA STIRRED UP BIG ROW---ENGLISH INDIGNANT

Auspicious Beginning of South African Union is Now Sadly Marred

THE TWO RACES ARE ESTRANGED

Johannesburg, June 10.— Premier Botha's determination to fight Sir Percy Fitzpatrick in Pretoria is the sole topic of conversation. Moderate feeling has undergone a strong revulsion. The English papers, which were decidedly pro-Botha a fortnight since, denounce the contest as a wanton provocation of racial animosity and feeling in Natal. Such a movement to form a separate party will probably be harmful. Natalians will follow the lead of Jameson.

Sir Percy Fitzpatrick was the honorary secretary of the Reform Committee in the Transvaal before the Jameson raid. Botha's decision to enter Fitzpatrick's riding in the coming election is the cause of the present excitement.

DIAMOND WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Croft 60 Years Married Today.

Mr. and Mrs. William Croft will celebrate the 60th anniversary of their marriage today having been wedded on June 11th, 1850, in a wooden structure which formerly stood on the site now occupied by The Times Building. Rev. Mr. Black stock of Cavan, performed the marriage ceremony. The happy couple drove on their honeymoon trip to Cobourg. Mr. Croft is hale and hearty at 85 years of age, while Mrs. Croft is also in good health at 81.

Fifty years ago Peterborough possessed but two brick buildings—one on George street, occupied by Mr. Edwards as a meat market, and owned by the late Robert Rowe, and the other on Charlotte street — or Hell street, as it was then commonly called. Thos. Benson was serving his term — first mayor of the new town, the same year.

Mr. and Mrs. Croft's many friends in Peterborough and surrounding country join in wishing them many years yet of unalloyed married bliss. years yet of unallowed married bliss.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

Fortunes to Be Made in North-West Properties.

Now that the great trend of emmigration is moving Westward to the great Canadian wheat fields, millions of dollars are being sent out by far seeing investors to place in Western land. One of the most inviting propositions yet presented to investors in land in, or situated near Melville. This growing town is the principal divisional point on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway between Winnipeg and the Coast. Melville is also the outlet of the Hudson Bay route. When the Hudson Bay road is completed Melville will be the headquarters of the grain route to Europe.

The Melville View Reality Company, with offices at 247 Notre Dame avenue, Winnipeg, Man., have a choice number of lots for sale ranging from $50 to $100, with $10 extra for corner lots. Those looking for a safe investment that is sure to bring in a rich harvest to investors should, at once write to the headquarters of the company.

TOTAL ACREAGE BREAKS RECORD

Winnipeg, June 10.—The Manitoba Government this morning issued a comprehensive crop bulletin.

Wheat, it says, has an abundance of root. The dry weather and cold kept the crop back for a time, but with the recent showers and warm weather the prospects are excellent.

The total acreage for Manitoba breaks all records. They are: Wheat, 3,116,092; oats, 1,560,609; barley, 657,520; flax, 41,000 acres.

There is an increased area of wheat to the extent of 475,961; oats 190,906; barley, 56,512, and flax, 20,317. The total increase is 750,770 acres.

Man Who Was Stabbed Dangerously Wounded

Hunttville, June 10.—James Boyd, the man accused of stabbing two local residents yesterday, came to Huntsville from Detroit only a short time ago. He says he lived in New York previously. The woman with whom he has been living, and who is said to be the cause of the trouble, declared this morning to the chief that she was not Boyd's wife. Boyd is about thirty years of age, and is a physical giant. He was taken into custody only after a desperate struggle.

HANES WAS IN COURT.

Walter Hanes, the other man stabbed, was able to go to court when the magistrate sent Boyd to trial attempted murder. His breastbone had stopped the knife.

Hane's story was to the effect that while he and Hebner with a companion named White, were going home Wednesday night, they met Boyd in company with a woman White stopped to speak to the couple, and in a moment the two were fighting. Hebner and Haines looked on, until it was found that Boyd was getting worst of it, and then, at the woman's request, they seperated the pair White ran away, and Hanes and Hebner were walking towards home, when Boyd attacked them with a knife.

"Heavens, Hanes, I'm stabbed!" shouted Hebner, as he fell to the walk, and before Hanes could make any attempt at defence Boyd plunged the knife at his breast. He and the woman then ran into the house, and Hanes rushed for the police.

Chief Watson told the story of Boyd's arrest. He was told that he was a dangerous character, and accordingly took several men along to assist. He broke in the front door, after guarding the back entrance with three men. Boyd, apprised of his entrance into the house, rushed out the back door and escaped despite the guard. Half an hour later he returned and an exciting time took place. Again the doors were placed under guard, and Watson entered. Boyd escaped into the basement. Followed there, he ran into an upstairs room and for a time he fought desperately until finally overpowered.

In appearance Boyd is the picture of physical health. Almost six feet high, he appeared in court well dressed, but gave evidence of foreign birth Black hair, combed over his forehead; black eyes, heavy, thick lips, and with a small black moustache he looks much like an Italian. He was tolerably well dressed, and distinctly nervous during the court proceedings.

The case will come up at the Brocking ige assizes next week.

Hebner, very weak from the loss of blood, lies at his home, still in dangerous condition. The immediate danger is blood poisoning, and this can be averted, there is a possibility that the injured man will recover.

The Coronation Oath

To the Editor of The Times,

Sir,—Your correspondent "Liberty's" real nature shows itself in Thursday's letter. The sole topic touched upon by me both in my letter to an evening paper and in my first letter to The Times was the falsity of an oath attributed to the Bishops of Quebec. I gave the oath the Bishops actually take, word for word from the Roman Pontifical, and "Liberty" is not man enough to accept the truth and receive the correction. In fact he meanly and falsely insinuates that the fictitious oath is correct in substance, whatever about the words.

Let me say again that this oath which has appeared in a number of papers and which is at the head of petitions in this city is a base calumny on the Catholic Church, and is worthy only of the men who are publishing it or of those who are persuaded of its correctness in substance. I may add for "Liberty's" benefit that neither "the meaning nor the intent" of the Catholic Church is embodied in it.

Is it any wonder that there should exist bigotry and prejudice when people will not accept the truth; when they close their eyes to facts; when they prefer darkness to light and trump up fictitious charges against what the Review of Reviews lately styled "The most influential institution in history."

While "Liberty" will not accept the facts in regard to the oath, he wishes me to outline Catholic Doctrine upon other matters.

Would he in such a case study and examine "if these things be true?" Certainly not. He would ask, like Pilate, "What is truth," and then Pilate—like close his eyes and ears to it. He would say with the Athenians to Paul, "We will hear thee again concerning this matter."

"Liberty" asks for "a satisfying answer on the real points at issue." I repeat that the only point at issue thus far is the oath falsely imputed to the Bishops of Quebec, and this must be disposed of before going further. Again I say that "Liberty" must not wander, nor hedge, nor set up new questions until he admits that the Church has been calumniated in the publication of a false oath. Let him swallow himself upon this subject and then the original point at issue will have been settled.

I may state, however, in passing, that there is no mention made of Protestantism nor of any other particular sect in Catholic ceremonials, rituals, or professions of faith. The Church has her divine mission to fulfill, of preaching the gospel, of administering the sacraments and of leading souls to Heaven. Upon this she is most intent. True, she condemns error and hegesy because they are opposed to the teaching of Christ, just as Paul said, "But though we or an angel from heaven, preach a gospel to you besides that which we have preached to you, let him be Anathenia. For I gave you to understand, brethren, that the gospel which was preached by me is not according to man. For neither did I receive it of man, nor did I learn it; but by the revelation of Jesus Christ." (Gal. I: 8, 11, 12) The Church condemns falsehood in faith and morals just as the mathematician marks with a double cross

KING MANUEL LEAVES THE THRONE

London, June 10.—A despatch from Badajoz, Spain, says that the Portuguese army has mutinied, that King Manuel has abdicated, and that the Duke of Oporto has been elevated to the throne.

The despatch says that this information came in secret advices smuggled over the border, and adds that King Manuel abdicated in the hope that this move would placate the growing wrath of the people and preserve the monarchy.

Henderson Must Hang on the 23rd of June

A despatch received yesterday from the Department of Justice, Ottawa, says:

"The Government declines to interfere in the case of Henderson, who hangs on June 23."

This means that Robert Henderson will pay with his life for the murder of Margaret Henderson.

The public has been given to understand that the examination ordered to be made on the prisoner, as to his condition, has been conducted, and the report of such a nature to bring about the above step by the government.

Mr. F. D. Kerr, who has conducted the case for Henderson, when asked regarding any further proceedings on behalf of the condemned man, would make no statement.

After receipt of the telegram, Mr. Nesbitt, jailor, was rung up by phone to enquire whether the prisoner Henderson had received word of his impending execution. At the time of phoning Henderson knew not whether a commutation had been granted or not.

FORTY-FIVE PERSONS WERE KILLED

Berlin, June 10.—Reports received today say that more than 45 persons have been killed by the terrific electrical storms which have swept Germany and Russia. The war department today ordered that all manoeuvers be abandoned until the storms have passed. This is the result of the killing of several soldiers at various points by lightning.

The damage to crops is much heavier than at first reported and the monetary loss probably will be more than $1,000,000, the Rhine country being one of the chief sufferers.

Several houses have been hit by bolts.

Condemned Man Cables King a Prayer to be Spared Life

His Majesty King George:

"Am sentenced to hang June 20th Toronto, for killing man in quarrel I pray you humbly to give me my life.

Pasquale Ventricini."

Toronto, June 10.—Personal appeal was cabled today to King George in England by Pasquale Ventricini, murderer of Raffelo Fabbio whose application for liency was turned down by the Department of Justice at Ottawa yesterday, and who is at present confined in the death cell at the jail.

When the present King came to the throne a few weeks ago upon the death of King Edward, he marked his ascension by issuing an order that certain pardons should be issued to the criminals in custody at that time and also promised that all death sentences at that time awaiting fulfillment should be commuted to life imprisonments. It is on these grounds that Mr. T. C. Robinette, K.C., hopes to gain a commutation of the sentence of Ventricini. In addition to the direct appeal to King George, Mr. Robinette will communicate with Earl Grey on the arrival of his excellency in England and place before him the facts of the case and the grounds for the request of commutation and ask for his support in the appeal to the crown. A similar appeal for support will be made to the colonial secretary in England, to use his influence with King George.

Mr. Robinette is very optimistic of the outlook and believes that his client will be saved the extreme penalty of the law.

Woman of Eighty Walks 34 Miles

Chatham, Ont., June 10.— Mrs. Sarah Nevills, of Dresden, aged 80 years, walked from Dresden to Chatham this morning a distance of 17 miles, to renew a writ in the county court clerk's office. Mrs. Nevills has been doing this for three years. She does not care to ride on trains because she objects to tobacco smoke in the depots and the cars.

When she arrived in Chatham this morning, she found the county clerk's office filled with lawyers, all of whom were smoking. The office had to be cleared and aired before she would go in to do her business. She started from Dresden early this morning and arrived in Chatham about ten o'clock.

She will walk back to Dresden this evening.

THE BAILEY CASE.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—Mr. Munro, of Toronto, appears again in The Times as an advocate of the fake called "Christian Science." He is not well pleased with a few remarks which I made some time ago on that cult. I did say in effect that it was a cruel thing for the parents to trust the life of their innocent child to the senseless capers of the absent treatment fad. And I also said that there is a law for the punishment of men who obtain money under false pretences, and in this case why was the Christian Science faker allowed to go free?

Witchcraft and demonology formed a dark chapter in human life. But those superstitions are gone, and the so-called Christian Science will soon follow, as it has for its chief support only the credulity of a few weak-minded men and women, and for its advocates it can only enlist such aid as gentlemen like Mr. Munro can give it.—If the practice of this delusion was confined to adults, there would be nothing said, but assuredly the law should protect innocent children from a class of ignorant men who are too lazy to work, and who make a disreputable livelihood at the risk of human life.

HUMANITY.

If You Lived in Montreal

you could come and see the wonderful Cartwright Automatic Press, which is destined to revolutionize the job-printing world, and make money for the shareholders of the Company, as other great inventions, like the Linotype and Telephone, have done.

But, if you cannot call and see the Press itself, you can do as many other investors are doing,—you can read the interesting Prospectus and our little booklet, entitled "Expert Opinions", which gives some adequate idea of this great invention.

You will note when you read the literature we send you, how Publishers, Printers, and all classes of men connected with the printing business—men who thoroughly understand the real merit and value of such an invention—are the most enthusiastic endorsers of the Press, and what is still more important, they are buyers of both the presses and the shares.

Write us at once for this free literature, and we will forward it by return mail.

500 Lettergrams Sent Out---Move to Stop the Big Fight

Columbus, Ohio, June 10.— Five hundred "lettergrams" to five hundred men and women in philanthropic, educational and religious work, were sent out last night by the volunteer committee of the "stop that fight" movement. They were signed by Secretary George L. Rockwell. The lettergrams read: "————"

"To you by mail will follow letters, clippings and descriptive matter concerning the 'stop that fight' campaign. Vital importance. Give careful consideration and within 24 hours from receipt of this advise whether you will aid the movement."

The committee expects to be deluged with a shower of answers from every state in the union. The telegrams last night they consider the placing of the torch to the fuse. The explosion will come, they say, when the "stop that fight" people begin bombarding Governor Gillette of California.

Little Sues Johnston May Stop Big Fight

San Francisco, June 10.— George Little announces that there will be no fight unless he's in the ring as Johnson's manager. He declares he will legally prevent the fight, and there seems quite a possibility that he can.

"I must be assured," he says, "that my 25 per cent. of what he makes will be paid to me."

Johnson is up in the air, unable to train, and has worried off about eight pounds since the trouble started a week ago. His sister, Lucy Johnson, has been sent for from Chicago by his trainers. She may remove some of the sources of his worry.

To show that Little means business he this morning entered suit against Johnson to force the latter to carry out his agreement with Little as manager, by the terms of which Little is to collect not only one-fourth of every dollar Johnson receives from the purse, but also from the pictures and a long vaudeville tour that has been contracted for.

As a starter in the suit, legal notices have been served on Berger, Johnson, Gleason, and Rickard, warning them not to pay over to anyone any money in which Johnson may have an interest until the Little-Johnson fuss has been adjusted.

Henry Soh, Little's attorney, is the man who acted for Abe Ruef in the graft trial. He is a capable attorney, and a man of political power. "I can stop the fight in two minutes," he said, "if Little's claim are not met, and I will."

THE COUNTY COURT.

Cases To Be Tried Next Week Before His Honor Judge Huycke.

The June sessions of the County Court will open next Tuesday at one o'clock, with his honor Judge Huycke presiding. The docket list is made up of three jury and three non-jury cases which are as follows:

The first jury case is that of W.H. Clysdale of Dunnet, vs the London Mutual Life Insurance Co. In this case the plaintiff claims damages for loss on his drive house and outbuilding destroyed by fire caused by lightning.

The second is a case of Fowler & McBride vs the Grand Trunk Railway. The plaintiffs claim that on August last by their agents, the John Goodison Co., Ltd., they delivered to the defendants, at Sarnia, a threshing and engine complete with accessories to be by the defendants promptly delivered to the plaintiff at Peterborough.

The plaintiffs further claim that the defendants did not make a prompt delivery owing to negligence having missed the car, which did not arrive in Peterborough until Sept. 21st, 1909, twenty-five days after it should have arrived in ordinary course. He refused delivery by reason of neglect. Plaintiff claimed $653.63 damages and costs of the action.

Frederick G. Scott is suing Wm. E. Griffith for $500 and costs, claiming that after leasing certain lands in Belmont from defendant and doing certain work thereon the defendant refused to allow plaintiff to come on said property.

Every family and especially those who reside in the country should be provided at all times with a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment. There is no telling when it may be wanted in case of an accident or emergency. It is most excellent in all cases of rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by all dealers.

AN ERRATIC CLOCK.

Business Man Gets Into Trouble Through Post Office Clock.

Its all very well for the astronomical sharps to say that Halley's comet has had no effect on this world of ours. This is possibly proven a canard by the Peterborough Post office clock. For the past week the hands in this public time piece have acted so erratically that no theory below the effects of Halley's comet could explain. If the clock hands would stick at some particular hour one might consider that the machinery had run down or the care taker gone to Europe on a vacation.

One business man a day or two ago having had lunch (with accessories), looked at this clock which read 11.37. Thinking it dinner time he went home to find the supper dishes being washed. Next day he was assured by the clock that it was 5.57. This business man to make up for yesterday's error and incidentally square himself, went home and cheerily called out "Say wife, I hope I'm not late for supper!" His better half told him it was twenty minutes to seven and several other things. To prevent an epidemic of insanity that clock should be fixed.

Diarrhoea should be cured without loss of time and by a medicine which like Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy not only cures promptly, but produces no unpleasant after effects. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. Sold by all dealers.

A Picture of Great Moment.

The New York World will present all out-of-town readers, Sunday, June 12, with a photogravure of Curtiss in his aeroplane landing on Governor's Island, New York City, Sunday, May 29, and thereby winning the World's prize of $10,000. Each picture bears Mr. Curtiss's autograph signature. The time will come when these photographs will be worth $1.00. You can get one free with the Sunday World of June 12.

A tickling or dry cough can be quickly loosened with Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. No opium, no chloroform, nothing unsafe or harsh. Sold by all dealers.

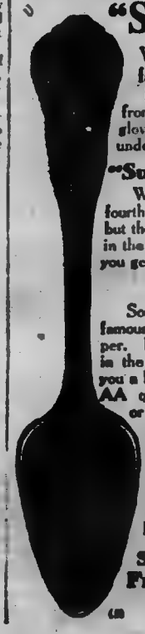
THE WEATHER.

Fine and warm.

Only Gloved Hands Pick "Sunkist" Oranges



We use great care in picking the famous "SUNKIST" ORANGES. Each "SUNKIST" ORANGE is picked from the tree and packed in the box by a gloved hand. No orange that falls to the ground is packed under the "SUNKIST" label.

"Sunkist" Navel Oranges Are Seedless

We grow 60% of all the California oranges. Three-fourths of all the lemons. Most of them are sold in bulk, but the choicest selections of this great quantity are wrapped in the "SUNKIST" label, so that if you would be sure that you get the choicest pick, insist upon the "SUNKIST."

Beautiful Orange Spoon FREE

Some dealers may claim the oranges they sell are the famous "SUNKIST," but that they have removed the wrapper. Insist on your dealer giving you oranges and lemons in the "SUNKIST" wrapper. If you do this we will give you a beautiful orange spoon—one of Rogers' best standard AA quality. Just send us twelve "SUNKIST" orange or lemon wrappers, with six 2c stamps to pay postage, packing, etc., and receive one of these beautiful spoons by return mail.

The choicest quality of lemons also go under the "SUNKIST" label. You can easily secure a whole dozen of these beautiful orange spoons. Get a dozen "SUNKIST" oranges or lemons today.

SPRAINED WRIST AND ANKLE.

After Being Laid Up With Great Pain for Ten Days, Relief Was Obtained Instantly By Applying

NERVILINE.

One of the most soul-distressing accidents that can befall one is a bad ankle or wrist sprain. "If I had only known of 'Nerviline' earlier, I could have saved myself an enormous amount of pain, and many agonizing nights of sleeplessness." Thus writes P. P. Quinn, a young farmer living near Brockville. "I tumbled from a hay loft to the barn floor and sprained my right ankle and left wrist. They swelled rapidly and caused excruciating pains. It was not convenient to go to the city, and the liniment in the house was useless. When I got Nerviline relief came quickly. It took down the swelling, relieved the pain, and gave me wonderful comfort.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 4266.

"I can recommend Nerviline for strains, bruises, swellings muscular pains and sore back. I have proved it a sure cure in such cases."

Think what it might some day mean to you to have right in your home ready for an accident or emergency sickness, a bottle or two of Nerviline. Get it today, 25c., or five for $1.00, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

A GREAT SERVANT OF THE EMPIRE.

The British Empire has been favored in obtaining the service of such men as Sir William Butler, who died this week. He was a brave man and adistinguished soldier. The most outstanding features of his character were his tenderness of heart and his chivalrous sense of justice. Canada has reason to be grateful to him, because in the days of weakness forty years and more ago, he upheld her cause both with sword and pen.

His "Great Lone Land," describing the Canadian West as it was forty years ago, is today full of fresh human interest. It is a sign of good taste and sound judgment that the copy in one of our great public libraries has been literally read to pieces, while in another the copy has disappeared, probably from the same cause. The motive of the book was a mission connected with the Red River Rebellion. While Sir Garnet Wosley's force was moving from Lake Superior to Fort Garry, Butler was to reach the same point through the Western States, discover whether there was any danger of a Fenian attack from that quarter, visit Fort Garry, and meet the expeditionary force with all the information he could obtain.

It was a task requiring coolness and courage, and these qualities he possessed in abundance. But the greatness of the man is shown in the fact that in reading the book you think little of his dangers and difficulties. He relegates his own personality to the background with a fine soldierly modesty. He is a lover of wild life. He beholds with sorrowful sympathy the inevitable retreat of the Indian before the forces of civilization. After shooting a buffalo he is seized with disgust at the sport, and admiration for the brave, helpless creature. "Never since that hour, though often but a two-days' ride from buffalo, have I sought to take the life of one of these noble animals." His statement of the case for the insurgent metis is conspicuously fair, and he is highly praised by Windsor in "his History of America."

Soon after his mission had been fulfilled he heard of the defeat of the French at Sedan. His chivalrous love for the weaker party at once suggested this thought. "Why not offer to France in the moment of her bitter, bitter adversity the sword and service of even one sympathizing friend?" But just then he received from Governor Archibald of Manitoba an offer to undertake another mission, to investigate the spread of smallpox among the Indians of the West, and to carry a supply of medicines and instructions for stamping out the disease. The carrying out of these duties occupied 119 winter days, and the distance covered was 2,700 miles. It was a fine piece of work, and again in the narrative the soldier's modesty and simplicity are displayed, and he has given us a classic description of a country that is but little known.

After leaving Canada Butler had a distinguished military career. It was he who warned the British government of the strength of the Boers and the necessity for a large force to meet them. But the British government at that time had a marvelous capacity for rejecting good advice, and the soundness of Butler's opinion was discovered only by bitter experience.

PERSIA'S LONE RAILWAY.

Persia, like Turkey, is awakening from her sleep of centuries, and aspires to resume the position she once occupied in the affairs of the great world. She has a constitution and some other modern improvements, but she hasn't caught up with the times sufficient to provide herself with a real transportation system. Horses and donkeys still constitute the passenger and freight carrying resources of the empire which once dominated the East. Still Persia has one railroad. It is ten miles long, and runs from Teheran, the capital, to the shrine of a defunct shah. The general manager of this road hasn't much trouble in figuring his ten-mile costs. Strikes do not disturb his slumbers. The finance committee doesn't bother itself with divided policies or bond issues, nor does it lie awake at nights wondering if rate-regulating bills are going to pass the Persian parliament.

The Coronation Oath

the statement that two and two make six, or that two bananas and two melons make four lemons. "Liberty's" difficulty is that he is certain of nothing in religion and hence is not sure that a contradictory opinion is false. I really pity him, his is the case of the writer:

So little do we know in this wide world
That I doubt if doubt itself be doubting:
O doubt, if thou be'est doubt!
But which I really doubt thou art.

His disposition on "Liberty" is the veriest twaddle. He uses the word with what Shakespeare would call "damnable iteration," but he does not define what it means nor what he means. We are all in favor of liberty, as we understand it but we do not agree as to what it is or ought to be. It is a foolish loss of time to prate over the word until we have a common idea or understanding of the thing. Does he mean by the word, the liberty the assassin exercises, or that of the thief, robber or murderer? All these appeal to liberty as loudly as your correspondent does. It is a pet word of fanatics, fools and philosophers so-called. It is like a piece of gum elastic, short or long at the will of him who fingers it. "Oh liberty" said Madame Roland, going to the guillotine "what crimes are committed in thy name." The mormon heard of liberty and thinking that he was conscience-free, concluded to take to himself two wives, the anarchist heard of it and decided upon killing the King, the fool, according to scripture, courted it and said in his heart "there is no God." Your correspondent, if he should carry out his theories of liberty to their logical conclusion and realize them in other acts in this country would find himself in due time in the penitentiary or dangling from a gibbet. This much by way of parenthesis.

Again "Liberty" takes me to task for speaking of the "braying of a jack-ass." I had almost bowed to his superior knowledge on the subject when, methought, I shall consult my Standard Dictionary. I looked for the verb to bray and I found the following: "to utter a loud harsh cry as from veration or pain; formerly said of many animals, now chiefly of the ass." Will "Liberty" refreshen his knowledge of "natural history?"

Finally "Liberty" does not comply with the last condition named in my letter. He will not make his name public. In fact on the card sent me he distinctly marks that his name is "not for publication." He fails to see the anomaly and inconsistency of carrying on a public discussion under an assumed name, with a known person. He will scarcely claim the privileges of a "Junius" or a "By-stander." He may retain his name if he wishes, but I certainly don't purpose following the wanderings and ravings of a man who will not come out in the open; who, like a social and religious misfit, has recourse to the most extravagant opportunism and is afraid of having his inflated reputation punctured by pointed facts and arguments charged with wholesome truth.

Yours truly,
M. J. O'BRIEN.

MONSTER BATTLESHIPS.

The naval architect quoted by us a few weeks ago as saying that the limit in size and armaments of battleships had not been reached has already proved to be correct in his assertion. The latest warship to be laid down for British navy is to be seven hundred feet long and have a displacement of 26,000 tons. Her turbine engines will be capable of developing 70,000 horse power, giving her a speed of 27½ to 30 miles an hour. The new ship's guns will be large enough and numerous enough to enable her to meet and overcome a super-Dreadnought. We hear a good deal about the anxiety that British people feel about the naval forces of foreign Powers. It would be interesting to learn what the people of other countries think of the course that the British Government pursues in insisting on leading the world in the construction of more formidable and larger vessels than any rival nation seems able to do. There is, however, a fly in the ointment of national content at hearing of these monster additions to the British navy. That is the fact that the huge leviathans may be destroyed and sent to the bottom by a torpedo well aimed or by the appliances available to the commander of an insignificant submarine navigated to strike at the defenceless part of the giant battleship.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days' test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

pay for the past I could not set that right. If giving my life over and over again would save you pain I would give it gladly. But what you ask now is one thing I cannot do. It would make me a pitiful coward. I did not kill Moreau. That is all I can say to you or to those who try me."

"Your life!" she said with dry lips. "It will mean that. That counts so fearfully much to me, more than my own life a hundred times. Yet there is something that counts more than all that to you."

His face was that of a man who holds his hand in the fire. "Jessica," he said, "it is like this with me. When you found me here the day I saw you on the balcony—I was a man whose soul had lost its compass and its bearings. My conscience was asleep. You woke it, and it is fiercely alive now. And now with my memory has come back a debt of my past that I never paid. Whatever the outcome, for my soul's sake I must settle it now and wipe it from the score forever."

She rose slowly to her feet, with a despairing gesture.

"'He saved others,'" she quoted in a hard voice; "'himself he could not save!' I once heard a minister preach from that text at home. It was your friend, the Rev. Henry Sanderson. I thought it a very spiritual sermon then. That was before I knew what his companionship had been to you."

"If there were any justice in the universe," she added, "it should be he immolating himself now, not you. But for him you would never be here. He ruined your life and mine, and I hate and despise him for a selfish hypocrite."

That was what he himself had seemed to her in those old days. The edge of a flush touched his forehead as he said slowly, almost appealingly:

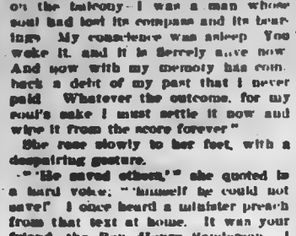
"He was not a hypocrite, Jessica. Whatever he was if was not that. At college he did what he did too openly. That was his failing, not caring what others thought. He despised weakness in others. He thought it none of his affair. So others were influenced. But after he came to see things differently from another standpoint—when he went into the ministry—he would have given the world to undo it."

"Men's likings are strange," she said. "Because he never had temptations like yours and has never done what the law calls wrong you think he is as noble as you—noble enough to shield a murderer to his own danger."

"Ah, no, Jessica!" he interposed gently. "I only said that in my place he would do the same."

"But you are shielding a murderer," she insisted fiercely. "You will not admit it, but I know. There can be no justice or right in that. If Harry Sanderson is all you think him, if he stood here now and knew the whole, he would say it was wicked—not brave and noble, but wicked and cruel."

He shook his head, and the sad shadow of a bitter smile touched his lips. "He would not say so," he said.



"It should be he immolating himself now, not you."

A dry sob answered him. He turned and leaned his elbows on the narrow window sill, every nerve aching, but powerless to comfort. He heard her step. The door closed sharply.

Then he faced into the empty cell, sat down on the cot and threw out his arms, with a hopeless cry:

"Jessica, Jessica!"

* * * * * * *

Jessica left the jail with despair in her heart. The hope on which she had fed these past days had failed her. What was there left for her to do? Like a swift wind, she went up the street to Felder's office. She groped her way up the unlighted stair and tapped on the door. There was no answer. She pushed it open and entered the empty outer room, where a study lamp burned on the desk.

A pile of legal looking papers had been cut beside it, and with them lay a torn page of a newspaper whose familiar caption gave her a stab of pain. Perhaps the news of the trial had found its way across the ranges to where the names of Stires and Moreau had been known. Perhaps every one at Aniston already knew of it, was reading about it, pitying her. She picked it up and scanned it hastily. There was no hint of the trial, but her eye caught the news which had played its role in the courtroom, and she read it to the end.

Even in her own trouble she read it with a shiver. Yet, awful as the fate which Harry Sanderson had so narrowly missed, it was not to be compared with that which awaited Hugh for, awful as it was, it held no shame.

In a gust of feeling she slipped to her knees by the one sofa the room contained and prayed passionately. As she drew out her handkerchief to staunch the tears that came something fell with a musical tinkle at her feet. It was the [illegible] she had found in front of the hillside cabin that had lain forgotten in her pocket during the past anxious days. As she pressed it the ring at the top gave way, and the cross parted in halves. Words were engraved on the inside of the arms—a date and the name Henry Sanderson.

The recurrence of the name jarred and surprised her. Hugh had dropped it—an old keepsake of the friend who had been his most ideal [illegible] exemplar and whose ancient influence was still dominant. He had clung loyally to the memento, blind in his constant liking to the wrong that friend had done him. She looked at the date. It was May 28. She shuddered, for that was the month and day on which Dr. Moreau had been killed. The point had been clearly established today by the prosecution. To the original owner of that cross perhaps the date that had come into Hugh's life with such a sinister meaning was a glad anniversary.

Suddenly she caught her hand to her back. A weird idea had rushed through her brain. The religious symbol had stood for Harry Sanderson, and the chance coincidence of date had irresistibly pointed to the murder. To her excited senses the juxtaposition held a bizarre, uncanny suggestion. This cross, the very emblem of vicarious sacrifice! Suppose Harry Sanderson had never given it to Hugh! Suppose he had lost it on the hillside himself!

She snatched up the paper again. "Who has been for some months on a prolonged vacation" the phrase stared sardonically at her. That might carry far back, she said it under her breath, fearfully beyond the murder of Dr. Moreau. Her face burned, and her breath came sharp and fast. Why when she brought her warning to the cabin had Hugh been so anxious to get her away unless to prevent her sight of the man who was there, to whom he had taken her horse? Who was there in Smoky Mountain whom he would protect at hazard of his own life?

Jessica's veins were all afire. A rector murderer? A double career? Was it beyond possibility? It came to her like an impinging ray of light, the old curious likeness that had sometimes been made a jest of at the white house in the aspens. Moreau and Prendergast had believed it to be Hugh. So had the town, for the body had been found on his ground. But on the night when the real murderer came again to the cabin perhaps it was his coming that had brought back the lost memory. Hugh had known the truth. In the light of this supposition, his strained manner then, his present determination not to speak, all stood plain.

What had he meant by a debt of his past that he had never paid? He could owe no debt to Harry Sanderson. If he owed any debt it was to his dead father, a thousand times more than the draft he had repaid. Could he be thinking in his remorse that his father had cast him off, counting himself nothing, remembering only that Harry Sanderson had been David Stires' favorite and St. James', which must be smirched by the odium of its rector, the apple of his eye?

Jessica had snatched at a straw, because it was the only buoyant thing afloat in the dragging tide. Now with a blind fatuousness she hugged it tighter to her bosom. One purpose possessed her—to confront Harry Sanderson. What matter though she missed the remainder of the trial? She could do nothing. Her hands were tied. If the truth lay at Aniston she would find it. She thought no farther than this. Once in Harry Sanderson's presence, what she should say or do she scarcely imagined. The horrifying question filled her thought to the exclusion of all that must follow its answer. It was surety and self conviction she craved, only to read in his eyes the truth about the murder of Moreau.

She suddenly began to tremble. Would the doctors let her see him? What excuse could she give? If he was the man who had been in Hugh's cabin that night he had heard her speak, had known she was there. He must not know beforehand of her coming lest he have suspicion of her errand. Bishop Ludlow, he could gain her access to him. Injured, dying perhaps, maybe he did not guess that Hugh was in jeopardy for his crime. Guilty and dying, if he knew this, he would surely tell the truth. But if he died before she could reach him? The paper was some days old. He might be dead already. She took heart, however, from the statement of his improved condition.

She sprang to her feet and looked at her chatelaine watch. The eastbound express was overdue. There was no time to lose. Minutes might count. She examined her purse. She had money enough with her.

Five minutes later she was at the station, a scribbled note was on its way to Mrs. Halloran, and before a swinging red lantern the long incoming train was shuddering to a stop.

Chapter 29

IN the long hospital the air was cool and filtered, drab figures passed with soft footfalls and voices were measured and hushed. But no sense of coolness or repose had come to the man whose racked body had been tenderly borne there in the snowy dawn which saw the blackened ruins of Aniston's most perfect edifice.

Hugh had sunk into unconsciousness with the awe struck exclamation ringing in his ears, "Good God, it's Harry Sanderson!" He had drifted back to conscious knowledge with the same words racing in his brain. They implied that so far as capture went the old curious resemblance would stand his friend till he betrayed himself or till the existence of the real Harry Sanderson at Smoky Mountain did so for him. The decision must hold till he could have himself moved to some place where his secret would be safer, till he could get away.

His thoughts grew swiftly paramount; it overtopped the rigid agony of his terms that made the bed on which he lay a fiery furnace; it gave method to his every word and look. He rose up the difficult part and, after the superficial anguish dulled, complained no more and successfully counterfeited cheerfulness and betterment. He said nothing of the curiously recurrent and sickening stab of pain, searching and deep seated, that took his breath and left each time an increasing giddiness. Whatever inner hurt this might betoken, he must hide it the sooner to leave the hospital, where each hour brought nearer the inevitable disclosure.

He thanked fortune now for the chapel game. Few enough in Aniston would care to see the unfrocked, disgraced rector of St. James'. He did not know that the secret was Bishop Ludlow's own until the hour when he opened his eyes after a fitful sleep upon the latter's face.

The bishop was the first visitor, and it was his first visit, for he had been in a distant city at the time of the fire. Waiting the waking, he had been appalled at the change a few months had wrought in the countenance of the man whose disappearance had cost him so many sleepless hours. The months of indulgence and rich living—on the money he had won from Harry—had taken away Hugh's slightness, and his fuller cheeks were now of the contour of Harry's own. But the bishop distinguished new lines in the face on the pillow, an expression unfamiliar and puzzling. The firmness and strength were gone, and in their place was a haunting something that gave him a flitting suggestion of the discarded that he could not shake off.

Waking, the unexpected sight of the bishop startled Hugh. To the good man's pain he had turned his face away.

"My dear boy," the bishop had said, "they tell me you are stronger and better. I thank God for it!"

He spoke gently and with deep feeling. How could he tell to what extent he himself, in mistaken severity, had been responsible for that unaccustomed look? When Hugh did not answer the bishop misconstrued the silence. He leaned over the bed. The big cool hand touched the fevered one on the white coverlid, where the ruby ring glowed, a coal in snow.

"Harry," he said, "you have suffered—you are suffering now. But think of me only as your friend. I ask no questions. We are going to begin where we left off."

"I would like to do that," said Hugh, "to begin again. But the chapel is gone."

"Never mind that," said the bishop cheerfully. "You are only to get well. We are going to rebuild soon, and we want your judgment on the plans. Aniston is hanging on your condition, Harry," he went on. "There's a small cartload of visiting cards downstairs for you. But I imagine you haven't begun to receive yet, eh?"

"We are going to begin where we left off."

"I—I've seen nobody." Hugh spoke hurriedly and hoarsely. "Tell the doctor to let no one come—no one but you. I—I'm not up to it."

"Why, of course not," said the bishop quickly. "You need quiet, and the people can wait."

The bishop chatted awhile of the parish, Hugh replying only when he must, and went away heartened. Before he left Hugh saw his way to hasten his own going. On the next visit the seed was dropped in the bishop's mind so cleverly that he thought the idea his own. That day he said to the surgeon in charge:

"He is gaining so rapidly I have been wondering if he couldn't be taken away where the climate will benefit him. Will he be able to travel soon?"

"I think so," answered the surgeon. "We suspected internal injury at first, but I imagine the worst he has to fear is the disfigurement. Mountain or sea air would do him good," he added reflectively. "What he will need is tonic and building up."

The bishop had revolved this in his mind. He knew a place on the coast, tucked away in the cypresses, which would be admirable for convalescence. He could arrange a special car, and he himself could make the journey with him. He proposed this to the surgeon and with his approval put his plan in motion. In two days more Hugh found his going fully settled.

The idea admirably fitted his necessity. The spot the bishop had selected was quiet and retired and, more, with near the port at which he could most readily take ship for South America. Only one reflection made him shiver—the route lay through the town of Smoky Mountain. Yet who would dream of looking for a fugitive from the law in the secluded car that carried a sick man? The risk would be small enough, and it was the one way open.

On the last afternoon before the departure Hugh asked for the clothes he had worn when he was brought to the hospital, found the gold pieces he had snatched in the burning chapel and tied them in a handkerchief about his neck. They would suffice to buy his way passage. The one red counter he had kept—it was from henceforth to be a reminder of the good resolutions he had made so long ago—he slipped into a pocket of the clothes he was to wear away, a suit of loose, comfortable tweed.

Waiting restlessly for the hour of his going, Hugh asked for the newspapers. Since the first he had had them read to him each day, listening fearfully for the hue and cry. But today the surgeon put his request aside.

"After you are there," he said, "if Bishop Ludlow will let you. Not now. You are almost out of my clutches, and I must tyrannize while I can."

A quick look passed from him to his assistant as he spoke, for the newspapers that afternoon had worn startling headlines. The sordid affairs of a mining town across the ranges had little interest for Aniston, but the names of Stires and Moreau on the clicking wire had waked it thus late to the sensation. The professional caution of the tinker of human bodies wished, however, that no excitement should be added to the unavoidable fatigue of his patient's departure.

(To be continued.)

NO ONE TO BE DISAPPOINTED

Owing to the delay in the mails Hundreds of Applications for Shares did not reach the Executive Office until too late. Closing ont date to be extended until July 16th.

Coalinga-Eureka Oil Company (Inc.)

From the volumes of applications which have arrived at our office several days after the closing out date, May 28th, for shares in this Company at 25 cents per share, the executive body met and decided that it would be to the best interest of all concerned to fill these delayed orders and extend the same privilege to those at a distance who could not see the advertisement, owing to lateness in issue of paper, in time to enable them to wire their order here by the closing out date, May 28th.

This is, therefore, a final opportunity for you to secure a block of stock in the Coalinga Eureka Oil Company at 25 cents per share. No application received for less than 100 shares.

You must bear in mind, however, that no further extensions will be granted. Under no consideration will there be shares offered for sale by the Company, after July 16th, at less than FIFTY CENTS per share. Do not delay, therefore, since the block to be sold at 25 cents is limited.

Since the last advertising announcement appeared in this paper, several new wells have come in with large volumes of oil in the Coalinga oil fields.

Shrewd, far-seeing investors, capitalists from all portions of the world, are thronging to Coalinga, the greatest oil field in the universe, until the district has become a veritable bee hive of men, young and old, anxious to take advantage of this great opportunity of making a maximum amount of money at the minimum of investment.

The oil fields of Coalinga are richer than the gold fields of the Yukon ever were. Do you know that if you had invested $100 at the inception of the following Companies, you would have made:

Silver Tip	$ 600
W. K.	1,000
Sterling	1,000
Monte Cristo	1,120
Premier	1,100
Record	2,000
S. E. & Tuck	2,000
Sauerdough	1,166
Lucile	5,000
San Joaquin	5,700
Peerless	6,350
Kern River	9,500
Central Oil	15,000

"Final" shares sold at 25 cents, they are now selling at $25 and paying monthly dividends of 15 per cent. an income of $60 per month on an investment of $100. When the "Silver Tip" came in, the stock jumped over night from 66 cents to $1 and has been paying monthly dividends of 10 per cent. ever since.

Similar opportunities are open to you, but you must think for yourself, have the courage of your convictions and ACT.

Development work is being rushed forward on Well No. 1 of this property, with the result that within a few weeks time the drill should be down to the oil levels, and the Coalinga Eureka Oil Company's property should be one of the biggest and most profitable propositions operating in the Coalinga fields.

The property is especially well situated, being adjacent to the largest producing properties in the Coalinga field. This means that our property must be immediately above the great oil pools.

For 25 cents you are able to acquire $1.00 shares. The shares are non assessable. When you have paid 25 cents per share you receive your certificate. No further demands can be made upon you.

The smallest block of stock is 100 shares, on which the terms are as follows:

What Your Money Will Buy
Cash, Plan 5 per cent deducted.

$ 23.77 will buy 100 shares	par value $ 100
47.50 will buy 200 shares	par value 200
118.75 will buy 500 shares	par value 500
237.50 will buy 1000 shares	par value 1000

PARTY STRIFE RESUMED.

The decorious truce that followed the death of King Edward is already over. The two great parties are at each others throats. The direct charge is made that the King's death was due to the measures taken by the Liberal leaders. They, it is maintained, first introduced the crown into the controversy between the lords and the commons.

English politics has the reputation for a decorum beyond that enjoyed by politics elsewhere. Yet human nature is human nature, and in times of sharp stress any weapon will be seized. It has already been reported that Queen Alexandra told John Burns, over the King's coffin, that he and Asquith were responsible for the King's death. It is now reported further that Princess Victoria, on meeting the kaiser, brought the same accusation against Asquith and Lloyd-George.

It is quite possible that the course of King Edward's life for many years was not such as would help brace him for a great political crisis and that the first envisagement of reality, after a long term of functioning that was largely decorative, may have imposed a severer strain than he could bear; yet the world will regret the unchivalrous introduction of the women of the royal family as fuel added to the flames of party controversy, even if uncautious words uttered during the first hours of grief shall have supplied some pretext for such a step. The feminine element, true, is not unknown to British politics; but the quarrel as it stood, even before the King's death, was acute and complicated enough without the introduction of added features. Forbearance today will be matter for gratulation in retrospect when the long-continued controversy shall finally have reached its closed.

THE POWERS AND PERSIA.

Russia and Great Britain were in diplomatic straits ten years ago over the suzerainty of Persia; and, but for the interruption of the Russo-Japanese war, there might have been open rupture between the two powers. As it is, the influence in Persia is divided between Russia and Great Britain; and the German diplomats are sounding an alarm over the conditions of affairs, in which Germany has no share in the monopolization of all economic and financial opportunities in the land of the Xerxes. Emperor William has been induced to take a stand on the question. It is alleged that the Russo-British entente has virtually shut the Persian door of trading opportunities against Germany. This is not in line with Germany's international aggrandizements and the way is seemingly being prepared to protect the prestige of Germany as a power to be consulted in arriving at such arrangements even in an isloated eastern realm. Meatime, the diplomats are busy over the problem, and very much depends on the forbearance of the Emperor, which could nearly always be depended upon as a forwarding of peace; during the latter lifetime of his uncle, the King of England. In 1903, the triple alliances of Britain, Russia and France was arranged, over the annexation of Bosnia and Hergovina, as pendencies of Austria. This was mainly brought about through the interventions of Germany; and now the world may have to witness the breaking up of the entente between Britain and Russia over Persian affairs by a like intervention on the part of Emperor William.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A glance at the society columns will convince the most skeptical that the late spring has not interfered with the marriage crop at any rate.

Montreal police paid no attention to the statement of an aged man, arrested as a drunk, when he said he had been shot. After spending the night in a cell it transpired that he had a bullet in his head and may not live. Constables cannot be too careful in ascertaining the real condition of those whom they arrest. It is easy to acquire the habit of considering that everyone who is delirious on the street is drunk.

Col. Sam Hughes knows not whether to be elated or mournful. General French has praised his pet rifle, and the Board of Trade has condemned his pet smoke plant.

MELVILLE VIEW

It Will Be Worth Your While to Investigate.

HAVE YOU MONEY TO INVEST?

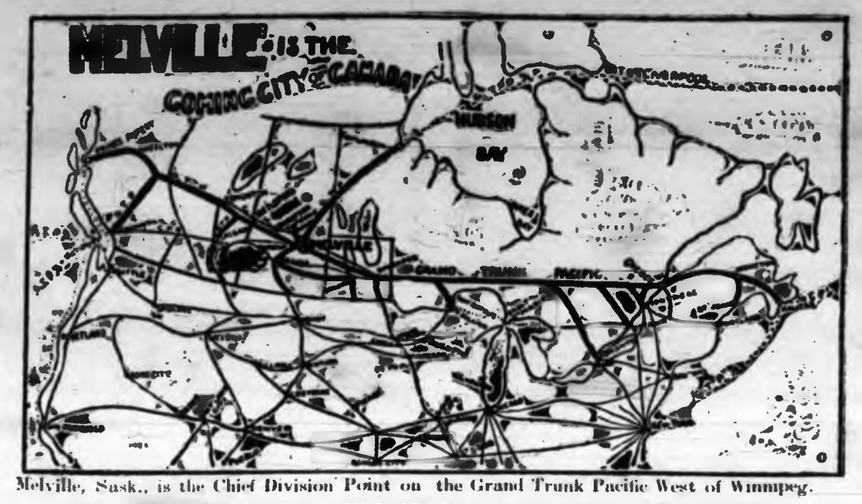
HERE IS A PROPOSITION THAT WILL REPAY YOUR ATTENTION

Everyone is familiar with the fortunes that have been and are daily being made out of holdings in the rapidly-growing towns of the Canadian West. Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton and many other western cities have, by their almost supernatural development, filled the pockets of those who had the foresight to invest in realty when those places were in the making.

Perhaps you missed those. Here, then, is another opportunity.

HAVE YOU HEARD OF MELVILLE

Melville, Saskatchewan, we mean! Three years ago it had scarcely been conceived. Two years since it was born, and now, with that amazing progress which stamps certain towns as distinctly western, it has a population of 2,000 people. Its past is so recent that the word seems a misnomer; its present spells "opportunity," and the end is not yet.



Melville, Sask., is the Chief Division Point on the Grand Trunk Pacific West of Winnipeg.

LET US TELL WHAT WE HAVE FOR YOU AT MELVILLE

One-half mile from the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway station is Melville View, subdivided into lots of 30 feet frontage, ranging in depth from 120 feet upwards.

Much serious thought was given to the location of Melville View before it was platted. Our chief consideration was, of course, to choose that portion of the city towards which the tide of both business and home-making was flowing. Also we wanted to keep as near as possible to the business centre and the railway station. In Melville View we believe we have accomplished both objects.

Melville View is that portion of the city in which people who live at Melville and realize its rapid growth are making their investments. It is THE location. Melville represents what is to-day probably the best real estate investment in the best district in Western Canada. The wisdom of our choice is being confirmed daily by the rapidity with which these lots are meeting with buyers.

In the very heart of Melville view there is to be a park. Opposite the park is the proposed school site. So that, however rapidly the city may expand, you will always be assured of pleasant surroundings. There is not a lot in the subdivision which is not in reality worth much more than we are asking for it. Of course, some are better than others on account of location.

The terms are practically your own. What's the use of plodding on year after year, with nothing in view but a small increase in salary per annum? Don't you ever realize that your earning capacity will decrease after you have reached a certain age? How often we hear the saying, "If I'd only taken a chance," after opportunities have been thrown away! Regret, however, is a poor substitute as a money-maker. The future of a man's health is uncertain. The future of a real estate investment in the most progressive city in Western Canada, one with a growth that is unprecedented, is assured. If you are convinced that you owe it to yourself and your heirs to purchase one or more of these lots you have fulfilled your obligation; the terms we will make to suit your pocketbook.

Here, then, is the opportunity. The location is without equal. The prices are absurdly low. Every day's delay lessens your chances of obtaining a portion of Melville View. Booklet and further information on application.

FACTS ABOUT MELVILLE

THE FUTURE OF MELVILLE IS ON EVERY TONGUE.

Melville has the advantage of being a new town.

Melville is the principal divisional point on the Grand Trunk Pacific between Winnipeg and the Coast.

Melville is 280 miles west of Winnipeg and only 870 miles from the outlet of the Great Hudson Bay route.

Melville will be the headquarters for and will derive the benefit from the enormous traffic of the G. T. P. by way of the Hudson Bay.

With the completion of the Hudson Bay road the grain route to Europe by Melville will be shortened 1,000 miles.

In addition to being on the main line of the G. T. P., Melville has two branch lines nearing completion, one to Yorkton and another to Regina.

Its streets resound with the hammers of industry by day and whole blocks grow up almost in a night. Opportunities are here for investment; to-day is yours, if you make it; to-morrow may be the other fellow's. Melville property is worth considering.

The lots in Melville View we offer to you at prices ranging from $50 to $100 each, with $10 extra for corners. The terms are $10 per lot cash, balance $2.50 per lot per month, with interest at 6 per cent. Prices will advance from 20 to 33 per cent. June 15th

MELVILLE SECOND WINNIPEG

Divisional Town of Grand Trunk Has Rapid Growth

Melville, Saskatchewan, the largest divisional town of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway of Western Canada, is already hailed as a second Winnipeg. Where two years ago was a bare stretch of prairie is now a little city of 2,000 people, with wholesale houses that have recognized the growing town as the natural distributing point of a country comprising millions of acres of the choicest land in Western Canada. It has a fine railway station, banks, churches, schools and handsome residences. Melville is destined to be the operating base of the Hudson Bay Railway, by which there will be a saving of over one thousand miles in distance in comparison with the Montreal route to Liverpool. It will then be headquarters for the Grand Trunk Pacific by the way of the Hudson Bay route, and, in addition, will be the terminus of the central-west Grand Trunk Pacific to the United States by way of Regina, and within a very few years it is certain to have a population of not less than 50,000 people. As it is now, Melville can boast of a greater percentage of increase in population per month than some of its rivals can point to per year. Take a map and measure and you will find that from the Twin Cities it is nearer to the British Isles by the way of Melville and the Hudson Bay route than by the way of New York, Boston and other Atlantic seaports. The increases in the prices of its real estate indicate what well-informed investors think of its future—for money talks. There is a fortune in Melville real estate for early purchasers. The same opportunities that Winnipeg presented fifteen years ago are found here in Melville to-day.

This Plan Shows an Excellent Location of Melville View, Where Lots are Selling Rapidly.

LOOKS LIKE STUPIDITY.

The control of immigration is so difficult a problem that there should be no disposition to criticise the government unreasonably in this connection. Some years ago the influx of the unemployable and other undesirables assumed quite alarming proportions. The situation was accentuated by the temporary commercial reverse of 1907 and 1908, and the different charitable organizations of the country became overtaxed. As a direct outcome of this experience the immigration regulations have been made more stringent. The sieve through which the arrivals are strained has been fitted with a finer mesh.

The tendency in all reforms is to run to extremes, and possibly, that is what the government has done in this instance. An order-in-council adopted this spring requires all immigrants, except farm-laborers, to have not only tickets to their ultimate destination in this country, but also $25 in cash for the head of the family, and a proportionate amount for each of the other members. This rule has given rise to some hardship and to much ill-feeling in Great Britain.

The Westminster Gazette objects to the ungenerous spirit in which the regulation is being interpreted and applied. It calls particular attention to the efforts of an emigration society to help a reputable woman with four children to join her husband already at work in Canada. Every inquiry had been made, and the committee were unanimously agreed that it was a most deserving one for assistance. The husband had sent a letter explaining that he was in full work, and hoped soon to be able to refund the money which it was proposed to advance for the emigration of his family.

At this point Canadian officialdom stepped in with the decision that the wife and children could not be allowed to go because the husband and father was not engaged in farm work. The crime of which the father was convicted and his family penalized. The wife and children will now have to wait until he can earn the $176 necessary for their passage and landing money. No doubt ever since the city yesterday.

California Petroleum

Wonderful Production of Oil in the Golden State.

San Francisco, Cal., June 9.—When half a century ago the United States Government surveyors reported crude petroleum floating on the Pacific ocean, little did they think that today the yearly production of new wealth from the California oil fields would be more than all of California's mines.

Already California oil lubricates ninety per cent. of the wheels west of the Mississippi and furnishes motive power for nearly half of them. Great locomotives, unheard of and impossible a few years ago, and only made possible by liquid fuel, deliver oil to the furnaces of factory, mine, refinery, power plant and home, while enormous tank steamers transport the oil products to all parts of the world.

The refineries of California, employing thousands of men, manufacture more than two hundred different articles of commerce, varying from the finest grades of lubricating and illuminating oils, to vaseline, or earth jelly, and skid grease, including various cosmetics, prismatic dyes and ointments. As a residium after the manufacture of cheap gas, either for light or fuel, there remain the ingredients necessary for a superior grade of coke, so hard and pure that it has been called carbonite. From this product many useful mechanical agents are manufactured, among them being carbon pencils, carborodes and an abrasive element, superior to emery or carborundum.

Five thousand factories in Southern California have been made possible by the use of crude oil, either as fuel direct, or converted into gas or electric energy. Railroads which have not paid dividends for years have been enabled to do so by the vast saving from fuel bills.

With a production this year that will approximate seventy million barrels, worth nearly twice as much as the entire citrus crop, worth more than the combined output of all the metal mines, with production constantly growing in response to steadily increasing prices, and an ever growing and expanding market, the outlook for the producers of California oil within the next few years are flattering indeed.

CANADA GIVES UP CLAIM TO ONE ISLAND AND GETS FISHING CONCESSIONS.

One Lone Man on Island—He Tried to Vote on Both Sides, But Paid No Taxes.

Ottawa, June 9.—All boundary disputes are now settled between Canada and the United States.

A tiny bit of an island called "Pope's Folly," and lying in Passamaquody Bay, close to the boundary of Maine, is now part of the United States, and on the other hand Canada is granted certain valuable fishing rights.

The government here has served official intimation of the settlement through Ambassador Bryce at Washington.

"Pope's Folly," is just a bit of rock, about an acre in extent, projecting out of the sea water. The waves almost wash over it, when there is a gale, but on it for years there has lived a solitary old man, who was— until today—neither American nor Canadian. On the rocky top of the island, he had a rough wooden dwelling, a few chicken, a pig and a boat.

It seems that there were once two pigs, but one being of an exploratative turn of mind fell into the sea and perished. The owner of the pigs lives by fishing.

It is said that the American municipality which claimed the island, and the Canadian municipality had great trouble in deciding which should collect the taxes from the one resident of Pope's Folly." That person, however, settled the question by declining gently, but firmly, to pay either. The sea, he argued, was his roadway, the sky his school and the pig his neighbor.

When there was an election in the United States, the old man put out in his boat, rowed to Maine, and insisted on voting. When an election came on in Canada, he chose the shore of Nova Scotia and voted or tried to vote there. But now with the final settling of the point he becomes, will nilly an American. Maine may collect taxes. Maine may accept his ballots, while Canada looks over the boundary wall and Weeps for a lost island and a lost citizen, to say nothing of the pig.

CASE OF BRONCHIAL CATARRH PROMPTLY RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

MR. J. C. HERVUS PELLETIER

Bronchial Catarrh Unless Stopped Often Spreads To The Lungs, Causing Catarrh of Lungs.

J. C. Hervus Pelletier, Dep't de l'Agriculture, Ottawa, Ont., writes: "The Peruna is particularly efficacious in the cure of catarrhal affections of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and it is in consequence the remedy most appreciated here in Ottawa. Six bottles cured me this winter of bronchitis. I am completely restored and I owe thanks to the Peruna. I have recommended this remedy to a large number of my friends afflicted with the same trouble, and they have verified my good opinion of this valuable remedy."

CATARRH of the bronchial tubes often very quickly becomes catarrh of the lungs. Catarrh of the lungs makes the patient an easy victim to the germs that cause tuberculosis. Sound lungs protect themselves against disease germs.

Peruna has acquired a lasting reputation in relieving catarrh of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. This should prevent the tubercular bacilli from gaining any foothold in the lungs, and saves the patient from the inevitable result.

Mr. Wickliffe R. Smith, Editor of The Potlatch Herald, formerly Principal of the Schools at Cameron, Idaho, writes: "For some time I suffered with catarrh of the throat and bronchial tubes. I tried many remedies, but could find nothing that would give me relief.

"Finally I tried Peruna. Three bottles cured me, made me sound and well. I believe it will do as much for others as it did for me. I shall be glad to recommend it to those suffering with catarrh."

The LIME JUICE CLUB

A Long Way After the Lime Kiln Club

The Hall of Wisdom was again filled to overflowing last night, when Sir Richard ascended the dias. After rubbing a cramp out of his left leg, the president announced that Prof. Watson, of Lindsay, was in the hall, and would deliver his famous lecture on "Art." The speaker of the evening was at once escorted to the platform by the Committee on Earthquakes, and he told the large audience how pleased he was to be permitted to appear before the Club. He spoke of his journey from the Scugog town, and how he managed to arrive in the nick of time on a gravel train.

After taking a very lean drink of water, and absorbing a troche to offset it, the speaker continued:

"We will now turn to art. We see art in everything around us, from the cute in The Times to the court plaster on the end of Bro. Weir's nose, and yet there are souls that don't respond. I know men who might stand for a whole hour in front of Bro. Roy's fine art studio, gazing at the lovely pictures shown in the doorway, and not see anything to expand their souls and turn their thoughts in better channels. I've seen some men stand before the bust of Sir John A. MacDonald, and find fault with the squint of the left eye, and I've seen other men stand before a fence all painted off with red, and blue, and yellow, and look for nothing but nail holes. Take science away from us and we wouldn't know why we grease the wheelbarrow. Take art away from us and we might as well live in canal boats. I am glad to see the interest this Club takes in both subjects. Your reports on astronomy have reached every corner of the land, and your pictures and relics in this Hall is proof that art, left in your care, will grow and flourish till no maker will dare offer a broom to the public without the handle is painted blue. With these few suggestions and aggregations I will now close."

The professor received an ovation as he concluded, and was promptly tendered a vote of thanks by Bro. Jamfed Jones in a speech 27 feet long.

THE OYSTER.

Darkness Cameron, Chairman of the Committee on Catfish and Turtles, to whom he had submitted the query: "Can the oyster be domesticated and made obedient to the command of man?" reported as follows:

"In the first place the oyster is not provided with legs or teeth; and he wouldn't be worth old bones to drive a cow out of the back yard. In the next place his eyes are set too far back in his head to permit him to rush through a brush fence. He hasn't the backbone to stand up to a row, or the wings to fly away from one. He can't see in the night, and is two lazy to see in the day time. His general build and average habits prove to this committee that nature never intended him to act as a watch-dog, or occupy a bird cage. As a fish he is a sudden failure. As a grasshopper he can't hoe his row. We turned him over and over, took him in from all sides, and arrove at the conclusion that he is filling his mission when he is stewed, fried or taken on the half-shell. This committee, therefore, asks to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject, and will ever pray."

Bro. Talbot objected to the report on the ground that it might encourage poor people to buy oysters instead of pig's heads and spareribs, and proceeded to launch out into a speech 16 feet long, but the report was adopted while he was in the middle of his remarks.

SNUBBED.

Bro. Razor Haskill here secured the floor and asked leave to read a ballad entitled: "The Lost Schooner," composed by himself and dedicated to the Lime Juice Club.

"I object," said Bro. Hairdresser Lewis.

"Sustain the objection," came from all parts of the Hall.

"Bro. Haskill, is the ballad written in red ink?" inquired the president.

"No, sir."

"That's one serious objection. Where was that schooner lost?"

"On the Red Sea, sir."

"That's too far away from home—altogether too far. What was she loaded with?"

"The ballad don't say, sir."

"Then we don't care to hear it read. You have left out all the main points, Bro. Haskill, and I hope you'll forgive me when I tell you to stick to the razor and let poetry take care of itself."

NO DINNER.

Bro. Snowden got Bro. Croft to wake up and introduce a resolution to the effect that the Club give itself a dinner in the Hall of Wisdom in order to fitly close up the winter season, paying all expenses out of the treasury.

Bro. Nixon jumped up and was preparing to enter into details in order to show that such an event would tend to greatly benefit the Club.

The idea seemed to take all over the Hall in a flash, and not feeling equal to the occasion the President rose and said:

"The motion to adjourn is carried."

"No motion! No motion!" yelled hundreds of voices.

"And we will therefore repudiate to our homes in a few moments," Sir Richard continued.

"Question!" Question!!" they yelled.

"Going home takes precedence over all other questions," softly replied the old patriarch, and he put on his hat, closed the books and beat the dinner scheme out of sight, while the meeting went out into the starry night.

A Call From Oregon

Opportunities in the Far West

The greatest industrial activity in this country is now centered in Oregon. Two of the biggest railroad systems in the U. S., with intense rivalry, are pushing branch lines into the remote portions of this State, and an exodus from the East is on in the occupation of this the LAST FRONTIER ON THE CONTINENT. Fortunes will be made here THIS YEAR—NEXT YEAR and EVERY YEAR for the next decade.

Our valleys are the most fertile in the world and irrigation projects are converting the bordering hillsides into gardens. Orchards lands are leaping upward in price and the advance has only started. Water from mountain streams is the purest, timber the finest and climate the most perfect in Uncle Sam's domain. Power plants are springing up along the channels of silvery torrents to develop electrical energy for mines and mills and interburban railways. Fish abound in the rivers, game in the forests and health and joy in the atmosphere. There are no cyclones here or pestiferous insects to endanger life, or make it a burden.

I want Eastern connections and help, financial and otherwise, to seize opportunities that surround this picturesque city of Baker. The returns will be out of all proportion to the help extended. The opportunities are along the lines of vegetable fruit, hay, grain, stock, timber, and mineral lands. There are fortunes in all these. Some mines in this vicinity have record outputs in gold, running into the millions. Yet the surface, overlying the mineral deposits of Baker County, has hardly been scratched.

On a ledge of free gold bearing quartz two miles in length I made a test of 100 tons of ore taken at a depth of only a hundred feet and got over $3000.00 out of it. The mint returns passed through the Citizen's National Bank here.

Among other things, I need money, right now, to begin the MANUFACTURE OF GOLD out of this immense ore body. The shares of the Timber Canyon Mines Company, which OWNS this property, and of which I am secretary have an intrinsic value of at least 50 cents a share based on a conservative valuation of the property and the amount of stock issued.

I will deliver on order, with draft attached, up to 50,000 shares of this stock at 25 cents a share, NET. The full amount of the purchase price will go back in dividends inside of 18 months. Take a block of this as a starter, and get in step with this Eldorado of the West. If there is anything else out here that I can do for you, or you can do for me,—WRITE ME.

Yours for business, and MONEY for both of us,

An Investment That Should Appeal to the Investors

The Rochester & Wyoming Asbestos Co.

Owning 220 acres of Rich Asbestos property in the central part of the State of Wyoming.

Capital Stock $500,000, divided into 500,000 shares with a par value of One Dollar each, full paid and non-assessable.

Offering only 50,000 shares, Treasury Stock at One Dollar per share.

The main features of this Company are: Its low capitalization ($500,000) and the fact that six of the seven of the Board of Directors are business men of the City of Rochester; no bonus or free stock; every share of stock issued except as property purchase price has been paid for in cash. The Company is being, and will continue to be, conducted on economical basis. The Company has also the advantage of having the services of Mr. Edwin Hall, State Geologist of Wyoming, and an Official Inspector of Mines as Consulting Engineer. The fact that Mr. Hall has accepted this position as Consulting Engineer indicates the reliability of the Company. As a state official it is his duty to see that only Companies conducted on the soundest business principles be allowed to exist.

Only 50,000 shares of Treasury Stock is offered for sale at $1.00 per share. Subject to increase at any time.

Intermediate Tariff Would be the Basis of All Negotiations

NO ONE NEED WORRY SAYS THE MINISTER OF FINANCE.

Canada's Interests Will Be Looked After, But the United States Will Not Make a Bargain Wholly Advantageous to Canada.

Ottawa, June 10.—Details of the new trade agreements concluded between Canada, Belgium, Italy and the Netherlands, which have been the subject of lengthy negotiations, were announced today in an extra of the Canada Gazette, giving effect to the new arrangement.

Briefly stated, Canada extends to Belgium and the Netherlands the provisions of its intermediate tariff as respects articles mentioned in the French treaty. As regards a limited number specified in schedule C to that treaty, the concessions granted are not as great by reason of the fact that the rates given to France are below those of the intermediate tariff by special parliamentary enactment. The customs act does not authorize the governor in council by itself to make greater trade concessions than are embodied in the intermediate tariff. As regards Italy the arrangements take the form of a specific agreement by the terms of which a certain list of Canadian exports are accorded the Italian conventional rate in exchange for our intermediate tariff on an equal number of articles.

PROGRESS OF NEGOTIATIONS.

The correspondence opens with a letter dated June 6, from Mr. Fielding to Mr. H. Ketels, consul-general for Belgium, in which he refers to several interviews which have taken place and reciprocates the assurance of the disposition of Belgium to maintain friendly arrangements. Mr. Fielding points out that Canada, save by formal treaty, cannot grant to Belgium the same rate as is accorded to France on all articles in the French convention. He expresses his willingness to extend the intermediate tariff alone to Belgium on conditions similar to those given France. Mr. Ketels on June 6, replied, accepting as satisfactory the offer, and adds: "I am glad to learn that under the contemplat arrangements articles entitled to the benefits of the Franco-Canadian convention coming into Canada from countries into which the convention applies will be entitled to the benefit of shipment through Belgian ports."

In the order in council which professes the list of articles of the intermediate tariff, given to Belgium, it is pointed out that the Belgian Government took no exception to the granting of the British Preference, thus impliedly recognizing that the granting was a matter affecting the internal affairs of the empire. Canada has continued to enjoy at the hands of Belgium most favored nation treatment. The minister observes that Belgian products have been and are subjected to the rates of customs duties set forth in the general tariff, and that the Belgian tariff is one of the lowest in Europe.

Ottawa, June 10.—An order-in-council promulgated today places on the free list a number of articles, while on others the duty is reduced. The following articles used as materials in Canadian manufacturers are declared duty free, "when imported by manufacturers for use only in their own factories:" Pasteboards of metal foil and cardboard; cotton thread for use in making incandescent gas mantels; crude glycerine for refining; Soya beans and bean cake used as cattle food and fertilizer; iron tubing, brass-covered for use in making towel bars, bath-tub rails; ground cokibe for electric batteries.

The following articles used in manufacture are to be subjected to reduced duties under the conditions above specified as to manufacture:

Preparations made from pyroxylin and wood naptha, under the preferential rate, 5 per cent. ad val; intermediate, 7½ per cent.; general 10 per cent.

Silk in gum or spun imported for making ribbons and shoe laces, preferential rate, 5 per cent.; intermediate, 7½ per cent., general 10 per cent.

Wood handles to make shovel handle, preferential rate, 10 per cent. ad val; intermediate, 12½ per cent.; general 15 per cent.

Hard rubber, for making fountain pens, preferential, 5 per cent. ad val; intermediate, 7½ per cent.; general, 10 per cent.

China ware, when imported to be mounted by manufacturers of silverware, preferential, 15 per cent. ad val; intermediate, 20 per cent.; general 22½ per cent.

Ten-pin blocks of wood in rough, when imported by manufacturers, preferential, 5 per cent.; intermediate, 7½ per cent.; general 10 per cent.

A FINE OUTING.

Farmers' Excursion to Guelph Well Attended and Most Enjoyable.

The Farmers' Excursion to Guelph this year proved to be a most enjoyable and profitable outing. The railway accommodation was of the best, and Mr. W. McIlroy, local C. P.R. ticket agent, accompanied the excursionists. Three hundred and seventy-five left here, and on the arrival of the train at Guelph the visitors were met by some of the officials of the Agricultural College.

Lunch was served in the gymnasium, and it was during its progress that an incident took place. President Creelman found himself short-handed in waiters to serve the tables, and the two members for East Peterborough volunteered their services.

All the different departments of the college were afterwards visited.

Veterans Elected Officers

The local veterans of '66 at their annual meeting held in the armories elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

Hon. Pres.—A. P. Poussette.
Pres.—Lieut.-Col. Miller.
Vice-Pres.—Mr. F. J. Mitchell.
Captain—Major Wm. Langford.
Lieut.—H. Nesbitt.
Sergt.-Major—H. T. Holmes.
Sergeants—George Stenton and John Kylie.
Sec.-Treas.—J. D. Collins.

Special Prayer Read For Robert Henderson

Robert Henderson, the seventeen-year-old murderer of Margaret McPherson, now knows that the dread penalty of the law must be paid and his crime expiated on the gallows on June 23rd. Whilst Henderson's demeanor, since the trial has shown him to be callous or indifferent as to his fate he seems to have had a lingering undercurrent of hope for a reprieve. This hope, if it existed in his mind is now shattered. On Saturday Sheriff Hall notified the condemned man of the decision of the Department of Justice to enforce the sentence pronounced by Mr. Justice Riddell on March 30th, at the sessions of the high court at the county court house. The prisoner with his usual indifference received the information without any show of feeling. Gaoler Nesbitt, who of course has had ample opportunity of studying Henderson's mental attitude thinks the prisoner will not falter when led to his doom.

During the morning service at St John's church yesterday during the litany Henderson's name was mentioned, and later on a special form of prayer for condemned criminals was read. The rector noted that Robert Henderson is a member of the Church of England.

The Coronation Oath

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—The public will scarcely be satisfied with the manner of Rev. Dr. O'Brien's withdrawal from our impending duel upon the issue made and stated by himself in his preceding letter. He there said "Since 'Liberty' has taken up his pen let him take up my challenge. LET HIM SHOW THAT THE INTENT AND MEANING of the Catholic Church is manifested or embodied in the Bishop's Oath as published in the Review of May 26th; let him in a manly and straightforward manner disclose his identity and not hide behind a name that every scientific jackass has brayed forth now for the past hundred years. THEN I AM PREPARED WITH YOUR PERMISSION TO DISCUSS ANY AND EVERY TEACHING OF THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH . . ."

But is he prepared? Read what Dr. O'Brien says now:

"The sole topic touched upon by me both in my letter to an evening paper and in my first letter to The Times was the falsity of an oath attributed to the Bishops of Quebec."

How can this be said to square with the above challenge regarding "the intent and meaning," and that he is prepared to discuss "any and every teaching, etc."

To bring the matter to a head I asked him a few plain straight questions upon the teachings (the only points of interest to Protestants) of the Roman Catholic Church regarding the liberty of Protestants to believe and worship as they please. In order to place squarely before Dr. O'Brien, the charge most chiefly involved respecting the oaths, a charge that is not concerned in the literal accuracy of the oaths as printed in the Review I declared that the "animus damnandi," or disposition to anathematize all forms of religious or moral belief but the Roman Catholic was present in all that the Church thought or did in that connection. I made quotations from the Encyclical itself on the point. Surely this is complying with his challenge to show the "intent and meaning." To test it further I asked Dr. O'Brien to reply to my questions since a straight answer to them would settle the question at issue between us.

Further I disclosed my identity to him by sending him my card. The publication of my name in a newspaper is of no consequence and was not made a condition. My good faith and his request were both fully complied with.

He now says, however, "x x x but I certainly do not purpose following the wanderings and ravings of a man who will not come out in the open x x." The language is strong throughout but not convincing.

Since therefore he sees fit to withdraw from the discussion in this way he is of course at liberty to do so. That's his business not mine but the fact will still remain firmly entrenched in the public mind that the Rev. Dr. O'Brien has not denied the allegation that Protestants are not at "liberty" in the eyes of the Roman Catholic Church, to believe and worship as they please. Since Rev. Dr. O'Brien has declined to precipitate the issue by coming to close quarters I thank him, however, for what little he has done. He has shown no disposition to answer the questions.

That a Church should claim to be infallible in its pronouncements which says in its catechism (p. 57) that: "Although our Holy Religion is coeval with the beginning of mankind and its history embraces about six thousand years x x x," is more than I can understand. Once, also, our own Archbishop Usher fixed the beginning of the world at 4004 B.C. But surely no one entertains these ideas at the present time.

However, whether Dr. O'Brien and myself have settled our differences or not one thing is certain. Every nation in Europe and America is now stirred as never before in its determination to be free—not to be free as Rev. Dr. O'Brien would have us suppose to commit crime but to settle its own affairs as best it may under the direct and immediate providence of God only. It is idle to reply by saying that the Catholic Church is a great institution. Every reader of history knows that nor would any body wish to detract from the merits of its martyrys or from the benefits it has conferred upon mankind. But a despotism is a despotism whether great or small and so long as men aspire to be free to make their humble prayers and submit themselves WITHOUT HUMAN INTERFERENCE, to God Himself, they will not rest. And great as the Church undoubtedly is, the Emperor of Austria is still greater for popes are not elected that are not agreeable to him. Pope Pius X. was but the third choice for that office because representatives of the empire arose upon the selection of each of the other two and forbade it in the emperor's name. Every reader of the Catholic Register will remember its protest at the time.

But great as the Church is as an institution the people are still greater and this I take it is the sole issue involved in the tremendous struggle which has been so suddenly renewed by the appearance of the Papal Encyclical referred to.

Dr. O'Brien, I regret to say, has applied epithets to me, personally, that serve no good purpose, especially as an example. I trust that I, on my part, have not said anything that would wound his feelings or wound the feelings of anyone concerned for I have no ill-will toward my Catholic brethren and only regret that the teaching of that church brands as unpermissible heresy in us what we regard as quite within their rights and pleasure in themselves.

But more serious than the church's attitude with respect to Faith is its attitude with respect to morals whereby no man may think a thing without the permission of the Church and whereby the lives of men here and hereafter are placed at the disposal of one man. Where may I ask, and I ask it in all reverence, has the Almighty seen that He leaves the world to His vice-regent till the Judgment Day?

Let me say, however, in closing that the conclusion finally drawn by Dr. O'Brien is that which he started out to deny. He quotes St. Paul, who says with reference to anyone who speaks otherwise than as he did, "were it an angel from Heaven," that he shall be anathema. The Church of Rome claims to be like St. Paul. It claims to speak as he did. It claims to be the sole depository of the Truth and that NO ONE OUTSIDE OF THAT CHURCH can even be saved. What then, is the inevitable deduction? Only this. That all Protestants shall be "anathema." This is the strongest word of condemnation known in any language. Therefore it follows that if the version of the Bishops' Oath in the Review was not literally correct nevertheless it was none too strong.

Yours, etc.

Japan Planning a Remarkable Move

New Orleans, La., June 11.—Much significance is attached to the proposed visit of the Japanese battleship fleet to Mexico, according to a despatch received here from Central America. The Latin-American press is inclined to regard the visit, which is to be made on the occasion of Mexico's centennial celebration of her independence, as a bold diplomatic stroke by Japan, and rumors are printed of special envoys being sent at the same time to carry on negotiations with Central American republics.

It is also claimed that Japan will take anvantage of this visit to bring about a treaty relative to a canal in Nicaragua, for which Britain will furnish the money.

Trunk Murder Mystery of an American Lady

All Italy Aroused--Woman's Husband Likely Killed by Same Person--Is There a Plot to Slay and Rob Rich Tourists!

Milan, June 11.—Urged on by American Consul Charles M. Saughey, who is acting under the direct orders of the United States Department the best detectives of Italy are searching the country for Porter Charlton, husband of Mary Scott Castle Charlton, the American woman who was beaten unconscious, jammed into a trunk while still alive, and thrown into Lake Como to die.

IS CHARLTON ALIVE.

While the authorities believe that Charlton is still alive, he can solve the entire mystery surrounding the death of his bride, their strongest theory is that he was killed by the same person or persons who murdered Mrs. Charlton. While some of the nation's best detectives were working today along the line of theory that insane jealousy on the part of one of the woman's admirers was responsible for her death, and, possibly, that of her husband, others are delving deep in what they believed to be a plot to kill and rob American women in Italy. In connection with the latter theory they declared that the outcome of this case will throw some light on the death of Estelle Reid, the American girl, who was found in the bay of Naples.

PUT THROUGH THIRD DEGREE.

Constantine Ispolatoff, the Russian arrested within a few hours of the discovery of the body, was today subjected to the third degree. After hours of questioning there was wrung from him a statement which further clouded the case, but which was regarded as significant by the supporters of the jealousy theory. He declared that the murdered woman was the aunt of Porter Charlton.

ANSWERED "23" THEN SHOT HIMSELF--A SENSATIONAL SUICIDE

New York, June 11.—Without recovering consciousness Felicien Buisset, the Young Belgian, charges with embezzlement, who shot himself in the head late last night as detectives were placing him under arrest in the Hotel Brevoort, died today in St. Vincent's hospital.

The circumstances of the suicide were sensational. The Belgian consular authorities here, on receipt of cabled advices from Brussels, asked the local police to arrest Buisset, on the charge that he embezzled $100,000. Traced to the Benvoort the young Belgian was induced to come from his room on the pretext that he was wanted at the long distance telephone. He appeared in his shirt sleeves, and when he had recovered from his apparent surprise, asked permission to go back to his room to get his coat and hat. Detective Armstrong, while accompanying Buisset upstairs, asked him how old he was.

Buisset answered promptly "23," and without another word drew a revolver and shot himself. He was rushed to the hospital, where he died today without having made any statement.

A search of Buisset's room showed apparently that the young Belgian had recently been the recipient of considerable sums of money. Entry of a deposit of $46,400, made yesterday by him in a Broadway bank, was an item discovered in a bank book. Against this a draft for $10,000 had been drawn.

Police Hunting the Jews Like Wild Game

Berlin, June 11.—According to despatches received here by the Jewish Aid Society, Jews are being unmercifully evicted from their summer country residences throughout Russia.

These despatches state that the Hebrews are not even permitted to reside in the suburban towns, while the sick who are visiting watering places are examined by the government commissioners to determine whether their state of health makes their sojourn in such places necessary. In most instances they are driven out. One despatch says: "The police in the Province of Smolensk are drawing mounted cordons around whole districts daily. Every Jew unable to fully establish right of domicile is arrested. Many Jews are hiding in the woods, where the police are hunting them like wild game. Numbers are fleeing to the country, abandoning their homes and effects. Most of those engaged in the grain trade are not allowed to visit the country districts to deal with the farmers, and have accordingly given up the business.

If You Lived in Montreal

you could come and see the wonderful Cartwright Automatic Press, which is destined to revolutionize the job-printing world, and make money for the shareholders of the Company, as other great inventions, like the Linotype and Telephone, have done.

But, if you cannot call and see the Press itself, you can do as many other investors are doing,—you can read the interesting Prospectus and our little booklet, entitled "Expert Opinions", which gives some adequate idea of this great invention.

You will note when you read the literature we send you, how Publishers, Printers, and all classes of men connected with the printing business—men who thoroughly understand the real merit and value of such an invention—are the most enthusiastic endorsers of the Press, and what is still more important, they are buyers of both the presses and the shares.

Write us at once for this free literature, and we will forward it by return mail.

MILLIONAIRE'S DAUGHTER WHO ELOPED WITH CHAUFFER, AND CAPTURED BY HER PARENTS, DIES IN EUROPE

New York, June 11—In the announcement here today of the death in Europe of young Mrs. Margaret H. Leavit Smollen, the romance of a millionaire's daughter and her chauffeur is ended, and a mystery is scented by those who knew of the situation of the young couple.

Joseph F. Smollen was the chauffeir employed by G. Howland Leavitt, millionaire descendant of aristocratic Long Island ancestors, to teach his pretty young daughter how to operate a motor car. A few months after he was employed he eloped with his pretty young pupil, but soon after her marriage she was found with her parents, and admission to their home was denied Smollen. He asserted that his bride had been taken from his against her will.

She was next heard from in Europe, and now her family announce her death. They refuse to name the cause of her death or state where or under what circumstances it occurred.

Concessions Granted Spanish Non-Catholics

Madrid, Cure 11.—A royal decree, issued today, amends the constitution, authorizing the edifices of non-Catholic religious societies to display the insignia for public worship and other ceremonies. The Republican press demands that all religions be placed on an equal footing, and that the state subvention of the Catholic Church be withdrawn.

Owing to the disposition of unauthorized religious orders to ignore the royal decree of May 31, which directed such orders not authorized by the concordate of 1851, or engaged in industry to seek immediate authorization under the law adopted in 1887, Premier Canalejas today instructed the provincial governors to compel an immediate compliance, under pain of the dissolution of the socities and the closing of their establishments.

CONNAUGHT WILL COME TO CANADA.

Will Succeed Earl Grey in Spring of New Year as Governor-General.

London, June 12.—The Canadian Associated Press has every reason to believe that it is intended that the Duke of Connaught shall be governor-general of Canada, in accordance with King Edward's wish. It is unlikely, however, that the official announcement will be made at present, for the Duke of Connaught is to open the South Africa parliament at the end of the year, and it is improbable that he will go to Canada inmid-winter. It is, therefore proposed that Early Grey remain in office till the spring of 1911.

The Chronicle, in an editorial says there are obvious difficulties in the way, but there will be general satisfaction if the King's ministers deem them not insuparable.

THE DUKE'S CAREER.

The Duke of Connaught is the only surving son of the late Queen Victoria. He was born in 1850, was educated at the Royal Military College at Woolwich, and passed through all the grades in the army, being gazetted field marshal in 1902. He saw active service during the Fenian Raid in Canada in 1870, and with the Egyptian expeditionary force in 1882 when he commanded the first brigade of the first division. He was present at the action of Mahutma and at the battle of Tel-el-Kebir. He was thrice mentioned in despatches while in Egypt, and on his return was thanked by parliament for his work. From 1886 to 1890 he was command er-in-chief in Bombay. From 1893 to 1896 he was in command at Aldershot. He commanded the forces in Ireland from 1900 to 1904. For the next three years he was inspector-general of the forces, and in 1907 he went to Malta as commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean forces and high commissioner of the Mediterranean. He retired from that position last year. The Duke of Connaught visited Canada with the Duchess in 1890, and was welcomed at Quebec just 20 years ago today.

His Royal Highness has one son, Prince Arthur, who visited this country in 1906, and two daughters, Princess Margaret, Crown Princess of Sweden, and Princess Patrilia.

The announcement that it has been found possible to make King Edward's wish effective and that the Duke of Connaught will come to Canada next year as Governor-General is one whose interest and importance to the people of this country can hardly be overestimated. It is, first of all, a signal recognition of the position the Dominiom occupies among the people of the Empire: it is an immediate confirmation of the predictions that King George's reign would be signalized by special interest in the Over-Sea nations; and the authorized statement that the appointment was one which King Edward would have made had he lived, places upon it the seal of the dead monarch's unerring diplomatic instinct.

It is forty years since the Duke of Connaught saw service in Canada, but he is still remembered by those who took part in the suppression of the Fenian raids as a capable and energetic officer as well as a man of charming personality. Since that time with the exception of the Egyptian campaign of 1883, he has confined his activities to diplomatic and administrative activities and has scored several brilliant successes. He was Commander-in-Chief at Bombay for four years and more recently occupied the same important position in Ireland, leaving Dublin to take command of the forces in the Mediterrian as High Commissioner, which duties he discharged with distinguished success until last year.

The Duke of Connaught is as essentially a soldier by inclination as he is a diplomat by training. His baton as Field Marshal was won by his devotion to the service and his intimate knowledge of military conditions in the Empire. For years he was personal aide-de-camp to King Edward and his appointment to the same position was the first one King George made. The exigencies of his high position have trained him to no less proficiency in the methods of diplomacy and the record of his services to the Empire proves that he possesses in an unusual degree the ability to combine tact with efficiency.

ARTHUR BALFOUR AND ROOSEVELT

London, June 11.—It so happened that on the way out from the Guildhall after ex-President Roosevelt's extraordinary speech on receiving the freedom of the City of London, the writer found himself elbow-to-elbow in the throng with Rt. Hon. Arthur Balfour, who was the British premier part of the time Mr. Roosevelt was the American president.

"Well," said Mr. Balfour's neighbor at the other elbow, "Roosevelt was plain-spoken at any rate."

"Oh," replied Mr. Balfour, in his gentle, polished voice, "that's what I like about him. He's always like that; direct and outspoken; and personally I agree with every word he said. But that," he added, chuckling, "is another matter."

Sir Edward Grey, the British minister of foreign affairs, was evidently one of the distinguished throng on the platform back of Mr. Roosevelt at the Guildhall who thought his speech "another matter." Like Mr. Balfour he saw through the tremendous lecture to England an its conduct of affairs in Egypt, quite shaken out of the usual English attitude of polite attention to English oratory. He leaned forwarh apparently hypnotized by the force and audacity of the address to which he was listening, and which was, to some extent, a pointed criticism of his own management of affairs in Egypt—a tremendous attack on the "sentimentalism" as Mr. Roosevelt called it, that prevails in some sections of the Liberal party. Sir Edward left the Guildhall flushed and worried.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CHILDREN'S CHEST TROUBLES.

Nurse Carrington Says Her Long Experience Proves the Safest Remedy is to RUB ON NERVILINE!

Every mother knows how difficult it is to get a young child to take a cough mixture. Seldom will one help unless given in large doses, and the result is to completely upset the stomach and make the child sick.

Speaking of the promptest cure for chest troubles and children's colds, Nurse Carrington says: "In all my experience in nursing I haven't met any preparation so dependable as Nerviline. It is the ideal liniment. Every drop you rub on is absorbed quickly, sinks through the pores to the congested muscles, eases, relieves and cures quickly. Especially for chest colds, pain in the side, stiff neck, earache, toothache, I have found Nerviline invaluable. In treating the minor ills of children Nerviline has no equal. I think Nerviline should be in every home."

A million bottles of Nerviline used every year—this is itself a burden of proof that it is the ideal liniment for the home. Refuse anything your dealer may offer instead of Nerviline—Large bottles 25c., five for $1.00. Sold everywhere, and by the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

SAVING THE CHILDREN.

Dr. Helen MacMurchy says some plain and rather startling things in her report to the Ontario Government on infant mortality. She declares that 75 per cent. of its causes are preventible. She points out that "the baby has one chance for its life if fed on condensed milk would have two chances for its life if fed on good cow's milk, and one hundred chances for its life if fed on it's mother milk." She adds that mothers who really cannot nurse their children are only one in a hundred or one in a thousand, and others who do not do so are either ignorant or ill-advised.

Dr. MacMurchy's comparison of Ontario's 150 deaths per thousand children under one year with England's 122 and London's 113 means it is to be hoped, only that Ontario is lax in its registration of births, and that the death rate is therefore lower than the statistics would indicate. But in any event the problem is a very serious one, and an excessive infant mortality all the more deplorable by reason of the simple precautions which will often save child-life. The case is cited of a Catholic priest in Quebec who instructed his parish as to the treatment of babies, and succeeded in two years in reducing the death rate among infants from 197 to 85 per thousand. Feeding at irregular hours or whenever the child cries, uncleanliness, over-clothing, and allowing babies to have tastes of what their elders eat should be avoided.

The report quotes warnings to beware of patent foods, which it calls "Baby Exterminators," "Advice, most of it bad," is the description vouchsafed of the circulars sent out by the manufacturers of these food. One soothing syrup is denounced as containing opium. The suggestion is made that such syrups and foods should be labelled in accordance with their contents.

It is an important study which Dr. MacMurchy has been making. Her conclusions as to the necessity of regulating overcrowding in the cities, as to the advisability of providing plenty of park spaces, as to the advantages of workmen's homes on the outskirts, and as to the boon which clean milk affords, are not new, but they are sound. On the whole, however, it is her finding as to the natural feeding of infants which leaves the greatest impression upon the reader. "If the baby is nursed by its mother, the chances are great that it will live. If the baby is fed in any other way, the chances are great that it will die."

GOLDWIN SMITH'S LIFE WORK.

The statement is sometimes made that Dr. Goldwin Smith has left upon record no permanent work of importance. What is the test? Addison is remembered chiefly by a collection of graceful essays, distinctly journalistic in character. Dr. Johnson's fame is founded on his recorded table talk, not on his dictionary. Macaulay's great history is a fragment, covering with fulness only the latter part of the Stuart period. Dr. Goldwin Smith's History of England, though brief, is not unfinished: the structure as it was planned by the architect is complete.

But Goldwin Smith would never agree that the most valuable part of his work was that which appeared between boards and adorned the shelves of a library. He loved his work as a journalist, and probably believed that it was more influential than those productions which are preserved in more permanent form. After all, the spoken or written word does not perish merely because it is not formally recorded. It passes into the mind of hearer or reader; it influences his actions; it passes into the fabric of daily life; if it dies, it is as the leaf dies, to enrich the soil and become the source of new forms of energy. It is sown in weakness; it is raised in power.

No thoughtful man would belittle the advantage of printed records of the thoughts of those who are called the immortals. But they are after all, only magnificent fragments, indicating only partially the mind of the writer, and still more inadequately the life and activity of his age; its thoughts struggling for expression; its hopes and fears, its heroisms, its affections. These do not perish, though no printed volume may record them. The life of Goldwin Smith is greater than all his contributions to literature, but in this there is no cause for regret, but rather for rejoicing.

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR.

The recent aerial triumphs achieved by Paulhan and Curtiss have proved that the hope of the future lies with the heavier-than-air machine. Though the lighter-than-air machine is still capable of improvement, there seems little probability of its undergoing any extraordinary development such as may yet be looked or in the case of the aeroplane.

Aviation is yet in its infancy, but it is likely to advance by rapid flights, or whatever expression will do duty for leaps and bounds in aeronautical parlance. All the newspapers of to-day are busy conjecturing as to its possibilities, and their gropings into the future are many and strange. One suggests that no one will be surprised if the author of the next freak novel shall divide the society of the twenty-first, or even the twentieth century, into three classes—the aviators with dominion over the air, the motorists having exclusive enjoyment of the surface roads, and the rest of humanity confined by the statute of self-preservation to the use of subways. We do not know whether our local Legislature took this last contingency into their consideration of the Montreal underground or not. Perhaps they are more likely to be affected by the query, "Who owns the air?" which

But the chief problem of aviation is the extent of its possibilities as a potent factor. In the battles of the future. When, as the New York Sun states the case, "it is considered that modern armies have always included stationary balloons in their equipment to consider the lines of the enemy on the day of battle and to signal his movements, can it be doubted that the achievements of the dirigible and the aeroplane are being attentively observed by military specialists and that with every extension of their radius of movement and every ascent to higher altitudes it becomes more certain that no war establishment will be without them when the field must be taken for offence or defence."

Man has not yet equalled the bird, and it is not yet known how accurately he will be able to guide the movements of air craft. Otherwise a single airship could make short work of a fleet of Dreadnoughts. Curtiss, as he passed over the water in his wonderful voyage, felt that he had the shipping at his mercy. And if million dollar Leviathans can be destroyed by a few cents worth of explosives in this manner, then we may expect a revolution in warfare. Tennyson's dream of a day, when the heavens will fill with commerce and the airy navies will grapple in the central blue, seems to be within measurable distance of realization!

MONSTER BATTLESHIPS.

The naval architect quoted by us a few weeks ago as saying that the limit in size and armaments of battleships had not been reached has already proved to be correct in his assertion. The latest warship to be laid down for British navy is to be seven hundred feet long and have a displacement of 26,000 tons. Her turbine engines will be capable of developing 70,000 horse power, giving her a speed of 27½ to 30 miles an hour. The new ship's guns will be large enough and numerous enough to enable her to meet and overcome a super-Dreadnought. We hear a good deal about the anxiety that British people feel about the naval forces of foreign Powers. It would be interesting to learn what the people of other countries think of the course that the British Government pursues in insisting on leading the world in the construction of more formidable and larger vessels than any rival nation seems able to do. There is, however, a fly in the ointment of national content at hearing of these monster additions to the British navy. That is the fact that the huge leviathans may be destroyed and sent to the bottom by a torpedo well aimed or by the appliances available to the commander of an insignificant submarine navigated to strike at the defenceless part of the giant battleship.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to those failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days' test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

A PRACTICAL PLEADING.

The cultivation of a wholesome public opinion is what is wanted on the American continent; and, if Canada would enter on a contest with the United States in acquiring it there would be more in the contest for both nations than in any international Marathon or tariff arrangement. Nor is there any preaching about the scheme nor any specious boasting about moral superiority. The following bit of pertinent advice to Senator William Lorimer, who represents Illinois at Washington, places the terms of the contest in a concrete unmistakable form. "Mr. Lorimer ought to retire immediately from his seat in the upper house of Congress. His continued service in that body will be a cause of profound humiliation to the honorable and right-thinking people of a great State. If Mr. Lorimer has a due appreciation of the proprieties, if he is a man with a delicate sense of honor and of scrupulous honesty, he will retire at once; voluntarily, from the Senate. For the title to the seat which he now holds is tainted with fraud and dishonour, and no self-respecting man, of unbending integrity should be willing to enjoy honors obtained under circumstances which indicates a deliberate traffic in the votes of venal legislators."

Such an appeal is a direct way of getting at the corruption to be met with in the highest political walks of life in both countries. There is no room for the technicality operator in such a plea. Mr. Lorimer has been identified with fraud and dishonor, and his place is unmistakably outside of any political walk in life. Why? Simply because public opinion in the United States would strive with Canada or any other nation in setting up the highest possible standard of public morality in its administrative affairs. The other day, we said that the United States was in the way of showing us an example in the cleaning up of our "Augean stables," in municipal provincial and federal governments. And we said it with no desire to underrate Canada's emulation to keep our "stables" as well tidied-up as her neighbor's. But we know how all special pleading for an improved public morality is coming to be laughed at by those who are busy in setting up a "new code of morals." Our parliamentary commissions of investigation have lowered the level of public morality. Their verdicts have only made sport for the public in the white-washing line. The culprit, instead of being punished by such has only been glorified by being, in the majority of instances, advanced a stage in his political preferment. And to trace the stories of such verdicts seems only to provide food for the cynicism of the political parasiteur, who has, within his party-view of things only the "main chance," for a fundamental. The advice given to Senator Lorimer by an exponent of American public opinion, is a bit of advice which must be given to every Canadian publicist, if Canada would keep pace with her neighbor in saving her morality from further decline. Just think of it! ; There is getting to be a class of hoodlum publicasters in both countries who hand themselves to defame the statesmanship that fails to adopt corrupt methods while pleading for the suffrages of the people. "You cannot win an election," these say, "without buying votes at a higher figure than your opponent. Neither president or premier can run things for long—or even get there—without having recourse to corrupt methods." And therein lies the starting places for a country going forward or backward in its morality emulations.

LOOKS LIKE STUPIDITY.

The control of immigration is so difficult a problem that there should be no disposition to criticize the government unreasonably in this connection. Some years ago the influx of the unemployable and other undesirables assumed quite alarming proportions. The situation was accentuated by the temporary commercial reverse of 1907 and 1908, and the different charitable organizations of the country became overtaxed. As a direct outcome of this experience the immigration regulations have been made more stringent. The sieve through which the arrivals are strained has been fitted with a finer mesh.

The tendency in all reforms is to run to extremes, and possibly, that is what the government has done in this instance. An order-in-council adopted this spring requires all immigrants, except farm-laborers, to have not only tickets to their ultimate destination in this country, but also $25 in cash for the head of the family, and a proportionate amount for each of the other members. This rule has given rise to some hardship and to much ill-feeling in Great Britain.

The Westminster Gazette objects to the ungenerous spirit in which the regulation is being interpreted and applied. It calls particular attention to the efforts of an emigration society to help a reputable woman with four children to join her husband already at work in Canada. Every inquiry had been made, and the committee were unanimously agreed that it was a most deserving one for assistance. The husband had sent a letter explaining that he was in full work, and hoped soon to be able to refund the money which it was proposed to advance for the emigration of his family.

At this point Canadian officialdom stepped in with the decision that the wife and children could not be allowed to go because the husband and father was not engaged in farm work. The crime of which the father was convicted and his family penalized. The wife and children will now have to wait until he can earn the $105 necessary for their passage and landing money. No doubt ever since he came out this industrious artisan has been working to get a home together for those he left behind. It will probably take him another year to save up the money needed to bring them out. Meantime their passage, which had already been taken by the emigration society in question, has been cancelled. Surely there is need for greater elasticity in our emigration laws, and for more intelligence in their enforcement.

METERING THE COW.

That nobly necessary animal, the cow, is no longer to be allowed to have her own sweet whey about her milk production. A record book which is now being furnished by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa makes it incumbent upon the cow either to furnish good milk and plenty of it, or quit. It is, in a word, a cow meter, and quits as useful to the farmer as the gas meter, the water meter, and the speed meter to the city man.

One of these books will keep the record of twenty cows for one year. It is designed to make unpopular the animal who insists upon eating her head off without giving a quid pro quo, or a cud pro quo, or words to that effect. It enables the farmer to keep track of the amount and quality of her milk, and what is quite as important, of the amount and quality of her feed, and the comparative cost of both. Without desiring in the least to hurt the bovine feelings of any well meaning animal, it may safely be said that certain voracious cows are going to be put to blush by these meter-books.

ATHLETICS FOR GIRLS.

Outdoor life is a good thing for girls. It is health building, disciplinary and inspiriting. It affords fine foundation for matured womanhood. But exercise not be excessive or strenuous. If so, the female form divine will become muscle-bound and lose its rounded curves and contours. Athletic femininity should model on the graces of the elegant Venus of Melos. It should not aspire to Amazonian bulginess of muscular development.

Miss Mabel McGrath of Lakefield, is spending a few days here the guest of Miss Hazel Pentland.

Get Well First

Don't rush even a penny—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that. I am the same physician who says to the sick with one of my own pens, just the same words and in the same tone, that I speak to them personally. They are printed and in every communication and everywhere I say they may rely on me, and in fact they do rely on me, and in the majority of cases my confidence is justified. From the first letter, or the first personal interview, I get their confidence, and by means of my medicines and my counsel, Dr. Shoop's Restorative, they get well. Then, and not till then, they pay me. Isn't that fair? Isn't that square? Isn't that honest? Isn't that the way you would have it? Isn't that the way you would do? Isn't that the way you do? Isn't that the way you will do? Isn't that the way you will have it? Isn't that the way you will do? Isn't that the way you will do? Isn't that the way you will do?

Never hesitate about giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to Children. It contains no opium or other narcotics, and can be given with implicit confidence. As a quick cure for coughs and colds to which children are susceptible, it is unsurpassed. Sold by all dealers.

G. Walter Green Factory Extensions

The G. Walter Green Company, has bought the balance of the block on which the office and machine shop now stands, and which is bounded by McDonnel, Gilchrist and Donegal street. The property was bought from Mr. T. A. S. Hay for the future extension of the plant.

If you would have a safe yet certain Cough Remedy in the home, try Dr. Shoop's — at least once. It is thoroughly unlike any other Cough preparation. Its taste will be entirely new to you—unless it is already your favorite Cough Remedy. No opium, chloroform, or any other stupefying ingredients are used. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy it wonderful curative properties. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

boy for the past I could not set that right. If giving my life over and over again would save you pain I would give it gladly. But what you ask now is one thing I cannot do. It would make me a pitiful coward. I did not kill Moreau. That is all I can say to you or to those who try me."

"Your life!" she said with dry lips. "It will mean that. That counts so fearfully much to me, more than my own life a hundred times. Yet there is something that counts more than all that to you."

His face was that of a man who holds his hand in the fire. "Jessica," he said, "it is like this with me. When you found me here—the day I saw you on the balcony—I was a man whose soul had lost its compass and its bearings. My conscience was asleep. You woke it, and it is fiercely alive now. And now with my memory has come back a debt of my past that I never paid. Whatever the outcome, for my soul's sake I must settle it now and erase it from the score forever."

She rose slowly to her feet, with a despairing gesture.

"'He saved others,'" she quoted in a hard voice; "'himself he could not save!' I once heard a minister preach from that text at home. It was your friend, the Rev. Henry Sanderson. I thought it a very spiritual sermon then. That was before I knew what his companionship had been to you."

"If there were any justice in the universe," she added, "it should be he immolating himself now, not you. But for him you would never be here. He ruined your life and mine, and I hate and despise him for a selfish hypocrite."

That was what he himself had seemed to her in those old days. The edge of a flush touched his forehead as he said slowly, almost appealingly:

"He was not a hypocrite, Jessica. Whatever he was it was not that. At college he did what he did too openly. That was his failing, not caring what others thought. He despised weakness in others. He thought it none of his affair. So others were influenced. But after he came to see things differently from another standpoint—when he went into the ministry—he would have given the world to undo it."

"Men's ilkings are strange," she said. "Because he never had temptations like yours and has never done what the law calls wrong you think he is as noble as you—noble enough to shield a murderer to his own danger."

"Ah, no, Jessica!" he interposed gently. "I only said that in my place he would do the same."

"But you are shielding a murderer," she insisted fiercely. "You will not admit it, but I know. There can be no justice or right in that. If Harry Sanderson is all you think him, if he stood here now and knew the whole, he would say it was wicked—not brave and noble, but wicked and cruel."

He shook his head, and the sad shadow of a bitter smile touched his lips. "He would not say so," he said.

"It should be no immolating himself now, not you."

A dry sob answered him. He turned and leaned his elbows on the narrow window sill, every nerve aching, but powerless to comfort. He heard her step. The door closed sharply.

Then he faced into the empty cell, sat down on the cot and threw out his arms, with a hopeless cry:

* * * * * * *

Jessica left the jail with despair in her heart. The hope on which she had fed these past days had fled her. What was there left for her to do? Like a swift wind, she went up the street to Weldon's office. She groped her way up the unlighted stair and tapped on the door. There was no answer. She pushed it open and entered the empty outer room, where a steady lamp burned on the desk.

A pile of legal looking papers had been set beside it, and with them lay a torn page of a newspaper whose familiar caption gave her a stab of pain. Perhaps the news of the trial had found its way across the ranges to where the names of Stires and Moreau had been known. Perhaps every one at Ashton already knew of it, was reading about it, pitying her. She picked it up and scanned it hastily. There was no hint of the trial, but her eye caught the news which had played its role in the courtroom, and she read it to the end.

Even in her own trouble she read it with a shiver. Yet, awful as the fate which Harry Sanderson had so narrowly missed, it was not to be compared with that which awaited Hugh, for, awful as it was, it held no shame.

In a gust of feeling she slipped to her knees by the one sofa the room contained and prayed passionately. As she drew out her handkerchief to stanch the tears that came something fell with a musical tinkle at her feet. It was the little cross-pin that had fallen in front of the hillside cabin that had lain forgotten in her pocket during the past anxious days. As she pressed it the ring at the top gave way, and the cross parted in halves. Words were engraved on the inside of the arms—a date and the name Henry Sanderson.

The recurrence of the name jarred and surprised her. Hugh had dropped it—an old keepsake of the friend who had been his boon friend, his evangelist and whose ancient influence was still dominant. He had clung loyally to the memento, blind in his constant liking to the wrong that friend had done him. She looked at the date. It was May '98. She shuddered, for that was the month and day on which Dr. Moreau had been killed. The point had been clearly established today by the prosecution. To the original owner of that cross perhaps the date that had come into Hugh's life with such a sinister meaning was a glad anniversary.

Suddenly she caught her hand to her cheek. A weird idea had rushed through her brain. The religious symbol had stood for Harry Sanderson, and the chance coincidence of date had irresistibly pointed to the murder. To her excited senses the juxtaposition held a bizarre, uncanny suggestion. This cross, the very emblem of vicarious sacrifice! Suppose Harry Sanderson had never given it to Hugh! Suppose he had lost it on the hillside himself!

She snatched up the paper again. "Who has been for some months on a prolonged vacation"—the phrase stared sardonically at her. That might carry far back—she said it under her breath, fearfully—beyond the murder of Dr. Moreau. Her face burned, and her breath came sharp and fast. Why when she brought her warning to the cabin had Hugh been so anxious to get her away unless to prevent her sight of the man who was there, to whom he had taken her horse? Who was there in Smoky Mountain whom he would protect at hazard of his own life?

Jessica's veins were all afire. A rector murderer? A double career? Was it beyond possibility? It came to her like an impinging ray of light, the old curious likeness that had sometimes been made a jest of at the white house in the aspens. Moreau and Prendergast had believed it to be Hugh. So had the town, for the body had been found on his ground. But on the night when the real murderer came again to the cabin perhaps it was his coming that had brought back the lost memory. Hugh had known the truth. In the light of this supposition, his strained manner then, his present determination not to speak, all stood plain.

What had he meant by a debt of his past that he had never paid? He could owe no debt to Harry Sanderson. If he owed any debt it was to his dead father, a thousand times more than the draft he had repaid. Could he be thinking in his remorse that his father had cast him off, counting himself nothing, remembering only that Harry Sanderson had been David Stires' favorite and St. James', which must be smirched by the odium of its rector, the apple of his eye?

Jessica had snatched at a straw, because it was the only buoyant thing afloat in the dragging tide. Now with a blind fatuousness she hugged it tighter to her bosom. One purpose possessed her—to confront Harry Sanderson. What matter though she missed the remainder of the trial? She could do nothing. Her hands were tied. If the truth lay at Ashton she would find it. She thought no farther than this. Once in Harry Sanderson's presence, what she should say or do she scarcely imagined. The horrifying question filled her thought to the exclusion of all that must follow its answer. It was surety and self conviction she craved, only to read in his eyes the truth about the murder of Moreau.

She suddenly began to tremble. Would the doctors let her see him? What excuse could she give? If he was the man who had been in Hugh's cabin that night he had heard her speak, had known she was there. He must not know beforehand of her coming lest he have suspicion of her errand. Bishop Ludlow, he could gain her access to him. Injured, dying perhaps, maybe he did not guess that Hugh was in jeopardy for his crime. Guilty and dying, if he knew this, he would surely tell the truth. But if he died before she could reach him? The paper was some days old. He might be dead already. She took heart, however, from the statement of his improved condition.

She sprang to her feet and looked at her clandestine watch. The mushroomed empress was overdue. There was no time to lose. Minutes might count. She examined her purse. She had money enough with her.

Five minutes later she was at the station, a scribbled note was on its way to Mrs. Halloran, and before a swinging red lantern the long-impending train was shuddering to a stop.

Chapter 29

IN the long hospital the air was cool and filtered, dusk figures passed with soft footfalls and voices were measured and muted. But no sense of coolness or repose had come to the man whose racked body had been tenderly borne there in the snowy dawn which saw the blackened ruins of Ashton's most perfect edifice.

Hugh had sunk into unconsciousness with the awe struck exclamation ringing in his ears, "Good God, it's Harry Sanderson!" He had drifted back to conscious knowledge with the same words racing in his brain. They implied that so far as capture went the old, curious resemblance would stand his friend till he betrayed himself or till the existence of the real Harry Sanderson at Smoky Mountain did so for him. The defendant must hold till he could have himself moved to some place where his secret would be safer, till he could get away.

This thought grew swiftly paramount; it overlapped the rigid agony of his horror that made the bed on which he lay a fiery furnace; it gave motive to his every word and look. He took up the difficult part and, after the superficial anguish dulled, even resumed no more and successfully counterfeited cheerfulness and betterment. He said nothing of the curiously recurrent and sickening stab of pain, searching and deep seated, that took his breath and left each time an increasing giddiness. Whatever inner hurt this might betoken, he must hide it the sooner to leave the hospital, where each hour brought nearer the inevitable disclosure.

He thanked fortune now for the chapel game. Few enough in Ashton would care to see the unfrocked, disgraced rector of St. James'. He did not know that the secret was Bishop Ludlow's own until the hour when he opened his eyes after a fitful sleep upon the latter's face.

The bishop was the first visitor, and it was his first visit, for he had been in a distant city at the time of the fire. Waiting the waking, he had been mystified at the change a few months had wrought in the countenance of the man whose disappearance had cost him so many sleepless hours. The months of indulgence and rich living—on the money he had won from Harry—had taken away Hugh's slightness, and his fuller cheeks were now of the contour of Harry's own. But the bishop distinguished new lines in the face on the pillow, an expression unfamiliar and puzzling. The firmness and strength were gone, and in their place was a haunting something that gave him a flitting suggestion of the discarded that he could not shake off.

Waking, the unexpected sight of the bishop startled Hugh. To the good man's pain he had turned his face away.

"My dear boy," the bishop had said, "they tell me you are stronger and better. I thank God for it!"

He spoke gently and with deep feeling. How could he tell to what extent he himself, in mistaken severity, had been responsible for that unaccustomed look? When Hugh did not answer the bishop misconstrued the silence. He leaned over the bed. The big cool hand touched the fevered one on the white coverlid, where the ruby ring glowed, a coal in snow.

"Harry," he said, "you have suffered—you are suffering now. But think of me only as your friend. I ask no questions. We are going to begin where we left off."

"I would like to do that," said Hugh, "to begin again. But the chapel is gone."

"Never mind that," said the bishop cheerfully. "You are only to get well. We are going to rebuild soon, and we want your judgment on the plans. Ashton is hanging on your condition, Harry," he went on. "There's a small cartload of visiting cards downstairs for you. But I imagine you haven't begun to receive yet, eh?"

"We are going to begin where we left off."

"I—I've seen nobody." Hugh spoke hurriedly and hoarsely. "Tell the doctor to let no one come—no one but you. I—I'm not up to it."

"Why, of course not," said the bishop quickly. "You need quiet, and the people can wait."

The bishop chatted awhile of the parish. Hugh replying only when he must, and went away heartened. Before he left Hugh saw his way to hasten his own going. On the next visit the seed was dropped in the bishop's mind so cleverly that he thought the idea his own. That day he said to the surgeon in charge:

"He is gaining so rapidly I have been wondering if he couldn't be taken away where the climate will benefit him. Will he be able to travel soon?"

"I think so," answered the surgeon. "We suspected internal injury at first, but I imagine the worst he has to fear is the disagreement. Mountain or sea air would do him good," he added reflectively. "What he will need is tonic and building up."

The bishop had revolved this in his mind. He knew a place on the coast, tucked away in the cypresses, which would be admirable for convalescence. He could arrange a special car, and he himself could make the journey with him. He proposed this to the surgeon and with his approval put his plan in motion. In two days more Hugh found his going fully settled.

The idea admirably fitted his necessity. The spot the bishop had selected was quiet and retired and, more, was near the port at which he could most readily take ship for South America. Only one reflection made him shiver—the route lay through the town of Smoky Mountain. Yet who would dream of looking for a fugitive from the law in the secluded car that carried a sick man? The risk would be small enough, and it was the one way open.

On the last afternoon before the departure Hugh asked for the clothes he had worn when he was brought to the hospital, found the gray pieces he had snatched in the burning chapel and tied them in a handkerchief about his neck. They would suffice to buy his sea passage. The one red counter he had kept—it was from henceforth to be a reminder of the good resolutions he had made so long ago—he slipped into a pocket of the clothes he was to wear away, a suit of loose, comfortable tweed.

Waiting restlessly for the hour of his going, Hugh asked for the newspapers. Since the first he had had them read to him each day, listening fearfully for the lies and cry. But today the surgeon put his request aside.

"After you are there," he said, "if Bishop Ludlow will let you. Not now. You are almost out of my clutches, and I must tyrannize while I can."

A quick look passed from him to his assistant as he spoke, for the newspapers that afternoon had worn startling headlines. The morbid affairs of a mining town across the ranges and of the interest for Ashton, but the names of Stires and Moreau on the clicking wire had waked it thus late to the sensation. The professional caution of the thinker of human bodies whisked instantly, however, that no excitement should be added to the unavoidable fatigues of his patient's departure.

"FEELS LIKE A NEW WOMAN."

Years of Ill Health Cured.

..."Like many another woman, writes Mrs. J. H. Hilliard of Ashland, N.Y., "continued weakness caused by poor stomach and constipation led me to believe I would always be sick. It was Mrs. Ryan, my neighbor, who advised me to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and it was the means of teaching me 'It is never too late to mend.' I am rather a small woman, always pale, except when my skin becomes a muddy yellow. I never had much of an appetite because my digestion was never very good and still worse my system was seldom regular. Mrs. Ryan had become healthy and well with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and kept telling me that they would fix my system so it would work well too. Certainly Dr. Hamilton's Pills must have made right all that was wrong, because I weigh ten pounds more than ever before and feel fine. If you could see my rosy color and watch how quickly I do my housework. I am sure you would think just as much of Dr. Hamilton's Pills as I do. They are a real fine medicine for women and like as not would do a man just as much good too."

There is no remedy for general use in the home to make you well when sick, to keep you from getting sick—no medicine with half the merit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills—see you get es. all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

This fatigue was near to spelling defeat, after all, for the exertion brought again the dreadful stabbing pain, and this time it carried Hugh into a region where feeling ceased, consciousness passed and from which he struggled back finally to find the surgeon bending anxiously over him.

"I don't like that sinking spell," the latter confided to his assistant as both later as they stood looking through the window after the receding carriage. "It was too pronounced. Yet he has complained of no pain. He will be in good hands at any rate." He tapped the glass musingly with his forefinger. "It's curious," he said after a pause. "I always liked Sanderson—in the pulpit. Somehow he doesn't appeal to me at close range."

The special car which the bishop had ready had been made a pleasant interior. Fern boxes were in the corners, a caged canary swung from a bracket, and a softly cushioned couch had been prepared for the sick man. A moment before the start, as it was being coupled to the rear of the resting train, while the bishop chatted with the conductor, a flustered messenger boy handed him a telegram. It read:

I arrive Anniston tomorrow 5. Confidential. Must see you. Urgent.
JESSICA.

The bishop read it in some perplexity. It was the first word he had received from her since her marriage; but, aware of Hugh's forgery and disgrace, he had not wondered at this. The newspapers today pictured a still worse shame for her in the position of the man who in the name still was her husband, who had trod so swiftly the downward path from thievery to the worst of crimes. Could Jessica's coming have to do with that? He must see her, yet his departure could not now be delayed. He consulted with the conductor, and the latter pored over his tablets.

As a result his answering message flashed along the wires to Jessica's faraway train:

Sanderson injured. Taking him to coast train 6 due Twin Peaks 2 tomorrow afternoon.

And thus the fateful moment s...

A Call From Oregon

Opportunities in the Far West

The greatest industrial activity in this country is now centered in Oregon. Two of the biggest railroad systems in the U. S., with intense rivalry, are pushing branch lines into the remote portions of this State, and an exodus from the East is on in the occupation of this the LAST FRONTIER ON THE CONTINENT. Fortunes will be made here THIS YEAR—NEXT YEAR and EVERY YEAR for the next decade.

Our valleys are the most fertile in the world and irrigation projects are converting the bordering hillsides into gardens. Orchards lands are leaping upward in price and the advance has only started. Water from mountain streams is the purest, timber the finest and climate the most perfect in Uncle Sam's domain. Power plants are springing up along the channels of silvery torrents to develop electrical energy for mines and mills and interburban railways. Fish abound in the rivers, game in the forests and health and joy in the atmosphere. There are no cyclones here or pestiferous insects to endanger life, or make it a burden.

I want Eastern connections and help, financial and otherwise, to seize opportunities that surround this picturesque city of Baker. The returns will be out of all proportion to the help extended. The opportunities are along the lines of vegetable fruit, hay, grain, stock, timber, and mineral lands. There are fortunes in all these. Some mines in this vicinity have record outputs in gold, running into the millions. Yet the surface, overlying the mineral deposits of Baker County, has hardly been scratched.

On a ledge of free gold bearing quartz two miles in length I made a test of 100 tons of ore taken at a depth of only a hundred feet and got over $3000.00 out of it. The mint returns passed through the Citizen's National Bank here.

Among other things, I need money, right now, to begin the MANUFACTURE OF GOLD out of this immense ore body. The shares of the Timber Canyon Mines Company, which OWNS this property, and of which I am secretary have an intrinsic value of at least 50 cents a share based on a conservative valuation of the property and the amount of stock issued.

I will deliver on order, with draft attached, up to 50,000 shares of this stock at 25 cents a share, NET. The full amount of the purchase price will go back in dividends inside of 18 months. Take a block of this as a starter, and get in step with this Eldorado of the West. If there is anything else out here that I can do for you, or you can do for me,—WRITE ME.

Yours for business, and MONEY for both of us,

Victoria College Throws Gauntlet to the Conference

Whole Staff, Professor Says, Will Resign if Cleaver Resolution Against Rev. Geo. Jackson's Teachings Pass

Toronto, June 13.—"You don't preach a literal hell fire now. You used to do it."

"We do still."

"You do not. You have got a saner view of the situation now."

These were some of the statements and counter statements made during Mr. S. R. Parson's address at the Methodist conference this morning, when he defended Rev. Mr. Jackson's views on theology. Mr. Parsons, who is a teacher in the Bible class at Sherbourne street Methodist church, frankly stated that he held the same ideas as Dr. Jackson. His remarks were severely criticized by several of the ministers present.

Consternation reigned everywhere when Mr. Parsons was speaking.

HUNDREDS WeLL LEAVE.

"If you condemn our leader," said he, "and this resolution of Dr. Cleaver is approved of by the General Conference, I, and hundreds of other honorable citizens will leave the Methodist church. There is no alternative. If this resolution becomes law we'll sever our connection with the church of our fathers."

So strenuous is the discussion becoming at the Methodist Conference over Mr. Jackson's views on theology, that there is a strong probability of the whole staff of professors of Victoria College handing in their resignations.

Kitchener Resigns Does Not Want Mediterranean Command

London, June 13.—Lord Kitchener today resigned the command of the Mediterranean to which he was appointed recently after his return from Australia and America.

The Mediterranean station embraces the command of the troops in Egypt. The resignation is attracting more than usual interest, because of Theodore Roosevelt's Guildhall speech. War Minister Haldane announced the resignation in the Commons.

ROSE-HILL WEDDING.

Miss S. A. Harmer United in Marriage to Mr. Geo. McDonald.

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday last at the home of the bride's father, Rose Hill, when Miss Sarah Ann Harmer, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harmer, was united in marriage to Mr. George McDonald of Glen Morgan. The ceremony was performed in the beautifully decorated drawing room, under an arch of ferns and lilies of the valley, the officiating minister being Rev. Mr. Beatty, of Bailieboro Baptist church. The bride was given away by her father, and the wedding march was played by Mrs. James Greer, cousin of the bride. The bride looked very pretty in a dress of cream silk de soie with trimmings of lace and pearl trimmings of lace and pearl trimmings. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Ethel Crouch, of Medina, N.Y., who looked charming in a dress of cream with lace trimmings. The groom was supported by his cousin, Mr. Samuel McMinn. After the ceremony and hearty congratulations were bestowed upon the young couple the guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding repast. Many handsome presents were received by the bride and groom. The groom's gift to the bride was a cresent brooch, to the bridesmaid a gold ring, and to the groomsman a stick pin. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald left for their home in Glen Morgan, amidst showers of rice and confetti. Mrs. McDonald wore a suit of navy blue broadcloth, with a cream hat with black and gold trimmings.

HARD RIDERS.

Local Dragoons Talk About Their Respective Chargers for Petawawa.

At the C.P.R. station at noon yesterday it was funny to hear some of the Dragoons talking about their various horses. One Dragoon remarked to another, "What kind of a horse have you got?" "Well," the other replied, "I expect to bring back another with me." "How's that?" "Why I am taking a skeleton of a horse and I expect to bring back another horse with with me on my return." Another Dragoon remarked "D—— such a horse as I got and ——— the farmer that hired it to me. The farmer said it was saddle broken and a good riding horse. When I tried to mount this morning it took the length and breadth of a block before I could get into the saddle. The blooming critter has a mouth of copper and the actions of a cross between a rogue elephant and a cyclone."

GRABBED HER HAIR.

Two Women in Fight Over Offsprings' Quarrel in Court.

Yesterday morning's police court saw a lot of "family linen washed." It seems that two or three days ago a little girl living near the locks was sent to a nearby store with some money to purchase the family supplies. The child dropped the shekels. The loser accused a neighbor's child of stealing the money. This led to a family mix-up. The mothers of the accuser and accused, respectively, took up the quarrel for their offspring. One witness of the fray between the mothers of these children, claimed that one of the participants in the fight used language that is debarred from parliamentary debates. It appears that the mother of the child who lost the coin got in three from the shoulder on the solar plexus of her opponent. Those blows laid the recipient on the sidewalk. She arose, Phoenix-like and grabbed the other lady by her portion of a woman's make-up (if not bought at so much per oz.) known as her "glory" or, in plain English, her hair and lifted her bodily from terra firma.

One of the lady gladiators, not satisfied with the result of the open-air arena, laid a complaint.

The magistrate dismissed the case, advising the women to go home and live more lady-like in the future.

Armed Men Will Shoot to Kill

Monroe Bridge, Mass., June 13. — More than one hundred armed men, sworn as special deputies and under orders to "shoot to kill," at daybreak resumed the hunt for Silas S. Phelps, the "bad man of Franklin county," who shot and killed Emmet F. Haskins, sheriff of Sharimont, when the latter attempted to arrest him yesterday because he had probably fatally stabbed Superintendent Penman of the Ramage Paper Works.

Phelps, hidden in the forest of Monroe mountain, is known to carry 100 pounds of ammunition. He is desperate. He has declared that he will never be taken alive. He has sworn vengeance upon at least two of the men in the pursuing posse.

Gunner Moir All But Made Escape

Hamilton, June 13. — "Gunner" Moir, the London murderer, who shot and killed Col.-Sergt. Carruthers, of Wolseley Barracks, planned a sensational escape from the Hamilton Asylum, where he was sent after the court adjudged him insane! During the night Moir was discovered with four of the iron bars of his window cut clean through. An attendant noticed him hovering around the window when he should have been in bed, and made an investigation. In a few minutes Moir would have been a free man.

With several other noted insane murderers and criminals Moir is confined in the refractory ward on the third story of one of the buildings. He had evidently been working at the bars for several nights and planned to let himself down a storey and a half by a rope of bedclothes, and drop the rest of the distance.

DRAGOONS DELAYED.

Local Troops Leave for Petawawa Looking Like Seasoned Veterans.

Yesterday morning the streets of Peterborough were made gay by the bright uniforms of the 3rd Dragoons as the men walked along the pavements or rode at a quick trot through the streets. The train which was to take them from the C.P.R. station, a special one, was somewhat delayed by exigencies of business. The cavalry had hoped to leave at about 11.30, but they did not get away until an hour later. At various times cart loads of paraphrenalia rambled down to the station; here the officers' baggage was loaded into one car and the soldiers into others. The task of loading the sixty or seventy horses was quickly accomplished in true military style at the stock yards. Capt. Poole, V.S., attached to the Regiment, paid a visit to the horse cars, when they were loaded, to see that the mounts for the officers and men were all right.

One point worth mentioning is the smart appearance of the men. They were all, to use a current slang expression, "Johnny on the spot." The men were, to a man strictly sober and as neatly dressed and well looking as the most seasoned regulars. The delay was neither the fault of the Dragoons nor the C.P.R. The squadran from Colborne was late in arriving thus delaying the local corps. The corps will go into camp in full strength and made a very favorable impression yesterday morning.

The Times has made arrangements for full reports from Petawawa, said reports to be sent by one of the local officers who has a good descriptive power and a sense of wit.

RELATED HERE.

Edward Carswell, Temperance Lecturer, Buried Yesterday at Oshawa.

An Oshawa despatch of yesterday, speaking of a gentleman well-known in Peterborough and with relatives here says:

Edward Carswell, the noted temperance lecturer, died here today at the advanced age of 92. He had been confined to his house for the past two years, and having been prostrated with a stroke on Tuesday last, did not regain consciousness.

Covering a period of fifty years, deceased had lectured all over Canada and the United States. He has been actively connected with the Sons of Temperance up to two years ago, was past most worthy associate of the National Divisional. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Carswell was a brother-in-law of Mrs. Thomas, 167 Rubidge street, who with her daughter, Mrs. Roach, attended the funeral.

Death of Mrs. W. L. Taylor.

The death occurred very suddenly in Frobisher, Sask., of Mrs. W. L. Taylor, second daughter of Mr. David Forsyth, of the fifth lot, 1st concession of Douro. Mr. Taylor left for the West early in the spring, and was joined three weeks ago at Frobisher by his wife. Mrs. Taylor's death was very sudden, it being preceded by no illness. She succumbed to heart disease. The late Mrs. Taylor was 45 years of age, and was the second daughter of David Forsyth, and was married nineteen years ago to her now surviving husband. Her husband, parents, and two sons Odley and Kerwood, one sister, and four brothers are left to mourn her loss. The brothers are Messrs. Wm. and Thomas of Douro, and David and George of this city. The sister is Miss Ellen at home. Mr. F. James is a nephew of the deceased.

The remains will be brought to Peterborough for burial and the funeral will be announced later.

Former Peterborough Man Related Here Has Passed Away.

Mr. R. J. McWilliams has received word that his brother George had passed away last week. Mr. McWilliams had been ill the past year. He left here about 20 years ago, and since then has resided in the West. He visited here last summer for his health, and was well known in Peterborough. His father, J. H. McWilliams of Lakefield, and three brothers and two sisters and four children are left to mourn his loss. The brothers are M. H., of Toronto; R. J. of this city, and Fred. The sisters are Mrs. A. McCormick, Winnipeg, Man., and Mrs. Preston Smith.

Hon. R. L. Borden Spent the Night in Peterborough

Peterborough was honored last night by having within her walls the leader of his Majesty's Loyal Opposition in Dominion politics, the Hon. R. L. Borden. Hon. Mr. Borden, with his personal friends arrived by the 4.36 train, and was met at the station by some of the leading Conservatives of Peterborough. This great advocate of purity in politics, looked well and did not seem the least depressed by being relegated to a seat to the left of the speaker. He was bright, keen-eyed and evidently as full of political ardor as ever. Mr. Borden and party were conducted to the wharf and conveyed to and over the lift lock. He expressed surprise at the magnitude of the lift lock and claims that it is one item in the construction of a work begun and fostered by the Conservative party, i.e., the Trent Valley canal. During the course of a few miles trip up the canal, beyond the lift lock, Mr. Borden's conversation was devoted more to Peterborough's present and its future prospects than to party politics. On returning to the city after the little outing Hon. Mr. Borden and party, accompanied by some of the leading local stalwarts went to the Oriental Hotel for dinner. The dinner was quite informal and was marked possibly, more by the excellent repast furnished by Mine Host Graham than by an expression on the political situation, as intended for publication. During the evening, Mr. Borden, assisted by his friends and supporters held an informal reception, when a number of Peterborough Conservatives paid respects to their great leader. This morning Mr. Borden and party leave for Campbellford.

HARD ON CHILDREN

When Teacher Has Coffee Habit.

"Best is best, and best will ever live." When a person feels this way about Postum they are glad to give testimony for the benefit of others.

A school teacher down in Miss. says: "I had been a coffee drinker since my childhood, and the last few years it had injured me seriously.

"One cup of coffee taken at breakfast would cause me to become so nervous that I could scarcely go through with the day's duties, and this nervousness was often accompanied by deep depression of spirits and heart palpitation.

"I am a teacher by profession, and when under the influence of coffee had to struggle against drowsiness when in the school room.

"When talking this over with my physician, he suggested that I try Postum, so I purchased a package and made it carefully according to directions and found it excellent of flavor, and nourishing.

"In a short time I noticed very gratifying effects. My nervousness disappeared, I was not irritated by my pupils, felt stored full of ambition, and my heart troubled me no longer.

"I attribute my change to health and spirits to Postum alone."

Radcliffe, the government hangman, will not officiate at Henderson's execution. It seems that the public executioner is said to be fond of other beverages than aqua pura. If You Lived in Montreal

you could come and see the wonderful Cartwright Automatic Press, which is destined to revolutionize the job-printing world, and make money for the shareholders of the Company, as other great inventions, like the Linotype and Telephone, have done.

But, if you cannot call and see the Press itself, you can do as many other investors are doing,—you can read the interesting Prospectus and our little booklet, entitled "Expert Opinions", which gives some adequate idea of this great invention.

You will note when you read the literature we send you, how Publishers, Printers, and all classes of men connected with the printing business—men who thoroughly understand the real merit and value of such an invention—are the most enthusiastic endorsers of the Press, and what is still more important, they are buyers of both the presses and the shares.

AWFUL FIRE IN MONTREAL HERALD BUILDING—53 DEAD

PETERBOROUGH PRINTERS MOURN—SAD DAY FOR THE MEN OF PRINTING TRADES

A general air of sadness and gloom characterized employes of Peterborough's printing offices last night owing to loss of personal friends in the Montreal disaster. When the sad news of the awful affair yesterday, whereby fifty-three employes of the Montreal Herald were, without a moment's warning hurled into eternity, reached this city, naturally no class of the community felt it harder than the scores of local printers. Hardly one of the local members of the craft but knew at least one of those mentioned in the despatches as killed. Others, who had friends in the trade in Montreal, for lack of a complete list of the dead, feared for the worst for such friends. Go where one could last night, whether in the printing offices or on the streets one would see little groups of printers discussing in subdued tones the awful calamity that robbed them either of personal friends or comrades in the trade. The usually jovial carefree printers of Peterborough were universally and observably oppressed last night. They are all members of the one great organization the I.T.U.

Jack Pilling Benefit Ball Game Saturday

Here is an opportunity for the fans to help out a player in distress. Tickets are out for the Jack Pilling benefit ball game, under the auspices of the City League at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon, and we are pleased to be able to announce that they are selling rapidly, and that there is every indication of a record crowd. The game will be between the champion T.A.S. team and a team picked from the three other league teams. In this way a line-up can be assured that will make the game one of great interest.

WELL KNOWN LADY GONE.

Miss Ferguson Passed Away Last Night After Long Illness.

Last night one of Peterborough's oldest and most respected citizens passed away in the person of Miss Alithea Maria Ferguson, who died at the residence of her sister Mrs. Mutius Clementi, 359 Stewart St. The late Miss Ferguson had been an invalid for some months during which she was carefully and tenderly nursed by her surviving sisters. The deceased had seen this city grow, from when she came here in early girlhood to its present importance, and during these years she was universally respected and loved by all who knew her.

Miss Ferguson was eldest daughter of the late Frederick Ferguson and Mary Elizabeth Haselwood his wife. She was born at Georgetown, British Guinea, S.A., but came to Peterborough with her parents while a child, and has made her home here ever since. She leaves to mourn her loss her sisters, Mrs. Mutuis Clementi and Mrs. De Codin Smith, 350 Stewart street, her nephew, Mr. F. V. Clementi of the Grand Trunk Freight Department, Dr. F. H. Ferguson of Mich., U.S., V. S. Ferguson of Lemburg, Sask., and her niece, Miss Mary Clementi.

The late Miss Ferguson was a consistent member of St. John's church until the erection of All Saints' church, which she joined and, until her last illness attended regularly.

The funeral, which is private, will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning to the Little Lake cemetery Rev. Mr. Trumpour, rector of All Saints' church, officiating.

JUST A WORD.

The canoeing season is on.

Every summer there are boating accidents.

If some young men knew as much as they think they know there would be fewer accidents.

If young women knew as much as they should know, there would be no boating accidents.

Mothers should demand a certificate of proficiency from the man who claims to be a boating expert before they trust their daughters with him on deep water in acapricious canoe.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

VICTIMS PINNED UNDER HEAVY TIMBERS CALL FOR HELP AS THE FLAMES APPROACH

Desperate Efforts Made by the Firemen and Police to Effect Rescue—Ponderous Machinery Was Carried Down Through the Floors, Killing and Injuring Many.

Scores Taken to the Hospital and List of Injured Estimated at One Hundred—The Property Loss Will Be in the Neighborhood of Two Hundred Thousand Dollars.

Montreal, June 13. — There are forty dead pinned between the flooring in the Herald building. Each minute the flames creep closer and closer. Inspector McMahon offers to lead a rescuing party, but it is impossible to get in. At 11.30 the whole building was eaten up within. The front wall on St. James' street fell at 11.45.

The names of eleven injured have been ascertained, all of them machine or stone hands.

FIFTY ESTIMATE OF DEAD.

Montreal, June 13. — Fifty are dead and a hundred injured in a fire which broke out in the bindery department of the Montreal Herald building at eleven o'clock today. Before the apparatus had replied to the first alarm the top floor had given away, carrying with it through the whole building a huge water tank which was stationed on the roof.

The building is a mass of flames, and firemen are not even able to prevent it from spreading to the Imperial Bank building next door. Of the dead, fifteen are at the morgue, and thirty-five injured are in the different hospitals.

DIED IN COMPOSING ROOM.

At twelve o'clock Foreman Taylor estimated the number of dead in the Herald composing room at fifty-three.

The fire attracted a vast crowd, and the police had difficulty in handling the throngs that jammed every street in the vicinity.

The fire spread with great rapidity, and by the time the fire apparatus was on hand the entire block was threatened, and it appeared as if the flames would sweep away the heart of the city.

Every bit of apparatus in the city was called into play, and the hospitals were advised when the serious ness of the fire became apparent, to be in readiness to receive the injured. The ambulances were marshalled about the burning block.

Several persons were injured, and firemen keeled over from the smoke in the building from the beginning.

The rolls of paper stored in the basement of the newspaper plant gave off a dense, acrid smoke, and chemicals in another room added to the fumes.

The weight of the machinery sent them crashing through the frame of the building as the supports were eaten away. A great mass of molten type metal was spilt over a part of the debris, and is believed to have covered some of the victims.

Falling telegraph and telephone wires added to the danger, and greatly hampered the fire fighters.

FOREMAN BADLY INJURED.

William Taylor, foreman of the composing room, who escaped with severe injuries, believes there must have been fifty killed. The collapse of the water tower, he says, practically cut the building in two. The fire started up in all directions immediately after. The fire seems to be under control now, but the whole plant is a wreck.

SEVERAL GIRLS KILLED.

The bodies of several girls employed in the bindery, have been taken on out of the ruins.

It is said the collapsed water tower was built upon the roof without adequate support beneath, and officials were warned at the time it was erected four years ago that it was not safe.

It is impossible yet to get intelligable returns of the dead and injured.

EDITORIAL STAFF SAFE.

It is said that the principal loss of life is in the bindery and the job printing department. These were nearest the path of the collapsed tower.

The editorial and business office staffs, in the front of the building, escaped death, being well removed from beneath the tower.

SPRAINED WRIST AND ANKLE.

After Being Laid Up With Great Pain for Ten Days, Relief Was Gained Instantly By Applying

NERVILINE.

One of the most soul-distressing accidents that can befall one is a bad ankle or wrist sprain. "If I had only known of 'Nerviline' earlier, I could have saved myself an enormous amount of pain, and many agonizing nights of sleeplessness." Thus writes P. P. Quinn, a young farmer living near Brockville. "I tumbled from a hay loft to the barn floor and sprained my right ankle and left wrist. They swelled rapidly and caused excruciating pains. It was not convenient to go to the city, and the liniment in the house was useless. When I got Nerviline relief came quickly. It took down the swelling, relieved the pain, and gave me wonderful comfort.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 4266.

"I can recommend Nerviline for strains, bruises, swellings muscular pains and sore back. I have proved it a sure cure in such cases."

Think what it might some day mean to you to have right in your home ready for an accident or emergency sickness, a bottle or two of Nerviline. Get it today, 25c., or five for $1.00, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

FAST TRAVELLING.

A speed by trains of 150 miles an hour, said Mr. J. Sutherland Warner, an English railway expert, in the course of an interview with a London newspaperman, is technically possible today, and commercially possible within the next ten years so long as the railway serves great centers of population giving a large amount of traffic. Mr. Warner explained how the high speed mentioned could be attained. The motive power, of course, would have to be electricity. Naturally the horse-power, in the case of a train travelling at 150 miles an hour, and therefore the weight of the motors, would be enormous. In order to carry such a tremendous weight it would probably be necessary to use three, if not four rails. The great problem, however, would be how to deal with the resistance of the air. "There are said Mr. Warner, "three methods by which this could be met. One of these is the building of the train cigar-shap? and with the sides oiled or varnished so as to make them as smooth as possible. This method would not go very far. Another way is to reduce the friction on the track by fitting wings, or lifting planes, all round the train, the object being to utilize the resistance of the atmosphere to lift the weight from the track and thereby reduce the track resistance. The third method is not to run the train through air at all. This could only be done by running the train in a tube from which the air has been exhausted in advance of the train by means of powerful pumps. Of course in addition to the driving of the electric motors in the ordinary way, power for propulsion would be obtained owing to the pressure of the atmosphere acting on the rear of each carriage. This would also supply air for the passengers to breathe. None of the methods is impossible. "It's all a matter of money," said Mr. Warner.

THE OLD DOG.

Everybody remembers the old dog. He had a place in our childhood hopes only a little lower than that occupied by ourselves. Everybody loved him for his devotion, his willingness and affection. He met us at the gate when we were coming home from school. He whimpered, fawned and leaped about us. He was glad we were home, we youngsters who teased and loved him, and he left damp kisses on our faces as we entered the gate.

The old dog understood his own worth full well. He believed the farm could not be well run without him. He asserted his importance wherever occasion presented itself. When he trotted through the farmyard the pigs moved away the straw and lay up sleepily to watch him. The chickens huddled closer together. The cattle eyed him with respect. In the stable the old plow-horses turned from their feed to touch noses with him. Always the old dog was good friends with the horses.

The old dog had his daily routine for work. He was busy all day long, and he did his work gladly. In the dewy morning he attended the cattle to the wide pasture lands, then he trotted slowly back to his breakfast of bread and milk and meat scraps. Next he followed the old team out to the field and up and down the long sweet-smelling furrows. Towards midday he took a nap beneath the shade tree.

An noon he passed through the barnyard with an important, critical air. In the afternoon he sought again the pasture lands and explored fields fenched with ash rails and hedged with golden yellow rod. Late in the afternoon he trotted slowly across the long dusty road and watched for the children coming from school.

proached when the great appeal should be made.

* * * * * * *

The evidence of the first day's trial of the case of the people against Hugh Stired was the all engrossing topic that night in Smoky Mountain. Barney McGlinn perhaps aptly expressed the consensus of opinion when he said, "I allow we all know he's guilty, but nobody believes it."

Late as Smoky Mountain sat up that night, however, it was on hand next morning, rank and file, when the court convened.

All the previous evening, save for a short visit to the cell of his client, Felder had remained shut in his office, thinking of the morrow. In his talk with Harry he had not concealed his deep anxiety, but to his questions there was no new answer, and he had returned from the interview more nonplused than ever. He had wondered that Jessica on this last night did not come to his office, but had been rather relieved than otherwise that she did not. He had gone to bed heavy with discouragement and had waked in the morning with foreboding.

As he turned from greeting his client in the packed courtroom Felder noted with surprise that Jessica was not in her place; not that he needed her further testimony, for he had drawn from her the day before all he intended to utilize, but her absence disturbed him, and instinctively he turned and looked across the sea of faces toward the door.

Harry's glance followed his, and a deeper pain beleaguered it as his eyes returned to the empty chair. He saw Mrs. Halloran whisper eagerly with the lawyer, who turned away, with a puzzled look. In his bitterness the thought came to him that the testimony had sapped her conviction of his innocence; that his refusal to answer her entreaties had been the last straw to the load under which it had gone down; that she believed him indeed the murderer of Moreau. To mem the cringing criminal, the pitiful liar and actor in her eyes! The thought stung him. Her faith had meant so much.

The ominous feeling weighed heavily on Felder when he rose to continue the testimony for the prisoner, so rudely disturbed the evening before. In such a community pettifogging was of no avail. Throwing expert dust in jurors' eyes would be worse than useless. In his opening words he made no attempt to conceal the weakness of the defense, evidentially considered. Stripped of all bunk, his was to be an appeal to Cæsar.

Through a cloud of witnesses concisely, consistently, yet with a winning tactfulness that disarmed the objections of the prosecution, he began to lead them through the series of events that had followed the arrival of the self forgotten man. Out of the mouths of their own neighbors—Devlin, Barney McGlinn, Mrs. Halloran, who came down weeping—they were made to see as in a cyclorama the struggle for rehabilitation against hatred and suspicion, the courage that had dared for a child's life, the honesty of purpose that showed in self surrender. The prisoner, he said, had recovered his memory before the accusation and asserted his absolute innocence. Those who believed him guilty of the murder of Dr. Moreau must believe him also a vulgar liar and poseur. He left the inference clear: if the prisoner had lied that cowardly shot he knew it now; if he lied now he had lied all along, and the later life he had lived at Smoky Mountain, eloquent of fair dealing, straightforwardness of purpose, kindliness and courage, had been but hypocrisy, the loathsome artifice of a shallow buffoon.

The session was prolonged past the noon hour, and when Felder rested his case it seemed that all that was possible had been said. He had done his utmost. He had drawn from the people of Smoky Mountain a dramatic story and had dilled in its outlines with color, force and feeling. And yet as he closed the lawyer felt a sick sense of failure.

Court adjourned for an hour, and in the interim Felder remained in a little room in the building, whither Dr. Brent was to send him sandwiches and coffee from the hotel.

"You made a fine effort, Tom," the latter said as they stood for a moment in the emptying courtroom. "You're doing wonders with no case, and the town ought to stand you to congress on the strength of it! I declare, some of your outbursts made me feel as though as a dog about the middle though I knew all the time he was as guilty as the devil."

The lawyer shook his head. "I don't blame you, Brent," he said, "for you don't know him as I do. I have seen much of him lately, been often with him, watched him under stress, for he

CONNAUGHT WILL COME TO CANADA.

Will Succeed Earl Grey in Spring of New Year as Governor-General.

London, June 12.—The Canadian Associated Press has every reason to believe that it is intended that the Duke of Connaught shall be governor-general of Canada, in accordance with King Edward's wish. It is unlikely, however, that the official announcement will be made at present, for the Duke of Connaught is to open the South Africa parliament at the end of the year, and it is improbable that he will go to Canada amid winter. It is, therefore proposed that Earl Grey remain in office till the spring of 1911.

The Chronicle, in an editorial says there are obvious difficulties in the way, but there will be general satisfaction if the King's ministers deem them not insuperable.

THE HEAT OF BATTLE.

Uneasy the Head That Wears a Crown.

The laws of logic are at a discount when political parties get into the heat of the battle. And when the rage point is reached there is nothing so ready to hand as the shibboleth of a shameless fallacy to blacken reputation with. As we said the other day, the political condition in Great Britain have become even more acute since the death of King Edward, now that his funeral is over and King George reigns in his stead, than they were before; and it looks as if the spirit of revolution—the desire for a change outside the common-sense that reaches out towards progress—would be hard to keep in check by the upholders of law and order. The Chronicle had only one kind of word to say about the unseasonable complaint that has been raised concerning the worry to which the late King was subjected during the days of his sickness, and we said it. Such kind of political warfare is beneath contempt. The writers who indulge in such indiscriminate beating of the bush merely to make a momentary noise has his place in such faction brawls as recently took place in the County of Cork. They ought to have no place in the settling of any great main question, such as that which is agitating the whole Empire at the present moment—namely, the amending of the British Constitution in such a way as to co-ordinate the preRetige of Lords and Commons as a support to the Crown. This dragging of the Crown into the vortex of partyism savours of madness. What has the King, as a constitutional monarch whose function is to reign and not to rule, to do with the reforming of the House of Lords? The moment the King reverses the relationship between him and his advisers, that moment he becomes a revolutionist in his own person. We do not believe that King Edward ever had such an idea in his head. He was a constitutional monarch to his finger tips that held his sceptre at a proper constitutional angle. His physicians are to blame for saying that any king's worry over state affairs had to do with the physicial break-up which issued in his death. Such an announcement, altogether out of place, was of a piece with the unthinking nurse's moan that if her patient had not been so nervous about death nor life might have been saved. The worry of King Edward was the worry which follows every man up to the valley of the shadow of death. And when he said, as he entered it, "I think I have done my duty," he showed that the worry was no longer his, but, like his crown, had to pass to another. And it is on that other that King George's subjects have to turn their eyes, while the political conditions of the times in the Empire are being discussed. He proposes to be the constitutional monarch his royal father was and the good queen before both of them. Let us therefore keep the king out of our discussions of what is best to promote a more evenly balanced parliamentary rule. The House of Commons has no more claim to over-rule the House of Lords than the House of Commons! The constitution, that has promoted British freedom, and transferred it to the nations of the world, is a three in one—a tripistikto unity—King, Lords and Commons—and as such it must be maintained if the Empire is to be upheld as a blessing to its own people and a model to the nations of the world, as it has been. And, by all means let us save the Crown which King George now wears from being any more irksome than it has been to all who have worn it.

METERING THE COW.

That nobly necessary animal, the cow, is no longer to be allowed to have her own sweet whey about her milk production. A record book which is now being furnished by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa makes it incumbent upon the cow either to furnish good milk and plenty of it, or quit. It is, in a word, a cow meter, and quite as useful to the farmer as the gas meter, the water meter, and the speed meter to the city man.

One of these books will keep the record of twenty cows for one year. It is designed to make unpopular the animal who insists upon eating her head off without giving a quid pro quo, or a ced pro quo, or words to that effect. It enables the farmer to keep track of the amount and quality of her milk, and what is quite as important, of the amount and quality of her feed, and the comparative cost of both. Without desiring in the least to hurt the bovine feelings of any well meaning animal, it may safely be said that certain voracious cows are going to be put to flush by these meter-books.

READY MADE MINING.

The marvellous evolution of Gold dredging and methods of recovering values from auriferous ground, is today, attracting world-wide attention. The Saskatchewan gravels" in the early days of North West Canada, supplied many hundreds of settlers with gold sufficient to maintain themselves if not in influence, at least in comfort. To-day steam and electric dredges produce the major portion of the World's gold output. Formerly, this alluvial gold was separated from the sands and gravels containing it, by washing them in pans, cradles, rockers and sluices. In 1852, the hydraulic method was first employed, in California. By this means a "giant" stream of water, turned against the side of a mountain, washed everything before it. The gold settles at the bottom of the tunnel or sluic, through which the gravel, sand and water flow. In 1889 dredges or excavators were first used, in Australia. In Everybody's Magazine for April, 1910, Mr. Byron W. Holt, a financial authority, formerly Editor of "Moody's Magazine," a gentleman recognized as a prominent and sound economist, writes an article entitled "Too much Gold," from which the following extracts are made:—

1850	$ 44,500,000
1870	123,000,000
1890	118,848,000
1900	254,576,300
101
1909	457,576,280

OSITION AS MUCH AS IS THE MINING OF COAL OR IRON ORE? or the production of corn or copper."

Measured by the scale of progress, it is a long step from primitive methods to the modern gold dredge now operating on the Saskatchewan river. Counting the years that have actually elapsed since designers and manufacturers began to seriously consider the application of power-driven mechanism to auriferous fields, it is found that the inventions and improvements brought forward in a single decade, along this line, have resulted in lifting their branch of gold mining on the Western Continent, from the level of hand labor with always uncertain and at best meagre results, to the plane of thoroughly organized and established industry, the returns from which may be as accurately forecasted, as can the profits of a manufacturing company which owns all the raw material it uses to the manufacture of its products, with an assured demand at fixed prices for all it can produce. Mr. Gillen, a well-known authority, writing upon the subject says: "Two years ago it was generally considered that the Oroville district (California) was practically the only field for larger dredging operations. Today, the proved successful dredging field extends from Alaska to Mexico. Dredging for gold has become a mechanical and commercial proposition. As an investment, it is becoming one of the safest in the business world." These remarks are suggested by the publication of an announcement in this issue, of the operations of the Saskatchewan Mining and Development Company, an organization composed mostly of prominent Toronto gentlemen, who have elected former Lieut.-Gov. C. H. MacKintosh of the North West, President and Captain T. H. Brooks M. E. General Manager. The Company is highly spoken of in financial circles.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do us an act of humanity?

Will you tell some sick friend of this, our remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a gentleman of means that his money back if he is sick. It is absolutely and unconditionally free of it fails.

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its remarkable cures.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments every where in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought them health and vigor back to health again.

I do not care if the Stomach, nor whether the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the cause of these ailments—the nerves. It strengthens or reconstructs them. And before the nerves it must go right.

When these nerves are right, they will and must be well.

To see it is a proper satisfaction thing. I am the only physician who is so sure of his remedy that he will not permit you to pay for it unless it helps you. The entire expense is my own.

Then why should the sick make any payment on any other condition? Why should any other sick man, if just as I do to the proper thing?

Just send me a letter or postal and say: "Dr. Shoop, I want to try your Restorative on the terms you make." Address me personally, Dr. Shoop, Box 5, Racine, Wis.

Write today. Don't wait. Don't delay. Don't forget. Don't neglect. Don't put off. Don't let it slip your mind. Don't let it go by. Don't let it pass. Don't let it escape. Don't let it get away. Don't let it go. Don't let it slip

Grew Dull, Lost Snap, Vim.

A man never realizes the strain of life until failing ability to work brings it sharply home to him. "I am an insurance agent," writes Mr. W. E. Nemino of Montreal, and to make commissions, a man must have both energy and snap. My digestive organs began to give out; first a sluggish action of the bowels filled my blood With humors. A little scratch would fester and my face got red and pimply. Hot rushes of blood to the head made me very irritable and prevented sleep. I thought I could exercise it off, but the more I did, the more strength I lost. Finally I asked my druggist to recommend a pill that would cure constipation and slow-acting liver—he endorsed Dr. Hamilton's. The first dose told me he had hit it right. So active yet so mild in action— no trouble to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I think them a wonder. I am now as fat as ever, blues all gone, energy enough to get business and give me pleasure and interest in life. Dr. Hamilton's Pills I consider a wonder."

Refuse any other pill but Dr. Hamilton's 25c per box, all dealer, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

If you would have a safe yet certain Cough Remedy in the home, try Dr. Shoop's — at least once. It is thoroughly unlike any other Cough preparation. Its taste will be entirely new to you—unless it is already your favorite Cough Remedy. No opium, chloroform, or any other stupefying ingredients are used. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy it wonderful curative properties. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

Post Office Clock to Be Fixed.

There is reason to believe that at last, after some two weeks of erratic movements or total stoppage, the post office clock may be induced to show something within an hour or two of the correct time. The average man when asked recently "What's the time." is apt to reply, "Well my watch says 11.57, but the post office clock demands that 5.22 is right." The next man when asked the same question is likely to look dazed, and reply, "Say, give me something easy. That post office clock is getting me all tied up. The crazy time-keeper at noon yesterday pointed at 4.57, and at 6 p.m., showed the time to be 2.36 a.m.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Those Who Have Heard

Of the SASKATCHEWAN GRAVELS have no doubt read about

Gold in the Saskatchewan

The MODERN DREDGER with mechanical improvements, performs in ONE DAY the work of 2000 able bodied Miners.

The Sasketchewan Mining and Development Company, Limited

Capital - $2,000,000

(No Personal Liability)

Incorporated under the laws of Ontario and controlling a vast water stretch of thirty miles: concessions granted by the Dominion Government.

WHAT OTHER DISTRICTS ARE DOING:—Scores of modern dredges are recovering Millions of Dollars every year from the old placer beds and streams at Oroville, and Marysville, California. A ten thousand yard dredger is being built for the Yukon Country. Stewart and Lewis Rivers are increasing Dredging facilities. The Guggenheims are recovering Millions in Yukon, from auriferous gravels. Fairbanks, Alaska, is sending out Millions each year from Dredging operations. The average length of season for dredging the Saskatchewan gold bearing beds is about 160 days in the year. The estimated yield, when all machinery is completed and working should exceed $600,000.00 per year, clear of all expenses.

The Company offers 250,000 Treasury Shares at 50c per Share

The General Manager, Mr. T. H. Brooks will be glad to furnish any further information.

REPRESENTATIVES: The Company wants representatives who can come recommended, to whom exclusive control over the sale of shares will be given special districts.

An Asbestos Proposition

An Investment That Should Appeal to the Investors

The Rochester & Wyoming Asbestos Co.

Owning 220 acres of Rich Abestos property in the central part of the State of Wyoming.

Capital Stock $500,000, divided into 500,000 shares with a par value of One Dollar each, full paid and non-assessable.

Offering only 50,000 shares, Treasury Stock at One Dollar per share.

The main features of this Company are: Its low capitalization ($500,000) and the fact that six of the seven of the Board of Directors are business men of the City of Rochester; no bonus or free stock; every share of stock issued except as property purchase price has been paid for in cash. The Company is being, and will continue to be, conducted on economical basis. The Company has also the advantage of having the services of Mr. Edwin Hall, State Geologist of Wyoming, and an Official Inspector of Mines as Consulting Engineer. The fact that Mr. Hall has accepted this position as Consulting Engineer indicates the reliability of the Company. As a state official it is his duty to see that only Companies conducted on the soundest business principles be allowed to exist.

Only 50,000 shares of Treasury Stock is offered for sale at $1.00 per share. Subject to increase at any time.

Coroner Dr. Gray in a Serious Condition

Yesterday morning the people of this city were shocked to learn that Dr. J. W. Gray, 296 Sherbrooke St. the county coroner, had met with an accident that it is feared will terminate fatally. It seems that Dr. Gray early yesterday morning, whilst presumably closing a window on the second story of his residence, had the misfortune to lose his balance and fall headlong to the ground some fifteen feet below. From Sherbrooke street to the rear of his residence is a concrete walkway and Dr. Gray, in falling, lighted on this, his head striking the edge of the hard concrete walk. He was immediately rendered unconscious. On the pavement yesterday were seen some of the hairs attached to a small piece of the scalp detached. His injuries were of a character to preclude much hope for his recovery. The skull was fractured, his collarbone was broken and several ribs were fractured. To add to these serious injuries, internal injuries were sustained of so serious a nature that the physicians in attendance fear for the worst. The only hope for the popular coroner is his great bodily strength and vast vitality.

After the accident had occurred Dr. King and Dr. Young were soon called and Dr. Gray was removed in the ambulance to Nicholls Hospital, where he now lies in the unconscious condition he has been in since the accident. At the time of going to press his condition is unchanged, the doctor not having recovered consciousness.

Mr. Shaw the Baseball Player Hart.

Mr. W. Shaw, the well-known outfielder of the Strathcona Baseball Club, was the victim of a very painful accident while at work in the Auburn Woolen Mills yesterday afternoon. In some manner his left hand was caught in a pulley and was badly torn and cut before it could be released. He will be out of the game for some time.

Printers' Excursion to Cobourg.

The Printers of Peterborough will run an excursion to Cobourg on Saturday afternoon, June 25th. The people of Cobourg are already waiting to receive the Peterborough printers with welcoming arms. It has already been arranged that a number of the craft from Rochester and Buffalo will be on hand. A splendid program has been arranged. Those wanting a good day's fun and a breath of Lake Ontario air should keep the date in mind.

LOCAL ASTRONOMERS.

Will Hold Unique Meeting and Study Phases of the Moon.

The next meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society will be held on Tuesday, June 21st. From 8 o'clock until 9, the meeting will be held in the lecture room of the Collegiate where several members will give answers to a number of interesting questions. At 9 o'clock an adjournment will be made to the lawn to permit all present studying the illimitable outlook through the powerful telescope kindly loaned for this occasion by Mr. Collier. Should the weather conditions prove favorable the moon will be well worth seeing.

We are asked to state that all questions which members desire answered should be handed to the president or secretary before the 18th, to permit of publication.

OVER THE LIFT LOCK.

The Steamer Otonabee will make a special trip over the Lift Lock and return this evening, leaving Wolfe Street wharf at 5 o'clock. The excursion is under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church. All are invited. Return tickets 25c.

THE GARDEN PARTY.

Hundreds of Citizens Enjoy an Evening Amid Fairy-Like Surroundings.

The garden party given in the grounds of Mrs. A. L. Davis last night under the auspices of All Saints' church was, in the fewest words a stupendous success. The large and beautifully laid out gardens, by the aid of electric lights and colored lanterns were averitable scene of fairyland. The band of the 57th Regiment discoursed some well chosen pieces that aided in making the evening perfect. This garden party was patronized by hundreds of citizens who were well repaid for their time in going. The committee in charge has every reason for congratulation and those present cannot but appreciate the thoughtful action of Mrs. Davis in granting free use of her garden.

Dr. Jackson's Book Upheld in Conference by a Majority of 14

LAYMEN HAD A LARGE MAJORITY AGAINST BUT WERE MORE THAN COUNTERBALANCED BY CLERGY.

The Amendment Asking General Conference to Consider Conservation of the Essential Faith Was Carried by 130 to 116.

"I used to shoot indiscriminately at a flock of crows, but I never hit one. I had to aim at one particular crow. There are a lot of splendid ideas in Dr. Jackson's book, but one single grain of strychnine in a pound of good meat will kill."

"The charge that Victoria professors are in the same boat with Mr. Jackson needs no debate. They have intimated clearly that they are." Rev. Dr. Cleaver.

Toronto, June 14.—By a majority of 14 out of a combined clerical and lay vote of 246, Rev. Dr. Armstrong's amendment carried at this morning's session of the Toronto Conference, and as a result Rev. Dr. Cleaver's resolution to have the General Conference exclude Dr. Jackson's theology from Methodist schools and colleges is lost. The vote was conducted in the yea and nay system, and as the result shows was particularly close, the laymen strongly supporting Dr. Cleaver, with the majority of the clergymen in favor of Dr. Armstrong's amendment. The laymen's vote was: Yeas, 16; nays, 39. The ministerial vote was: Yeas 114, nays, 7.

Dr. Cleaver's defence of his own resolution and his arraignment of the teachings of Victoria College created a sensation in the Conference. His voice trembling with emotion, he said:

"I have two children, graduates of Victoria College, and if I had had my present light on the doctrines taught there, my children never would have gone to Victoria. I'm sorry to say it, brethren, but it's true, that a large stream of students are going out from Victoria University, ruined for life, as far as their religious faith is concerned."

Cries of "No! No!"

Rev. Dr. Burns—"I rise to a point of order. This is practically an arraignment of our college professors and should not be allowed. I submit that any arraignment should be made to the proper authorities, and not here."

Continuing, Dr. Cleaver said: "Rev Mr. Armstrong's amendment means absolutely nothing so far as the question at issue is concerned. Dr. Armstrong's amendment has been embodied in the work of the General Conference for years. Those opposing my amendment didn't defend the criticized paragraphs in Dr. Jackson's book. They just sidetracked my amendment in every possible way.

"I used to shoot indiscriminately at a flock of crows, but I never hit one. I had to aim at one particular crow.

"There are a lot of splendid ideas in Dr. Jackson's book, but one single grain of strychnine in a pound of good meat will kill.

"As for Mr. S. R. Parsons, I love him dearly, but the attitude he takes regarding my resolution is extreme. If he feels compelled to leave the Methodist Church should the resolution become law, it would apply the other way exactly if the motion failed to carry. I'm sure Mr. Parsons wouldn't want to crowd me out of the Methodist Church or crowd himself out. We should compromise on the matter.

The charge that Victoria professors are in the same boat with Dr. Jackson needs no debate. They have intimated clearly that they are.

Surely the Church which employs the professors, has a right to tell its professors to conform in their teachings to the doctrines that the Church believes to be true, and not to preach any doctrines that the Church disapproves of.

METHODIST FAITH.

Dr. Armstrong's amendment memorializes the General Conference to take such action as it may deem necessary for the conservation of the essentials of the Methodist faith in their colleges, especially with relation to the reality and personality of God, the work of redemption, the Deity of Jesus Christ, the divine inspiration and authority of Holy Scripture and the necessity of regeneration by the Holy Spirit.

The secretary had hardly finished reading the amendment when Rev. Dr. Briggs interposed.

"There should be inserted with these other points—the infallibility of Christ—perhaps Dr. Armstrong just made the omission inadvertently."

Dr. Armstrong — "I thought the Deity of Christ would be sufficient. I can't conceive of Deity without infallibility."

Dr. Briggs acquiesced.

County Court Opens Before Judge Huycke

Yesterday afternoon his Honor Judge Huycke occupied the seat of justice at the opening of the June session of the County Court. There are two criminal actions one against a young man for seduction and the other against a resident of Cavendish township for stealing a horse and house breaking. In the civil cases there are three to be heard by a jury and three non-jury ones. Following the opening of the court, the grand jurors answered to their names as follows: Messrs. C. Armstrong, M. Breckenridge, Thos. Chamberlain, M. Comstock, R. Chowen, F. V. Clementi, Ed. Conroy, John R. Darling, W. H. Johnston, H. Moore, W. F. Nelson, Jos. Mills and Col. Miller. Col. Miller was chosen foreman.

HIS HONOR'S ADDRESS.

After the grand jury had been sworn, His Honor addressed them. He referred to the fact that some failed to respond to their names when called. It was a matter, his honor said, that was punishable by a heavy fine for anyone to ignore the summons. "You will observe," he continued, "that the court is hung in mourning out of respect to our late Sovereign King Edward the Seventh."

Judge Huycke then paid a strong and well worded tribute to the memory of our dead sovereign. He also referred to the death of the late Goldwin Smith. His honor spoke next of the duties that lay before the grand jury. The jurors then retired and the first civil case that of W. H. Clyesdale versus the London Mutual Life Association was proceeded with. This case was one wherein the company disputed payment for loss of buildings in the county that Mr. Clyesdale, plaintiff, claimed to have been destroyed by lightning, while the insurance company claimed was destroyed by arson. The whole day, some 25 or 30 witnesses being subpoenaed. The evidence in full was too long and comprehensive to give in detail.

Improvements to Lock Co. Offices.

The premises formerly occupied by the office staff of the Peterborough Lock Co., and to be used again since the altertations in the works on Simcoe street of that great local industry, have had a complete transformation. The wainscot around the large office and the two smaller ones are done in mission wood finish. The metallic ceiling is painted in bright colors which aids greatly in the illuminating of the large office. The most up-to-date chandeliers are to be found throughout the office. The different pieces of furniture are of mission wood and a person on entering is struck with the harmony of colors. Two large windows in the front of the building permits a great abundance of sunshine to lighten the office.

IN THE RUINS OF HERALD BUIL IN THE RUINS OF HERALD BUILDING GOES SLOWLY ON.—FIVE BODIES FOUND.

A Hundred Volunteers and Firemen Digging for the Victims—May be 35 Dead.—Buried in the Ruins.

Pitiful Scenes at the Morgue Where a Crowd of Relatives of the Missing With Anxious Faces Wait for the Worst.

Montreal, June 14.—A pall of sadness is hanging over the entire city today, as the people realize the terrible calamity that happened right in the heart of the commercial district of the city yesterday.

The awful task of trying to find the bodies of the dead in the ruins of the Herald building goes slowly on, and thousands are gathered about Victoria square in the front of the building anxious to see the results of the work of the large gang of firemen and volunteer workmen.

FIVE BODIES FOUND.

By one o'clock today only five bodies, burned to a crisp and almost unrecognizable, had been discovered, though it is known that there must be at least twenty more lying underneath the huge pile of broken beams, and fallen masonry that yesterday was the Herald office. Several detached arms and feet and one ghastly skull were also found, and were removed to the morgue.

MAY BE 35 DEAD.

The only means of estimating the number of victims is by the number of those who have failed to turn up at their homes. The full number of these has not been heard from yet as the list of employes have been destroyed, and it is feared that the dead may number between thirty and thirty-five.

Hundreds of friends of those who were supposed to be among the victims crowded around the ruined building watching the rescuers at their work. The search for the bodies had to be partially abandoned last night when darkness fell, as the tottering portions of the walls which had been left standing made the work extremely dangerous. However a small body of firemen, aided by searchlights, and a system of arc lights which had been installed, worked through the night.

A HUNDRED DIGGING.

As soon as day light came a hundred men under the fire chief resumed the terrible work of the night before. The removal of the debris was slow, being piled three storeys high, and careful work was necessary to prevent the falling of the front portions of the floor.

There were pitiful scenes at the morgue, where a crowd of relatives of the missing waited with anxious faces for the worse.

The morgue wagons are standing right in front of the building, and every little while, as still another body is taken from the smouldering ruins, it is placed in one of the wagons and borne slowly across town to the city morgue.

At the morgue there is a scene of desolation. Upwards of two hundred of the relatives and friends of the unfortunate victims are waiting round viewing each of the bodies as it is brought in for fear it is the one for which they are watching.

WHY WORK IS SLOW.

Mothers, fathers, sisters, and brothers are there, for most of the victims still missing are young girls who were employed in the bindery.

The work of trying to find the remains of the victims is very slow, because of the very small space the firemen have to work in, in the lane back of the building. The back wall of the building was crushed out into the lane, and not knowing where they are likely to come across the body of a victim, the firemen have scarcely any place to throw their debris.

HER LOVER DEAD.

There were individual incidents of the uttermost pathos and emotion. Miss Janet Simpson, a young girl of twenty years, was among those who stayed at the morgue at night, refusing to return to her home, refusing refreshments, refusing all consolation. She was to have been married within three weeks' time. Yesterday her finance, R. Morrison, went to the Herald to apply for work, and while there he was caught in the falling debris, and had not been seen

BRIDE TO BE BURIED.

Miss Jennie White, was to have been married in two months' time to another Herald employe, a man named Pitcher. He escaped, but when he came to search for his fiance and his sister he found that both had been buried beneath the many tons of ruins that lie in the basement of the Herald building.

One of the dead men is from Ontario. His name is B. J. Miller, and was born at Appleton, thirty-seven years ago, thence moving to Carleton Place. He leaves three children, aged respectively 11, 9, and 7. Today, sadly enough, is the birthday of his eldest girl Maisie.

A WEDDING FRUSTRATED.

Another of the victims was to have been married at the end of the present month, Miss Jennie Robertson, a bright girl, who was a popular favorite, and whose fiance, D. B. Walsh, is heartbroken.

The bodies so far recovered are in a terrible condition. It is only too clear that to the horrors of death by suffocation and by being crushed beneath huge weights must be added that of burning.

TERRIBLY BURNED.

Shortly after 2 p.m., this afternoon, a fifth body, that of a man, was released from the wreckage, and taken to the morgue. It was so terribly burned that identification by the features was impossible. Within the chest was a huge chunk of metal It is surmised that the melting pot in the sterotyping room must have upset and fallen on this man, literally burning him to death. The metal had solidified within the body, which was otherwise horribly mangled.

The unidentified body of the woman found shortly before this was mutilated beyond belief. It was devoid of arms or legs and the head was burned to a brown crisp. The features were wholly unrecognizable.

Identification in the case of Quintal, was only made by certain filling and a malaformation of the teeth.

It is feared that as the work of recovering the bodies proceeds, there will be some terrible scenes at the morgue. Already the attendants there are almost beyond enduring any more the sight of the continued heartrending manifestations of grief that are constantly before them.

SAD NEWS FOR SISTERS.

Two homes were sadly bereaved in that section of Point St. Charles, Charles, near the Victoria bridge, and known as Victorian town. Every body had a good word to say of Miss Elsie Irene Merriman, 18 years of age, who lived with her widowed mother, Mrs. Merriman, at 75 Britannia street. Her three sisters were at home last night when Father Dufresne, of St. Anne's church, called to break the sad news to Mrs. Merriman, who is suffering from nervous ashock over the resent death of her mother. "We feel sure she is gone," remarked Miss Elsie Guiness, her aunt.

Indian Prince Arrives.

San Francisco, June 15th—The Gaekwar of Baroda, the wealthiest and most powerful independent Prince in India next to the Nizam of Hydesabad, arrived in San Francisco to-day on a journey around the world. He is accompanied by several members of his family and a large suite, including officers of his palace at Baroda. On their way east the party will visit Colorado and Yellowstone Park, and will sail from New York to Finland July 13th.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct by to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Two Hundred People Drown in Flood

Cologne, Germany, June 14.—It is estimated that over 200 persons lost their lives in the flood that swept the valley in the River Ahr, in the Eifel region.

Eighty-seven bodies had been recovered today. These were found along the river banks tossed high by the flood or left stranded as the waters subsided.

A report received here today says that fifty lives were lost at the village of Shult when a bridge which was crowded with persons watching the turbulent waters was carried away.

Throughout the Ahr valley only one bridge is left standing. The floods were caused by a heavy rain that had continued for several days, causing the River Ahr to break its bounds. There was a cloud burst on Sunday night, and the waters choked the valley, drowning every living creature and causing immense monetary damage.

Two barracks in which Italian and Croatian laborers were housed, were swept away, and their occupants, who were in bed, were drowned, the railway was washed out, and several villages destroyed. Lightning which accompanied the rains did much damage. The flood subsided yesterday.

There is much distress among the peasants of the valley who have survived, as most of them have lost their possessions.

Mob Lynched Negro on Scene of Crime

Como, Miss., June 14.—Sheriff R. S. Smith of this county, arrived here on foot early this morning and reported that a mob had boarded the Illinois Central train at McGee's last evening, and took Elmo Curl, a negro, from Crittenden county, Ark. officers, and carrying him through the woods to Mastodon, the scene of his crime, lynched him.

The sheriff was present on the train when the mob got on, but had not formally received the prisoner, who was captured yesterday in Marion, Ark.

Curl shot W. R. Miller, a plantation manager at Mastodon, three weeks ago.

Forest Fires Burn Homes in W. Ontario

Fort William, June 14.—Scores of settlers' homes are threatened and tens of thousands of dollars' worth of timber has already been destroyed in one of the worst forest fires that has visited Western Ontario in recent years, which has been raging for the past twenty-four hours fifty miles north and west of Fort William.

All last night and today Crown Timber Agent J. Diver has been besieged in outlying districts for assistance, and he has despatched all available fire rangers to the settlement.

VILLAGE IS THREATENED.

A long distance telephone message to the Times-Journal this morning was to the effect that flames fanned by a strong wind were discernible on three sides of the village of Hymers in Gillies County. Every one of the fifty or more settlers' homes in Conmee township are threatened, and the inhabitants who are not fighting the fire are leaving with what belongings they can carry.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will clear the sour stomach, sweeten the breath and create a healthy appetite. They promote the flow of gastric juice, thereby indoeing good digestion. Sold by all dealers.

Slocum Disaster Anniversary.

New York, June 15th.—As in former years the anniversary of the burning of the steamer General Slocum in the East River, June 15 1904 will be observed to-day by the relatives of the more than 1,000 victims of the catastrophe. There will be memorial services in the Lutheran churches and at the cemetery where a majority of the victims are buried.

A Fire in The Examiner Office

Shortly after one o'clock this morning a fire in the reportorial room of the Examiner office, was discovered by the night staff (Mr. Creeper), which caused about $25 damage.

Mr. Creeper, who is a linotype operator, was busily engaged on his mill on the second floor, when he noticed smoke in the room. He at once began an investigation, and upon reaching the lower floor noticed the flame and the front office filled with smoke. He began at once to try and extinguish the flames but was alarmed lest it should get beyond his control and broke the glass in the doors to make an exit. In the meantime Nightwatchman Finnie with several others arrived, and Mr. Cheveral sent in an alarm. The brigade was on the spot in short order and extinguished the fire. The cause of the fire is unknown, presumably from a hot editorial or one of City Editor Craig's sizzingly baseball yarns. Mr Creeper (the night staff), put on his coat and walked away much relieved that he had been the means of saving the office from a serious fire.

PUFFINESS UNDER EYES—SWELLING FEET

These Symptoms are Among the Surest Indications of Real Kidney Disease.

For nearly a year my kidneys failed to do their work, writes William F. Blankett, a well known dairyman, residing in Britannia, "I had swollen feet so badly that at times I could scarcely walk, my skin grew yellowish, and a general puffiness under the eyes gave my face a very unnatural appearance. My strength failed, and as I am a working man, loss of time and the prospect of serious illness caused me great anxiety. I read of several cures from Dr. Hamilton's Pills and decided to get five boxes. Now I feel it my duty to testify that they are the best kidney, liver and stomach medicine on earth. While my kidneys were so badly affected after all I think it was because the liver and bowels were clogged up. Anyway in less than a month the swelling in my feet ceased—my skin lost its yellowish cast—my eyes grew clear and natural, and, considering my age is nearly sixty, I am as fit as most men. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a wonderful medicine that every man can use to advantage."

Don't be misled into using any other. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills in yellow boxes at 25c. per box, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

CHURCH UNION.

Church union is evidently on the way of being realized as far as the Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists are concerned. The central church courts of these bodies have returned a preliminary verdict in its favor. In the Presbyterian Assembly there has been put on record, as we expected, a majority and a minority; and, as in all such cases, the plea of common sense may be brought to bear upon the minority, that by the next meeting of the Assembly, the minority may have come to see that the necessities of the present have in them more of an impetus towards progress than the ruts of tradition of the past that have little or no bearing on the religious life of the people. The ambitions of mere clap-trap, as brought to light on the part of the Rev. John Mackay, can neither be kept too rigidly in check nor given too loose a rein, if harmony is to result from the negotiations now in practical train. He says he has suffered a good deal already, as every man is bound to do when the fallacy of his opinion are openly exposed. Now, he would make his opposition to church union a matter of conscience; and we all know how a plea of that kind can be handled to the undoing of all philanthropy in a man. The martyrs were not all good men nor very logical either. On the other hand, the supporters of union among the three contracting denominations, seem to include the most advanced thinkers in their assemblies and, as we have said, have so far no charge of indiscretion or over-haste lying at their door. Every step towards a happy consummation has been taken leisurely and in order, even if there has been not a little warmth of debate exhibited at the late meeting in Halifax.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but a inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

CONNAUGHT WILL COME TO CANADA.

Will Succeed Earl Grey in Spring of New Year as Governor-General.

London, June 12.—The Canadian Associated Press has every reason to believe that it is intended that the Duke of Connaught shall be governor-general of Canada, in accordance with King Edward's wish. It is unlikely, however, that the official announcement will be made at present, for the Duke of Connaught is to open the South Africa parliament at the end of the year, and it is improbable that he will go to Canada inmid-winter. It is, therefore proposed that Early Grey remain in office till the spring of 1911.

The Chronicle, in an editorial says there are obvious difficulties in the way, but there will be general satisfaction if the King's ministers deem them not insuperable.

READY MADE MINING.

The marvellous evolution of Gold dredging and methods of recovering values from auriferous ground, is today attracting world-wide attention. The Saskatchewan gravels in the early days of North West Canada, supplied many hundreds of settlers with gold sufficient to maintain themselves if not in influence, at least in comfort. To-day steam and electric dredges produce the major portion of the World's gold output. Formerly, this alluvial gold was separated from the sands and gravels containing it, by washing them in pans, cradles, rockers and sluices. In 1852, the hydraulic method was first employed, in California. By this means a "giant" stream of water, turned against the side of a mountain, washed everything before it. The gold settles at the bottom of the tunnel or sluice, through which the gravel, sand and water flow. In 1889 dredges or excavators were first used, in Australia. OSITION AS MUCH AS IS THE MINING OF COAL OR IRON ORE? or the production of corn or copper."

Measured by the scale of progress, it is a long step from primitive methods to the modern gold dredge now operating on the Saskatchewan river. Counting the years that have actually elapsed since designers and manufacturers began to seriously consider the application of power-driven mechanism to auriferous fields, it is found that the inventions and improvements brought forward in a single decade, along this line, have resulted in lifting that branch of gold mining on the Western Continent, from the level of hand labor with always uncertain and at best meagre results, to the plane of thoroughly organized and established industry, the returns from which may be as accurately forecasted, as can the profits of a manufacturing company which owns all the raw material it uses in the manufacture of its products, with an assured demand at fixed prices for all it can produce. Mr. Giffen, a well-known authority, writing upon the subject says: "Two years ago it was generally considered that the Oroville district (California) was practically the only field for larger dredging operations. Today, the proved successful dredging field extends from Alaska to Mexico. Dredging for gold has become a mechanical and commercial proposition. As an investment, it is becoming one of the safest in the business world." These remarks are suggested by the publication of an announcement in this issue, of the operations of the Saskatchewan Mining and Development Company, an organization composed mostly of prominent Toronto gentlemen, who have elected former Lieut-Gov. C. H. MacKintosh of the North West, President and Captain T. H. Brooks M. E. General Manager. The Company is highly spoken of in financial circles.

Canada's Interests Will Be Looked After, But the United States Will Not Make a Bargain Wholly Advantageous to Canada.

Ottawa, June 10.—Details of the new trade agreements concluded between Canada, Belgium, Italy and the Netherlands, which have been the subject of lengthy negotiations, were announced today in an extra of the Canada Gazette, giving effect to the new arrangement.

Briefly stated, Canada extends to Belgium and the Netherlands the provisions of its intermediate tariff as respects articles mentioned in the French treaty. As regards a limited number specified in schedule C to that treaty, the concessions granted are not as great by reason of the fact that the rates given to France are below those of the intermediate tariff by special parliamentary enactment. The customs act does not authorize the governor in council by itself to make greater trade concessions than are embodied in the intermediate tariff. As regards Italy the arrangements take the form of a specific agreement by the terms of which a certain list of Canadian exports are accorded the Italian conventional rate in exchange for our intermediate tariff on an equal number of articles.

The correspondence opens with a letter dated June 6, from Mr. Fielding to Mr. H. Kutels, consul-general for Belgium, in which he refers to several interviews which have taken place and reciprictates the assurance of the disposition of Belgium to maintain friendly arrangements. Mr. Fielding points out that Canada, save by formal treaty, cannot grant to Belgium the same rate as is accorded to France on all articles in the French convention. He expresses his willingness to extend the intermediate tariff alone to Belgium on conditions similar to those given France. Mr. Ketels on June 6, replied, accepting as satisfactory the offer, and adds: "I am glad to learn that under the contemplat arrangements articles entitled to the benefits of the Franco-Canadian convention coming into Canada from countries into which the convention applies will be entitled to the benefit of shipment through Belgian ports."

In the order in council which prefaces the list of articles of the intermediate tariff, given to Belgium, it is pointed out that the Belgian Government took no exception to the granting of the British Preference, thus impliedly recognizing that the granting was a matter affecting the internal affairs of the empire. Canada has continued to enjoy at the hands of Belgium most favored, nation treatment. The minister observes that Belgian products have been and are subjected to the rates of customs duties set forth in the general tariff, and that the Belgian tariff is one of the lowest in Europe.

Ottawa, June 10.—An order-in-council promulgated today places on the free list a number of articles, while on others the duty is reduced. The following articles used as materials in Canadian manufacturers are declared duty free, "when imported by manufacturers for use only in their own factories:" Fuseheads of metal, foil and cardboard cotton thread for use in making incandescent gas mantels; crude glycerine for refining; Soya beans and bean cake used as cattle food and fertilizer; iron tubing, brass-covered for use in making towel bars, bathtub rails; ground coke for electric batteries.

Last night a staff of carpenters was busily engaged in placing some 35 to 40 feet of show cases in the north side of E. N. McWilliam's fur store at 374 George street. These new wall cases are handsome structures being made of quartered oak and plate glass. This addition gives Mr. McWilliams one of the most complete fur and hat stores in the Province.

Try the Taste Test On Mooney's Sugar Wafers

Forget for a moment that Mooney's Sugar Wafers are made in the finest sunlit sanitary factory in the country. Forget, also, for a moment that a little finer flour—a little richer butter—a little better fruit—a little more care in baking are all important details of the Mooney Method of biscuit making.

NOW base your opinion of Mooney's Sugar Wafers solely on their taste. We are confident as to the the outcome of this test.

The Dessert Shipped In Private Cars

That's the way the delicious flavor of Mooney's Sugar Wafers is preserved from the ovens to your table. It's expensive for us—but better for the Sugar Wafers.

The cars are especially constructed, so when traveling from Province to Province, the temperature is always uniform. We are the only biscuit company in Canada shipping its goods in its own cars.

The Sugar Wafers keep flaky and fresh—crisp and whole. Their enticing flavor is retained to the last crumb.

Try a package today. 10 and 25 cents in dainty, dust and damp-proof tins.

Coroner J.W. Gray Dies At Nicholls Hospital

Well Known Citizen Passes Away As Result of Accident at His Home on Sherbrooke Street

Yesterday evening between 6 and 7 o'clock County Coroner Dr. John W. Gray passed away at the Nicholl's hospital. The doctor's death had been anticipated ever since his unfortunate accident on Sunday night, when he in some unaccountable manner fell from an upstairs window at his residence, 295 Sherbrooke street. It will be remembered that shortly after midnight Dr. Gray fell from the window striking his head on the pavement below, fracturing his skull and sustaining other serious complications.

The late Dr. Gray was well-known throughout the whole county and had a large circle of warm-hearted friends. His joval disposition and open-spoken manner of treating every class of the community won him many admirers.

Dr. Gray was born in the township of Manvers sixty-three years ago. He was educated at Victoria College, Cobourg, and afterwards graduated in medicine in Toronto. He practised at Blackstock for some time afterwards removing to Baillieboro where he resided for some seventeen years. Previous to his death Dr. Gray practised in this city for fourteen years.

The deceased married Miss Elizabeth Kennedy of Millbrook, who survives him. Besides his widow the doctor leaves to mourn his loss, his son, Kennedy, in Toronto, three brothers, William of Michigan, Samuel of British Columbia, and James of Manvers township, as well as three sisters, Mrs. (Rev.) Reynolds of Cornwall, Ont., Mrs. Robt. Taylor of Redvers, Sask., and Mrs. Diamond of Grand View, Man. Dr. Gray was a member of Charlotte street Methodist church. The funeral which has not yet been fully arranged for will probably be held from the family residence to the Cavan cemetery.

Awful Havoc Wrought by Cloudburst in Berlin

Berlin, June 15.—Investigation of the havoc wrought in Berlin by the cloudburst which last night flooded the city today showed that the damage is more than $1,000,000. Several buildings were wrecked by flood and fires started by lightning. The twenty persons struck by bolts were nearly all today declared out of danger.

All night long fire engines pumped water from the subway and the cellars of many buildings, but this morning only a beginning had been made. The sewers were shocked by the flood and in some streets the water is higher than three feet today. It reached that depth on the principal thoroughfares in the cloud burst, and in the low-lying regions lakes formed which may take days to drain away through the crippled sewer system.

The police have had to take charge of the tables and chairs swept from open-air restaurants. They are arrayed in police stations for identification.

HORRORS ARE GROWING.

The horrors of the flood in the country are growing with each fresh report. The government is making frantic efforts to send out relief.

The destruction of many miles of railway makes the relief work extremely difficult and the fact that the floods have swept away telephone and telegraph wires in a wide area, makes it difficult to secure details.

Advices received today indicate that the dead are more than 300 at least, and it is possible that the roll will exceed 400. At points bodies have been recovered which have been swept miles by the flooded streams.

The crop damage is immense and not only is famine imminent in the devasted region, but the food supply for the next few months is a serious problem.

Swedish King's Birthday.

Stockholm, June 16.—The fifty-second birthday anniversary of King Gustaf V. will be observed to-day by a lavish display of the national colors in the capital and throughout the kingdom. Messages of congratulation are being received by his Majesty from all parts of the world. The King was born June 16, 1858, and succeeded to the throne upon the death of his father, Oscar II., in December, 1907.

One Hundred Years of Peace.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 16.—Delegates representing the commercial organizations and historical societies of the cities and towns in this vicinity, on both sides of the international boundary, met here today to discuss the preliminary arrangements for the big celebration which it is proposed to hold in commemoration of the one hundred years of peace enjoyed since 1512. The original intention was to have the celebration take place next year, but the consensus of opinion now is that the time is too short to make adequate preparations and that it would be better to defer the celebration until 1914, or possibly 1915.

The examinations in music for Toronto University will commence in the Conservatory of Music Hall here at 1.30 o'clock on Tuesday, June 28. Mr. J. W. F. Harrison of Toronto, will be the presiding examiner.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and boils heal up; the nerves become strong as steel, so that sleeplessness, nervousness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returned to the body, and the moral, physical and mental powers are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. If you feel yourself a man and know marriage cannot be a failure. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars.

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS

Peter H. Summers relates his experience:
"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I kept to indiscretion and exposure in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I lived or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me very much, added to the pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair fell, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me to forget paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many Specialists' treatments, wrote to them, but got three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had no faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and customers to do so.

FRIGHTFUL TRAGEDY ON OUTSKIRTS OF NIAGARA FALLS

TWELVE LIVES BLOTTED OUT AND THREE OTHERS DYING.

Employees of the Power Company Had Half Holiday and Carousal Followed the Carnival—Shacks in Ruins and Charred Bodies in Ashes—Worst Fire Tragedy in History of Niagara District.

Niagara, Falls, Ont., June 15.—Twelve foreigners, mostly Hungarians, were burned to death in a shack at Falls View, Ont., this morning.

Eight others were badly burned and are in a Niagara Falls hospital The origin of the fire is yet unknown, but it is presumed was caused by carelessness following an all-night carousal at Niagara Falls, Ont., following a carnival and celebration.

EMPLOYED BY POWER CO.

The men were employes of the Ontario Power Company and were sleeping like rats in a poorly constructed tenement. This loss of life is the greatest in the history of the Falls district from fire.

The Hungarians whose lives were snuffed out by fire were members of the day gang of the Power Company. When the night shift relieved the day gang, many of them journeyed to Niagara Falls, Ont., where a carnival was being held. They indulged in the festivities of the occasion, and it is believed imbibed too freely.

REPORTED INTOXICATED.

The report is that when they reached their destination at Falls View shortly after midnight they were in a bad state of intoxication. Some matches were ignited and dropped on the floor setting fire to the frame partitions in the building.

FLAMES BURST FROM ROOF.

In a few minutes the flames burst through the roof of the poorly constructed building and, trapped the half stupefied foreigners in their small rooms. They were suffocated by the dense smoke and flames and were frightfully charred in the burning building. The eight who managed to escape before the fire consumed the building were fearfully burned and more deaths are likely to result from the fire.

BEHIND HORSESHOE FALLS.

Falls View is a small and inaccessible spot far up on the cliffs of the frontier just behind the Horseshoe Falls. Word of the catastrophe reached the authorities of Niagara Falls, but before help arrived the twelve men had been consumed in the flames.

The attention of rescuers was turned to caring for those suffering from burns.

THE BURRITT WEDDING.

Miss Frances Burritt is Now the Charming Bride of Mr. A. H. Mulhern.

Yesterday afternoon the whole absorbing topic of conversation among those not honored by being present at the great event was the Mulhern-Burritt wedding. The event creating so general an interest was the wedding held at 2 p.m., in St. John's church, of Miss Frances D., eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Burritt, 232 Brock street, to Mr. Alexander Hamilton Mulhern, accountant of the Bank of Ottawa, at Renfrew, Ont.

The rector of St. John's church, Rev. Canon Davidson tied the nuptial knot in the presence of some eighty or ninety invited guests, and many others of the congregation. Mr. R. J. Devey presided at the organ and played Mendelssohn's wedding march, as the bridal party entered the sacred edifice. Miss Muriel Burritt, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, while the three bridesmaids were Miss Irene Perks, Miss Geraldine King and Miss Aileen Fair. Mr. Hague Bawers supported the groom.

The bride looked most charming in a beautiful creation of white liberty satin trimmed with chantilly lace and hand embroidered with pearls. She wore the conventional veil and orange blossoms and carried a shower boquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Muriel Burritt, the maid of honor wore a becoming gown of white satin with silver and pearl trimmings, surmounted by a large white hat. Miss Fair's gown was of white satin with silver and pearl trimmings, while Miss King and Miss Perks the other bridesmaids were attired in gowns of pale blue satin with silver trimmings. To attempt to describe the costumes of the bride's mother, or that of the other ladies present would require the services of a milliner. It is possibly sufficient to say that the ladies assisting in this most interesting ceremony were attired in latest fashion and the toute ensemble presented a most charming picture.

The ushers were Mr. Walter H. Burritt, brother of the bride, Mr. I. D. Ross and Mr. G. C. Wainright, the local manager of the Bank of Ottawa. The bride was given away by her father.

On conclusion of the marriage ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 232 Brock street. Mr. and Mrs. Mulhern left to catch the 4.48 C.P.R. train for Toronto, whence they will enjoy a trip down the St. Lawrence to Quebec, after which they will take up their residence in Renfrew.

MISS RANGER'S WEDDING.

Pretty Nuptials at the Church of the Sacred Heart Yesterday.

A pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart, when Miss Marie Lida Ranger, became the bride of Mr. F. J. Rishea. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a dress of cream silk voile, with satin trimmings, with Tuscan chiffon hat with plumes to match. She was assisted by her niece, Miss Florence Peeley. Mr. Rishea, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

After the ceremony the happy couple drove to the bride's home, where a dainty breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Rishea left on the 11.45 train for Toronto and Niagara Falls. On their return they will reside at No. 517 Romaine street.

The players selected and the members of the T.A.S. team are requested to meet at the band hall in uniform at 2.15 for the parade, which will be headed by a detachment of the 57th Regimental Band.

Mrs. W. L. Taylor.

The funeral of the late Mrs. W. L. Taylor, who died in Frobisher on Saturday last, will take place on Friday morning at ten o'clock from the residence of deceased's father, D. Forsyth, lot 5, 1st con., Dummer, to Caboon's cemetery, Dover.

THE F. I. PICNIC.

Everything Points to This Popular Event Being a Success.

Now that the Women's Institute of Lakefield, is joining in with the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute towards making the annual picnic tomorrow a success, there is no doubt but this summer will see a banner outing. The picnic will be held at Mr. John H. Gilbutt's farm on the Fifth Concession of Smith township. A most interesting time is expected.

The order of the events for the afternoon will be a drainage demonstration by Mr. H. C. Duff of Norwood, the district representative of the Department of Agriculture, and a picnic, which will be held later on in the afternoon. The annual meeting is called for 2 o'clock sharp. As soon as the business part of the meeting has been disposed of, the Drainage Demonstration will be proceeded with. It is expected that Mr. Simpson Rennie, the well-known authority on agricultural matters, will be present. The ladies are providing baskets.

POINTED GUN AT CHILDREN.

Woman Who Did That Was Fined.—Her Daughter Accused of Sprinkling Paris Green.

Orangeville, June 15.—At Orton, a small village in East Garafraxa, Winnifrid Black, aged about 21, was charged before Magistrates Tate and Hawes with putting a solution of Paris green on the lilac bushes on her father's farm, which projected over the fence on the road allowance. It is alleged she resented the action of the children attending a neighboring school, who were in the habit of plucking the flowers.

J. S. Henderson, the teacher in the Orton Union School section, swore that on the 31st of May, about 12.45 p.m. he saw the accused spraying the bushes with green water. There had been trouble that day at noon over the children helping themselves to lilacs, and they had reported that Mrs. Black had chased them with a gun.

The magistrate committed Miss Black for trial.

As the children are in the habit of eating the flowers, which contain a considerable percentage of honey, serious results might have ensued.

Mrs. Black was charged with pointing a gun, and as there was some doubt as to the nature of the weapon, a fine was imposed.

THE FUTURE U.S. KING?

Great Crowds Go to New York to Welcome Roosevelt.

New York, June 16th.—For several days the trains have been bringing delegations of those who were eager to welcome Theodore Roosevelt back to his native shores, but to-day they came in droves. Tomorrow the visitors are expected to arrive in even larger number. The town is full of governors and ex-governors and other public men from the North and West, while the Rough Riders, Spanish war veterans and representatives of young men's Republican clubs from all parts of the country are much in evidence. The talk is all of Roosevelt. Many women have taken advantage of the opportunity to accompany their husbands or fathers, as the case may be, to the city. They are interested in Mr. Roosevelt, but they are also glad of the chance to visit the shops.

The men in charge of the reception to Mr. Roosevelt are surprised at the number of persons who have flocked here to meet him. Each State was asked to send a certain number of delegates to serve on the reception committee. Illinois was put down for less than 100, but the indications are that there will be no fewer than 1,000 visitors from that State. Ohio, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma—all are sending good-sized delegations, and even the far-away States of the Rocky Mountain region and the Pacific coast will be represented.

FEED CHILDREN.

On Properly Selected Food. It Pays Big Dividends.

If parents will give just a little intelligent thought to the feeding of their children the difference in the health of the little folks will pay, many times over, for the small trouble.

A mother writes saying: "Our children are all so much better and stronger than they ever were before we made a change in the character of the food. We have quit using potatoes three times a day with coffee and so much meat.

"Now we give the little folks some fruit, either fresh, stewed, or canned, some Grape-Nuts with cream, occasionally some soft boiled eggs, and some Postum for breakfast and supper. Then for dinner they have some meat and vegetables.

"It would be hard to realize the change in the children, they have grown so sturdy and strong, and we attribute this change to the food elements that, I understand, exist in Grape-Nuts and Postum.

"A short time ago my baby was teething and had a great deal of stomach and bowel trouble. Nothing seemed to agree with him until I tried Grape-Nuts softened and mixed with rich milk and he improved rapidly and got sturdy and well."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

WELCOMES DEATH ON GALLOWS.

Ernest Worth Will Suffer Extreme Penalty.

San Quentin, Cal., June 16.—The desire of Ernest Worth, the Los Angeles wife murderer, to die on the gallows will be gratified tomorrow, unless there is an eleventh-hour respite. All arrangements for the execution have been completed at the penitentiary here.

The prisoner has been anxious to die since he murdered his wife at Los Angeles June 22 of last year. wife had begun a suit for divorce. They met in a room at an hotel to discuss a money settlement. A quarrel arose, and Worth, who was a bartender, struck her on the jaw with his fist and when she fell crushed her face and skull with his heels. After his arrest and arraignment he asked that he be permitted to plead on the gallows. His desire to be sentenced to death was gratified by Judge Wilbur, the trial judge. While awaiting trial Worth made five attempts to commit suicide. After arriving at the penitentiary here, wearying of waiting for the time set for his execution, the murderer wove a rope from strips of his pillow case and attempted to hang himself from a cleverly contrived scaffold in his cell. The toppling of a chair upon his sleeping cellmate was all that prevented his plan from being a success.

Mrs. George Shields.

The death occurred on Tuesday evening of Mrs. George Shields, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Wm. A. Graham, 186 Hunter street east. The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will be private. Interment in Lakefield cemetery.

Sixteen Bodies were Taken Out of the Ruins at Montreal

Montreal, June 15.—At noon today the total number of bodies of the victims of the disaster in the Herald building recovered was sixteen. There are still sixteen unaccounted for, and an army of searchers are still at work on the ruins.

Thousands of persons crowded around the morgue this morning awaiting the arrival of new bodies. Four of the bodies in the morgue are still undentified, and it is doubtful if it will ever be known who they were, so terribly burned are they.

A large crowd watched the workers at the ruined building this morning. At one time a rumor spread that a man still alive had been seen beneath the debris, and the police had difficulty in restraining the crowd from rushing in.

DENY TANK GAVE WAY.

The inquest was opened this morning. Expert witnesses denied that the water tank, which was supposed to be responsible for the disaster, had given away. A theory has been advanced that an explosion of gas preceded the collapse of the tank.

The most interesting evidence was given by Mr. Archibald, the architect in charge of the construction of the tank by the Herald Company in 1905. He had approved the specifications and the contract had been let to the McGuire Company of Toronto, which, he understood, had sublet the contract for the actual construction work to the Ontario Wind Pump Company. He considered that the supports to the tank were strong enough to bear it and had been well constructed. It was bearing on the center wall, which was the strongest wall in the building. He thought that there must have been some other cause than the weight of the tank to account for the disaster.

Hung in Peril Over The Niagara River

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 15.—The "Great Houdin," a tight rope performer, said to be Williams, a Toronto painter, was suspended on a wire 200 feet above the river just below Niagara's cataract, with apparently no hope for deliverance, for over an hour yesterday afternoon. He was marooned in the middle of the wire in which he attempted to slide across the river while hanging by his teeth, momentarily in danger of falling into the swiftly flowing river below, while thousands of persons watched with bated breath.

All went well with the performer till he neared the middle of the river, when the weight of his body sagged the wire, which was strung at an angle of 70 degrees, until the trapeze, to which he clung by his teeth, came to a dead stop where it was hardest to reach. For half an hour Houdin clung to the wire in mortal terror of losing his hold and falling into the river, at which he constantly gazed before a means of rescue was devised.

Ald. John Jeany and Professor Max Eaton, of the Home Telephone Co., Niagara Falls, N.Y., succeeded in getting a rope to the fast despairing man by shooting it over the wire from the upper bridge. Houdin made the rope fast to the wire and began the descent to the Maid of the Mist, the small craft which carries tourists to the foot of the falls, which had steamed out to a point underneath him. Just as the man slid down the rope the little craft was caught by the current, and was swung from its course, pulling the rope, with its human cargo half way to the water, to one side, nearly thrown Houdin into the river. His hands were bleeding when he finally slid to the deck of the Maid. He declared after he reached shore that he was done with such performances.

Premier Botha Hopes Old Parties will be Dissolved At Once

Pretoria, June 15.—Premier Botha declaring the government's policy, said there is no other way possible than to form the government from other governments already existing. Other steps, he said, would have been most fatal to South Africa. Investigations proved clearly the majority did not wish for a coalition ministry. The time has come for starting with a clean sheet, he declared, and he hoped the old party organizations, especially his own, would be dissolved and amalgamated into a great party with broad, wide principles, to be named the South African National party.

Premier Botha read a manifesto on various questions confronting the government. First amongst these was the task of welding the different races into one great people by applying sympathetic treatment to the natives and colored persons. I should also aim at the encouragement of the white population and the prevention of Asiatic immigration.

A broad educational policy needs workers, he said, and there is a duty to the empire with regard to defence

"FEELS LIKE A NEW WOMAN."

Years of Ill Health Cured.

..."Like many another woman," writes Mrs. J. H. Hilliard of Ashland, N.Y., "continued weakness caused by poor stomach and constipation led me to believe I would always be sick. It was Mrs. Ryan, my neighbor, who advised me to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and it was the means of teaching me 'It is never too late to mend.' I am rather a small woman, always pale, except when my skin becomes a muddy yellow. I never had much of an appetite because my digestion was never very good and still worse my system was seldom regular. Mrs. Ryan had become healthy and well with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and kept telling me that they would fix my system so it would work well too. Certainly Dr. Hamilton's Pills must have made right all that was wrong, because I weigh ten pounds more than ever before and feel fine. If you could see my rosy color and watch how quickly I do my housework. I am sure you would think just as much of Dr. Hamilton's Pills as I do. They are a real fine medicine for women and like as not would do a man just as much good too."

There is no remedy for general use in the home to make you well when sick, to keep you from getting sick—no medicine with half the merit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills—see you get es, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

If You Lived in Montreal

you could come and see the wonderful Cartwright Automatic Press, which is destined to revolutionize the job-printing world, and make money for the shareholders of the Company, as other great inventions, like the Linotype and Telephone, have done.

But, if you cannot call and see the Press itself, you can do as many other investors are doing—you can read the interesting Prospectus and our little booklet, entitled "Expert Opinions", which gives some adequate idea of this great invention.

You will note when you read the literature we send you, how Publishers, Printers, and all classes of men connected with the printing business—men who thoroughly understand the real merit and value of such an invention—are the most enthusiastic endorsers of the Press, and what is still more important, they are buyers of both the presses and the shares.

Write us at once for this free literature, and we will forward it by return mail.

Those who buy earliest get shares at the most favorable price.

EARACHE, TOOTHACHE! ☞

To Cure the Pain in Ten Seconds and Get Instant Relief, Nothing Equals NERVILINE.

Fifty years ago Nerviline was used from coast to coast and in thousands of homes this trusty liniment served the entire family, cured all their minor ills and kept the doctor's bill small. Today Nerviline still holds first rank in Canada among pain-relieving remedies — scarcely a home you can find that doesn't use it.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 4308

From Port Hope, Ont., Mr. W. T. Greenway, of the Guide newspaper staff, writes: "For twenty years we have used Nerviline in our home, and not for the world would we be without it. As a remedy for all pain, earache, toothache, cramps, headache and disordered stomach, I know of no preparation so useful and quick to relieve as Nerviline."

Let every mother give Nerviline a trial; it's good for children, good for old folks—you can rub it on as a liniment or take it internally.

Wherever ther is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse anything but Nerviline, 25c. per bottle, five for $1.00, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE PAY OF PREACHERS.

While the archbishop of Ottawa was declaring to a convention of clerical and lay Anglican delegates that Canadians were not paying their clergy enough the same complaint was heard at a meeting of Methodists at Brockville. Salaries of from $700 to $800 were denounced as inadequate, and one of the speakers said: "If Christ were on earth today he would probably be tempted to continue his vocation as a carpenter."

There is, we believe, no tariff on clergymen, and price quotations do not indicate the need of a tariff. Possibly the market may be stronger than that of other countries, for it is unquestionably a fact that in parts of Canada Sunday observance and church-going are better kept up than they are in the United States, for instance. But in both countries the clergy may well have a grievance over the low value put upon their services, and it is not disposed of by talk of supply and demand quips at the expense of clerical gentlemen who feel that they have a call to those pulpits which offer them the greatest financial inducements.

Despite the low salaries and the low attendance at theological schools it is obvious that churches are still considered necessary. For one reason and another they cannot be dispensed with, and it is manifested that if they are to exist at all they ought to have decent support. When it is expected of the clergymen that he shall be well educated, an organizer, a preacher, an adviser, a person of fibespiritual gifts, the small wag of fine spiritual gifts, the small wages sometimes grudgingly paid him are ridiculous, and have the effect of a very bad burlesque.

The reference to Christ and the carpenters is not a slur at the carpenters, but it does contain a hint as to the provision for the preachers. They are not mediicants, and the need of their work is proof enough of its usefulness. What Christ Himself received is not to the point. These men are parts of an institution by a modern industrial society, have families to bring up, and must listen to the calls of charity upon their purses as well as upon their time. As a fair and honest business proposition many of them deserve much more than they are paid.

The trouble appears to be that while conscience demands the church it satisfies itself with a bargain counter arrangement in which it does the marking down itself. It is beating the church and the preacher season after season, and finding excuses for self-indulgence. In most churches there are a very few pillars and many weak reeds. Sufficient definite regular support is lacking. A contribution of small coins is supposed to be enough for preacher, choir and general maintenance, and the pillars to forced to make up the deficit.

We have purposely refrained from a disquisition on the sacred character of the preacher's work and the noble mission that he is called upon to perform. This is a talk on business, and we wish to intimate only that the preacher is entitled to a square deal. If every individual church is a good thing were to back who expresses the opinion that the up his words with his pocketbook we should come much nearer to that kind of deal. But the words alone do not help, they are, so very cheap.

BETTER NEWS SERVICE.

We notice that the demand for a better news service is not confined to Canada. At a recent meeting of one of the cable companies in London the chairman told the shareholders that arrangements were being made for an extension of the news service that the company gave to India and Australia. Everywhere there seems to be a feeling that the interests of the Empire demand not only an increase in the amount of news supplied daily, but also an improvement in the methods of its collection and assortment, so that the public may have more and better information as to what is going on daily in all parts of the British Empire. In none of the overseas dominions is the need of an advance in the press service more apparent than Canada, and we trust that the efforts now being made to bring about an improvement in both the quantity and quality of the news supplied to the newspapers of the Dominion may be successful. The country is now populous enough to be able to support a press service that is not colored to secure the patronage of a foreign country, and which is not infrequently anti-British and inaccurate.

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR.

The recent aerial triumphs achieved by Paulhan and Curtiss have proved that the hope of the future lies with the heavier-than-air machine. Though the lighter-than-air machine is still capable of improvement, there seems little probability of its undergoing any extraordinary development such as may yet be looked or in the case of the aeroplane.

Aviation is yet in its infancy, but it is likely to advance by rapid flights, or whatever expression will do duty for leaps and bounds in aeronautical parlance. All the newspapers of to-day are busy conjecturing as to its possibilities, and their gropings into the future are many and strange. One suggests that no one will be surprised if the author of the next freak novel shall divide the society of the twenty-first, or even the twentieth century, into three classes—the aviators with dominion over the air, the motorists having exclusive enjoyment of the surface roads, and the rest of humanity confined by the statute of self-preservation to the use of subways. We do not know whether our local Legislature took this last contingency into their consideration of the Montreal underground or not. Perhaps they are more likely to be affected by the query, "Who owns the air?" which

But the chief problem of aviation is the extent of its possibilities as a potent factor. In the battles of the future. When, as the New York Sun states the case, "it is considered that modern armies have always included stationary balloons in their equipment to consider the lines of the enemy on the day of battle and to signal his movements, can it be doubted that the achievements of the dirigible and the aeroplane are being attentively observed by military specialists and that with every extension of their radius of movement and every ascent to higher altitudes it becomes more certain that no war establishment will be without them when the field must be taken for offence or defence."

Man has not yet equalled the bird, and it is not yet known how accurately he will be able to guide the movements of air craft. Otherwise a single airship could make short work of a fleet of Dreadnoughts. Curtiss, as he passed over the water in his wonderful voyage, felt that he had the shipping at his mercy. And if million dollar Leviathans can be destroyed by a few cents worth of explosives in this manner, then we may expect a revolution in warfare. Tennyson's dream of a day, when the heavens will fill with commerce and the airy navies will grapple in the central blue, seems to be within measurable distance of realization.

The Trades and Labor Council will meet tonight in the Catholic Foresters' hall over Lynch's drug store, on Hunter street. A full attendance is requested.

MONSTER BATTLESHIPS.

The naval architect quoted by us a few weeks ago as saying that the limit in size and armaments of battleships had not been reached has already proved to be correct in his assertion. The latest warship to be laid down for British navy is to be seven hundred feet long and have a displacement of 26,000 tons. Her turbine engines will be capable of developing 70,000 horse power, giving her a speed of 25½ to be miles an hour. The new ship's guns will be huge enough and numerous enough to enable her to meet and overcome a super-Dreadnought. We hear a good deal about the anxiety that British people feel about the naval fleets of foreign Powers. It would be interesting to learn what the people of other countries think of the course that the British Government pursues in insisting on leading the world in the construction of more formidable and larger vessels than any rival nation seems able to do. There is, however, a fly in the ointment of optimist content at hearing of these monster additions to the British navy. That is the fact that the huge leviathans may be destroyed and sent to the bottom by a torpedo well aimed or by the appliances available to the commander of an insignificant submarine navigated to strike at the defenceless part of the giant battleship.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but a inflammed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

RETIRING THE COW.

That nobly necessary animal, the cow, is no longer to be allowed to have her own sweet whey about her milk production. A record book which is now being furnished by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa makes it incumbent upon the cow either to furnish good milk and plenty of it, or quit. It is, in a word, a cow meter, and quite as useful to the farmer as the gas meter, the water meter, and the speed meter to the city man.

One of these books will keep the record of twenty cows for one year. It is designed to make unpopular the animal who insists upon eating her head off without giving a quid pro quo, or a cud pro quo, or words to that effect. It enables the farmer to keep track of the amount and quality of her milk, and what is quite as important, of the amount and quality of her feed, and the comparative cost of both. Without desiring in the least to hurt the bovine feelings of any well meaning animal, it may safely be said that certain voracious cows are going to be put to blush by these meter-books.

A GREAT SERVANT OF THE EMPIRE.

The British Empire has been favored in obtaining the service of such men as Sir William Butler, who died this week. He was a brave man and adistinguished soldier. The most outstanding features of his character were his tenderness of heart and his chivalrous sense of justice. Canada has reason to be grateful to him, because in the days of weakness forty years and more ago, he upheld her cause both with sword and pen.

His "Great Lone Land," describing the Canadian West as it was forty years ago, is today full of fresh human interest. It is a sign of good taste and sound judgment that the copy in one of our great public libraries has been literally read to pieces, while in another the copy has disappeared, probably from the same cause. The motive of the book was a mission connected with the Red River Rebellion. While Sir Garnet Wosley's force was moving from Lake Superior to Fort Garry, Butler was to reach the same point through the Western States, discover whether there was any danger of a Fenian attack from that quarter, visit Fort Garry, and meet the expeditionary force with all the information he could obtain.

It was a task requiring coolness and courage, and these qualities he possessed in abundance. But the greatness of the man is shown in the fact that in reading the book you think little of his dangers and difficulties. He relegates his own personality to the background with a fine soldierly modesty. He is a lover of wild life. He beholds with sorrow ful sympathy the inevitable retreat of the Indian before the forces of civilization. After shooting a buffalo he is seized with disgust at the sport, and admiration for the brave

WHAT OTHER DISTRICTS ARE DOING.—Scores of modern dredges are recovering Millions of Dollars every year from the old placer beds and streams at Oroville, and Marysville, California. A ten thousand yard dredger is being built for the Yukon Country. Stewart and Lewis Rivers are increasing Dredging facilities. The Guggenheims are recovering Millions in Yukon, from auriferous gravels. Fairbanks, Alaska, is sending out Millions each year from Dredging operations. The average length of season for dredging the Saskatchewan gold bearing beds is about 180 days in the year. The estimated yield, when all machinery is completed and working should exceed $600,000.00 per year, clear of all expenses.

THE OLD DOG.

Everybody remembers the old dog. He had a place in our childhood hopes only a little lower than that occupied by ourselves. Everybody loved him ... his devotion, his willingness and affection. He met us at the gate when we were coming home from school. He whimpered, fawned and leaped about us. He was glad we were home, we youngsters who bossed, teased and loved him, and he left clamp kisses on our faces as we entered the gate.

The old dog understood his own worth full well. He believed the farm could not be well run without him. He asserted his importance wherever occasion presented itself. When he trotted through the farmyard the pigs nosed away the straw and sat up sleepily to watch him. The chickens huddled closer together. The cattle eyed him with respect. In the stable the old plow-horses turned from their feed to touch noses with him. Always the old dog was good friends with the horses.

The old dog had his daily routine for work. He was busy all day long, and he did his work gladly. In the dewy morning he attended the cattle to the wide pasture lands, then he trotted slowly back to his breakfast of bread and milk and meat scraps. Next he followed the old team out to the field and up and down the long sweet-smelling furrows. Towards midday he took a nap beneath the shade tree.

An noon he passed through the barnyard with an important, critical air. In the afternoon he sought acts the pasture lands and explored fields fenched with ash rails and hedged with golden yellow rod. Late in the afternoon he trotted slowly across the long dusty road and watched for the children coming from school.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

fore the weight of the motors, would be enormous. In order to carry such a tremendous weight it would probably be necessary to use three, if not four rails. The great problem, however, would be how to deal with the resistance of the air. "There are said Mr. Warner, "three methods by which this could be met. One of these is the building of the train cigar-shape and with the sides oiled or varnished so as to make them as smooth as possible. This method would not go very far. Another way is to reduce the friction on the track by fitting wings, or lifting planes, all round the train, the object being to utilize the resistance of the atmosphere to lift the weight from the track and thereby reduce the track resistance. The third method is not to run the train through air at all. This could only be done by running the train in a tube from which the air has been exhausted in advance of the train by means of powerful pumps. Of course in addition to the driving of the electric motors in the ordinary way, power for propulsion would be obtained owing to the pressure of the atmosphere acting on the rear of each carriage. This would also supply air for the passengers to breathe. None of the methods is impossible. "It's all a matter of money," said Mr. Warner.

If you would have a safe yet certain Cough Remedy in the home, try Dr. Shoop's — at least once. It is thoroughly unlike any other Cough preparation. Its taste will be entirely new to you—unless it is already your favorite Cough Remedy. No opium, chloroform, or any other stupefying ingredients are used. The tender leaves of a harmless, hung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy it wonderful curative properties. It is truly a most certain and trust-worthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

FAST TRAVELLING.

A speed by trains of 150 miles an hour, said Mr. J. Sutherland Warner, an English railway expert, in the course of an interview with a London newspaperman, is technically possible today, and commercially possible within the next ten years so long as the railway serves great centers of population giving a large amount of traffic, Mr. Warner explained how the high speed mentioned could be attained. The motive power, of course, would have to be electricity. Naturally the horsepower, in the case of a train travelling at 150 miles an hour, and there-helpless creature. "Never since that hour, though often but a two-days' ride from buffalo, have I sought to take the life of one of these noble animals." His statement of the case for the insurgent metis is conspicuously fair, and he is highly praised by Windsor in his History of America."

Soon after his mission had been fulfilled he heard of the defeat of the French at Sedan. His chivalrous love for the weaker party at once suggested this thought: "Why not offer to France in the moment of her bitter, bitter adversity the sword and service of even one sympathizing friend?" But just then he received from Governor Archibald of Manitoba an offer to undertake another mission, to investigate the spread of smallpox among the Indians of the West, and to carry a supply of medicines and instructions for stamping out the disease. The carrying out of these duties occupied 110 winter days, and the distance covered was 2,700 miles. It was a fine piece of work, and again in the narrative the soldier's modesty and simplicity are displayed, and he has given us a classic description of a country that is but little known.

After leaving Canada Butler had a distinguished military career. It was he who warned the British government of the strength of the Boers and the necessity for a large force to meet them. But the British government at that time had a marvelous capacity for rejecting good advice, and the soundness of Butler's opinion was discovered only by bitter experience.

NEWFOUNDLAND AND CANADA.

It is to be hoped that the Dominion Postmaster-General will be able to co-operate so effectively with the Government of Newfoundland that daily mail service will be established between the two countries. Sir Edward Morris, the Premier of Newfoundland, states that largely as the result of the establishment of the Reid Railway and Steamship Company, the trade with Canada has increased from two to five million dollars in the past twelve years. There is every reason to believe that the growth of this trade will continue. The Island is now very prosperous and the products of the two countries are such that an interchange of them is natural and should prove to be of great benefit to both of them.

We have on more than one occasion referred to the unfortunate manner in which some fifteen years ago the offer of Newfoundland to join the Dominion was met at Ottawa.

Unionville Excursionists in the City

Four hundred excursionists from Unionville, with their wives, sweethearts and lunch baskets, arrived in the city yesterday morning per G. T.R. The excursion was held to get money for buying books for the Public Library of Unionville. The return fare was $1.15 each, so that the book fund must have been well augmented. Our local restaurant proprietors estimate that the excursionists must have spent on anaverage of fully four and a half cents each in the city so Peterborough also was benefitted to the sum of nearly $17.

Mr. T. A. Allum's Funeral To-Morrow.

The funeral of the late Mr. Thos. Allum, who died Tuesday afternoon at his residence on Sherbrooke St., will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

The late Mr. Allum, who was 87 years of age, was born at Pangbourne, Berkshire, England in 1823. He came to Peterborough in 1849 with his first wife. His wife having died in 1880, he married Miss Greenhow, who survives him. He was a devoted member of the Charlotte street Methodist church for many years, and was most highly respected in North Monaghan, where he was well known and also in Peterborough..

A Call From Oregon

Opportunities in the Far West

The greatest industrial activity in this country is now centered in Oregon. Two of the biggest railroadsystems in the U. S., with intense rivalry, are pushing branch lines into the remote portions of this State, and an exodus from the East is on in the occupation of this the LAST FRONTIER ON THE CONTINENT. Fortunes will be made here THIS YEAR—NEXT YEAR and EVERY YEAR for the next decade.

Our valleys are the most fertile in the world and irrigation projects are converting the bordering hillsides into gardens. Orchards lands are leaping upward in price and the advance has only started. Water from mountain streams is the purest, timber the finest and climate the most perfect in Uncle Sam's domain. Power plants are springing up along the channels of silvery torrents to develop electrical energy for mines and mills and interurban railways. Fish abound in the rivers, game in the forests and health and joy in the atmosphere. There are no cyclones here or pestiferous insects to endanger life, or make it a burden.

I want Eastern connections and help, financial and otherwise, to seize opportunities that surround this picturesque city of Baker. The returns will be out of all proportion to the help extended. The opportunities are along the lines of vegetable fruit, hay, grain, stock, timber, and mineral lands. There are fortunes in all these. Some mines in this vicinity have record outputs in gold, running into the millions. Yet the surface, overlying the mineral deposits of Baker County, has hardly been scratched.

On a ledge of free gold bearing quartz two miles in length I made a test of 100 tons of ore taken at a depth of only a hundred feet and got over $6000.00 out of it. The mint returns passed through the Citizen's National Bank here.

Among other things, I need money, right now, to begin the MANUFACTURE OF GOLD out of this immense ore body. The shares of the Timber Canyon Mines Company, which OWNS this property, and of which I am secretary have an intrinsic value of at least 50 cents a share based on a conservative valuation of the property and the amount of stock issued.

I will deliver on order, with draft attached, up to 50,000 shares of this stock at 25 cents a share, NET. The full amount of the purchase price will go back in dividends inside of 18 months. Take a block of this as a starter, and get in step with this Eldorado of the West. If there is anything else out here that I can do for you, or you can do for me—[illegible]—Min.

Yours for business, and MONEY for both of us,

Satan Sanderson

By BALLIE ERSKINE RIVES,
Author of "Unto Cæsar," Etc.

Copyright, 1910, the Bobbs-Merrill Company.

You see," she ended, "that is why I know he is innocent. You cannot"—her eyes held Hugh's—"you cannot doubt it, can you?"

"I don't understand."

Hugh's tongue wet his parched lips. A tremor ran through him. He did not answer.

Jessica started to her feet. Self possession was falling from her. She was fighting to seize the vital knowledge that evaded her. She held out her hand. In the palm lay a small emblem of gold.

"By this cross," she cried with desperate earnestness, "I ask you for the truth. It is his life or death—Hugh's life or death! He did not kill Dr. Moreau. Who did?"

Hugh had shrunk back on the couch, his face ghastly. "I know nothing—nothing!" he stammered. "Do not ask me!"

The bishop had risen in alarm. He thought her hysterical. "Jessica! Jessica!" he exclaimed. He threw his arm about her and led her from the room. "You don't know what you are saying. You are beside yourself." He escorted her into the drawing room and made her sit down. She was tense and quivering. The cross fell from her hand, and he stooped and picked it up. "Try to calm yourself," he said, "to think of other things for a few moments. This little cross—I wonder how you came to have it? I gave it to Sanderson last May to commemorate his ordination." He twisted it open. "See, here is the date, May 25. That was the day I gave it to him."

She gave a quick gasp, and the last vestige of color faded from her cheek. She looked at him in a stricken way. "Last May!" she said faintly. Harry Sanderson had been in Anniston, then, on the day Dr. Moreau had been murdered. Her house of cards fell. She had been mistaken! She leaned her head back against the cushion and closed her eyes.

Presently she felt a cold glass touch her lips. "Here is some water," the bishop's voice said. "You are better, are you not? Poor child! You have been through a terrible strain. I would give the world to help you if I could."

He left her, and she sat dully trying to think. The regular jar of the trucks had set itself to a rhythm—no hope, no hope—no hope! She knew now that there was none. When the bishop reentered she did not turn her head. He sat beside her awhile, and she was aware again of his voice, speaking soothingly. At moments thereafter he was there, at others she knew that she was alone, but was unconscious of the flight of time. She knew only that the day was fading. On the chilly whirling landscape she saw only a crowded room, a jury box, a judge's bench and Hugh before it, listening to the sentence that would take him from her forever. The bright sunlight was mockingly untouched and God a sneering monster turning a crank.

Into her conscious view grew distant snowy ranges, hills unrolling at their feet, a straggling town, a staring white courthouse and a grim low building beside it. She rose stumblingly, the train quivering to the brakes, as the bishop entered.

"This is Smoky Mountain," she said with numb lips. "That is the building where he is being tried. I am going there now."

The bishop opened the door and gave her his hand to the platform. The train was to stop but ten minutes. He stood a moment watching her as she crossed to the street; then, with the sadness deep in his heart, entered the station to send a telegram.

* * * * * * *

Hugh's haggard face peered after them through a rift in a window curtain. What could she have suspected? Not the truth! And only that could betray him. Presently the bishop would return, the train would start again, and this spot of terror would be behind him. What had he to do with Harry Sanderson?

He forethought himself suddenly of the door. If some one should come in upon him! With a qualm of fear he stood up, staggered to it and turned the key in the lock. There was not the slightest boom about the station. The place was silent save for the throb of the heating engine, and the window of the train on the frosty platform quivered like a criminal. A black crowd he saw the courthouse. Knots of people were standing about its door waiting for what? A fit of trembling seized him.

All his years Hugh had been a moral coward. Life to him had been sweet for the grosser, material pleasures it held. He had cared for nothing, had held nothing sacred. He had now only to keep silence, let Harry Sanderson pay the penalty, and he need dread no more. Hugh Rives, to the persuasion of the law, would be dead. As soon as might be

A QUAINT OLD TAVERN

The Old Cheshire Cheese, in the Heart of London.

SERVES A FAMOUS PUDDING.

A Noble Pastry it is, and it Was Sampled by Such Men as Gladstone, Dickens, Thackeray, Tennyson, Trollope and Whistler.

Nearly all Americans when they go to London make it a point to visit that quaint old tavern in the heart of the newspaper and printing business, the Old Cheshire Cheese, to partake of its famous pudding.

It is the Londoner's delight when he gets back to Fleet street to make a rush for the pudding, and it is almost the last thing he eats before leaving it. Travelers in the Sahara have seen mirages of that pudding, and during the Boer war the men shut up in Ladysmith and Mafeking dreamed of it at regular intervals.

Precisely at 1 o'clock p. m. Tom conveys the pudding from the first to the main floor. It is a big pudding, and the price of it is just 2 shillings—that is to say, a fred of it is 2 shillings, as much as you please, as many shares as you ask for, cut and come again, all for 48 cents of American coin. Cheap, aye, and, oh, how good it is! It is worth crossing the Atlantic to get a sniff of it, and the aroma lingers in the memory for many a day.

Big? The dimensions are Falstaffian. It is a round earthen vessel something more than two dozen inches deep, with a diameter of about eighteen inches. A noble pastry, my masters!

When it is placed upon the service table an elliptical white crust moons the hungry guns. Tom and his myrmidons take their places in front facing the host, who, knife and spoon in hand, poses with gentle dignity and benignant mien. It is a moment of solemn thought when every man hopes that his portion will be larger than his friend's and that he will be blessed with an abundance of gravy. But they caught from years of acquaintance with the host to understand that his hand is as steady as his judgment is impartial.

No more and nothing better for one than for another. He waves his weapon, and the first consomme is made. The room is full of a delicious steam bearing with it the concentrated essence of ambrosial substances. The guests sniff it up and murmur choice blessings on the cook, the original inventor the house and the host. It is a time when men feel good, one toward the other.

One smell of that pudding makes the whole world kin. This famous pudding, which has tickled the palates of thousands, is thus compounded:

A crust of flour, water and suet.
Beefsteak.
Sheep's kidneys.
Larks.
Mushrooms crumbly gathered.
Oysters.
Stock.
Pepper and salt.

But it is the boiling that does it. For at least twelve hours this heaven sent pudding is kept slowly simmering in an immense copper specially constructed for the purpose. It must not boil quickly, but the same temperature be kept up the whole period. The steak assumes a juicy tenderness; the larks—not sparrows, as some malignant spirit has suggested, although sparrow pudding is not to be despised—are soothed to the bone, and you can chew up each little songster without an effort; the kidneys are soft and mushy and offer no resistance to the digestive organs, and the oysters, despite their lengthened cooking, are not leathery. The amalgamation and assimilation of the variety of constituents are perfect; the result is bliss.

There is a story told of one customer litterateur who had seven helpings of the pudding and still yearned for more, and there is another remarkable narrative of four men who ordered a pudding of the regulation size and finished it among them.

J. Pierpont Morgan praised the pudding, and Theodore Roosevelt was delighted with it. Lord Beaconsfield bestowed his approbation thereon, and Gladstone thought it far superior to his famous "three courses." Dickens, Thackeray, Meredith, Swinburne, Tennyson, Trollope, Whistler, Leighton, Irving, Phil May—all sorts of the best of men of their day have fed upon the pudding, and it no doubt helped to inspire their work.

Apparently any cook can fashion it, mix it, fix it, boil it. Lots of cooks have tried it, but the results have not been satisfactory. There was a man who once ran the Old Cheshire Cheese, and in his day the pudding first achieved its great fame. When he sold the old hostelry and took a house in the financial district he announced that the same pudding—the same in every respect—would be served every Saturday.

Many of the Cheese's old patrons came around to celebrate. There was the pie, but the aroma was wanting; there were the identical materials, but the flavor was not in them. It was not the same, not a bit of it. There was something missing. It may have been the shades of the departed great men of a bygone time. And so it is that today the famous dish of the Old Cheshire Cheese tastes as of old, and its devotees cannot be induced by any designing invitation based upon "just as good" simply because there is nothing just as good.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Thoughts are mightier than the strength of hand.—Sophocles.

GOLDWIN SMITH'S LIFE WORK.

The statement is sometimes made that Dr. Goldwin Smith has left upon record no permanent work of importance. What is the test? Addison is remembered chiefly by a collection of graceful essays, distinctly journalistic in character. Dr. Johnson's fame is founded on his recorded table talk, not on his dictionary. Macaulay's great history is a fragment, covering with fulness only the latter part of the Stuart period. Dr. Goldwin Smith's History of England, though brief, is not unfinished: the structure as it was planned by the architect is complete.

But Goldwin Smith would never agree that the most valuable part of his work was that which appeared between boards and adorned the shelves of a library. He loved his work as a journalist, and probably believed that it was more influential than those productions which are preserved in more permanent form. After all, the spoken or written word does not perish merely because it is not formally recorded. It passes into the mind of hearer or reader; it influences his actions; it passes into the fabric of daily life; if it dies, it is as the leaf dies, to enrich the soil and become the source of new forms of energy. It is sown in weakness; it is raised in power.

No thoughtful man would belittle the advantage of printed records of the thoughts of those who are called the immortals. But they are after all, only magnificent fragments, indicating only partially the mind of the writer, and still more inadequate by the life and activity of his age; its thoughts struggling for expression; its hopes and fears, its heroisms, its affections. These do not perish, though no printed volumes may record them. The life of Goldwin Smith is greater than all his contributions to literature, but in this there is no cause for regret, but rather for rejoicing.

READY MADE MINING.

The marvellous evolution of Gold dredging and methods of recovering values from auriferous ground, is today attracting world-wide attention. The Saskatchewan gravels" in the early days of North West Canada, supplied many hundreds of settlers with gold sufficient to maintain themselves if not in influence, at least in comfort. To-day steam and electric dredges produce the major portion of the World's gold output. Formerly, this alluvial gold was separated from the sands and gravels containing it, by washing them in pans, cradles, rockers and sluices. In 1852, the hydraulic method was first employed, in California. By this means a "giant" stream of water, turned against the side of a mountain, washed everything before it. The gold settles at the bottom of the tunnel or sluic, through which the gravel, sand and water flow. In 1889 dredges or excavators were first used, in Australia. In Everybody's Magazine for April, 1910, Mr. Byron W. Holt, a financial authority, formerly Editor of "Moody's Magazine," a gentleman recognized as a prominent and sound economist, writes an article entitled "Too much Gold," from which the following extracts are made:—

1850.....	$ 44,500,000
1870.....	123,000,000
1890.....	118,848,000
1900.....	254,576,200
191
1909.....	457,576,200

"Gold producing is no longer mainly or even largely, a placer mining proposition. It is to-day A BUSINESS AND COMMERCIAL PROPOSITION AS MUCH AS IS THE MINING OF COAL OR IRON ORE or the production of corn or copper."

Measured by the scale of progress, it is a long step from primitive methods to the modern gold dredge now operating on the Saskatchewan river. Counting the years that have actually elapsed since designers and manufacturers began to seriously consider the application of power-driven mechanism to auriferous fields, it is found that the inventions and improvements brought forward in a single decade, along this line, have resulted in lifting their branch of gold mining on the Western Continent, from the level of hand labor with always uncertain and at best meagre results, to the plane of thoroughly organized and established industry, the returns from which may be as accurately forecasted, as can the profits of a manufacturing company which owns all the raw material it uses in the manufacture of its products, with an assured demand at fixed prices for all it can produce. Mr. Gilman, a well-known authority, writing upon the subject says: "Two years ago it was generally considered that the Oroville district (California) was practically the only field for larger dredging operations. To-day, the proved successful dredging field extends from Alaska to Mexico. Dredging for gold has become a mechanical and commercial proposition. As an investment, it is becoming one of the safest in the business world." These remarks are suggested by the publication of an announcement in this issue, of the operations of the Saskatchewan Mining and Development Company, an organization composed mostly of prominent Toronto gentlemen, who have elected former Lieut-Gov. C. H. MacKintosh of the North West, President and Captain T. H. Brooks M.E. General Manager. The Company is highly spoken of in financial circles.

VOL. XXXI NO. 138 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO FRIDAY JUNE 17 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

NINE HUNDRED PERSONS DROWN PROPERTY LOSS INCALCULABLE

TERRIBLE FLOODS IN SEVERAL EUROPEAN COUNTRIES AND ASIA MINOR.

Property Loss is Great—In Switzerland Alone It Will Reach Over Two Million Dollars.

VICTIMS OF FLOODS.

30 drowned or killed in Switzerland.
400 drowned in Servia.
150 drowned in Germany.
60 drowned in Hungary.
The property loss is incalculable.

It greatly exceeds two and a half million dollars in Switzerland alone.

Budapest, June 16.—Eighty persons have been drowned in the overflowing of the Hungarian River Nera according to despatches received here today.

OVER 400 DROWNED.

Belgrade, June 16.—Reports received today from King Peter, who is personally conducting the relief work in the flooded Morava River valley, indicate that between four hundred and five hundred persons have lost their lives and that at least twenty towns have suffered incalculable loss.

Thousands of persons are still marooned by the flood and unless the work of relief is greatly expedited, hundreds of these will be either drowned or die from starvation and exposure.

OVER 150 DEATH.

Berlin, June 16.—The River Ammar is falling today, and by tomorrow it is expected that the waterbound visitors at Oberammergau, including several hundred Americans, will be able to leave.

ARE YOU IN DANGER?

You May Be Neglecting a Small Ailment and Thereby Inviting Serious Disease.

That little maladies grow into serious diseases we all know. Upon the stomach, liver and kidneys rest mainly the work of maintaining health. Most of your little sickness come from derangement of these organs. Experience proves that they are very frequently out of order, not badly perhaps, but even if only slightly out of order, it acts upon the mind and the spirits and upon the strength and regularity of the system.

It won't pay you to neglect your health; at the first sign of headache or languor take Dr. Hamilton's Pills and note how bright you feel next morning. You'll have a grand appetite, enjoy your breakfast and feel full of energy to go to work upon.

Your food soon tastes so good that you eat more than ever before and, of course, you grow stronger, ruddy, vivacious, just sparkling with energy and good health.

Soon your friends will notice the improvement, and by continuing to tone up your system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills you lay the sound foundation of permanent good health.

There is no medicine better for men, women or children, nothing for family use half so beneficial as Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. To look well, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Bunker Hill Day Celebrated.

Boston, Mass., June 17.—Boston and vicinity to-day will join in the customary celebration of the anniversary of the patriotic demonstration centers in Charlestown, the scene of the famous fight. The celebration will begin at midnight with the lighting up of huge bonfires. In the forenoon there were military and naval pageants, followed by patriotic exercises at which addresses were delivered by prominent speakers.

Twenty Five Bodies Have Been Recovered

Montreal, June 16.—A hundred men are still working night and day on the ruins of the Herald Building. Up to noon seven more bodies were recovered, bringing the total number up to 25.

New identifications this morning were:

Reuben Harris, printer.
Dorothy Ward, bindery.
Jennie White, bindery.
Florence Pitcher, bindery.
Five bodies are still unidentified.

The toll shows the total number of victims at 32, but it is likely that one other perished. Mrs. John Hall came to the Herald office this morning, and stated that there her brother-in-law, Richard McCoy, printer, started to go the rounds of the newspapers seeking employment on Monday morning, and has been missing since.

Debris taken from the building is now piled up in the street as high as the first storey. The street railway has big cars removing it to prevent the blocking of traffic. Hundreds still stand around the building and watch the searchers, and thousands continue to pour in a stream through the morgue to look at the bodies.

Benefit performances are being arranged for the families of the victims at all the local theaters, and a fund is being started.

The International Typographical Union has forwarded a thousand dollars.

The Grand Jury's Presentment Made to Judge Huycke

The following presentment was made to his honor Judge Huycke by the grand jury at the court yesterday:

Sir,—In making the presentation of your grand jury, we were pleased with your kindly remarks when referring to the death of him whom we had learned to love as our king, not alone because he was king, but we knew his great heart beat in unison with the hearts of the nation that God had called him to rule, and we join with you in believing that the world is a better world because Edward VII. ruled.

We are pleased to congratulate the county on the fact that only three cases came before us, but we have to regret the character of the cases.

In the performance of our duty, we visited the jail and found the prisoners properly cared for, but regret to report one in the condemned cell.

We found that every department showed generous care and faithfulness of duty. We were pleased to notice that the old-fashioned way of heating with wood had given place to the more improved system of steam heating.

We visited the House of Refuge at Lakefield and saw that the County poor are being made as comfortable as possible.

We visited Nicholls and St Joseph's hospitals, and found that the sufferers in these institutions were being looked after in a manner that reflects great credit on the respective managements.

We also visited the Protestant Home and House of Providence and found that God's poor were receiving every kindness and their declining days made as bright as possible.

We visited the Children's Home and found the children being taught to be neat and industrous, and their minds trained in a manner that will reflect credit on the promoters of the home in years to come.

We visited St. Peter's Orphanage and found the many little ones well and carefully cared for that will in the future count for good citizenship.

I have the honor to be, sir,
Your obediently.

Nevada Cities Clamor For Heavyweight Fight

San Francisco, June 16. — "The Jeffries-Johnson fight will be held."

This was the answer made today by principals and promoters to Governor James N. Gillett, following his action in instructing Attorney-General U.S. Webb to take action to stop the battle in California.

"If we can't hold the fight in San Francisco, we can pull it off somewhere else," declared the men who are directing the biggest fight that has ever aroused the enthusiasm of ring fans.

At the same time, while scanning the situation for other sites, the promoters took heart from the statement made in Chicago by Mayor P. H. McCarthy, declaring that the go would be pulled off here, no matter what the state legislative says.

Not only in the sporting world was the unexpected turn in affairs, but the commercial world as well.

The calling off of the original plans would mean a clear loss to San Francisco of more than $1,000,000. The business men of the city, under the leadership of the hotel men, today called a meeting to plan a strong opposition to the threat from the state authorities. All in all there is merry times in prospect with the possibility of a clash between State and civic officials.

Miss Winnifred Logan's Wedding.

A quiet wedding was solomonized Wednesday night at the residence of Mr. Logan, when his daughter, Winnifred, was united in marriage to Dirke V. Jones. The bride, who was unattended, was attired in a raspberry shade silk dress with a flower hat to match. The many beautiful presents testify to the high esteem in which the young couple are held. Mr. and Mrs. Jones left on the midnight train for Montreal, and on their return will be at home to their friends after July 20th.

P.O. Clock Worked Hard But Failed

English despatches state that Lord Annaly has been made Lord of the Royal Bed Chamber, and that other public offices are still open. What's the matter with appointing "Lord High Mover of the Post Office Clock Hands?" This clock made a determined effort to have its hands chase round the dial yesterday morning. As the day went by the hands seemed to get weaker and weaker. At last they got to somewhere about 5.30 and rested for an hour or two. Then a spasm of unrest struck the clock and the hands made another move.

An Explanation.

In our issue of yesterday appeared a little item written evidently in a jocular spirit regarding some excursionists, who had spent the preceding day in Peterborough. The article written by a junior reporter in good faith was based on information supplied by several merchants. It was beyond dispute ill-advised, if taken by the reader seriously. The average reader has but little conception of the difficulties encountered by a busy reporter, who naturally takes information given him by responsible citizens. As far as the personal individuality of the excursionists referred to was concerned they were an intelligent and well-dressed people.

THE WEATHER.

Fine and decidedly warm.

LATEST FROM WEST

CROP OUTLOOK FOR WEST WAS NEVER BETTER.

Sunshine Forces Growth—Big Business in All Lines.

Winnipeg, June 15.—Business and crop prospects in the West never were more prosperous and promising Although there has been none too much warm weather this spring, the crops are in a generally excellent condition. Seeding was done at an exceptionally early date and inspection of the crop throughout the west shows that grain has stooled and rooted strongly during the prevailing cold weather, so that nothing more is needed but warm weather to hurry the crop to a safe stage of progress in a short time. This warm weather has arrived and is in progress at the time of sending out this letter.

SUNSHINE FORCES GROWTH.

Sunshine, following on the heels of weather that has stored the land with plentiful moisture, is making the grain crop of the west rush forward to maturity at a great and gratifying rate. Acreage under crop is largely increased this year. In Manitoba alone the figures show 4,777,210 in 1909 and 5,596,060 this years. Gains in Saskatchewan are even greater and Alberta has made substantial headway, too, in increased acreage under crop. From these premises, plus good weather, a crop far bigger than ever has been produced in the west is argued.

BIG BUSINESS IN WINNIPEG.

Locally, business in Winnipeg is first-class. Building permits up to the fourth of June, have been granted for $8,500,000 worth of new buildings and there is no slacking up. Building trades workers are kept so busy that they cannot keep up with there work in a working day of regulation length and in sections of the city, which is especially active in this respect there is a steady roar of hammer from seven in the morning until it is too late to see at night. Of course, much of the work is kept within union hours, but there is a great deal of building being done by men whose chief regard is for making progress at what ever cost of time and labor necessary to that end.

NEW CITY HALL FOR WINNIPEG.

The civic bylaw appropriating half a million dollars to the 1914 Exposition passed June 2, and a resolution by the City Council to build a new city hall, which shall be ready by 1914, followed quickly. The city hall that it is in use now, was built in 1884 and has been too small for civic purposes for some years. It is proposed to put up a splendid structure on the Market Square site, and plans are to be prepared for what will be one of the finest buildings in Canada. Besides the new city hall plans are in the making for a permanent exhibition building in the heart of the city. This building is to be of the arcade type of structure, and will be combined with sub station number one of the civic system for distributing power from the $60,000 horse power plant at Point du Bois.

No better evidence of the business activity that prevails in Winnipeg could be cited than the bank clearing figures. For the first week in June reports of these figures, the increase over last year was more than a million a day—exactly, they showed a gain for the week of $6,107,626, the total being $17,570,104, to $11,392,070 for the corresponding week of 1909. Figured in per cent. of gain these figures show 54.2 per cent. over last year.

Mr. T. and Miss Nora Guerin Home.

Mr. Thos. Guerin, who has for some months been engaged with a large automobile manufacturing concern in Michigan, and Miss Nora Guerin returned to the city yesterday. Miss Guerin, who is well known as a promising vocalist to patrons of the local moving picture houses, has just left a good position as singer at the leading moving picture theater at Flint, Michigan. Both Mr. and Miss Guerin were summoned home by news that their mother was seriously ill. On arrival they fortunately found that the reports received by them had been exaggerated. Miss Guerin, who has made a great hit in the U.S., by her voice, will probably remain home for some weeks.

"It cured me," or it saved the life of my child," are the expressions you hear every day about Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. This is true the world over where this valuable remedy has been introduced. No other medicine in use for diarrhoea or bowel complaints has received such general approval. The secret of the success of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is that it cures. Sold by all dealers

MR. CLYSDALE WINS.

Damages for $675 Awarded Against Mutual Fire Ins. Co.

As noted in yesterday's issue of The Times, the first jury case occupying attention of the county court at its present session, was that of Mr. W. H. Clysdale versus the Mutual Fire Insurance Co. As some thirty witnesses were subpoenaed and gave testimony, a complete report of the evidence would demand too much space. At the opening of the court yesterday morning his honor commenced his address to the jury. After being out for some time, the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, and the judge awarded judgment for Mr. Clysdale, for $675. The plaintiff claimed that he had his drive house and his hen house and contents insured with the above company for $1,876. On July 15th, 1909, the above buildings were struck by lightning and burned, the loss amounting to $1,425. The plaintiff was suing for $700 interest on the same and costs of the action, which he received in the judgment of the court. Dennistoun, Peck, and Kerr, were the solicitors for the plaintiff, and O'Connell and Gordon appeared on behalf of the company's solicitors, Hunter and Hunter.

FISHING SEASON OPEN.

Scores of Canoes and Boats on Little Lake at an Early Hour.

Yesterday morning disciples of Isaac Walton were out in full force on the Little Lake. Yesterday was the first day of the season when game fish could be captured. Shortly after the sun poked its rim over the horizon canoes, row boats and punts, and even a thick slab straddled by a small boy, dotted the surface of our local sheet of water. Steadily and persistently the fishermen paddled and moved to and fro, round and across, particularly in the vicinity of the weed beds near the Ashburnham shore. Several tons of weeds, tomato cans, old boots and slabs were brought to the surface. One young man, engaged in a local bank trolled from a canoe. Whilst some 70 or 80 feet from the site of Peck's former brewery, this budding financier felt a tug and hauled in his line. As the bait approached the surface it quickly retreated towards the bottom of the lake. Again and again this proceeding was in evidence. At last the sinker, swivle, bait and hooks were hauled in. The fisherman found his hooks firmly embedded in a large water-logged shingle. The forward motion of the canoe caused the shingle to dive as it was pulled to the surface. Mr. Thomas Frost was successful in landing a fine well shaped maskinonge, weighing about seven pounds.

Penn Family Heirlooms.

London, June 17.—A notable sale will be commenced at Sotheby's today of the Penn family heirlooms, which were bequeathed by Richard Penn, great grandson of the founder of Pennsylvania, to Marianna Rutland. Of greatest historical interest in the original letters patent, dated August 20, 1694, reinstating William at Kensington to Johnson as used the place of Benjamin Fletcher. Included in the other items of interest are portraits of and a document signed by Admiral Penn, the father of William Penni and a tobacco box said to have been made from the wood of the great tree under which Penn made his treaty with the Indians in 1682.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is sold on a guarantee that if you are not satisfied after using two-thirds of a bottle according to directions your money will be refunded. It is up to you to try. Cold by all dealers.

Miss Ferguson's Funeral Yesterday.

Yesterday morning the last mortal remains of the late Miss Alithea Ferguson, Stewart street, were laid to rest in Little Lake cemetery. The funeral cortege was delayed at All Saints' church, where the rector, Rev Mr. Trumpour, held a service. The rector, after reading the Psalm, in a few well chosen words referred to the Christian and kindly spirit that characterized the life of the late Miss Ferguson. The coffin was literally covered with floral emblems of mourning, testifying to the esteem in which the deceased was held by all who knew her.

"THIS DATE IN HISTORY."

1239—Edward I. of England born. Died July 7, 1307.
1746—Louisbourg, N. S., taken by the British from the French.
1775—Gen. Joseph Warren killed at the battle of Bunker Hill. British from the French.

In response to a question put by The Times yesterday morning, Mr. J. H. Larmanth, the energetic manager of the Peterborough Radial Railway Co., stated that his company has not, as yet, completed arrangements for a park to act as feeder to the system. Under Mr. Larmonth's hustling management the street cars seem to be doing an increased business this season.

If You Lived In Montreal

you could come and see the wonderful Cartwright Automatic Press, which is destined to revolutionize the job-printing world, and make money for the shareholders of the Company, as other great inventions, like the Linotype and Telephone, have done.

But, if you cannot call and see the Press itself, you can do as many other investors are doing,—you can read the interesting Prospectus and our little booklet, entitled "Expert Opinions", which gives some adequate idea of this great invention.

You will note when you read the literature we send you, how Publishers, Printers, and all classes of men connected with the printing business—men who thoroughly understand the real merit and value of such an invention—are the most enthusiastic endorsers of the Press, and what is still more important, they are buyers of both the presses and the shares.

Write us at once for this free literature, and we will forward it by return mail.

Cordial Feelings with the Germans

London, June 16.—To the meeting for the promotion of Anglo-German entente, Lord Strathcona wired: "I greatly regret my inability to be present, owing to official engagements, nothing can be nearer my wish than that the relations between England and Germany should be of the most friendly character, anything towards the promotion of this will always have my warmest support.

CANADIAN TRADE IN GERMANY

Berlin, June 16.—The Canadian government and Canadian business men have been making vigorous efforts since the conclusion of the final peace between the Dominion and Germany to extend the market for Canadian products here. There is reason to believe that efforts to enlist support for a Canadian exhibition have failed for the present.

Mr. Fischer of Toronto, will discharge the duties of consul-general here, and will, in effect, be consul-general in everything else except the title.

Stringent Laws and Heavy Penalties

"That this Synod deplores the frequency of crimes against the persons of women, girls, and even children, as reported from various parts of the country and requests the Executive Committee of the Synod to urge upon the proper civil authorities the enactment of more stringent laws against such crimes with heavier penalties and more severe punishments for their infractions with a strict enforcement of such laws and infliction of such penalties and punishments."

Toronto, June 16.—The foregoing notice of motion was given at the Anglican Synod meeting this morning by Mr. J. C. Agar.

A resolution was unanimously passed expressing the Synod's assurances of allegiance to King George V. and sympathy with all the members of the Royal family.

Archdeacon Ingles, on behalf of the Sunday School Committee, presented a report which was severely criticised by Rev. J. R. McLean. The latter advocated a system of graded instruction in the schools, and expressed himself as emphatically opposed to the practice so common in smaller places of Anglican parents permitting their children to receive religious instruction in the Sunday schools of other denominations.

The following five members of the clergy and five laymen were elected to comprise the Synod's Executive Committee for the coming year: Rev. Provost Macklem, Rev. Canon Dixon Ven. Archdeacon of York, Rev. Canon Spragge, Rev. Canon Marsh, Hon. S. H. Blake, L. H. Baldwin, W. H. Hoyle, A. R. Roswell, J. S. Barber.

The following were elected to the Sunday School Commission: Rev. J. S. Broughall, Rev. F. G. Barber, J. S. Barber, H. Mortimer.

King Peter of Servia Asks the Nation to Pray for Afflicted

Belgrade, June 16.—In a proclamation to his people, King Peter of Servia, at the head of the relief work in the flooded Morava Valley today reports that the situation is not as bad as first believed, but is nevertheless serious. He asks that the nation pray for the afflicted.

The end of the flood is not expected for some days, as rain and snow, give promise of further havoc. Other streams are also over their banks, flooding several villages. Hundreds of peasants have fled for safety to the hills.

A touch of rheumatism or a twinge of neuralgia, whatever the trouble is, Chamberlain's Liniment cures the complaint quickly. First application gives relief. Sold by all dealers.

CANADA DIDN'T WANT THESE MEN THEY WERE DEPORTED AT QUEBEC

Paris, Ont., June 16.—Early this year the Penmans Limited sent a representative to England to engage and pick out special help.

Upwards of 180 have already been sent out in batches and been passed by the immigration officers at Montreal. About the middle of May, however, a party of twelve men, one woman, and three children arrived on the steamship Victoria of the Allan Line. The men and woman intended to work at Penmans at Paris were all good men, and specially picked for hosiery work, skilled hands being badly wanted to operate special machines. The passage of all was paid right to Paris. One man was allowed to pass, the rest were held, and finally deported, although two men in the party had over $50 each.

The matter of detention was taken up by the Penmans firm and every effort possible done to have the party sent through. The required $50 was offered for each man, but the department at Ottawa was obdurate and would not move. The fact of the scarcity of special help, that these people were all assured work, that passage was paid to Paris, and that the required amount would be sent, were laid before the Ottawa authorities, but nothing was done. The Immigration Department informed the Penmans that if they bring these men out again they will be deported.

There is much indignation in town over the procedure. The strange fact is that two parties have arrived since and both have been passed without trouble.

THE OTHER SIDE OF IT.

Quebec, Que., June 16.—Immigration officials here say they only applied the Immigration Law when requested to admit the Penman party. These thirteen persons were refused admittance according to order-in-council 942, which says that if an immigrant is not going farming or is not a domestic servant, he must have at least $25, unless the immigrant is the wife going to the husband, child going to parents, brother or sister going to brother, minor going to a married or independent sister, or a parent going to son or daughter.

In all the 13 immigrants in question had only $44.25, when they should have had $282.50.

Henry Brown, wife and two children, had $10; William Garrets, $6; John Price, $6; Wm. P. Hooten, $6.25; Henry Pemberton, $2; Walter Bemrose, $10, George Coolan, $1; Early Humphrey, $1f10. Frank Spurgin, $2.

TENDERS WANTED

Tenders addressed to the undersigned, will be received till 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, the 18th June, for the purchase and removal of the frame building on the grounds at the Queen Alexander School.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

The Canadian Pacific Railway have made a change in the time table here. Commencing June 19th, the local passenger for Toronto will leave at 7.42 a.m., instead of 7.55 a.m.

Going east the 7.47 local from Toronto will leave here at 7.47 p.m., instead of 7.51 p.m.

"WAS FADING AWAY."

A Young Woman—Scarcely Thirty—Seemed to Be Dying on Her Feet. Dr. Hamilton's Pills Cured.

"I think it should be the duty of the schools to teach the children how to keep well," writes Miss Nannie E. Naydon, a well known and highly esteemed resident of Bristol. "Ignorance of the laws of health and the use of improper remedies destroyed my vigor and led me to the verge of invalidism. I was as a girl ruddy and strong. Nothing seemed to affect me until I was about thirty. Then gas began to form in the stomach. I suffered with bloating and a general failure in strength set in. If I went upstairs my breath hurt. My system was very irregular and until I grew pretty bad I didn't pay much heed to my condition. Then I got blue, worried all the time, wakened in the night and couldn't get to sleep again. None of the medicine I took helped me. One day I was read ingof a very interesting case like mine cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I took the same treatment. It was just right—didn't physic me to death, but took hold of the weak, sick parts of my system and set things right. It seems as if Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made me young again, and all my color, spirits, vigor and health of former days have returned to stay."

Every girl and woman should use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They help a woman in many ways. Beware of the dealer who asks you to take an inferior pill on which his profit is larger than on Dr. Hamilton's. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

MEN—YOU NEED NERVE

EARLY INDISCRETIONS AND EXCESSES HAVE UNDERMINED YOUR SYSTEM

The nerves control all actions of the body so that anything that interferes with them will weaken all organs of the system. Early indiscretions and Excesses have ruined thousands of promising young men. Unnatural Drains sap their vigor and vitality and they never develop to a proper condition of manhood. They remain weak—limp, mentally, physically and sexually. How you feel? Are you nervous and weak, despondent and gloomy, specks before the eyes with dark circles under them, weak back, kidneys irritable, palpitation of the heart, bashful, debilitating dreams, sediment in urine, pimples on the face, eyes sunken, hollow cheeks, careworn expression, poor memory, lifeless, distrustful, lack energy and strength, tired mornings, restless nights, changeable moods, pessimistic and deep, bone pains, hair loose, etc.

Sciatica

EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY.

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored By Nerviline.

We have all read and heard of the agonies of Sciatica, but only those who have been tortured by this dread malady can fully appreciate what it must mean to be cured after years of suffering.

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hiros makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to get well was completely wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended Nerviline. I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day and got relief. In order to build up my general health and improve my blood I used Ferrozone, CURED one tablet with each meal SIX I continued this treat- YEARS. ment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

There isn't a more highly esteemed citizen in Westchester than Mr. Hiros. What he says can be relied upon. For six years since being cured he hasn't had a single relapse. Don't accept anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." 25 cents per bottle or five for $1. Sold everywhere or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston.

THEOLOGY AND CRITICISM.

Ranked against the theological teaching of Victoria College is a brigade of the battalions of Methodism By the narrowest of margins the Toronto Conference voted against a proposal to censure the Rev. Professor George Jackson and all his works. To the outsider it seems extraordinary that such a proposal could be made. The Christianity of Mr. Jackson cannot be doubted. His life is exemplary. His creed is evangelical and Trinitarian. His scholarship is unquestioned. But he does no regard every word of the canonical books of the Bible as absolute history. His position is buttressed by the results of philological and scientific investigation. He can meet argument by argument, logic by logic, and his study is illumined by the light of a living faith. For him "wisdom is profitable to direct."

Does it seem reasonable to suppose, when human knowledge of the body of man is progressing and increasing from day to day because of the research work of earnest students that the knowledge of the impalpable soul of man and its relation to the universe, to past, present and future, is complete? Are we to believe that a careful scientific study all the literary sources of Christianity is another method of touching the Ark, and that the published results of that study are the false fights of a devilish heresy?

If so, then it is possible for man to know the whole inwardness and fullness of Divine revelation—a manifest absurdity. If the bases of theology are settled forever, then Tenny son was a heretic when he plucked the flower out of the crannied wall and longed for a perfect knowledge of God and man. It is not apparent to the ordinary mind in what way the story of the Deluge affects the noble maxims of conduct uttered by Jesus of Nazareth. Nor is it clear that the authorship of the Book of Deuteronomy is any foundation for the preaching of St. Paul.

Evangelical Christianity is the child of independent investigation. From Gregory the Great to Savonarola, from Martin Luther to John Wesley, the great evangelists have cast aside the empty husks of formula and glorified the search for truth. No Methodist if he is worth of his spiritual ancestors, can accept any cut-and-dried theory if it does not appeal to his reason and his conscience. The Methodist keeps his own conscience and protests against the assumption of that duty by bishop or clergy, by church or conference. How, then, consistently, can any Methodist seek to stifle the voice of one crying in the wilderness or dwell contented in an atrophied orthodoxy?

Let knowledge grow from more to more
But more of reverence in us dwell
That mind and soul according well
May make one music as before.

REPRESENTED BY TRADITION.

There was no "representation by population" at King Edward's funeral. The populace, in fact were not represented at all in the splendid cortege. Their legitimate deputy, the premier of the United Kingdom, was absent because there was no place for him in the procession. The representation was by tradition. The gay uniforms of the Army and Navy were there, and all the gold braid and plumed splendor that stand for what was most regarded in past ages. If a minister or a peer or a member of parliament was there, it was not because he was a minister or a peer or a member of parliament but because of some other office which he holds. And every principle took precedence over the heads of two great republics.

The Morning Post and other British papers have commented adversely upon the "ordering of a funeral procession which keeps itself carefully five hundred years behind the growth of British society and institutions, and the comment is not inopportune. That the people, the real mourners at the bier of one who was emphatically a People's King, should not be represented among the official mourners, is an anomaly which points to the desirability of less tradition and more common sense. The red tape and the gold braid of the courts should be a secondary consideration when the rights of the public are at stake.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days' test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

A SEASON OF SACRIFICE.

Never an annual Methodist Conference comes and goes but there are strong ties broken. The friendships and associations formed must be left left to the memory and to the consolation that sacrifice in the cause of right and good is Godly.

It must be one of the shadows in the life of a minister and his family to leave a community in which they have worked in the Christian service for two to four years to go onto another circuit or to another church for a new term. Not that it is an unwise regulation of the Methodist Church. Quite the contrary according to that church's belief, but no matter how faithful the human heart is to duty and the ministry it has its emotions and its pangs of regret. Friendships are not made in a day, neither are they forgotten in a day. They linger long after necessity has taken us to other environments.

As regularly as each conference comes there are ministers who are changed in stations. The will of the Conference is obeyed and when drafted to another charge the clergyman and his household must bid goodbye to their congregations, to their acquaintances in other churches, to the scenes that have become endeared to them during their stay and they enter other scenes to be husbandmen in new vineyards.

Despite the regrets that may accompany these departures there is always that awesome pleasure which comes to a man who knows he has done the best he could and who realizes that there is never shadow without sunshine. The Christian ministry is one of service and sacrifice, and the men and women who enter it find their reward usually in the contentment which comes from having helped someone else and brightened his life.

OIL FUEL FOR BATTLESHIPS.

San Francisco, Cal., June 13.—The advantages of oil fuel have been the subject of exhaustive inquiry and experiment by British and American experts.

An extensive oil fuel establishment was fitted up near Portsmouth, England, and experiments carried out with various boilers, systems of firing and mechanical stokers, while further trials were made in both battleships and destroyers. According to the New York Herald's naval correspondent, the great objection caused by the dense volumes of smoke which poured from the funnels of vessels at previous trials, has been eliminated. "At present", he writes, "it may be said that with the consumption of liquid fuel alone, there is almost complete freedom from flame and smoke at the funnel, even when the boilers are pressed."

The importance of these experiments is obvious. If oil can be used without revealing the presence of vessels by smoke, the only objection to its use by battleships has been removed. The comparative economy of oil over coal is unquestioned. It is proven sixteen tons of oil is the equivalent of twenty-five tons of coal, that it will convert an equal amount of water into steam, at a saving of several dollars per ton, ten per ton. The stokers' work would be lightened, the heat in the stokehold reduced, and an avoidance of the dirt and discomfort when furnaces had to be fed. Moreover, the laborious work of coaling ship would be supplanted by the far speedier and easier use of the hose and pump. The ease with which liquid fuel can be transferred from one vessel to another is scientifically in favor of oil.

Dentons Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of the years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

See Birds.

Taking the sea birds all round, they are far more careless in their nesting than their cousins inland. The terns, the skua, the puffins, the black throated diver, the guillemot, make no nests, properly so called. The puffin, however, usually borrows a rabbit burrow and is not particular whether its original owners have done with their home or not. If they interfere or even try to pass a perk from the puffin's great parrot shaped bill is enough to warn them against making the experiment a second time. The auks are birds of the northern seas and are perhaps the finest divers of any feathered things. Their short wings look, in fact, far more like fins than wings, and, unlike gulls, the auks smash their prey beneath the surface. The auk's selection of a spot to lay her eggs is eccentric to a degree. She chooses a bare, broken ledge of hard rock overhanging the waves. It looks as though it were a feat to balance eggs in such a place, and the marvel is that the first gale does not send them rolling over the cliffs.—Boston Herald.

A GREAT SERVANT OF THE EMPIRE.

The British Empire has been favored in obtaining the service of such men as Sir William Butler, who died this week. He was a brave man and a distinguished soldier. The most outstanding features of his character were his tenderness of heart and his chivalrous sense of justice. Canada has reason to be grateful to him, because in the days of weakness forty years and more ago, he upheld her cause both with sword and pen. His "Great Lone Land," describing the Canadian West as it was forty years ago, is today full of fresh human interest. It is a sign of good taste and sound judgment that the copy in one of our great public libraries has been literally read to pieces, while in another the copy has disappeared, probably from the same cause. The motive of the book was a mission connected with the Red River Rebellion. While Sir Garnet Wosley's force was moving from Lake Superior to Fort Garry, Butler was to reach the same point through the Western States, discover whether there was any danger of a Fenian attack from that quarter, visit Fort Garry, and meet the expeditionary force with all the information he could obtain.

It was a task requiring coolness and courage, and these qualities he possessed in abundance. But the greatness of the man is shown in the fact that in reading the book you think little of his dangers and difficulties. He relegates his own personality to the background with a fine soldierly modesty. He is a lover of wild life. He beholds with sorrowful sympathy the inevitable retreat of the Indian before the forces of civilization. After shooting a buffalo he is seized with disgust at the sport, and admiration for the brave, helpless creature. "Never since that hour, though often but a two-days' ride from buffalo, have I sought to take the life of one of these noble animals." His statement of the case for the insurgent metis is conspicuously fair, and he is highly praised by Windsor in his History of America."

Soon after his mission had been fulfilled he heard of the defeat of the French at Sedan. His chivalrous love for the weaker party at once suggested this thought: "Why not offer to France in the moment of her bitter, bitter adversity the sword and service of even one sympathizing friend?" But just then he received from Governor Archibald of Manitoba an offer to undertake another mission, to investigate the spread of smallpox among the Indians of the West, and to carry a supply of medicines and instructions for stamping out the disease. The carrying out of these duties occupied 119 winter days, and the distance covered was 2,700 miles. It was a fine piece of work, and again in the narrative the soldier's modesty and simplicity are displayed, and he has given us a classic description of a country that is but little known.

After leaving Canada Butler had a distinguished military career. It was he who warned the British government of the strength of the Boers and the necessity for a large force to meet them. But the British government at that time had a marvellous capacity for shutting ears to advice, and the soundness of Butler's opinion was discovered only by bitter experience.

PERSIA'S LONE RAILWAY.

Persia, like Turkey, is awakening from her sleep of centuries, and aspires to resume the position she once occupied in the affairs of the great world. She has a constitution and some other modern improvements, but she hasn't caught up with the times sufficient to provide herself with a real transportation system. Horses and donkeys still constitute the passenger and freight carrying resources of the empire which once dominated the East. Still Persia has one railroad. It is ten miles long, and runs from Teheran, the capital, to the shrine of a defunct shah. The general manager of this road hasn't much trouble in figuring his ten-mile costs. Strikes do not disturb his slumbers. The finance committee doesn't bother itself with divided policies or bond issues, nor does it lie awake at nights wondering if rate-regulating bills are going to pass the Persian parliament.

Making It Simple.

The scholarly looking man with the big eyeglasses had been invited to address the Sunday school and was making a few remarks concerning the lesson.

"I see the word 'line' occurs here," he said. "Will some one give me a definition of 'line'?"

Nobody answered.

"It is very easy," he proceeded encouragingly, "though you may find it a little perplexing to convey the idea in simple terms. Try again. Well, the ordinary signification of the word is longitudinal extension, but here it denotes a predetermined boundary. I am sure, my young friends, you can remember that."

Needed No Help.

The old colored woman ambled into the police court where her son was to be tried on a charge of petit larceny. She had been talking to a police court lawyer, the evening before, and, catching sight of him, the limb of the law nodded toward her.

"Well, did you get up that $5 for me?" he inquired eagerly. "They are going to try Hamp's case now."

"Well, now, sah, I didn't git de money, mistah. Times is jes so hard I done colluded ter let Hamp go on an be c'victed widout de 'sistance ob counsel."

Tomboy.

Verstegan gives the following origin of the word "tomboy" as applied to romping girls: "Tumbe, to dance; Tumbed, danced; hereof we yet call a wench that skippeth or leapeth lyke a boy, a tomboy; our name also of tumbling cometh from hence."

A Born Leader.

"Why are you constantly referring to Bliggins as a leading citizen?"

"I can't help having an admiration for the man," replied Miss Cayenne. He belongs to our whist club and always knows which card to play first."

METERING THE COW.

That nobly necessary animal, the cow, is no longer to be allowed to have her own sweet whey about her milk production. A record book which is now being furnished by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa makes it incumbent upon the cow either to furnish good milk and plenty of it, or quit. It is, in a word, a cow meter, and quite as useful to the farmer as the gas meter, the water meter, and the speed meter to the city man.

One of these books will keep the record of twenty cows for one year. It is designed to make unpopular the animal who insists upon eating her head off without giving a quid pro quo, or a sud pro quo, or words to that effect. It enables the farmer to keep track of the amount and quality of her milk, and what is quite as important, of the amount and quality of her feed, and the comparative cost of both. Without devising in the least to hurt the bovine feelings of any well meaning animal, it may safely be said that certain voracious cows are going to be put to blush by these meter-books.

Darlington, Wash., Case 15. — A crowd of 500 white men ordered all the Japanese laborers employed in the plant of the United States Lumber Company to leave town and after giving the foreigners time to get together the effects accompanied them to the station and saw them board a train for Seattle.

Incorporated under the laws of Ontario and controlling a vast water stretch of thirty miles: concessions granted by the Dominion Government.

WHAT OTHER DISTRICTS ARE DOING:—Scores of modern dredges are recovering Millions of Dollars every year from the old placer beds and streams at Oroville, and Marysville, California. A ten thousand yard dredger is being built for the Yukon Country. Stewart and Lewis Rivers are increasing Dredging facilities. The Guggenheims are recovering Millions in Yukon from auriferous gravels. Fairbanks, Alaska, is sending out Millions each year from Dredging operations. The average length of season for dredging the Saskatchewan gold bearing beds is about 160 days in the year. The estimated yield, when all machinery is completed and working should exceed $600,000.00 per year, clear of all expenses.

OBDULY IDENTIFIED.

Scheme Used by Doorman at Theatre in Place of "Pass-Out" Checks.

Where seven years ago one of the doorkeepers at a London theatre retired from his dreadful calling and was pensioned off by the management it appeared that this old man in all the years of his service had never given a "pass-out" check to any one of the thousands of men who must have passed his doorway.

But he never made a mistake, says The London Mirror. No one entitled to return was ever refused and no one could pass in at the end of the interval who had not passed out at the beginning of it.

The secret of the old man's success was a curious one. He depended on his memory in a very curious way. He did not remember the men by their faces, their clothes, their hats, their boots, or by any peculiarity of gait or appearance. Manifestly such a feat would have been impossible for ordinary "pitties" are very much alike in these details.

He took the one detail on which men do differ and remembered them by that—he recognized them by their neckties.

Glance around you in the railway carriage as you are reading this article and ask yourself if there is any one of your fellow passengers that you could remember well enough to recognize again in, say, an hour's time.

You will find there are very few people you could be sure of. There may be one old man with a large and conspicuous beard or a very young man with a pair of spectacles of unusual size, but nine out of ten have the same sort of hat, the same sort of clothes and the same sort of figure.

Teamster Knocked Over By Auto.

An unfortunate accident occurred yesterday morning whereby Mr. Robinson of Victoria avenue, had a narrow escape from serious injury. The accident, which occurred in front of Mr. D. Sullivan's store on George street, might easily have resulted fatally. Mr. Robinson was knocked down and somewhat shaken up but fortunately sustained no serious complications. No blame is attached to the driver of the car.

If you would have a safe yet certain Cough Remedy in the home, try Dr. Shoop's—at least once. It is thoroughly unlike any other Soop is thoroughly unlike any other Cough preparation! Its taste will be entirely new to you—unless it is already your favorite Cough Remedy. No opium, chloroform, or any other stupefying ingredients are used. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its wonderful curative properties. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

Satan Sanderson

[illegible] of St. James' had disappeared before. He might change his name and live at once in some quarter of the world, his alarm laid forever.

But a worse thing would haunt him to spoil his sleep—he would be doubly blood guilty!

In the awful moment while he clung to the iron bars of the collapsing rose window, with the flames clutching at him, Hugh had looked into hell and shivered before the judgment, "The wages of sin is death." In that fiery ordeal the cheapness and swagger, the ostentation and self esteem, had burned away, and his soul had stood naked as a winter wood. Dying had not then been the austere terror. What came after? That had appalled him. Yet Harry Sanderson was not afraid of the hereafter. He chose death calmly, knowing that he, Hugh, was unfit to die.
